Eugenie Besserer

THIRTEEN

Yes, there are thirteen of them, but Mrs. Trebaol, the mother, does not think it an unlucky number. We will give you a record of one day's activity, then you can judge for yourself. Last Wednesday Olive worked at Ince while Francis, Marie and their mother were at Fox as French refugees. At Brunton's Yvonne, Yves, Anne and Phillip did New York tenement children, at Fox Jeanette's little pup played a part, and at the Goldwyn studio Eddie worked with the family menagerie, consisting of a cow, a calf, a nanny goat, two kids, one dozen chicks, one mother hen, two ducks and two baby geese.

An industrious "little" family, and the mother is so busy that we wonder if she ever sleeps.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

FAIRBANKS FINISHING

Work has just been completed on Douglas Fairbanks' first production for the United Artists.

AT CULVER CITY

The Fatty Arbuckle company is moving over to the Lehrman studio, in Culver City, this week

WILD STUFF

Frank Borzage, who is directing Fred Stone and is away with the company somewhere in the wilds of Wyoming, writes that they are getting some fine ranch stuff, long horned cattle and everything. He expects to be gone about three weeks and will then return and complete the picture in Los Angeles.

"WHY CHANGE YOUR WIFE?"

Pending the beginning of work on August 18th, of this new picture, "Why Change Your Wife?" Cecil B. deMille is taking a very brief vacation after completing "Male and Female." The intermin on his return will be occupied in cutting the last named production. "Why Change Your Wife" written by William C. deMille, is a return to the society drama on the type of "Don't Change Your Husband," to which this, in a sense, may be said to be a companion picture.

"THE TREE OF KNOWLEDGE"

The next Robert Warwick picture, to be filmed for Paramount-Artcraft, entitled, "The Tree of Knowledge," will be directed by William C. deMille and the leading woman will be Wanda Hawley.

Wm. Duncan, who is at Lake Huntington with the Vitagraph Serial, expected to return to Vitagraph's West Coast studio by August first but so much new material has presented itself during the filming of "Daredevil Dick" that he will remain at the lake for another month.

Jimmy Aubrey, under the direction of Noel Smith, has completed a comedy in which some highly amusing trick photography is introduced.

A new serial, "The Radium Mystery," with an all-star cast, including Cleo Madison, Eileen Sedgwick, Ed Brady, Bob Kortman and Bob Reeves, has just been commenced, with Robert B. Broadwell directing. The first three episodes of the story, which is written by Frederick Bennett, will be shot at Universal City. It is a thirty-six-reel production, and is produced by the Pacific Producing Company, Los Angeles.

The opening portion of the serial is laid in Northern Montana, and may be called Western, but not "woolly." The director. Mr. Broadwell, was recently connected with Wm. S. Hart and took with him "Daredevil" Kortman, who participated in some of the most sensational fights and special stunts of the Hart Productions. As assistant director, Fred Hamer is expected to prove of value.

REVERSE

James Cruze and his company, headed by Robert Warwick, found that all of the location scenes for "Captain Dieppe" are night shots. Therefore the company is turning night into day and laying off practically every day in order to work during the hours of darkness.

Mr. W. S. Smith, manager of the Vitagraph West Coast Studio, made a special trip to Lake Huntington for the sole purpose of renewing a working contract with Joe Ryan, the famous "heavy" in the Wm. Duncan serials. Under the terms of the new contract Mr. Ryan will be prominent in Vitagraph productions for the next three years.

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

Larry Semon, Vitagraph's comedy star, has been on a whirlwind tour of the State of California hunting up locations for his next comedy. Mr. Semon's next production calls for the atmosphere of big trees, lumber camps, deep ravines and mammouth machinery and in his search for the location Mr. Semon has already covered nearly seven thousand miles. It may be another week before actual work is started on the new two-reel comedy thriller.

Antonio Moreno, Carol Holloway, Director Wm. Baumann and the entire Vitagraph serial troupe returned this week from Truckee with the final episodes of the "Perils of Thunder Mountain" serial.

PECK PRODUCING

Charles Mortimer Peck is now producing a five-reel feature of his own, at the old Balboa studio in Long Beach. Mr. Peck made a name for himself as a newspaperman in the East.

ROBERT WARWICK IN ACCIDENT

An accident which may prove fatal to one member of the party occurred one night last week, when the automobile in which Robert Warwick. Miss Jane Nelson and William Courtenay were driving, got beyond control, left the roadway and was wrecked.

Although Warwick and Courtenay escaped with slight injuries Miss Nelson sustained a serious head wound, and was rushed to a local hospital, where it is feared her injuries may prove fatal.

FARNUM EAST

The Photoplayers String Quartette, who have been with the William Farnum company for two years, will not accompany Mr. Farnum when he returns east this week. Mr. Farnum will not return to Los Angeles before the first of the year.

INTERESTING UNIVERSAL NOTES

From Ham Beall

"Finis" was stamped on the production of three six-reel features at Universal City this week.

"A Bonnie Bonnie Lassie," starring Mary MacLaren, was completed under Tod Browning's direction.

"The Eternal Savage" was finished by Jack Ford with Harry Carey in the title role.

"The Trembling Hour," featuring Helen Eddy and Kenneth Harlan was completed by George Seigmann.

"A Bonnie Bonnie Lassie" is the name given to a story by Henry C. Rowland, which appeared in the Ainslee's magazine under the title of "Auld Jeremiah." David Butler and Spottiswoode Aitken are seen in Miss MacLaren's principal supporting roles.

Pretty Kathleen O'Connor is Harry Carey's leading woman in "The Eternay Savage." Others prominent in the cast are J. Barney Sherry. Harry van Meter, Duke R. Lee, Joe Harris, Ted Brooks, Johnnie Cooke and Lydia Yeamans Titus. Carey wrote the story in collaboration with Jack Ford, his director. Hal Hoadley prepared the scenario.

"The Trembling Hour," originally titled "Who Knows?" was written by Kenneth B. Clark, and supporting Miss Eddy and Harlan are Henry Barrow, Willis Marks, Clyde Hopkins, Edna Shipman, Gertrude Astor and Anna May Walthall.

William C. Dowlan, who recently finished Arthur Somers Roche's mystery melodrama, "Loot," is soon to start producing "Betty Reforms" by Mildred Considine. It will be staged with an all-star cast.

Monroe Salisbury and company returned this week from Pine Knot Inn in the Bear Lake region of the San Bernardino mountains where under Douglas Gerrard's direction the majority of scenes have been taken for "The Divorced Wife," an F. McGrew Willis adaptation of the Elliott Peake story, "The Altar on Little Thunder." Alice Elliot is Salisbury's leading woman.

Allen Holubar is making preparations to start work soon on the production, "Ambition," from a story written by himself. Dorothy Phillips will be the star.

Elmo Lincoln, star of "Tarzan of the Apes" and more recently seen in the Universal serial, "Elmo the Mighty," is to be starred in a six-reel feature which Rex Ingram is to produce from the story, "The Beach Comber," by J. G. Hawks.

"No Experience Required," by W. Carey Wonderly, has been purchased by Universal and is to be produced as a six-reel feature. Paul Powell, who is to direct the production, is now engaged in selecting an all-star cast.

Preparations are being made by Rollin Sturgeon to start shooting within the week on "The Breath of the Gods," the Sydney McCall novel, which is to be used as the first starring vehicle for Tsuri Aoki(Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa) under her new Universal contract for three special features.

Marie Walcamp is playing the part of a feminine peace officer in "Tempest Cody, Sheriff," which George Holt is directing; Reeves Eason is producing "The Crow" with "Hoot" Gibson and Mildred Moore, Universal's two new western stars, in the leading roles.

Director Robert Wells with the two-reel western company neaded by Fritzie Ridgway is still at Colorado Springs, shooting scenes for "The Ranger of Pikes Peak." After filming "Winning a Bride" at the Cheyenne (Wyoming) Rodeo the company went to the famous Colorado peak to seek the actual locale around which the mountain ranger story was written.

Frank Mayo is enjoying a brief vacation after finishing "The Brute Breaker," under Lynn Reynolds' direction, while the scenario is being prepared by Clifford Howard for "Lasca," a western production which Norman Dawn is to direct.

Harry Mann has started work at Universal City on a series of character comedies, the first of which is called "Some Job." Mann is directing as well as starring in these short comedy features.

Florence Turner has just completed the second of her comedies made under her own direction. "The Reward" is the title of her latest one-reel comedy production.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran have just completed "The Bungled Bungalow" and are now preparing the scenario for another one-reeler

BULL'S EYE NOTES

James Parrott, character actor, is now appearing in Bull's Eye comedies, which are directed by his brother, Charles Parrott.

Matie Connoly is now with Bull's Eye Comedies.

Esther Jackson has the leading feminine role in the newest Bull's Eye Comedy.

Charles Parrott, Bull's Eye director-in-chief, recently applied for a hunting license; now he is getting a dozen letters a day asking him to subscribe to oil stocks.

The Bull's Eye Comedies selling forces have begun a determined campaign in the European market. That the vigorous sales effort of the Bull's Eye London representatives has borne fruit is part of the information received in this country last week in a letter to Milton L. Cohen, president of the Bull's Eye Film Corporation. According to the letter, Gale Henry has become a prime favorite, both in the English towns and on the Continent. The letter added that there has been no difficulty competing with films made on the other side; on the contrary, the demand for the American product far exceeds the supply. Bull's Eye Comedies are now being shown in seven of the London theatres in the vicinity of Picadilly Circus, while three theatres in Paris are booking Bull's Eye Comedies just as shown in the United States, with, of course, subtitles in French.

Exhibitors visiting Los Angeles for first-hand knowledge of production are finding cordial welcome in the studios of the Bull's Eye. Although casual visitors are discouraged at the Bull's Eye Sudios, it is the intention of studio manager Nat Spitzer, to afford every opportunity to the exhibitor wishing to acquaint himself with studio ways and means, thereby increasing the respect of the exhibitor for the producer. A special rest room has been prepared on the Bull's Eye lot for exhibitors and a competent guide will conduct inspecting parties through the various departments.

With a German machine-gun bullet still imbedded in his right shoulder, but otherwise none the worst for his experience in France, Sid Smith, motion picture comedian, has joined Bull's Eye. Smith is one of twelve soldiers employed in the Bull's Eye Studios. Four of the ex-service men have either been wounded or gassed. All but one have seen active service overseas, according to Nat Spitzer. studio manager. Smith is well known in the industry, having appeared in Sunshine, Sennett and Keystone comedies.

MOONLIGHT BARBECUE

Tuesday night a barbecue given in honor of Lieutenant Clarkson and Lieutenant Gordon of Coronado, at Pasadena, was the scene of much gaiety. Among the guests were Mabel Normand, Virginia Campbell and Edna Purviance. After the barbecue festivities the party motored to Playa del Rey, where they finished the evening's pleasure with a moonlight surf swim.

BIBY GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Biby have as their house guests this week Mr. Bert Biby, of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank of San Bernardino, and his wife.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 2, 1919

Economic Press

Beginning with the current issue Camera! will be published on Saturday, and displayed on the news stands Saturday afternoon. All mailing will be done on Saturday, which assures the arrival of the Camera! in Los Angeles by the first delivery Monday.

THE BROADENING FIELD

It is with a feeling both of pride and comradeship that CAMERA! announces the current issue to be placed on news stands throughout the Pacific Coast district. The pride is the pride of achievement; the comradeship has long been felt, for seldom has there been a paper whose policy and personnel have been closer in harmony and co-operation with its clientele than has CAMERA! in the year and a half of its existence.

The paper knows that each and every reader feels the same joy it does in this expansion, for every reader is and has always been interested in the growth and welfare of the paper. When it started on a Washington hand-press, even then its few readers came in to wish it luck. Today the readers number thousands and they are still wishing it the same luck.

So the publishers are both proud and glad to say that the movement of outside expansion has begun. The future weeks will see its growth continue. Thanks to the readers who appreciate a newspaper.

CAMERA! CROSS-COUNTRY CAR

Inaugurating a new idea in service, the editor of CAMERA! this week starts no a tour throughout the length and breadth of the States of California and Arizona to find for this locality the exact status of moving pictures in every city and town where there is a projection machine. The question, "How are my pictures going in ——?" is to be answered by an unbiased witness.

The trip will be long and many times wearisome. It will take CAMERA! into highways and byways that are little seen and heard of by studio people, but it will bring back, from week to week, the message of how different sections see different pictures. Who finds the vote for popularity in Sacramento is important. So is the Owens River Valley. The words spoken by the small-town audience are the words of truth, and they are seldom heard. Sid Grauman cannot tell you why his audience likes one picture better than another, except from the viewpoint of the expert showman. The small-town theatre owner can tell you why, even though he has not one-hundredth part of Grauman's ability to screen a production in a wonderful way. The point is that the small-town owner talks to his people. If he doesn't he loses their trade. He can tell you who Mille Wilkins' favorite star is, and also what the drug store man wants in the line of comedy. And in his own way he does the best he can to satisfy them both. CAMERA! wants to talk to Mille Wilkins and to the drug store man and to a thousand others, because CAMERA! wants to know what the genial public thinks of the producer and his product.

The editor's letters will begin in about two weeks and will be a matter of weekly or semi-weekly editorial. It will be a pleasure to him to investigate anything possible while on the trip. All communications should be addressed to "E. M. Robbins, Editor, CAMERA! Cross-Country Car, 4513 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles." Letters will be forwarded to the car twice each week.

MOTION PICTURE PATENTS

Attachment for Cameras. August J. Oering, Chicago, Ill. Filed December 13, 1915. Serial No. 66,410.

In a camera, the combination with a camera box, of a sensitized-member supporting-frame adapted to contact with and define the exposure area of a contained sensitized-member, said box having a slot opening through one wall thereof, said slot extending parallel to and in close proximity to the plane of such sensitized member, means for obstructing the entrance of light through said slot(a printing slide adapted to be inserted through said slot and to project into the exposure area; said slide comprising an opaque, light obstructing part of a length equal to that of said slot, and a translucent extension adapted to project into the exposure area, said extension being capable of being written upon, and means for limiting the insertion movement of the said printing slide.

Moving Picture Camera. Samuel M. Lawhun, Jersey City, N. J. Serial No. 236,213.

A moving picture camera comprising a film chamber having an opening, a door for the opening having an exposure aperture, a lens in line with the door and aperture, means on the door for engraving the film, means for moving the door to carry the film away from its normal position, and a focusing tube adjustable to the door opening for focusing the camera without exposing the film to light.

Synchronizing Means for Motion Picture Projectors and Sound Reproducing Mechanisms. Charles W. Edeling, New York, N. Y. Filed September 14, 1914. Serial No. 861,697.

In a device of the class inscribed, the combination with two machines, and independent motor for each machine, means controlled by one machine for setting in motion the motor of the second machine and a differential speed transmission means interposed between the one machine and its motor, of automatic means controlled by both machines for controlling the latter means, whereby the speed of one machine is regulated in accordance with the speed of the other machine.

Picture Projecting Machine. Chas. Francis Jenkins, Washington, D. C. Filed October 17, 1916. Serial No. 126,061.

The combination with a suitable standard, of a storing and delivering film box hinged to the top of the standard and provided with means for progressively rocking it about its hinge axis and locking it in each position, a narrow suitably slotted table fixed to the top of the box with its axis parallel to the hinge axis and bearing all the necessary picture projecting mechanisms arranged to project laterally with respect to the table; whereby the entire apparatus above the standard is set as a unit to project at any desired point above or below its normal plane.

Motion Picture Apparatus. Charles Francis Jenkins, Washington, D. C. Serial No. 126,066. Filed October 17, 1916.

In devices of the class described, the combination with a shutter and automatic devices for opening and closing the same as the operating parts of the apparatus pass from and to a state of rest, of means whereby the shutter is held in either the open or the closed position in which it may be, while said devices are temporarily entirely free therefrom.

Film Gate. Christen J. Peterson, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 11, 1918. Serial No. 239,412.

In combination with the head of a motion picture machine having a light aperture therein, a film gate enabling it to move outwardly from the head, tension mechanism for holding the gate in engagement with the film when in closed position, and an adjustable catch for holding the gate in closed position, said catch when adjusted serving to vary the pressure of said tension mechanism, substantially as described.

NEW DIRECTOR

The Model Comedy Company in Hollywood has engaged Herman C. Raymaker, who will hereafter act as director of Gale Henry comedies. Bruno J. Becker, Miss Henry's husband, who has been directing the comedienne ever since she organized her own company, has offered his place to Mr. Raymaker in order that he may devote more time to the business end of the company and also in supervising her productions.

SIGNS WITH GOLDWYN

The Goldwyn Distributing Corporation announces that Lee Shubert and A. H. Woods, two of the largest theatrical producers in the world, have signed as directors in the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation. The Shubert and Woods interests control more than half the theatrical productions in the United States, and upon completion of negotiations an increase in capitalization from three millions to twenty millions is announced. The new organization will have the motion picture rights to all the greatest dramatic successes produced on the stage by Shubert, Woods and Selwyn companies.

New officers of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation are: President, Samuel Goldwyn; Chairman Executive Committee, F. J. Godsol; Vice-Presidents, F. J. Goldson, Moritz Hilder, Lee Shubert, Edgar Selwyn, Abraham Lehr; Treasurer, P. W. Haberman; Secretary, Gabriel L. Hess; Directors, Samuel Goldwyn, F. J. Godsol, Moritz Hilder, Lee Shubert, A. H. Woods, Edgar Selwyn, Henry Ittleson, Jacob Hilder, Harmon August, P. W. Haberman, Gabriel L. Hess. The Goldwyn Company has under contract Geraldine Farrar, Pauline Frederick, Mabel Normand, Madge Kennedy, Tom Moore, Will Rogers, and has exclusive contracts on all motion picture production works by Rex Beach, Gertrude Atherton, Rupert Hughes, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Gouverneur Morris, Basil King, Leroy Scott and the Shubert interests.

A. H. Woods has around him the greater part of producing playwrights today, and he owns exclusive rights to most of the important modern English and French productions.

Goldwyn has under way plans for a large Eastern studio near New York City, and production will be carried out on a more extensive scale than ever before.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

FIVE-HUNDRED PARTY

As several of her friends are leaving soon for college, Harriet Dowlan gave a little farewell party for a group of them, last Thursday, Helen and Mary Alexander being the guests of honor.

The afternoon was spent playing five-hundred, and later refreshments were served.

Among the girls who enjoyed the affair were Virginia Goddard, Marie Jewett, Helen Cashman, Alice Fowler, Marjorie Miller, Helen Alexander and Mary Alexander.

MISS DANIELS ENTERTAINS

Miss Bebe Daniels, who is known as one of the most delightful hostesses of the young studio crowd, gave a dinner party at her home, Thursday evening. The living room and dining room were decorated with a profusion of flowers, and place cards and favors, carrying out the color scheme of pink and yellow, were used.

Miss Daniels' guests were Misses Marie Mosquini, Estelle Harrison and Messrs. Wallace McDonald, Vernon Kellog, Billy Kerrigan, Rem Burt, Mr. Condee and Mr. Saunders. Mrs. Daniels assisted her daughter.

AT FOREST HOME

Miss Margaret Ettinger, of the New York Telegraph, and Miss Violet Clark, scenario and continuity writer for Universal, spent the week-end at Forest Home.

AT STUDIO CLUB

Miss Julinne Johnston and Mrs Johnston are at the Studio Club and will remain during August.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Miss Harris and Miss Newman, of the Studio Club, are at Asilamar, California, atttnding the National Board Convention of the Y. W. C. A. They will return within two weeks' time.

HONOR MISS DAW

Miss Marjorie Daw was guest of honor at the Studio Club dance, last Friday evening. Miss Daw leaves early in the week for Arizona, where she will visit with relatives, returning early in September.

BIRTHDAY SPECIAL

Friday afternoon Mrs. Jay Morley gave herself a little birthday party. It was a sort of "drop in" affair, Mrs. Morley served a "Special Birthday Tea," as she termed it, and a survey of her new hand-made lamp was the chief point of interest.

Some of the guests who dropped in to try the tea and view the lamp were Mrs. John Burke, Mrs. Jack Schilling, Mrs. George Ovey, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Paul Sittery, Miss Lucille Taylor, Mrs. Max Sanborn, Miss Evelyn Morehouse and Mrs. Billy Mills.

MOTOR PARTY

Al Semnacker and his family will motor to Santa Barbara Tuesday, to show Mr. Semnacker's mother, sister and niece more of our California.

Fritzi Remont, who has been taking a quiet rest in Santa Barbara, will return to Los Angeles with the Semnacker family.

RALPH LEWIS HOST

Ralph Lewis innocently served as an absent host for an unpretentious little party, held at his home Wednesday night. We can not say who all the guests were but perhaps David, Butler, Al St. John or Al Semnacker can give you the details.

AT CATALINA

Sessue Hayakawa and Wallace Worthington are at Catalina Island enjoying the fishing and boating. Just a change and recreation before starting the next Hayakawa feature.

LAKE TAHOE

Katherine MacDonald and Mary MacLaren, with their mother and sister, will leave Los Angeles Monday to motor to Lake Tahoe. They expect to be at the lake about three weeks, when the two actress sisters will return to work on their new pictures.

MITCHELL STUDIO NOTES

The Mitchell Hollywood Studio is making preparations for the first of the series of inter-studio dances to be held there during the summer. This first Movie Dance will be held on Tuesday, August the fifth, when the dance will be held in honor of the Bull's Eye Corporation. The hall will be tastefully decorated with posters and pictures of members of the Bull's Eye Comedy company.

Those of the company who will be present for the occasion are Charlie Dorety, the comedian star, Sid Smith, comedian; Beatrice Lovejoy, Dorety's leading woman; James Parrott, character man; Nat Spitzer, manager; Jay Mulhouser, the scenario editor; Charles Parrott, director; Stanley Blystone, assistant director; George Larson, cameraman; Clarence Morehouse, the purchasing agent, and Thomas Caswell, in charge of properties. The beauties of the Bull's Eye Follies will also be at the dance. They are Esther Jackson, Matie Connoly, Dollie Stoddard, Evelyn Nelson, Betty Saunders and Margaret Villmore.

Another interesting gathering will take place at the Studio on Friday, August the eighth, when the entire Gale Henry Comedy Company will be present in celebration of Gale Henry Night at the Mitchell Studio. Allan Risley and James Mitchell are perfecting the plans for the affair together, and they have some real surprises in store for the guests that night. Among those who will be present at the dance are Gale Henry, the comedienne; Bruno Becker, the director; Eddie Baker, heavy; Milburn Moranti, lead; Hap. H. Ward, character man; Henry East, Lee Garms, Dick Currier and Allan Risley.

EUGENIE BESSERER

By Mildred Davis

Eugenie Besserer has been "on her own" ever since she was a child of nine.

She was born in Marsailles, France, of French parentage. Her mother was the one convent-bred daughter of a large family, and her father an aristocrat. The strength of character which enabled these two people of distinct classes to marry in defiance of a custom generations old, is the same indomimable spirit which has enabled their daughter to achieve her ideals, in the face of adverse circumstances.

When little "Jennie", as Miss Besserer was called, lost her mother, the farm in France was left behind and the child was brought to Canada, to another farm. This did not last long, for after her father's death the little girl ran away from her guardians in search of broader fields or adventure. She landed in the New York terminal with a contented mind and a Canadian twenty-five cent piece. With a vague idea of ultimately finding an old nurse named "Laidlow," the child boarded a street car, riding back and forth for hours. The conductor finally questioned her, and was kind enough to take her home to his wife. By incredible good fortune little "Jennie's" benefactors located the Laidlow friend, and Miss Besserer went to live with her.

Again her restless, independent spirit aserted itself. So with the treasured quarter she bought some whiting and carmen, mixed them, and produced a salable silver polish. Packing the polish in the paste board boxes she found about the house, she sold it for twenty-five cents a box and thereby became a financier.

All of her short life Eugenie had longed to be an actress and had admired the few theatrical people that she had seen. She had admired from afar, however, because her relatives were very stern Catholics and radically opposed to the theatre. But now the little girl came before the attention of McKee Rankin, who persuaded her to play "Little Georgie" in the "Danities." After that she continued on the stage permanently, with only a few interruptions, until her picture work began.

Miss Besserer became interested in fencing, and went to Professor Senac to study. So easily and quickly she learned that shortly she became an assistant. After a season on the stage she was back again teaching swimming and fencing to the young ladies of the New York "Four Hundred" at the Berkeley Ladies' Athletic Club. For eight years Miss Besserer held the ladies' fencing championship of America.

"In any line of endeavor it is the foundation that counts." Miss Besserer tells us, "and it was my foundation, my early direction that has helped me in my acting. My earliest work was with Maurice Barrymore as director. Later Wilton Lackeye, Frank Keenan, and MacKee Rankin and other men of their class directed me, and it is that kind of training that shows."

At seventeen Miss Besserer was the author and star of her own play; a one-act drama which she had based on fencing. A wide melodramatic experience has been hers. With the Pike Stock Company of Cincinnati and the Manchester Stock Company during long engagements Miss Besserer was called upon to portray roles ranging from queens to ragged urchins, traveling all over the world. The most notable of these tours was as Margaret Anglin's understudy, in Australia. When Miss Anglin returned to America Eugenie Besserer became the leading woman.

Eight years ago Miss Besserer began her picture work with the Selig Company, and since then her screen characterizations have exceeded even her success in legitimate work. In "Old Songs and Memories" she played herself as a girl of 18, a wife of 23, and a woman of sixty. Another part that will always be remembered was her "Mercedes" with Hobart Bosworth in "Count of Monte Cristo." Other photo features in which Miss Besserer has starred are "The Carpet of Bagdad;" "I Did Not Raise My Boy to be a Soldier;" "When A Woman's Forty;" "Her Eternal Triumph;" "Thelma;" "Smouldering;" "Melody of Gloom;" and the "Circular Staircase."

Miss Besserer's versatility seems almost unbounded, both in acting and make-up. She is so skillful that even those about the studio who know her best are often deceived.

For the last few months Miss Besserer has been working with D. W. Griffith, playing a very important part in the last picture Mr. Griffith has finished. Miss Besserer tells us that no one can realize the happiness it gives her to have an opportunity of working with the great director.

Miss Besserer lives in her own home in Los Angeles, where everything is arranged ideally. A comfortable, beautiful home emanating the air of love and naturalness that is Miss Besserer's most prominent characteristic.

"In all things in life I strive for the things of nature. I am a child of nature, the out-doors, flowers, children, I love them all. To be unaffected and sincere in acting, to be natural, not to "act," is true art. Principle is the greatest thing of all in life. Try to live up to the highest ideals. I have never been late to an appointment in my life."

"Aint I funny," she laughed, and hurried away to Mr. Griffith's "set" to another day's work.

SPAGHETTI IS SERVED

Maxwell Kargar and his wife were invited to the home of Fred Warren, assistant director for Viola Dana, with "Please Get Married," for a real Italian spaghetti dinner the other night. Harry Franklin and his wife were also present and all agreed that the spaghetti was splendid. Fred Warren assumed credit for the Italian cooking, and has been promised a job as chef any time he gets tired of assistant-directing.

BENSON RESTING

George Benson, one of Metro's first property men, and at present with the May Allison "Fair and Warmer" company, has gone to Big Bear for a rest.

FAMILY REUNION

William Laird, who recently came from New York to take over the bookkeeping responsibilities of the Metro Lot, was able to stage a family reunion the other day, when Mrs. Laird and the heir to the Laird estate came out to make their home in Hollywood.

PEGGY CUTS 'EM

Peggy Hagar, Nazimova's genial secretary, has followed the Metro vogue, and has gone and had her hair bobbed. That makes the Nazimova set unanimous for the abolition of the long tresses.

HOUSE GUEST

Lurline Lyons has had her cousin, Mrs. Jack London, as her Los Angeles guest for the past few weeks. Miss Lyons has but just recently returned to the screen, and in January will go north to work in the Jack London stories to be lmed amid ice and snow.

VISITING MARGARITA

Margarita Fisher has with her in Santa Barbara her little niece, Cathie Fisher, who is vacationing from a convent boarding school.

AT YELLOWSTONE

Mrs. Alvard, of the research department of Metro, is taking a two weeks' vacation traveling through Yellowstone Park.

FISHING

Kathleen Clifford chartered a launch and took a party of friends out beyond Catalina on a shing trip last Wednesday.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

FAIRBANKS' STUDIO PICK-UPS

Vic Fleming has returned from New York, where he went to shoot some of the scenes in Douglas Fairbanks' next picture, his first for the United Artist Corporation.

"Bill" Nolan, brother-in-law of George M. Cohan, is now in charge of the cutting room for Douglas Fairbanks and is assisting Director Hanaberry with Doug's first picture for the United Artists.

David Flam, formerly connected with the Western Newspaper Union, New York City, has joined the Douglas Fairbanks Publicity Department.

In one of the scenes in Doug's first picture for the United Artists he has to jump into a tank of water. After going in he decided that the rest of the company should have a taste of the water, so everybody around got a good ducking, clothes and all. Those who beat it for the office were given a thorough soaking by Doug, Vic Fleming and Joe Henaberry, who dragged them out and gave them the water cure via the fire hose. The dry cleaning establishments in Hollywood did a rushing business that day.

Miss Joan Boison of the Douglas Fairbanks Company is on her vacation up in the mountains, at the R. C. Jones ranch.

EDDY MAY LEAVE

Helen Jerome Eddy may or may not go to New York in the near future to become one of Broadway's luminaries. It all depends. Eastern managers are pretty keen about her—as well they may be—you remember her work in "The Pine Tree," "The Tragedy of Nan," Barrie's "Rosalind" and Lady Gregory's "Spreading the News," do you not?—well, some of those managers also remember it, and as they are rich, their memories prove dangerous.

AT GOLDWYN

Wallace Worsley has gone over to Goldwyn to produce special features.

WITH ROGERS

Irene Rich, who has been playing with Bessie Barriscale, will begin work Monday as Will Rogers' leading woman.

LEAVES MACDONALD

Bennie Singer, buyer for the Katherine MacDonald Corporation, has severed his connections with that company. He does not mention what he expects to do in the future.

RORKE IN L. A.

Sam E. Rorke, of the Katherine MacDonald Corporation, is expected here from New York early in the week. Mr. Rorke has many plans in view for the forthcoming MacDonald pictures.

AT ASTRA

Jimmy Horne expects to make his next serial at the Astra studio.

FOR FOX

The Fox studio will add another director to their staff soon. Lynn Reynolds, who has been at the "U," is the chosen one.

SEIGMAN FINISHING

When his present production is completed George Seigman will leave the Universal.

HEAD CAMERAMAN

Henry Cronjager, who has been associated with the Marshall Neilan productions for some time, is now head cameraman for that company. Mr. Cronjager succeeds Tony Gaudio, who will remain with Anita Stewart.

MISS CROWELL AGAIN WITH GRIFFITH

Josephine Bonaparte Crowell, one of the greatest character women in motion pictures, is cast in D. W. Griffith's latest production. Miss Crowell has been working with Peggy May, the English actress.

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

WITH DESMOND

Boris Karloff has just completed work with Wm. Desmond at Hampton's. Mr. Karloff was cast as a heavy in the recent production.

IN SANTA BARBARA

Thomas Santschi is making his very first trip to Santa Barbara, where he will act under the direction of Burton George in a big feature film to be made by the American company.

UNDER WARDE

Fritzi Brunette is appearing opposite Jack Warren Kerrigan in the feature now being made under the direction of Ernest Warde at the Brunton studio.

BABY JACK WITH CHAPLIN

We would venture to say that Baby Jack Coogan, Jr., besides being one of the cleverest youngsters in the country, is one of the most fortunate. Charles Chaplin has "discovered" him, and has signed him at an unprecedented salary, to appear in the forthcoming Chaplin pictures.

This tiny youngster took the audiences at the Orpheum by storm, when he appeared there, with his mother and father in the Annette Kellerman revue a few weeks ago, and there is little doubt that he will captivate the hearts of the film fans, as well.

NEW CHAPLIN FOIL

Mr. Arthur Thalasso, who arrived recently from New York, has been signed by Charles Chaplin. Mr. Thalasso is said to be a "double" for Eric Campbell, the big comedian who was associated with Chaplin for years, and who was killed in an automobile accident here two years ago. Mr. Thalasso will appear in the Chaplin picture now being filmed.

HEAVY WITH GISH

Bert Apling has been signed with Elmer Clifton at the Griffith Studio, and is now playing a villain with Dorothy Gish.

VISITING MOTHER

Charlin Milton of the Lasky Studio is visiting her mother at Houston, Texas.

WITH NAZIMOVA

Milla Davenport has been cast in a prominent role in the present Nazimova production, "The Hermit Doctor of Gaya."

McDONALD WITH WALTHALL

Francis J. McDonald has just completed work with the Henry B. Walthall Company. He was cast in a prominent part in the Walthall picture.

TRUMAN HOME

California Truman has returned from Bear Valley, where she has been on location with the Mary Pickford Company.

FRANCIS WADDELLE RETURNS

After serving for fourteen months in France, J. Francis Waddelle, formerly of the Vitagraph Company, has returned to Los Angeles, and intends to again take up his work in the films.

Mr. Waddelle was with the 8th Pathfinder division, and trained at Camp Fremont. He was at Jounzac, France, at the time the armistice was signed, was stationed for some time at Coblenz, Germany, and celebrated the signing of the peace treaty in Paris. However, he's mighty glad to be home again, and his many Hollywood friends are glad to welcome him back to the studios.

WITH MOORE

Kathleen Kirkham is playing in support of Tom Moore at the Goldwyn studio now.

POUNDING THE IVORIES

Having finished the continuity of his original story, "The Hill Man," for Harry Carey, H. Tipton Steck is working on continuity for "The Pedlar," the Henry C. Rowland story which ran in the Saturday Evening Post. "The Pedlar" will be used as Monroe Salisbury's next story.

CORRINE HARRIS HERE

Corrine Harris, who was with the Fox company in New York, is resting at the Ozmun Apartment, here, before resuming her work in pictures.

GLAUM HOME

Louise Glaum has at last moved into her new home in Culver City.

L'ESTRANGE TO GO EAST

Dick L'Estrange has been cast in a prominent role in Pauline Frederick's latest production, "Betty," at the Goldwyn studio. Mr. L'Estrange will leave shortly for New York City, where he will take up his duties as casting director for seven Selznick companies in the east.

MUSICIAN CONTRACTED

The Goldwyn studios have the only musician on contract in Bert Crossland, a violinist and 'cellist, who has just signed to play exclusively for Goldwyn productions.

His present work is for the new Goldwyn picture which stars Geraldine Farrar and Lou Tellegen. He has secured a book of Egyptian music, as the locale of the play is there, and is arranging special music and writing his own compositions for the scenes that transpire in Cairo.

LITTLE FRANKIE WITH MABEL

Little Frankie Lee, the boy actor, is at present appearing with Mabel Normand in a new Goldwyn picture.

SPINGLER AT VITAGRAPH

Harry Spingler is at present a member of the Earle Williams company at the Vitagraph studio.

CHADWICKS GO EAST

Helene Chadwick will trip to New York in September to spend a month in that city before beginning to work out her five-year contract with the Goldwyn company. On the completion of the current Lasky production in which she is now working, Miss Chadwick will play the lead in the first Rupert Hughes story to be filmed at the Goldwyn studio, and entitled "The Cup of Fury."

FILLMORE AT "U."

Clyde Fillmore, star of the production "Civilian Clothes" now playing at the Morosco theater, will work in pictures as well as on the stage for the next few weeks as he has accepted the lead in Director Paul Powell's new feature at Universal. Colleen Moore will play opposite him.

HAZEL DALY RETURNS

Hazel Daly returns to the screen in Tom Moore's new Goldwyn picture, playing one of the finest roles ever written by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero. Hazel Daly is remembered for her work with Tom Moore in "Brown of Harvard" before he became a Goldwyn luminary. In private life she is Mrs. Harry Beaumont, her husband being the Goldwyn director.

WITH ARBUCKLE

The Arbuckle sets are now being erected under the supervision of Earle Olin, head of the Lehrman technical department, and actual production will start within a few days, with Lou Anger in general charge of the Arbuckle organization.

BARKER'S "T. D."

Correct detail in the Egyptian episodes of the new Farrar production is assured by the presence of Lieut.-Col. Gordon McGee, M. C., who spent considerable time with the British forces in Northern Egypt.

The Metro Studio baseball team defeated the Brunton Studio aggregation Sunday with a score of 11 to 6. This is Metro's fourth win out of five games played in the Photoplayers' League. Lewis pitched for Metro and Kelly for Brunton. De Maggio of Metro was the batting star, making a two-bagger, a three-bagger and a home-run out of four times to bat.

Next Sunday Metro plays the Tom Ince Studio.

June Mathis, head of Metro's scenario department, is hailed as their good luck joss by the members of the studio baseball nine.

GOVERNOR OF BOMBAY VISITS STUDIO

Lieut.-Col. Sir Popham Young, governor of the province of Bombay, India, paid a visit to the studio of Metro Pictures Corporation in Los Angeles on his way home to England this week.

MIX LOCATION

Tom Mix and Sol. M. Wurtzel, general superintendent of the Fox Studios in Hollywood, California, left for Oklahoma this (Wednesday) morning where they will make arrangements to take one of the most important pictures the star has ever undertaken.

Their headquarters for the picture will be at Ponca City, and it is expected several weeks will be spent there, despite the heat prevailing in Oklahoma. Mrs. Mix will follow her husband next week with Edward J. LeSaint, the director, and Mrs. Le Saint as well as other members of the Mix company. More than fifty persons with fifty horses will leave for Ponca City. All the horses which have become famous in the Mix pictures, Tony, Aggis, Cloudy, Red, Eagle, Joe and Chub. Dev Jennings, the Mix company photographer, with Ace Hunter and Roy Carpenter, assistants, and Lee Moore, Tom Mix's trainer, will accompany the star and Mr. Wurtzel.

DWAN BUSY

Allan Dwan has started filling the initial scenes of his second production.

There is a diversication of both location and personalities. From New York to Gilbraltar, from Venice to Naples, Cairo to Singapore, the "Luck of the Irish" travels.

The photographing of the production is being done by H. Lyman Broening and Glen MacWilliams, and the production will be presented, as will Mr. Dwan's future pictures by the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation.

MODEL COMEDY

Gale Henry has finished her latest comedy, "Don't Chase Your Wife," and work has started on her next fun film, the working title of which is "Dizzy Lizzie." Bruno J. Becker is directing and the supporting cast includes Milburn Moranti, Hap H. Ward and Eddie Baker.

CHIT, CHAT & CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Al St. John comes forward with a denial that Joe McCloskey is his manager in his Paramount venture, in which Jack Warner is director chief of his fun antics. Al says that he will manage his own affairs, and make pictures according to Hoyle and his own way of thinking and doesn't need any boss.

Robert Doran has signed to go to Australia with Wilfred Lucas and Bess Meredith, who are going over to produce pictures for Snowy Baker in the Antipodes. Mr. Doran is a cameraman who has been connected with some of the leading drama and comedy companies of the Pacific Coast.

Sol Wurtzel left these parts for Okalahoma to look after the Fox interests for the Tom Mix western stories that are to be produced on the Miller Brothers Ranch with their stock which have been used in some of the best exhibitions throughout the country. Mix has left already or is leaving for the same city. His outfit and staff will follow him.

Sam Kingston, who used to sign New York City as his Fox address, is in charge of the local situation for that organization, acting in the capacity previously held down by Sol Wurtzel who has taken over other duties at present writing.

Lewis H. Scherer has opened a directors' location service and has cameramen companies, his office are in the Baker-Detwiler building.

Jack White is going to direct Julian Eltinge when he completes his engagement here in a number of scenes which will rebuild one of his pictures that he made here under the supervision of Fred Balshofer. The latter is back on the job and will look after all business pertaining to the same. The filmization of the subject will take place at the Henry Lehrman studios at Culver City.

H. Tipton Steck, that clever chap who makes some of our leading pencil pushers look to their laurels when it comes to writing stories for some of our best motion picture stars, including Harry Carey, Fred Stone, and not overlooking the adaption of "The Broken Butterfly" for Maurice Tourner. Reports that he is burning gallons of midnight oil for the love of his art and the swelling of his family bank roll which is bulging out from all sides, and everything.

Juanita Hanson is doing double shift, in other words, she is working for the Selig Company in the day time, and spends her evenings at the Metro where she is completing a picture for that organization that she started on some time ago. It must be great to be a star and in demand.

Fontine La Rue is playing opposite Mack Swain out at the Big U. The part they say affords Miss La Rue an ample opportunity to disport her wonderful wardrobe that she has had but recently completed for a feature part she played in a super-de luxe production for George Siegman.

Nelson McDowell has been cast for a very good part at the Fox studio. It commences to look like they are getting on to Nelson and his ability to play character parts, and he is going to be a very busy personage.

Reggie Morris is just about ready to write finis to his initial comedy that he has made for Mack Sennett since he returned to the Edendale plant. Reggie has been working night and day on the subject and feels certain he has put over a ten-strike.

Florence Turner had her entire staff guessing the other afternoon out at the Big N when she dressed up as a boy and had 'em all searching for her while she was standing and talking to some friends. Assistant Director Theodore Joos finally saw the folks talking and noticing something suspicious about the actions of one of the crowd, walked over and recog- picture.

Bob Laga, a well known sportsman, nized Miss Turner. The deception was perfect and will be carried out by the clever artiste in her forthcoming who handles the ring destinies of Joe Rivers as a side line, says that the Southland will soon have a prop shop and warehouse that will revolutionize the handling of sets for the local film colony. They will have a staff of artists who will furnish and dress any set and strike it just like any of the leading caterers will take charge of a banquet, and do it as artistically.

Sid Grauman, 'tis rumored, is connected up with an organization that will be known as the Second National Exhibitors. They will do business direct with the stars and directors, getting them to bid on how much they will produce a story for and turning the production over to them. Then they can make it wherever they like. Mr. Grauman, I'm informed, has been given the Pacific Coast rights on these productions. New York City capitalists are in back of the proposition.

Lucielle Ward just finished a picture at the Big U where she played an excellent character part. One thing in her favor, and it is some of our actresses' main stock in trade, she always dresses her parts a wee bit better than the rest of them do. She seems to have that keen knack of knowing what she is there for and does her work well.

Bebe Daniels is looking beter than ever before since she cast her lot with Cecil B. de Mille, riding around in million dollar cars and dressed in keeping with the frame of the picture that gives to many a casting eye glance that she gets as she whirls by. She surely is coming to the front faster than any of them have up to date.

W. S. Campbell is being paid a visit by his brother, James Campbell, who came here from Arizona, where they have just shown Campbell's initial comedy that he made for the Univer-

Eunice Vin Moore is playing Mrs. Nolan with the Marjorie Wilson company, which is being produced by the Herman Film company who are at present doing exterior scenes.

George Siegman has a new job and to be honest it has been forced upon him. It happened this way: George was riding on a Western Avenue street car and innocently stationed himself where the conductor usually stands, when in stepped a fair damsel and handed him a five-cent piece and walked to her seat. About the time the third one had followed suit George let out a yell and quit his station and sat down.

Dan Russell, Hughey Mack, Bill Bevan and Phil Dunham, all who used to work in that L. K. O. fun factory, are now making faces at the Sennett cameras and drawing down their weekly stipends earning it, too. This quartet of funsters have broken all records for stepping from a near real plant to a first class producing unit.

Ruth Clifford, who is playing opposite Earle Williams, is doing excellent work under the direction of Theodore Marseden, who is being assisted by Chester Bennett working at the Vitagraph studio.

William Crinley is directing Marjorie Wilson for the Herman Film company. The fact that Wililam is on the job in itself means that his employers have landed a live wire worker and will have a tip-top production to release after he has finished it.

Albert E. Green and Frank B. Good have been driving around looking at locations and to be honest Al told me that he has seen dare devil drivers in races, but he never saw any of them cover as much territory in as short a space of time that they were out searching locations.

Allen Watt is expected back about the time this goes to press, coming from Wyoming where he has been making some two-reel subjects with Bob Wells acting as co-director.
sal with Joe Martin. And the way the picture went over caused Brother James to come here and have a peek at the wonderful line-up that Brother William has out Universal way.

Larry McGrath, who is the lucky rabbit foot to the Vernon Tigers baseball club, is a very worried man these days. For the minute the team gets out of his sight they fall into a losing streak. The other night he met Puss Halbriter at Doyle's home of fistcuffs and they talked of rushing North to bring the boys some luck.

Jack Doyle showed his true hand towards the motion picture profession Tuesday night when he ordered Dan Toby to announce the Assistant Directors' Association Barn Dance. You know that at a boxing show the fans usually hate to listen to any announcements, and Doyle braved even that so as to treat the film boys right, and it got over big with everybody.

Al Kaufman just finished with William Farnum at Fox studio where he played an excellent part. Prior to this he had done similar work with Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Ray

NEW YORK GUEST

Miss Brulah Booker is entertaining as her house guest, Miss Jean Conlee of New York City. Miss Conlee expects to be in Los Angeles with her friend about two weeks, after which she will continue her trip to San Francisco.

A. D. A. BARN DANCE

The largest and most interesting social affair of the season was the Assistant Directors' barn dance, held at the Brunton Studio last Thursday night.

The stage given over to dancing was decorated with hay in a true rustic style. The guests came in every sort of country attire, and danced until late, very late, to the music of a thirty-piece "jazz" orchestra. A negro quartet was another feature of the entertainment.

Hundreds of people came and went during the evening, keeping the perpetual gaiety surging. Hay wagons and busses met the guest at the street cars, and the streets surrounding the studio were packed with machines.

Practically "everyone" in pictures looked in and the legitimate was well represented, also.

The picture men who devoted their evening to seeing that no one was neglected were: Dave Allen, Alexander Alt., Scott Beal, Chester Bennett, George Bertholon, William Bletcher, Harry Burns, William Carr, James Clemens, Buck Connors, William Crinley, Fred Croft, George Crone, William Dagwell, Douglas Dawson, Walter DeCoursey, Eugene De Rue, Lee d'Dusseau, William Dyer, Reaves Eason, Robert Ensinger, Arthur Flavin, Park Frame, Frank Gereghty, Mark Goldaine, Albert, Green, Charles Hall, Rex Hodge, Dave Howard William Howard, Eliot Howe, Lou Howland, Bert King, Eddie Laemmle, Ward Lascelle, Jack Lowry, Irving Luddy, Roy Marshall, Ray Meeker, Claude Mitchell, Joe Murphy, Martin Murphy, Henry Murray, Joe McClosky, Joe McDonough, Robert McGowan, Richard Oliphant, Dana Ong, James O'Shea, Mortimer Peebles Frank Richardson, Fred Robinson, Arthur Rose, Al Russell, Harry Schenck, Leigh Smith, Ed Sowders, Charles Stallings, Herbert Sutch, Norman Taurog, Harry Tennbrook, Frank Thorne, Ernest Traxler, Fred Tyler, Tom Walsh, Alan Watt, George Webster, Mac Wright.

Everyone had been assured of a good time and we feel "assured" that no one was disappointed.

DOINGS OF ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

By Harry Burns

George Beratholon returned from Texas and went back to work with William Worthington, who directs Sessue Hayakawa at Robert Brunton's studio.

Norman Taurog had the "Big Swede" fly over the building tops of Hollywood, Beverly Hills and Culver and drop handbills from his machine anent the big "barn dance." It was some sight and some boost for the A. D. A. boys.

Ray Meeker is assisting Harry Mann at the Universal helping the funster put over some one-reelers. He reports everything running smoothly.

Richard Oliphant says that he is so busy that he has to have his meals served to him by a marathon runner. Hop on it, Dick.

William Carr reports that Marshall Neilan before leaving these parts put his entire company on steady pay, so he won't lose 'em. How many directors or producers have done this in the past? Stand up, let's take a look at you.

Ernest Traxler is severing his connections with the Big U as production manager.

George Webster I' mtold is once more at work with Edward Le Saint, after doing splendid work in directing Tom Mix at the Fox studio.

Frank Lowery was given a hurried call to come to Santa Barbara and disport his working wares for the American corporation. Good luck, Frank.

Rex Hodge came down from Big Bear Lake to attend the barn dance leaving 2 a. m. and returning 2 a. m. the following day so that he could be back on the job again with Douglas Gerrad who is directing Monroe Salisbury for the Universal. Some trip, Rex, but it was well worth it.

Irving Luddy reports that Joe Rock is once more up and at them, after being on the sick list with poison ivy. He also states that Earle Montgomery has been riding in so many different autos these days that folks are wondering if he has turned salesman. But his car, he says, is being overhauled.

Martin Murphy put over the big scoop of the advertising campaign for the big "barn dance." He got Lieutenant Locklear to loop the loop and do all sorts of daredevil stunts over Broadway and drop dodgers announcing the dance. Murphy is Jacques Jaccard's assistant. The latter is directing the "marvel of the air" and through Ernest Traxler's co-operation the thing was accomplished.

William Dyer made the best bartender I ever met, even figuring back to the days when we didn't have to look for a place to speak easy and ask for sarsaparilla, root beer or soda pop. They fell for his line, and the boys reaped in a harvest for the Assistant Directors Association.

Claude H. Mitchell was handed the worst jolt of his life the other day while he and Scott Beall were making the rounds of the studios seeing the powers that be about going to the barn dance. In their party there was a boy, Harry Lee Ward (Memphis), acting as bill poster. He made the rounds of the Griffith studio, and while Claude and Scott were looking for D. W. Griffith, Memphis had the king of directors cornered in the cafeteria and sold him and Miss Lillian Gish tickets to the affair, and not stopping at that he sold one to Dorothy Gish and then told Mitchell and Beall where to find Mr. Griffith.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

ROAD BULLETIN

Report of Yosemite Vallty Scout Car

Fresno-Lane's Bridge-Coarse Gold-Wawona Route: Paved for first mile, the one-half mile of rough oiled road and ten miles of good oiled and gravel road. Thence good dirt road through rolling country to Coarse Gold. The road from Coarse Gold to Wawona is a little rough and somewhat dusty due to heavy travel. Excellent road is had from Wawona into the Valley with grades ranging from 6 to 18 per cent. Mileage to Yosemite—102.

Madera-Raymond-Miami Lodge-Wawona Route: Good to excellent road is had to Raymond, thence good dirt road, with exception of a few rough stretches to the summit and good dirt road from there to Miami Lodge. Balance to Wawona somewhat dusty and steeper grades. Grades range from 8 to 15 per cent.

Madera-Raymond-Coarse Gold-Wawona Route: Good to excellent road from Madera to Raymond. Raymond to Coarse Gold, fairly good road with few rutt. Road from Coarse Gold to Wawona same as Fresno-Lane's Bridge route.

Flume Route from Madera to Coarse Gold: For the first couple of miles out Yosemite Avenue, from Madera, road rather rough and dusty. Thtnce about 10 miles fairly good road is encountered before reaching the foot hills where the road is good practically all the way to Coarse Gold. From Coarse Gold to Wawona, the road is the same as the Fresno-Lane's Bridgt route.

Merced-Mormon Bar-Miami Post Office Route: Excellent graued state highway from Merced to Mormon Bar with the exception of about a mile of slightly rough road. Between 25 and 30 miles an hour can be maintained to this point, a distance of 40 miles. From Mormon Bar to Bootjack, about 4 miles, road alittle rough with a few grades, from Bootjack to Miami Post Oce excellent road is had with few short stretches which are rough. From this point over Chowchilla Mountain, road over first grade, thence over the mountain steep and rough in places. Grades 12 to 16 per cent to within 4 miles of Wawona, then down grade running about same percentage into Wawona. Mileage to Wawona via this route—65 9-10ths.

Chinquapin-Glacier Point Road: Although heavy grades ranging from 14 to 18 per cent will be encountered for the first four miles, the roadbed is good and is being dragged often. Balance of road good with slightly rough stretches on grade down to the point. Motorists desiring to take this trip will encounter no difficulty.

Mariposa Big Trees: This road branches off the main road three and nine-tenths below Wawona and is six and three-tenths miles off the road between Fish Camp and Wawona. This road is rough in places due to heavy travel and is very dusty. Road through grove good.

Big Oak Flat Road: Oakdale reached by paved road from either Salida or Modesto. From Oakdale to Chinese Camp very rocky and road is poor, thence good graded road to Hamiltons. Road from Hamiltons practically entire distance through Tuolumne Grove to checking station very dusty and road bed only in fair condition. Down the control to valley road in good condtiion.

Tioga Road: Road branches off at Carl Inn, 24 7-10th miles from the valley on the Oak Flat Road. Road can be considered excellent as far as Lake Tenaya, with a very few exceptions, namely one mile of fairly rough road about 4 miles from Carl Inn and a vtry few rocky grades just before you reach Lake Tenaya. The grades on this road range from 10 to 20 per cent. First checking station 6 2-10th miles from Carl Inn, and from here to Tenaya Lake, 31 3-10ths miles.

Next checking station 16 miles from Lake Tenaya. Road good and no grades to speak of. From there to Tioga Pass (elevation 9904 feet), it is a gradual climb. Good road with an occasional wash and a few chuck holes . The road from the Pass to Mono Lake is well maintained and in good condition, and a gradual grade of about 8 per cent is had.

Ample water is supplied by springs and brooks along the road. Motorists are advised to make reservations at Lake Ttnaya Lodge, especially going west over the Tioga Road. No gasoline is available between Carl Inn and Mono Lake.

You have about three weeks, Mr. Motorists, in which to meet the requirements of the new headlight law which went into effect on July 22.

Get busy warns the Automobile Club of Southern California and adjust your lights or adopt one of the lenses which have been approved by the state.

Yes—you can do your own adjusting, says the Club's Legal Department, if you know what the requirements are, and if you dont know, get in touch with the club by letter or telephone and find out. You do not have to purchase one of the devices approved by the state. That is final.

But you do have to secure either maize, rib, moss, Florentine or standard prism glass and install it, then you have to meet the law requirements or you will be arrested in about 20 days.

SANTA BARBARA, July 28.—Visitors at the Santa Barbara Dog Show next Friday and Saturday, August 1 and 2, are going to have the privilege of seeing some of the finest dogs in America. Among the 252 animals entered are several which have won premier honors in the biggest shows here and abroad.

Boston Terriers will predominate. Among the 38 entered is "Coy Maid," which won the blue ribbon at the Los Angeles Boston Terrier show last week. She will meet the champion, Lady Harmless, owned by W. S. Macy of Montecito. The latter dog has never been beaten. Freeman Ford of Pasadena is bringing two new Bostons just out from the East.

There will be 148 exhibitors in the Santa Barbara show. This indicates that it will surpass any exhibition held in the Wast in recent years. The trophy list is valued at $3,000. Supt. John Bradshaw says he looks for some surprises, as a lot of new stuff bred up during the last year will have its first showing. Some of the oldtime winners may have to step aside for the newcomers.

The show will be held in the Palm Ring on the Belvedere grounds, out of doors. A unique arrangement has been provided for benching the dogs. Summer shows are not usually favored; but Santa Barbara's climatic conditions make it an exceptional place. Breezes from the Pacific will cool the dogs. American Kennel Club rules govern the show.

Officers of the Santa Barbara Club are Ralph W. Hersey, president; C. B. Hale, vice-president; T. L. Hodges, treasurer; Dr. S. E. Kramer, secretary.

BRENTWOOD COUNTRY CLUB

Brentwood Country Club links are the center of the greatest activity yet ever known owing to the number of entries for the second Motion Picture Players' Golf tournament being held there today and tomorrow and to the keen rivalry developed through the richness of the trophies donated by members of the Famous Players-Lasky organization.

Edmund Mitchell Jr of Lasky's has been responsible for the arrangements with Mr. Davis of the Country Club and players from a number of studios have entered with particular interest centered on the play between those from the Brentwood and the Lasky studios who divided the chief honors in the first tournament held last month. A capacity crowd has been provided for by the Club management for the dinner-dance this Saturday night and reservations have been made for nearly all those shining lights of the local film colony who are interested in golf and who plan to divide the playing of the two days by an enjoyable evening's entertainment for their friends and relatives of the fair sex.

Lillian Greenberger, casting director at the Universal City, demonstrated her versatility by writing "A Voice in the Night," a two-reel Western melodrama, which was accepted instantly by William Pigott, managering director of short-reel productions.

Her name will appear on the screen as Lillian Valentine, however, for in real life she is a sister-in-law of Grace Valentine, the Oliver Morosco stage star, who madt her greatest hit in "Lombardi Limited."

WITH RAY

Mollie McConnell's long suite is playing the mother to all the screen girls and boys. Not only does she play the mother, but they all call her "Mother" as well. Mrs. McConnell stepped from the role of mother, in Vivian Martin's "His Official Fiancee" to the mother in Charlie Ray's "A Man's Money."

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Fay Tincher, Katherine Lewis, James Libby, Gertrude Selby and Harry Depp. Please submit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic, for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

POPPY COMEDY CO., 735 BOYLE AVE. Wants one-reel comedies for Mack Swain, which include dancing and swimming girls; and six-reel dramas of semi-western type for Tom Santschi. Also want a series of four pictures. Address Santschi, care Stuart, Camera!, 4513 Sunset Blvd.

MODEL COMEDY COMPANY, 1329 GORDON ST., HOLLYWOOD, is in the market for two-reel comedies featuring Gale Henry. Stories must contain strikingly snappy situations for female boob characters. No slap-stick will be considered. Please remit by mail.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

FATTY ARBUCKLE COMEDIES, 1723 ALLESANDRO ST. Two-reel comedies having the essentials of a good opening and a good finish, and the gags must be unusually clever.

MUTUAL FILM COMPANY, 72 WEST TWENTY-THIRD ST., NEW YORK. Will consider feature photoplays with parts suitable for Gail Kane.

BACON-PACKER FILM CORPORATION, 230 WEST THIRTY-EIGHTH ST., NEW YORK. Society dramas with women leads are needed.

ANITA STEWART CO., 4634 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In the market for 5-reel society dramas for Anita Stewart.

CHAPLIN STUDIO, 1420 LA BREA. Buys no outside material. Charlie Chaplin writes his own scripts.

PALMER ADVISORY BUREAU, 571-591 I. W. HELLMAN BLDG. We market material for Palmer members and recognized writers only. Have calls for all types of stories including serials.

L-KO FILM COMPANY, SUNSET AND GOWER. Not in the market for outside material.

UNITED PICTURE THEATRES CORPORATION, BRUNTON STUDIOS. Buying only high-class stories having Eastern or Western atmosphere which have sufficient action for 6 reels. Address scenarios to William Lord Wright.

THE DOROTHY GISH COMPANY, SUNSET STUDIO, 4520 SUNSET BLVD. Is in the market for five and six reel comedy-dramas, featuring Miss Gish.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG is in the market for straight drama; 6 reels.

JACK PICKFORD can use stories of the good-natured, small-town boy; 6 reels.

BESSIE BARRISCALE will consider strong emotional roles with the society element; also comedy-dramas; 5 to 7 reels.

FRANK KEENAN'S scenarios must contain strong, virile, masterful character delineation; 6 reels.

MAYFLOWER COMPANY, GEORGE TUCKER, All Star cast, will consider 7-reel super-features dealing with modern society.

J. WARREN KERRIGAN—Six-reel dramas with marked romantic element.

EARLE WILLIAMS uses 5 and 6-reel society plays.

STEWART EDWARD WHITE CO. Produces only Mr. White's books.

KEWPY KOMEDY KOMPANY, 321 WEST 3RD ST. In market for one and two-reel Klean-kut-komedies—no slapstick. Also five and seven-reel dramas and comedy dramas.

MARY PICKFORD COMPANY. Not in the market at present for outside material.

UNIVERSAL FILM CO., UNIVERSAL CITY. In the market for 1-reel comedies and 2-reel Western. Will consider Western feature stories for Harry Carey; strong emotional drama for Dorothy Phillips and Mary MacLaren; feature character stories for Priscilla Dean; and outdoor character material for Monroe Salisbury.

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CO., BOYLE AND STEPHENSON AVE. Two and 5-reel dramatic stories of the West for Texas Guinan. One-reel comedies for Mack Swain.

UNITED PICTURES CORPORATION, 1600 BROADWAY, N. Y. In market for strong emotional features with problem theme for Florence Reed—five reels.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA plays Japanese, Chinese and Far Eastern characters. Sympathetic roles and roles having to do with self-sacrifice are preferred to sentimental parts; 6 reels.

JESSE D. HAMPTON CO., 1425 FLEMMING ST. Will consider scenarios suitable for H. B. Warner and W. Desmond; five reels.

KATHERINE MACDONALD CO., PICO AND GEORGIA STS. Society or emotional dramas of 5 reels for Miss MacDonald. Address scenarios to Ursula March.

BRENTWOOD FILM CO., 4811 FOUNTAIN AVE. In market for modern American stories, with good theme predomination, and also good 5-reel comedy-dramas. Must have human interest, with characterization true to life. Five-reel features only.

ARBUCKLE COMEDY COMPANY, GLENDALE, CAL. In the market for five and six-reel comedies, suitable for Mr. Arbuckle.

CAPITAL FILM CORPORATION. In the market for two-reel western stories, suitable for Neal Hart.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH occasionally buys synopses suited to Mr. Griffith's people and style. Stories should be submitted to M. M. Stearns, 4500 Sunset Blvd.

MAURICE TOURNEUR, CULVER CITY. Masterly stories suited to all-star cast only. Must have some special appeal. No propaganda.

WILLIS AND INGLIS, WRIGHT & CALLENDER BLDG. Neither purchasing nor accepting on consignment any original scenarios. Handling only photoplay rights to books, plays and short stories.

WILLIAM HART STUDIO, 1215 BATES ST. Maintains no scenario department, but manuscriptts for Bill Hart will be considered. The stories must not take Mr. Hart out of his characterization, but they must have new ideas, a different twist. Pays upon acceptance.

ZANE GREY FILM CO. Not in market. Films Mr. Grey's novels.

HENRY LEHRMAN PRODUCTIONS. Not in the market for outside material. Mr. Lehrman writes his own stories.

—o—

Frederick Bennett is writing "The Radium Mystery," a thirty-six reel serial drama, for the Pacific Producing Company. He has just finished a series of eight original comedies for Lyons and Moran at Universal, a six-reel drama, "The Tyrant's Master," for the Oakley Super-Quality Films Production, and is well known as the author of "The Lost Express," Helen Holmes' last serial.

HENRY SCENARIOS

The Model Comedy Company in Hollywood has issued a request to scenario writers for stories featuring Gale Henry. Up to date the company has produced thirteen two-reel comedies and all the stories for those have been written by Miss Henry herself. It is the desire of the company to eliminate this task from the comedienne's numerous duties and if stories suitably adapted to Miss Henry's screen work are submitted, cash will be forwarded immediately to the writer. It is strongly pointed out that the stories must contain situations for boob characters only and the "gags" must be original and unusually clever. No slap stick will be considered. Stories should be sent direct to the company's studio.

In response to numerous inquiries received at the Henry Lehrman Studios in Culver City, Mr. Lehrman announces that no stories are desired from outside contributors, as the producer himself originates all the stories for Henry Lehrman comedies.

OLIN PATENT

After experiments extending over the past two years, Earle Olin, technical director at the Henry Lehrman Studios in Culver City, has just applied for patents covering a device which will result in the saving of thousands of dollars annually by producers of motion pictures.

One of the great items of waste in studio technical departments is involved in the damage which is done to "flats" and scenery by the constant nailing of stage braces, which are attached to the flats only to be torn off again within a few days. This necessitates constant replacing of wooden strips, and proves a considerable item of expense. Mr. Olin's device entirely eliminates nailing, and consists of two jaws which are actuated by a tapered steel pin, and tightly bind two sections of scenery together. A slot in the clamp receives the end of the brace, the other end of which is nailed to the stage floor. A single tap of a hammer effectively locks the clamp, while another tap on the other end is all that is necessary to release it.

Bill Duncan and his Vitagraph Serial company are still monopolizing the scenery around Huntington Lake. The weekly, or maybe it is a daily paper of that vicinity, chronicled Bill Duncan's stay as follows: "Bill Duncan has brought his company to Huntington Lake, compromising forty people." Of course it was the type-setter whom the editor blamed for the mistake, and displayed the original copy which read: "Comprising forty people."

MISS GIBSONE, "SKY PILOT"

Miss M. E. M. Gibsone, who has returned from a five weeks' stay in Vancouver, and Victoria, British Columbia, is qualified to take out an avaitrix license. While in Canada, Miss Gibsone, who had taken Priscilla Dean up as a guest of the Aerial Club of Canada, had the opportunity to learn to fly. She took advantage of it, with the result that before leaving, she had taken a plane up alone several times. She will take out her flying license in Los Angeles. Miss Gibsone is again busy in the interest of herself and the Mabel Condon Exchange.

WITH TOM MOORE

Gloria Hope is Tom Moore's newest leading woman. Naomi Childers, Hazel Daly, Kate Lester, Sydney Ainsworth, P. M. McCullough and Arthur Housman complete the cast of principals.

WITH KEWPPIE COMEDIES

Capt. H. L. Murphy, late of the 345th Regiment, has joined the Kewpy Komedies and is in charge of the studio office.

FORST MOVES

Elmer Forst has left his bungalow at Santa Monica for a Los Angeles residence, where he can keep in closer touch with the studios.

REIDY AT LONG BEACH

John Reidy has just finished the juvenile lead in the first of a series of two-reel comedies being produced by the Golden Days Picture Plays corporation at Long Beach. Reidy will do at least ve pictures with these people, which will keep him arising in the early dawn for some time, as he lives in Los Angeles and must report at the beach studio by 8 o'clock each morning.

WITH FARRAR

Jake Abram is working with Geraldine Farrar under Reginald Barker's direction at Goldwyn's.

The name Nazimova is pronounced na-zi'mo-va—a's as in artistic, i as in police, o as in obey.—The Literary Digest.

BOWERS SIGNS

John Bowers, leading man in Goldwyn Pictures, signed another year's contract on July 17, to remain with Goldwyn until November 20, 1920. His latest release is "Through the Wrong Door" with Madge Kennedy.

The picture he starts at present is with Pauline Frederick, under the direction of Frank Lloyd. This is his first experience with Miss Frederick and Mr. Lloyd.

Cullen Landis, who plays opposite Mabel Normand in her Goldwyn picture, was born in Nashville, Tenn. He used to be an usher in a theater, then a newspaper man before coming to California to be tried out before the camera. But first he worked in practically every department of a motion picture studio before finally acting. He was property man, assistant camera man—even a chauffeur. But when his chance came he could act. Now he is a Goldwyn player under contract for five years and will be given every opportunity to become a still finer artist.

BRENTWOOD SPECIAL

Brentwood is starting the filming of its fourth production under the direction of King W. Vidor. The cast is understood to include Florence Vidor, ZaSu Pitts, Charles Meredith and David Butler with others not yet decided upon.

BARBER SHOOTING

Geraldine Farrar's second Goldwyn Picture this season is now well under way with Reginald Barker directing her husband, Lou Tellegen.

METRO NOTES
By Ted Taylor

Mme. Alla Nazimova began work at her home in Laurel Canyon on a picturization by Charles Bryant of I. A. R. Wylie's novel, "The Native Doctor of Gaya."

M. P. Staulcup, former display manager and designer in exclusive New York smart shops, designs fashion settings for "Lombardi, Ltd."

"Fair and Warmer" is one photoplay written without a single exterior setting. The entire action occurs on two floors of an apartment house.

Amos Myers, technical director for Daniel Frohman at one time, is engaged as technician for "Please Get Married."

Antrim Short, 21, Viola Dana's leading man in "Please Get Married," started in pictures when eight years old and played with Mary Pickford in two productions.

SOME LIGHT FACTS

According to figures sent the Metro Pictures Corporation by the Cooper Hewitt people, the Los Angeles studio has more mercury vapor lights than any other studio in the world The banks in operation in the Metro dark stages total 165.

An Eastern studio, now under construction, will beat this record by a few banks, it is stated.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

ENGEL ON WAY EAST

Joseph W. Engel, treasurer of Metro Pictures Corporation, left this morning for New York, where he will greet Richard A. Rowland, president of the corporation, on his return from Europe, and also attend to important business matters. Mr. Engel will be absent for about six weeks.

NAZIMOVA SHOWING

The first complete showing of "The Brat," Nazimova's new picture, to be released by Metro Pictures Corporation in September, was given at midnight at the Iris Theatre in Hollywood.

Those who attended the surprise preview were Mme. Nazimova, Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Karger, Charles Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Blache, June Mathis, Al. E. Kelley, John Ince and others from the Metro studio.

PROMOTION FOR HARRIS

Ray C. Smallwood, recently appointed by Maxwell Karger as a Metro director, has announced his choice of Sherry Harris as assistant. Sherry Harris has served with Metro for some time as assistant to Cameraman Rudolph Bergquist.

John K. Holden, formerly an electrical engineer for the Edison company, is now the technical director for May Allison's "Fair and Warmer."

Races marked the finale of the Metro program system. Hale Hamilton, star of "The Four Flusher," made the sport interesting with his pari mutual machine.

John Ince, the Metro director, received his first start in pictures by a blow over the head with the butt of a rifle. It all took place in a studio-staged fight.

Bert Lytell, Joseph Kilgour and John Ince, all former Alcazar leads, held a get-together meeting at the Metro studio this week.

Dann C. Eyck and Don Keyes are recent acquisitions of the news department. Mr. Dann Eyck, who recently wrote a series of articles on motion pictures for the Louisville (Ky.) Courier, and is on the staff of the University of Pennsylvania publication, Red and Blue, will write studio publicity. Don Keyes was an instructor in the United States Army School of Aerial Photography at Rochester N. Y., having charge of 250 men during the war. He is news and publicity photographer.

COLORADO COMPANY

Mr. Otis B. Thayer, director of the Art-O-Graf Film Company of Denver, has just finished a seven-reel feature, "The Wolves in Wall Street," with Edmund Cobb as leading man and is now at Steamboat Springs with the company filming another big western feature, "The Last of the Open Range," which will be finished in about four weeks.

The Art-O-Graf Film Company is specializing in western features, with the mountain scenery of Colorado as exterior settings and will start another western feature immediately after completion of the "The Last of the Open Range." The Arrow Film Corporation, Candler Building, New York City, will be the selling agent of these features.

DORETY FINISHED

The third Bull's Eye comedy, featuring Charlie Dorety, has just been completed. The comedy was directed by Charles Parrott. Dorety is being supported in all his late comedies by Sid Smith and James Parrott.

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

NEAR COMPLETION

"The White Rook," by J. B. Harris-Burland, is nearing completion in New York at the Famous Players studio, where Dorothy Dalton is working.

RAY STORY

Charles Ray has completed a Julien Josephson story, under the working title of "A Man's Money, and this week will begin work on a story written by Agnes Johnston, who recently joined the Thomas H. Ince staff.

CODY COMPANY

The Lew Cody films are to be five and six-reel features, to be independently released.

The first film will be "The Pleasant Devil," originally written by Stephen Fox, Jr., and translated into screen form by Cody and Gasnier in collaboration. The camera work is in charge of Joseph DuBray, former head of the Pathe cinematographic corps.

Frank Ormston is art director. Denver Harmon, Fannie Ward's lighting expert, is the electrical chief for Lew Cody Productions and A. C. Sprague is the technical director.

FISHER FILM

Director George L. Cox is working with a big cast on the current Margarita Fisher production, "The Rose of Hell," an original story by Lois Zellner. Continuity for the production was prepared by Dorothy Yost.

ONE PRODUCER SPEAKS

Samuel Goldwyn arrived in Los Angeles Monday.

"There has been considerable talk in the East," said Mr. Goldwyn, "to the effect that the bulk of production would eventually center in New York, one prophet going so far as to say that within the next five years probably 80 per cent of the pictures would be made in the East."

"The basis of their argument," he went on to say, "is that the increased use of artificial light in the making of pictures in California is causing the need of dependable sunlight less and less important. According to the same writer, the economic waste made necessary by the separation of the manufacturing and executive departments of the film business, with the studios 3,000 miles from both their market and their principal source of supply, gives additional foundation to this prediction.

"Personally I do not consider this argument convincing. Los Angeles will always be the motion picture capital of the country. It holds immeasurable advantages over any ot.
tion, not only in the matter of d. .id-able climate, but also in the enormous variety of locations offered here. When Eastern locale is essential that is a matter that can be taken care of.

"The Goldwyn Pictures Corporation has recently shown its faith in the advantages of California production by investing a large amount of money in one of the largest producing centers in the world. I refer to the studios at Culver City. All our important productions are now being made at that point and we have no intention of deserting it. Our action in this case speaks louder than any words I might add."

BUSY TEAM

Montgomery and Rock under the direction of Gilbert Pratt, are finishing their burlesque of artist colony life and are busy whipping their next vehicle into shape.

IN THE THICK OF IT

Jimy Aubrey, under Noel Smith's direction, started work this week on the new big "city street" set especially erected for them on the southern portion of the studio grounds.

Will Rogers begins his new picture this week with Clarence Badger directing.

NEW VIDOR FILM

Work has been started by King W. Vidor on Brentwood's picture number four to which no title has yet been given. Contrasts of life in the large and the small American town will be offered and the leading parts will be taken by Florence Vidor supported by Charles Meredith, and by ZaSu Pitts whose support has not yet been announced.

"ALL OF A SUDDEN PEGGY"

On the completion of her present Paramount-Artcraft picture, "A Girl Named Mary," under the direction of Walter Edwards, Marguerite Clark, the Famous Players-Lasky star., will start work on "All of a Sudden Peggy," and when this is completed will leave for New York to resume production in the eastern studios of the organization. The exact date of her departure has not been announced.

LEE FINISHED

Lila Lee has just finished her Paramount picture, "Hart of Youth," under Robert G. Vignola's direction, the final scenes having been shot in Big Bear Valley. Miss Lee will shortly start east with her guardian, Mrs. Gus Edwards, for a visit with her relatives and friends prior to resuming work, and her next appearance before the camera will be in a Cecil B. de Mille production, as yet unnamed.

CLAYTON STARTING

Robert G. Vignola is preparing to start work at the Morosco studio with Ethel Clayton in a new production for Paramount-Artcraft, the name of which is not yet announced. This will be Miss Clayton's first production under the new selective booking plan.

BROCKWELL FINISHED

In record time Frank R. Beal, directing Miss Gladys Brockwell in "Thieves" at the William Fox studios in Hollywood, Cal., has finished his picture. He began July 15, and he shot his last scene Tuesday, August 5, just nineteen days later.

Major Robert Warwick is at Kernville with his company under the direction of James Cruz. He is expected back in a short time.

INTERESTING UNIVERSAL NOTES

From Ham Beall

Three six-reel feature photodramas were put into production this week at Universal City.

Elmo Lincoln, the star of "Tarzan of the Apes," and the serial "Elmo the Mighty," has commenced work under Director Rex Ingram on "The Beach Comber" from the story by J. G. Hawks.

Mabel Ballin, seen as the feminine lead in "The White Heather," the most recent Maurice Tourneur production, will play opposite Lincoln.

Others in the cast are Harry van Meter, Ethlyn Irving, Dick La Reno and Frank Brownlee.

Frank Mayo, who recently completed "A Little Brother of the Rich" and "The Brute Breaker" under Lynn Reynold's direction, has started on "Lasca," a screen adaption of the well known poem of the Rio Grande.

Norman Dawn is directing the feature, and Edith Roberts is playing opposite Mayo.

The supporting cast includes Arthur Jasmine, Lloyd Whitlock and Viola Harry.

"Betty Reforms" is the title of a story by Mildred Considine which William C. Dowlan has started producing with Ora Carew, Forrest Stanley and Charles Clary as the trimvirate of stars.

A notable cast has been assembled to support Mrs. Hayakawa. It includes Stanhope Wheatcroft, Pat O'Malley, Arthur Carewe, Ethel Shannon, Barney Sherry, Marion Skinner, N. Seki, Mae Wells and Wedgood Nowell.

"Ambition" will show Dorothy Phillips as a small town girl with ambitions to become a great opera singer. She is to be surrounded with the same type of supporting players as were seen with her in "The Heart of Humanity" and "The Right to Happiness."

In another week Monroe Salisbury will have completed "The Divorced Wife," which Douglas Gerrard is directing.

Alice Elliot, who has supported Salisbury in two of his earlier productions, is again his feminine opposite.

Early next week Mary MacLaren will start work on "Myselt, Becky," from the story of W. Carey Wonderly, prolific novelette writer for "Smart Set" and other publications.

Tod Browning, who just completed "Bonnie, Bonnie Lassie" with the Scotch lassie, will again handle the directorial megaphone.

Harry Carey, Universal's western star, is enjoying a brief summer vacation on his ranch in Southern California, while Jack Ford, his director, is seeking a new outdoor melodrama.

Director Jacques Jaccard is taking the finishing scenes for "The Winged Trail," the first big melodrama of the skies, in which Lieutenant O. L. Locklear is starred.

The lieutenant has returned to Chicago for eastern flying engagements and Jaccard is now shooting the sequences in which the aviator does not appear.

George Holt is making "Tempest Cody's Expose," starring Marie Walcamp, in which she has a new leading man, namely Frank Braidwood.

After finishing "The Crow" with "Hoot" Gibson and Mildred Moore, Reeves Eason has started on the filming of "Shameless Saunderson" with the same pair of players.

Robert Wells has returned to Universal City to take the final interiors for "Winning a Bride" and "The Ranger of Pike's Peak," two productions for which the exterior locations were shot at Cheyenne, Wyoming, and Colorado Springs, respectively. Fritzie Ridgway is the star of these two short features.

Florence Turner has started on a new comedy, "The $10,000 Threat," in which she interprets several characters, emulating Henri de Vries, the vaudevillian.

"The Pedlar" by Henry C. Rowland has been selected as Monroe Salisbury's next starring vehicle. Douglas Gerrard will again direct.

"MOVIE STORIES AND THE $ MARK"

By F. ELY PAGET

When one of the tribe of successful writers of ephemeral fiction lacks inspiration for his weekly pot-boiler in the "More than two million weekly" journal, he forthwith taps the never-failing stream flowing from the movies.

From his lofty altitude as the idol of the aforesaid "two million" he taunts us poor movie scribes thusly:

"If you people will pay us real money, we will show you what real movie stories ought to be."

The only answer we can make is: "As soon as you learn what actually constitutes a screen story, we will be most happy to do so."

This sounds rather like "tu quoque," but it is the only way in which we can present our side of the argument.

One writer, perhaps the most prominent in this class, and who enjoys the distinction of having had at least two of his stories filmed, complains of the lack of drama in the average story filmed, and thereby at once betrays his utter lack of comprehension of the primary requisites of the photo-play.

Drama, as we understand it in the theatrical sense, is no more an essential of the photo-play than of the short story or novel.

The latter are stories in words; the photo-play is a story in action. The only difference between them is the medium of expression. Plot is, of course, as vital to one as to the other, but plot is not necessarily drama.

A perfect screen story is one which will allow of a sufficiency of pertinent and perfectly intelligible action to be used in the elucidation of the plot.

If we have to have recourse to extraneous action and divergent interest, our story fails to measure up to standard.

In the course of my duties as a studio worker it has been my sad lot to read and summarize scores of magazine stories, and I must state that the stories that meet the requirements are few and far between; and even when they so do, either the theme is trivial or the subject is one that has been done so frequently in the movies that it has become hackneyed. Stripped of superfluous verbiage, with dialogue and description eliminated, there remains of the average story a pitiful remnant of plot which, with the attendant action, will barely suffice for a couple of reels of film.

These same writers are also prone to complain that their stories are ruthlessly mangled in transference to the screen. They would have a juster cause of complaint were their stories filmed as written.

Their remedy lies plain to their hand. Let them learn so to construct and present their stories that there will not be any need for the continuity writer to inject any of his own ideas to cover their deficiencies. He does not do this of his own volition; it is forced on him by the lack of pertinent action and paucity of plot in the original. As almost none of these smart magazine stories hold a sufficiency of plot and action, it devolves on the luckless continuity writer to supply it. It is hardly fair to blame him, he is doing his best according to his lights, and you can't make bricks without straw, nor a silk purse out of a sow's ear.

As far as the monetary side is concerned, I believe that the sums paid for screen rights (which anyway are second hand) are in a very fair ratio to those paid for original publication. The argument that they produce more on the screen than in a magazine is puerile; the cost of production is relatively much greater than that of publication, and the risk is greater, too.

If the writer can make these vast sums for a story of a few thousand words, which are chiefly expended on flippant dialogue, florid descriptions and exaggerated characterizations, he had far better stick to his last, as this stock in trade will not take him very far in the movies.

MOTION PICTURE PATENTS

Attachments for Moving Picture Machines. Basil G. Downer, South Bend, Ind. Filed October 3, 1917. Serial No. 194,445. One claim.

The combination with a film box formed with a light-admitting opening and cooling plates secured thereto, of a shutter formed with slots to slidably engage the cooling-plate connecting means, a lever pivoted on the box and having one end adapted to be moved to and from a position beneath the lower edge of the shutter, an arm pivotally mounted in the box with one end formed for rolling contact with the film, the opposite end of the arm being adapted to engage and operate the lever upon breakage to the film.

Method of producing Moving Pictures. Lura S. Brainerd, Meriden, Conn. Filed June 9, 1915. Serial No. 33,102. Three claims.

1. The process of producing a film for moving pictures that consists in arranging a stage in front of a screen, placing a projecting apparatus and camera, introducing objects onto said stage in front of the screen while the camera is in operation, and without stopping the operation of the camera, changing the condition of the projecting apparatus.

Stereoscopic Motion Picture Camera. Howard L. Quick, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed January 29, 1916. Serial No. 74,988. Four claims.

1. In a device of the class described, the combination of a camera for taking successive pictures of objects in motion, and means for recording the subject on a sensitized medium or film and including a lens through which all the exposures are made and means for alternately opening different portions of the lens whereby alternate exposures will record the subject stereoscopically and with all the exposures in substantial alinement lengthwise of the sensitized medium.

Finder for Moving Picture Cameras. Carl E. Akeley, New York, N. Y., assignor to Akeley Camera Inc., New York, N. Y. Filed July 23, 1918. Serial No. 246,280. Five claims.

1. The combination with a motion picture camera movable in aertical plane about a fixed point of support of a finder tube composed of two sections, one stationary and the other movable with the camera, and means therein for deflecting the light rays from and through the finder lens at angles varying with the vertical displacement of the two sections relatively to each other and axially through the stationary section.

"Better Times," the second Brentwood production which followed "The Turn in the Road," has been on at the Symphony Theatre for two weeks and is now announced as held over for the third week. The spirit of sensible optimism which runs through this story is particularly opportune during a period such as the present when the entire Pacific Coast is celebrating the success of its efforts of years to secure the permanent location of one-half of the great American fleet at our Western ports.

COLLISION

Dorr Stuart, the three-year-old son of A. H. Stuart, assistant director of the Kewpy Komedies and theatrical reporter of Camera!, sustained a broken collar-bone and was otherwise jazzed up when their auto collided with a P. E. car at Venice last Sunday, and the car was demolished. The occupants were Chas. Strohmeier at the wheel, A. H. and Mrs. Stuart and child, and H. H. Stephens, all of whom were hurt with the exception of A. H. S. Therefore the program will come out as usual.

AMERICAN FILM NOTES

Director Burton George arrived in Santa Barbara from New York last week and is now busy with the production of a special feature for the American Film Company, with Charlotte Walker in the leading role.

Eugene Lowry, who has been assisting Marshall Neilan on the Anita Stewart picture, is now assistant to Director Burton George on the American lot in Santa Barbara.

John Thompson, who has been overseas as a staff photographer in the Signal Corps for many months, has received his discharge from the service and is visiting his brother, A. L. Thompson, studio manager of the American Film Company, in Santa Barbara.

A. G. Heimerl, head of the photographic department of the American studios, captured two first prizes in the Santa Barbara dog show with his cocker spaniel, "Gale," and also won second best dog in the show, first place being taken by Mayor Rolph's spaniel from San Francisco.

C. H. Christie and his bull terrier, "White Heather," were in evidence at the Santa Barbara dog show last week and carried off a blue-ribbon souvenir. While in Santa Barbara Mr. Christie visited the American studios and was the dinner guest of General Manager R. R. Nehls at the Arlington.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

CATALINA TRIP

Miss Leota Lorraine and her mother leave this week for Catalina Island, where they will enjoy a quiet two weeks' vacation.

BILLIARD PARTY

Miss Louise Glaum entertained several friends at dinner in her new home last Monday. In place of the usual after-dinner dancing or music the guests played billiards. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Allen, Mr. Jack Reid and Miss Virginia Rapae.

DONOVANS ENTERTAIN

Thursday night Jack Donovan and his mother gave a smart little affaīr at their new studio home on Sunset Boulevard. During the evening the guests danced in the open brick court, by lantern-light. At midnight a barbecue lunch was served. Mrs. Donovan, who is a talented harpist, entertained with several numbers.

Those present were Sophie Bernard, Lou Anger, Ex-Governor Gage of California, Senator and Mrs. Clark of Illinois, Miss Agnes Considine, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Emden, Robert S. Nathan Jr., Miss Peggy Guggenheim, Miss Irene Clark and Mr. Albert Clark.

COMMANDER GUEST

Lieutenant Commander Boyer, of the U. S. S. Texas, will be the guest of Wallace MacDonald at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, during the stay of the fleet in the Los Angeles Harbor. The Lieutenant is an old New York friend of Mr. MacDonald.

VISITING GISHES

The Gish sisters have as a house guests this week their aunt from Ohio, Mrs. Frank Cleaver and her daughter, Emily.

NAYLOR-SHELLY MARRIAGE

Hazel Simpson Naylor became the bride of Tully Shelley, lieutenant in the U. S. Army, in New York City, on Saturday, July 12, 1919. The Shelleys will live in Los Angeles, being at home to their friends, at 672 S Rampart boulevard, after August 15th.

BROWNING DINNER

Last Monday Mrs. Tod Browning entertained a group of friends with dinner and an evening at cards.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Guy Price, Mr. Hector Sarnow, Mr. and Mrs. David Butler and Mr. and Mrs. Tod Browning.

LUNCHEON

At her home, Saturday afternoon, Mrs. David Butler gave a luncheon for a few of her friends. Among the guests were Mrs. Lloyd Ingram, Mrs. Ethel Shayer, Mrs. Henry King, Mrs. Tod Browning and Mrs. J. Wesley Smith.

SWIMMING PARTY

Swimming parties appear to be gaining in popularity of late. One of the most recent was given last Saturday afternoon at the Nat Goodwin Pier. Mrs. Gladys Rhodes was the hostess, and as her guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glen. The others present were Mr. and Mrs George Woods, Mr. Walter Wherle and Mr. C. D. Brown, Mrs. Rhodes' father.

After the ocean dip the party motored to the Rhodes' home in Hollywood, where dinner was served.

CHUM VISITING

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Best have as their house guest this week Mr. Best's old chum, Mr. N. R. Maguire, of the Summertown Cotton Company of Texas. Mr. Maguire will probably remain until the fifteenth of this month.

Friday evening the Bests gave a musical in honor of their friend. Among the guests were Mrs. Francis Brumbaugh, Mrs. Irma Hosier, Miss Phyllis Ephlin and Mrs. George Knox of Palmersville, Georgia.

GREET FLEET

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clifton with Mr. George Hill were at Hermosa Beach over Saturday and Sunday to watch the fleet come in.

STUDIO CLUB NOTES

Miss Marjorie Daw was the guest of honor at the Studio Club Dance last Friday night. All the regular club girls were present. Among the guests were Mabel Condon, Margaret Ettinger, Edith Roberts, ZaZu Pitts, Mr. E. A. Barrymore of the Dramatic Mirror, Charles Meredith, Mr. L. Blown, Charles Condon, Wallace Mac Donald, Truman Handy, Neal Burns, Anthony Tausky, Ted Taylor and Mr. E. Southern.

Marjorie Daw has left for Phoenix, Arizona to visit an aunt for two or three weeks.

Miss Nell Newman and Miss Edna Harris returned Wednesday from Monterey, where they have had a short vacation.

Miss Sarah Harris and Miss Mary Cutter, of Evanstown, Illinois, were guests of the club Thursday afternoon.

The Studio Club girls will be entertained by Renie Beaman at her Laurel Canyon home Monday evening.

The guests invited include Margaret Ettinger, Violet Clarke, Sarah Mason, Adelaide Johnston, Dorothy Thomas, June Rush, Julanne Johnston, Gladys Crawley, Magda Lane, Alice Mitchell and Nell Newman.

The party will be chaperoned by Miss Johnston and Miss Edna Harris.

HOLT HOME

Mrs. Jack Holt is moving into her new home at 1632 Laurel avenue, this week.

WALLACE MACDONALD

By Mildred Davis

And now we come to a canny Scotchman. One Wallace MacDonald, who in his short life has played many roles, although his motion picture career did not begin until five years ago.

Wallace rose from the extra ranks to play as leading man for Mabel Normand, Pauline Frederick, Madge Kennedy, Mary Miles Minter, Olive Thomas, Bessie Love, Mae Marsh and Marguerite Clark.

This has never been written of before but five years ago Walace MacDonald was half owner and exhibitor of three suburban theatres in Los Angeles, the original "Mission" at 42nd Place and Moneta, another, then called "Lucia" at 26th and Main, and the "Hippodrome" (an airdome) on Washington, between Burlington and Hoover.

Practically seeing all pictures then produced, and being youthful and unmarried with no ties, it was only natural that a desire to "be up there on the screen" as he expresses it, should have been born, so, burning all bridges behind him, he sold out his interests and with the aid of Lloyd Ingraham, director, and "Bob" Leonard who was then starring for Universal, he played a small bit of a French Barber in the latter's picture. "The Boob Incognito." Never since has Wallace been so thrilled as the first time he saw his name on the cast of this picture, and, being mentioned last, he almost missed reading it as it was.

However, the Universal refused to put him in stock immediately (great expectations) so he refused to hang around any longer, took the street car back to town and incidently got off at Edendale and inquired of Mack Sennett the best way to get down to the Ince Dramatic Studio at Inceville, Santa Monica. Wallace has not yet managed to work for Mr. Ince, Mack Sennett engaged him on the spot as Juvenile lead for his fun factory and for seven months he was foil and leading man for the early Normand, Chaplin and Arbuckle pictures.

Then, with two others, he started his own company, the Navajo, but being premature, it failed, and, broke, Wallace joined the American at Santa Barbara where as assistant director, juvenile lead and writer he won success and remained over a year and a half, graduating to New York and the Famous Players opposite Marie Doro and Pauline Frederick, then a New York stage production, some O. Henry stories for Vitagrapn which resulted in his being later costarred by them, then H. O. Davis of Triangle brought him to Culver City where after five pictures (as star and co-star) he left and returned to Halifax, Nova Scotia and enlisted in the Canadian Artillery, only to return to Culver City at the close of the war and do two pictures for Goldwyn, one with Mae Marsh and what he claims is his best effort is one with Madge Kennedy which has not yet been shown here, then two pictures with Bessie Love, again with Vitagraph, and this week he has just completed "A Girl Named Mary" for the Famous Players opposite Marguerite Clark.

We call Wallace "canny", but he is not without a very keen sense of humor and perhaps his Scotch ancestors are responsible for the reserve he has with strangers. He has ability to write, and displays a very commendable perseverance in face of the fact, which he admits, that he still retains most of the stories he has written. One of his ambitions is to write a successful New York play.

Though Wallace has had stage experience he likes pictures far more than the legitimate. He aspires to be a director some day, but in the meantime he looks forward with pleasure to many good dramatic parts, hoping that one of these parts will be opposite Mary Pickford.

"I prefer to do straight, serious, real man characters, not the 'sweet' little dress-suit fellows," he informs us. "Crook parts, too, they give a chance for acting."

Wallace was born twenty-seven years ago in Mulgrave, Nova Scotia. One of his desires is to be happily married "someday" but he says that he is still too young. It is difficult to say whether his accentuation of the latter fact is due to discretion, timidity, or the fact that he would hate to move from the Los Angeles Athletic Club, where he now lives.

MITCHELL HOLLYWOOD STUDIO NOTES

Jimmy Mitchell, who is managing the dances at his studio, is getting a backing from the picture people that will be hard to beat. His plan to make his studio the rendezvous of the film folk at his informal dancing parties is certainly filling a long-felt want of Hollywood, and that the studios are in full accord with the plan is shown by the success of the first dances of the Photoplay Series.

Among the many who are working with Mr. Mitchell toward the success of the inter-studio gatherings are Allen Risley of the Model Comedy Company, Granaman of the Bull's Eye Corporation, Troop of the Brentwood Studio, Charlie King of Universal and many others too numerous to mention.

Some of the film folk who have been attending the Picture Dance parties at the Studio, and can be now numbered among its boosters are Allen Risley, Nat Spitzer, Jay Mulhauser, Charles Parrott, Stanley Blystone, George Larson, Clarence Morehouse, Thomas Caswell, Charlie Dorety, Sid Smith, James Parrott, Beatrice Lovejoy, Esther Jackson, Matie Connoly, Dollie Stoddard, Evelyn Nelson, Betty Saunders, Margaret Villmore, Edith Roberts, Neal Burns, Charlie King, Dave Morris, Virginia Lee Corbin, Gale Henry, Bruno Becker, Milburn Moranti, Eddie Baker, Hap Ward, Henry East, Lee Garmes, Dick Currier, Margaret Campbell, C. B. Currier, Christine Mayo, Neal Burns, Fred Burnsworth, Edna Harris, ZaSu Pitts, Antram Short, Beulah Booker, Herber Brown, Gene Connley, Bertah Mitchell, Yvette Mitchell, Marion Draeseke, Elmer Ellsworth, Chase Herendeen, J. H. Lyones, Mrs. Christian Lynton, Betty Peterson, Jane Plaskett, Artie Roberts, Leanore Tuller and Mr. Wheatcroft.

On Tuesday, the fifth, the dance was held in honor of the Bull's Eye Corporation, and every member of the Bull's Eye Comedy Company was present, including all the members of the eBautiful Bull's Eye Follies. They had such a wonderful time that the entire company elected to attend the next dance in a body, thus augmenting the Gale Henry Comedy Company Dance a great deal. The Gaye Henry Dance on the eighth brought out a large attendance, and as each affair is to be held in honor of some company or star the parties are sure to grow in popularity.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter expect to desert their beach bungalow for a Hollywood residence this week. They have their long expected Locomobile now, and will soon own a home of their own.

PRIZE DOGS

AT YOSEMITE

The Misses Billie Mack and Mabel Potter, who are sojourning in the Yosemite Valley where they have been for the past month, write that they have experienced many exciting adventures and thrills, and only regret that a "Camera" was not available to catch the wonderful forest fire which at one time nearly surrounded their cabin. They encountered one rattle-snake which was promptly killed and a bob-cat gave them the thrill of their lives when it got into their cabin and attacked the house cat one night while the family was sleeping. They have enjoyed the fishing, swimming, and expect to start home in about a week ready to take up work with plenty of pep and ginger.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

MIX LOCATION

Tom Mix's company of more than fifty persons with fifty head of horses left Wedensday for Ponca City, Oklahoma, to join Mr. Mix and Sol. M. Wurtzel, general superintendent of the William Fox studios in Hollywood, Cal., where the cowpuncher star is to make one of his productions.

The company was led by Edward J. LeSaint, who will direct the picture, Mrs. LeSaint and Mrs. Mix accompanied the party. There were also of course, Pat Chirsman and Sid Jordan, the famous cowpunchers. Miss Eva Novak, who wil play opposite Mr. Mix in the picture, went along with many costumes of frontier days.

WILLIAMS IN JAIL

For the final scenes in "The Black Gate," the Los Angeles County Jail was taken possession of this week by the Earle Williams Company.

WITH WASHBURN

Lois Wilson is going to make another picture with Bryant Washburn.

DANCER SIGNS

Theodore Kosloff, the Russian dancer, has signed with Famous Players-Lasky for five months.

FARNUM NOTES

Ruth Saville, late ingenue of the Fulton Stock Co., Oakland, and formerly with the Essanay people, has returned to pictures.

Billy Bray has quit cabaret-ing and returned to the studios.

J. Jackson Dunn, the Irish actor, has just arrived from Dublin, with the intention of going into pictures.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION NOTES

At the last regular meeting of the Actors' Association of Los Angeles, these additional directors were chosen: Sidney de Grey, Thos. Jefferson, Lule Warrenton, Dick L'Estrange, W. J. Dyer, Edward McWade and Howard Davies.

RUSSIAN

Elinor Fair has the part of a young Russian Translator in the current Al Ray-Elinor Fair Fox feature.

AT HAMPTON

Robert McKim is to direct for the Great Authors' Company, presided over by Jesse D. Hampton.

FINIS

Earle Williams has paid over a check to Roma Raymond and business may now go on as usual. Williams had announced his intention of appealing his breach of promise case, but the attorneys got together and a "secret" sum was paid the lady, so Williams is able to concentrate his attention on his work once more.

WITH GLAUM

Bertram Grassby is still with Louise Glaum at the Ince studio.

INGRAHAM FINISHING

Director Lloyd Ingraham has just finished his picture with Peggy May.

LLOYD LEAVING

Frank Lloyd is completing the production of "Letty" with Pauline Fredericks at the Goldwyn studio. Mr. Lloyd leaves Monday for Bellingham, Washington, where he wil start production of "The Silver Horde," which will be the first super-feature for the Eminent Authors under the Goldwyn management.

LUSTIG ON TOUR

Harry Lustig, west coast representative of Metro Pictures Corporation, left his offices in Los Angeles today for a tour of the Pacific Coast exchanges. He will be gone five weeks.

NEW TECHNICAL MAN

William R. Wertz, formerly with Thomas H. Ince, is now with Bulls-Eye comedies technical force. Wertz is a former member of the 8th U. S. cavalry.

TODD AT BRUNTON

Cameraman Arthur Todd has been engaged by Director Ernest C. Warde of J. Warren Kerrigan's company. Mr. Todd replaces Charles Kauffman, former Brunton staff photographer, who is now with another studio.

Luther E. Reed of the Thomas H. Ince scenario staff, has been in San Francisco for the past two weeks, attending final rehearsals and the initial presentation of a stage production from his pen.

NEW CONTRACT

Gladys George, who has just completed a picture supporting Charles Ray, has been placed under contract b yThomas H. Ince.

WITH KERRIGAN

Wedgewood Nowell, leading man, has been engaged by the J. Warren Kerrigan company for that star's latest production at the Brunton studios.

BURNS-BARRY

Neal Burns and Eddie Barry, so often seen together in the earlier Christie Comedies, are again appearing together on the Christie lot in "He Married His Wife," the latest Christie Special in two reels featuring Edith Roberts.

E. GAUDIO WITH B. B.

Eugene Gaudio, who has turned the crank on many of Nazimova's successes, has left Metro, and is now in charge of all camera and laboratory work for Bessie Barriscale productions, at the Brunton Studios.

BELASCO LEAVES CHRISTIE

Jay Besalsco has just finished a long term contract with Christie.

WITH MARY

Betty Bouton, who had a part in Mary Pickford's "Daddy Long Legs," is being cast in Mary's third special production for the First National Exhibitors Circuit.

MITCHELL LEWIS-ING

Joseph Swickard has been cast in an important role in the current Mitchell Lewis production, "The Last of His People." The company will go on location at Big Bear when they return from Oregon.

BUSY GIRL

On Wednesday of this week Helen Jerome Eddy finished with Sessue Hayakawa in a film version of "The Dragon's Daughter." In this picture Miss Eddy will play a Chinese woman—her first opportunity in a Chinese character, though she has always wanted to do one. After "The Dragon's Daughter" is completed, Miss Eddy will play two Italian character parts in two new photoplays with George Beban.

LOUIS' CUE

Williard Louis, playing a prominent part in the new Pauline Frederick production at the Goldwyn studios, won a billiard championship at the Los Angeles Athletic Club this week, making his total of silver and gold cups nine. Williard is a wizard with the cue, and has met some of the best players in the land.

McCARTHY SUBTITLING

Henry McCarthy is subtitling the initial offering of the McCarthy Picture Productions company.

BULLS-EYE PICKUPS

Charlie Amador, formerly identified with Larry Semon of Vitagraph, is now with the Bulls-Eye comedies.

Sid Smith appears as the dancing master in the newest Bulls-Eye comedy, "A Scented Romance."

DARLING WITH ALKERINE

Arthur Darling is now wielding the megaphone for Marshall Mackaye.

SANTSCHI WITH GEORGE

Tom Santschi is having the time of his life at Santa Barbara, where he is playing an important character role at the American studios under the direction of Burton George.

Melbourne MacDowell arrived on the American lot in Santa Barbara this week.

LOVE'S LEAD

Chas. Spere, formerly juvenile in silent drama, has been engaged by the Vitagraph company to play the leading role opposite Bessie Love.

He will be remembered for his work under the direction of Tom Ince opposite Enid Bennett and with Earle Williams in "The Man Who Wouldn't Tell."

Mr. Spere also appeared in "The Solitary Sin," "What Every Mother Knows" and "A Bachelor's Wife."

S. E. Schlager has been appointed Mr. Cody's personal press representative and publicity director of the Astra enterprises.

BEAUDET WITH GALE HENRY

Maree Beaudet, who played Nazimova's double in "The Red Lantern," is cast as a dancer in Gale Henry's latest comedy, the working title of which is "Dizzy Lizzie."

FARNUM NOTES

S. Byrd Wheeler, late of the Maytime company, is back in town.

Marguerite McLean and Gertrude Lowrie have joined the Roy Claire Musical Comedy company now playing the Hippodrome Theater, Fresno. Booked by Walter Farnum Agency.

Doris Baker, after an engagement with Morosco, has gone to her first love, the pictures.

LESTER WITH DAWN

Louise Lester has been engaged by Allan Dwan to portray the sympathetic role of the boarding house landlady in "The Luck of the Irish," which he is now producing for the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation.

CAREFUL, MAY

May Allison has been playing the drunk for so long in her famous cocktail scene from "Fair and Warmer," that her maid wanted to know if she had been imbibing too freely (not the words of the maid).

PINS

Thea Talbot, who is playing the part of the model in "Lombardi, Ltd.," is feeling like an animated pin cushion. Bert Lytell isn't the gentlest man in the world when it comes to putting in pins. Besides it needs practice.

FOR NAZIMOVA

Peggy Hagar who flourishes the pen for Nazimova et others, has donned the grease paint for a small part in "The Hermit Doctor of Gaya." Just as a favor to madam!

ATTENTION, MR. MONTANA

The following plaintive note came to hand yesterday with the regularity of Mr. Burleson's system:

Editor CAMERA!—Please print the truth regarding the number and contents of Bull Montana's fan letters. I have written him nine times with regard to an affair in which he and I alone are interested, especially me. Anxiously and expectantly yours,

MISS A.

Hood River.

CHIT, CHAT & CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Fred Fishbach, it seems, had his fill of making comedies. He is going to become more serious. Since he's just been married, that accounts for it, and we will now look forward to seeing him direct some comedy-dramas with great domestic touches in them. Let 'er go, Freddie! Hop to it!

Capt. Leslie Peacocke is very anxious to produce some colored comedies, so elated is he with the success he made with "In Justice. 'S 'at so, Cap?

Lillian Greenberger has been trying hard to surround the Big U directors with the cream of the filmland workers. With as high as fifteen companies working, she has had some task to keep everyone happy.

Hobart Bosworth is being directed by Irvin Willet at Thos. H. Ince's studio and is keeping everyone on his toes to make things hum, for he has been off the silent boards for some time.

Harry Oliver, formerly technical artist for the Harold Lloyd Comedies, then shifted to Lasky's, where he did quite a bit of work on the Houdini serial, is now connected with the Thos. H. Ince plant.

Vin Moore says that he has learned to talk the animal languages of the ages, which mostly calls for a daily chat with the lions for breakfast, lunch and dinner. Oh, mommer, how he loves pets!

William Sieter rides around in his new car like some of our best directors; and to think that he only makes $5000 a week has everyone guessing how he does it. He handles the megaphone for Carter De Haven and Billem Parsons.

Marie Walcamp arrived at Mercury field, where Director Jacques Jaccard was directing Lieut. Locklear, just in time to see two machines in the air, one with Director Jaccard and the cameraman in it, the other with the air man making an attempt to pick up one of the leading artists in an escaping parachute. Talk about thrills; she got 'em fast and plenty. She also witnessed one of those most picturesque landings.

Al Herman, who is manager of productions at the Lehrman home of fun-films, found time enough to run over to the barn dance given the other night at Brunton's. But he couldn't get a laugh out of the festivities, so he became desperate and talked to the soda water dispenser, and after that Al seemed to get into the spirit of things. All he had was Kremal and some punch; the mixture seemed to do it. He had a good time, according to all reports.

Frank Keenan, wearing his usual cigar at the usual angle, was at the usual place at Doyle's fistic temple Tuesday evening, after being absent for a few usual such nights. Nothing unusual, did you say?

Frank Coleman was dragged along Cahuenga Pass for about a mile, and he wasn't hurt at all. How did it happen? Why, he was seated in his car, which had broken down and was being towed in to a garage for repairs. No, I mean his car was. At any rate, I had you guessing.

Max Asher shook hands with me in Petifils; asked me to wish him luck, as he was going to start something big for himself up in Frisco. Yes, it is in the motion picture line, and I'll bet it will be O. K., too.

Alan Forrest is acting right out in the open for the Universal in the Jacques Jaccard serial.

Joe Martin, one of the poorest paid actors on the Big U program, wants to register a kick against his director, W. S. Campbell, who has allowed him to associate with the roughest of animals at the zoo, and is now cutting his (Martin's) third picture, and keeping him off the screen till he finishes clipping this subject. Joe is an ourang outang.

Vic Potel reports that he has been cast in a very good part at the Goldwyn studio, which suits his characteristics to a nicety.

Harry Gribbon was the cause of a lot of trouble over at Sennett's the other day when he wrapped a lot of silverware and other valuable things in a baby buggy and started letting it out of a window and down the roof of an adjoining building. Some people thought there was a baby in the buggy, and the chase was on and excitement predominated, but when the baby was found to be safe, everything was all right. I almost forgot to tell you this was just a scene made by Director Reggie Morris.

Fontine La Rue has been cast for the T. Hayes Hunter production, in which she is to play one of those h-e-a-v-i-e-s who almost wreck everyone's life, steal the papers, save the child, burn the house, and still sit down to their dinner every evening at home at ease with the world.

Albert Ray is going to Frisco to rest up. When he returns he will go to work once more under Scott Dunlap's direction in a race-track story with Elanoir Fair playing opposite to him as usual. Hurry back, A. R.

Norman Dawn is getting things ready to direct Frank Mayo in a sort of a western Alaskan story at the Universal, and Norman is all eyes and ears and looking into the matter very seriously. Mr. Mayo, too, is anxious to get going. Turn 'er over and let's go, boys!

Cecil B. De Mille saw the value of cornering the cream of ingenues who have had a world of comedy experience. Mack Sennett seems to be reaching out for comedians who have either worked for him or would have liked to for some time past, for he has our old friend Harry Gribbon back with him. Then he enticed Dan Russell, Hughey Mack, Phil Dunham and Billy Bevan away from the famous Stern Brothers and Jacobs L-KO plant. Rose Mullaney, over at the Metro, has been keeping Juanita Hanson, Hughey Fay, Vic Potel and others of the comedy field working in Metro pictures from time to time. There is something to this hide-and-go-seek movement of the directors, producers and casting directors, who look to the comedy field for their sure-fire talent.

Fred Kohler is just finishing at the Thos. H. Ince studio, where he has been playing an excellent part, and making good, too.

Lester Scott, who assisted Wallace Worsley in the direction of Blanche Sweet, has just finished at the Jesse D. Hampton studio.

Caroline Rankin, who has been the busiest girl in filmland since last April, has just completed a very pleasant engagement at the Goldwyn.

Jim Flynn, they tell me, is the latest addition to the Fox Sunshine lot, which makes the fistic lights of the plant loom up as follows: Cliff Jordan, Jim Flynn, Tom Kennedy, Ed Kennedy, Len Powers and a few lesser lights of the padded ring, past and present, which isn't so bad in case some fellow hollers "Hey, Rube!"

Glen Cavender denies that he and Jack Copper are cast in a picture that calls for him to play the chauffeur to Jack, who is supposed to be a wealthy chap. Cavender says that there was some talk of Jack playing that part, and he playing the other, but since it hasn't been decided upon, it wouldn't make much difference who played it, or if they didn't do it at all. Of course you know that this is just another case of a make-believe movie comedy, so it doesn't matter just what they do as long as they make you laugh.

Harry Woolsey has been walking around the Alexandria with a large package neatly tied up. He had every one wondering if he carried a bomb, until he unwrapped it and drew out a half dozen first-class scenarios he had just finished and which ranged from comedy to drama. Guess the boys about the Alex will rest easier now, but he sure had the mworried for a while.

IN SERIAL

Eileen Sedgwick has been cast for the ingenue part in "The Radium Mystery," eighteen-episode serial now being made by the Pacific Producing Co., 6100 Sunset Boulevard.

She plays the part of Eileen Marston, heiress to billions. The juvenile lead is played by Bob Reeves, a new discovery from the Texas plains said to be the handsomest horseman on the screen.

WITH GRIFFITH

Josephine Crowell is doing a better part now with Griffith than she has ever done before.

TWO LEADS

In "The Duke of Chimney Butte," being filmed at Irwin's ranch in Wyoming, Frank Borzage, the director, has two leading women playing opposite Fred Stone. Josie Sedgwick and Vola Vale.

DOINGS OF ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

By Harry Burns

The happiest men in the Southland today are the members of the Assistant Directors' Association, and what's more, they have every reason for feeling happy, for when it is remembered that they have labored for years and have never gained recognition, then over night they are the talk of the film rialto, it is indeed time that they strut about with a smile ranging from ear to ear, pleased that at last they have arrived. The barn dance that they "staged" at Brunton's did it.

Everywhere the same question is being fired at members of the A. D. A., "When are you boys going to give another of those wonderful dances?" Time alone must answer this query, for right now the Assistant Directors are more interested in making better pictures.

Harry Schenck was out to the Big U the other day. Guess he was there just to pay his respects to his A. D. A. pals and look for locations.

Art Flavin says driving hay wagons isn't his regular "biz"—he just did it to help bring the folks to the dance the other night. Giddap!

William Crinley is co-directing a five-reel feature with Marjory Wilson called "That Something," taken from the book.

Dave Howard, who is to Director Slomann what an ordinary man's right hand is to him, is very much on the job at Brunton's these days.

Mac Wright has a new way of letting studioites know he is coming. He wears one of his loudest shirts; that announces him ahead of time.

William Dagwell, who assists Dave Smith at the Vitagraph, seems to have dropped out of sight. Last reports give Workville as his destination.

Park B. Frame looked so dapper and cute at the ball the other night that all the girls wanted to know who that juvenile actor was.

Douglas Dawson, they tell me, is to associate with some rough looking people. It's all right, folks; it will be in a New York tough story.

Herbert Sutch made such a fuss over the barn dance that everyone wants another such affair staged for Mister Sutch's own benefit.

GIRL FROM OUTSIDE

In Los Angeles, the Kinema Theatre has secured "The Girl From Outside" for presentation early in September.

The cast includes Clara Horton, in the title role, Wilton Taylor, Cullen Landis, and others who are recognized as screen players of the highest order.

NEW MORENA SERIAL

Director Wm. J. Baumann is busy casting for a new serial in which Antonio Moreno will be starred alone. Pauline Curley wil be featured opposite Mr. Moreno and Brinsley Shaw will play the "heavy."

The new chapter play will go into production under the working title of "The Secret Service Serial." The script is from the pens of Cyrus Townsend Brady and Albert E. Smith.

BIG TIME STUFF

Larry Semon has transformed stage No. 1 into a reproduction of a Barnum & Bailey circus and with Lucille Carlisle is putting on stunts that the veteran showman never dreamed of.

FARNUM EAST

William Farnum is returning to New York again, this time to play the part of Francois Villon in "If I Were King." Farnum likes New York, and although he wants to get west now and then, the lure of New York, the Lambs Club and old associations always tugs at him. The result is that he makes some of his pictures in the east and others in the west.

NEW CAR

David Thompson, manager of the Screen Classics, Inc., studios in Los Angeles, has purchased a new Hudson Super-six.

MISS CARLISLE ILL

Lucille Carlisle, who has been suffering from a severe attack of laryngitis, is reported to be improving rapidly. It is thought that she will be able to take up her work again this week on the Semon picture which has been held up because of her illness.

ANOTHER

James Parrott has gone and bought himself a flivverette.

FAIRBANKS WEEKLY NOTES

Miss Joan Bosson is back from her vacation.

Douglas Fairbanks is hard at work to make the coming rodeo for the visiting sailors a big success. Doug has been chosen to "put on the show" and you can bet that it will be full of thrillers. Assisting him will be Fred Burns, his star cowboy and world champion roper.

Doug will soon take possession of his new home at Beverly Hills.

Charles Warrington, Doug's still cameraman, celebrated his fourth anniversary with Douglas Fairbanks pictures. He is one of Doug's oldest employees in length of service, having been with him ever since he entered pictures.

RUNS IN FAMILY

Catherine Van Buren, daughter of Mabel Van Buren, one of the best known screen actresses, is cast as a French Canadian girl in the latest Mitchell Lewis production. Yvonne Mitchell is essaying the role of an Indian girl in the same production. Wonder if they will find any fire-water up in Oregon? Another addition to the present Mitchell Lewis family (no offense, girls) is Ajax, a giant wolfhound, who has appeared in recent Lewis pictures.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

Yes, in these arid times.

You see it was May Allison, and the scene was in the Avery Hopwood farce, "Fair and Warmer," which she is making into a screen classic for Metro.

AUTOIST'S NEWS NITES

Greasing the skids for a slip into jail, motorists throughout Southern California are "too kind" to children begging rides on local highways, report officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

"Giving rides to children who stop automobiles on local roads can only lead to two things," reports the Auto Club, "and these are 'trouble' and 'jail'.

"The operator of a car is responsible for its occupants in case of an accident, and if anything happens to a child while he is being given a free ride, the owner or operator of the machine is liable to big damages and a jail sentence."

According to club investigation, every part of Southern California is breaking out with an epidemic of "give-me-a-ride-itis". In the vicinity of Los Angeles the roads leading to the beaches swarm with children during their school vacation at this time who besiege passing automobiles for free rides.

Reports that the same conditions exist have been received by the club from San Diego, San Bernardino, Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo. There is no doubt, say the authorities, but what the pest is state-wide.

Parents of children who are allowed to run loose and take such violent chances are appealed to through the legal department of the Auto Club to place some parental restraint upon the highway activities of their offspring. If this is not effective, other and more strenuous steps will doubtless be taken, as hundreds of motorists are up in arms, as they say that the children run out into the roads and risk their own lives and the lives of cars' occupants while begging rides.

Anna Wilson has been cast in the role of a country girl in the Judge Brown picture now being filmed at the Horsley Studio.

GAUDIO WITH MAYER PRODUCTIONS

Tony Gaudio, whose camera work on "The Unpardonable Sin" and other recent Marshall Neilan productions has caused much favorable comment, will photograph the forthcoming Anita Stewart pictures. Mr. Gaudio has been head cameraman for Marshall Neilan for the last year, but has been persuaded by Louis Mayer to take over the camera work for the new series of Anita Stewart pictures.

It is not definitely known whether Miss Stewart's first picture under the new contract will be filmed in California or New York.

ARTHUR SHIRLEY TO AUSTRALIA

Closing a successful tour of the United States, as leading man in the Julian Eltinge Revue of 1919, Arthur Shirley has returned to Los Angeles, and plans to resume his work in motion pictures, until the first of the year, when, at the head of his own company, he will leave for Australia to film a series of feature pictures.

Mr. Shirley's last picture work before joining the Eltinge Revue, was the role of Larry Harrington, in the Wm. S. Hart production, "Branding Broadway."

That there are splendid oportunities open to an American company in Australia, is the belief of Mr. Shirley, and others who are backing the enterprise. While no announcement has as yet been made of those who will accompany Mr. Shirley, it is known that his leading woman, cameraman, director and technical director will be chosen in Los Angeles.

FIRST NATIONAL CONVENTION

Henry Lehrman, producer of Lehrman Comedies, has just left Los Angeles for Colorado Springs, Colo., to attend a convention of First National executive from all over the country. T. L. Tally, vice-president of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, and proprietor of Tally's Broadway theatre in Los Angeles, accompanied Mr. Lehrman.

It is expected that they will return some time early next week, and in the meantime the Henry Lehrman Studios are in charge of Al Herman.

VISITS CHAPLIN

Last Thursday Mr. Procter, assistant general manager of the United Artists Corporation, made a personal call upon Charles Chaplin at the comedian's Hollywood studio.

TRAVERSE FILM

Edmund Lawrence will direct Miss Madlaine Traverse, the Junoesque Fox beauty, in her next picture to be made at the Wiliam Fox studios in Hollywood, Cal.

At this time Howard M. Mitchell is finishing with Miss Traverse a picture temporarily called, "The Snares of Paris."

SATIRE

On Monday, August 4th, another company began operations in Hollywood on a new venture in films to be known as the "Weakly Indigestion"—a comic news weekly satirizing current events. A Lincoln Miller, a short story writer of Los Angeles, who is also the nephew of Joaquin Miller, poet laureate of the Sierras, conceived and will personally direct the "Weakly," which will be filmed in the Bull's Eye Comedies studios.

According to Mr. Miller, about eight news items will be picturized for each reel.

SOME TERSE POINTERS FOR SCENARIO WRITERS

By Will M. Ritchey

1. Take as much pains with a scenario as you would with a short story for a magazine.

2. Use good language and good grammar.

3. Typewrite it as carefully as you would a short story.

4. Your best school is seeing good photoplays on the screen; study them from the story standpoint.

5. Do not submit a story you do not think unusual or exceptionally good, otherwise you are insulting your own and the producer's intelligence.

6. Remember that conversation does not register on the screen except in the titles—avoid conversation.

Dressmaking and Ladies' Tailoring. Prices reasonable; best references; prompt service; satisfaction guaranteed. Mrs. Whitney, 2009 N. Bronson. Formerly of Detroit, Mich. Holly 3915.

SOUTH SEA SHOW

The queerest motion picture theatre in the world, showing to the queerest shadow-stage "fans", was heard from the other day. A Mr. Robert McQuarrie writes from Manila, P. I., to J. Warren Kerrigan. Mr. McQuarrie's business is apparently copra-trading in the Sulu Sea and thereabouts, and in addition he runs a floating moving picture theatre with Polynesians, Chinese, head-hunters of Boreno, Malays, Philippine Islanders and the good Lord only knows how many other breeds of men in what queer corners of the Orient seas for "fans."

The trader congratulates Mr. Kerrigan upon a picture made by the star years ago, one of his first Western features, which Mr. McQuarrie has been running on his theatre for three years. This "theatre" is a converted yacht, with a picture screen rigged when needed on the forward tackle, the projection machine on the cabin roof and seats all over the vessel from deck to rigging.

LACE FILM

Marshall MacKaye has finished his first two reel domestic comedy-drama, "Love Apples," for the Alkire Photoplay Company, and is preparing to begin immediately on the second of the series which is to be called "Five Yards of Lace." By way of change from the unsophisticated country boy type which MacKaye portrayed in the first comedy he will enact the role, in the second, of an absent-minded old gentleman. Pauline Curley, George Sheldon, Cecil Holland, June Love and Lynn Tompkins, were in the supporting cast.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

After a year's study in stages, and a great deal of experience in their use, Robert Brunton, head of the Robert Brunton Studios, has decided that the dark stage is the type best suited to his purposes. Accordingly, he is having the two present open ones converted into dark stages. But this does not mean there will be no more open stages on the Brunton lot, for Mr. Brunton is having a new open stage built, with all the newest devices attached. It is to be the largest stage on the lot, 90x200 feet, and when completed will cover 18,000 square feet of floor space and mring the studio total to six stages.

The chief reason given for the superiority of the dark stage is the fact that it is possible to work in all kinds of weather. Any quantity of light may be obtained at any time, thus eliminating the necessity of the director and cameraman being sun-worshippers. Moreover, a greater concentration of artificial light may be obtained. Then, of course, there is no danger of damage to the sets by the elements. All in all, Mr. Brunton is of the opinion that the dark variety of stage is at once the most efficient and practical where a question of interior sets is concerned.

SNAPPY VACATION

Clarence G. Badger had three days between productions this week, so indulged in a speedy vacation, driving his Winton Six to San Francisco and return, averaging twenty-seven miles an hour for the entire trip. The northward journey was made along the coast, while the return trip was across the desert. No accidents or mishaps were encountered; not even a puncture marring the hasty vacation. Mr. Badger drove himself all the way, and on coming back, drove all night across the desert in order to escape the day heat of the sands. He starts work this week on the second Rogers picture.

LAEMMLE RESTING

President Carl Laemmle of Universal has thrown the cares of Universal City onto the shoulders of General Manager Harry D. Kline for the present week and is passing a few days with his son and daughter at Catalina Island.

WHAT THE I. A. R. IS

When I. A. R. Wylie, the Australian author who published her first novel of East Indian life at the age of 21, and two of whose best known novels, "The Hermit Doctor of Gaya," and "The Native Born,' are to be produced by Alla Nazimova, visited the great Russian star at the Metro studio this week, she disclosed what the "I. A. R." of her name stands for.

Miss Wylie was christened Ida Alexia Ross—"so that none of my relatives might be disappointed," she laughingly explained.

INTERESTING, IF TRUE

According to the P. A., Katherine Van Buren, leading woman with the Mitchell Lewis company, narrowly escaped drowning in the Hood River, Oregon, recently. Fortunately Mr. Lewis, himself, was able to breast the strong current, and rescue his leadin' lady. (These articles are scarce nowadays, and must be preserved.

Various members of the company dragged them to the shore, and after first aid treatment, Miss Van Buren declared that she was none the worse for the experiment, save for a few bruises and a ruined costume.

The ever resourceful camera man, in whose young life drownings are everyday incidents, had carefully recorded the near-tragic scene, which wil be used in the forthcoming production.

DUFFY WITH GOLDWYN

Gerald C. Duffy, former editor of Picture Play Magazine, has joined the Goldwyn editorial staff of scenario writers, his initial work being the continuity for the new Mabel Normand production.

Duffy has written much in the film world during the past few years, and his name is well known as that of a scenario writer. His first week at the Culver City studios was most strenuous, as the script had to be out by a stated time, which kept him busy night and day so that the picture could be started on schedule. Monday morning Director Victor Schertzinger was handed the finished script, and the picture was started.

MULHAUSER ILL

Jay Mulhauser, Bulls-Eye scenario writer, is ill with neuritis.

ZELLNER CONTINUITY

Lois Zellner has completed the continuity for the Charlotte Walker feature which was started this week at the American studios under the direction of Burton George.

THIS WINS THE FIRELESS COOKER

The Model Comedy Company in Hollywood, producers of Gale Henry comedies, received a scenario this week written in the Japanese language and Bruno J. Becker has engaged an interpreter to reveal the contents of the manuscript.

This is the third scenario written in the Japanese language that has been received by the company within a month. A number of letters written in the same language have also been received at the studio recenty, the writers inquiring about work in pictures, etc. Mr. Becker says if letters so written continue to arrive he is going to put an interpreter on the company pay roll.

LOCATIONS

Raymond C. Moore, location manager for the Goldwyn Studios, has returned from a trip to the Sacramento River country where he went to secure settings for a new Goldwyn picture. Harry Connelly is in the Imperial Valley selecting desert locations for another production, and soon two companies will leave for the locations to get scenes for forthcoming productions.

Scenes supposed to be laid in the wastes of the Sahara are soon to be made for a Farrar play, which is now under way at the studios where interiors and street scenes are now being made. This is Miss Farrar's second picture this season, a third to be produced before she starts on her concert tour.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Arthur Lamb has placed the entire fi'm library of the Los Angeles exchange of Metro Pictures Corporation at the disposal of the local Children's Hospital, to be used in fortnightly entertainments which are expected to brighten the lives of the afflicted little ones. George E. Pelton is handling the shows, and furnishing the projection machine and operator. His request for pictures met with an immediate response from Manager Lamb, who selected "Aladdin's Other Lamp," in which petite Viola Dana stars, as the first offering to be shown the children.

"POOR FISH"

"The Poor Fish," starring Gale Henry, will have its premiere showing at Pantages Theatre, Los Angeles, the week of August 11. This marks the second comedy starring the comedienne to be shown at the Broadway theatre since she organized her own producing company.

Nelson Nickolas, a plumber at the Metro studio, was presented with a baby girl on Wednesday, July the 30th.

The stork visited the home of Steve Aeyrs, Metro electrician, and left a bouncing boy.

Billie Rhodes of the National Studios assumed a somewnat novel role Friday when she soared over the city in an aeroplane and distributed several thousand miniature blue bonnets in the interests of her forthcoming production, "The Blue Bonnet," which will be shown for the first time at the Kinema Theatre this week.

Miss Rhodes is the possessor of a charming voice and will make several appearances at the Kinema in conjunction with the showing of her picture, singing the "Blue Bonnet" song which was composed in New York and dedicated to her.

When "Smiling Bill" Parsons, who is now in New York, learned that Billie Rhodes intended to do some stunts in the air in his absence he immediately wired that if he had any hair it would turn gray worrying over her whims. Of course, he has a perfect right to worry since Billie happens to be his wife, but as for stopping her when once her mind is made up—well, that's another and very long story. We may publish it later in serial form.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

Generally the skirts are widening a bit at the hem, and even those that remain very narrow are usually widened at the hips, giving a flat effect in front and back. Though American, and local skirts, are long, the Parisian still has her skirts made very, very short. Sleeves, too, are short—above the elbow, and gloves are not always worn.

Skirts are becoming more elaborate, and the much used fringe is still in evidence. Flounces, rows and rows of them, are used, sometimes bordered with lace, embroidery, or picot-edged ribbons.

Contrary to the elaborateness of the skirts, fall hats will be very simple, if they are to be smart. The hat may be large or small, according to individual becomingness, but velvet and duvetyn appear to be the favorites in material. The range in designs is vast, but to have one's hat skillfully turned up on one side, twisted or folded, is the proper thing. Feathers retain their exalted position in the world of hats. A quill, stuck here or there, at a rakish angle is always smart. Soft feathers are becoming in most cases. Particularly good is the close fitting turban covered with the softly swirling baby ostrich feather.

GIBSON DIRECTS MANN

Tom Gibson, comedy writer and director, will alternate with Bob Kerr in the production of the one reel series of Comedies being made for The Arrow Film Corporation by Hank Mann.

Gibson's story, now in production, bears the working title "When 'Spirits' Move." Madge Kirby appears prominently in the supporting cast. V. L. Walker presides at the camera and Mac Dermant is assistant director.

M. AND R. TEAM

Elaborate sets are being constructed for the next Montgomery and Rock comedy which will be started this week.

ROGERS ON LOCATION

Will Rogers, Irene Rich, his leading lady, and his company departed this week for Randsburg, a location far out on the desert where the scenes of the picture are to be taken. From a week to ten days will be spent on the location.

"BLACK GATE" COMPLETED

The final scenes of Hilliard Booth's clever mystery story, "The Black Gate," were filmed this week with the taking of some super-imposed views in the mystifying style that has distinguished the directorial work of Theodore Marsten. Mr. Marsten who directed Earle Williams in this feature, first introduced the idea of a whirling mass of super-imposed visions in the Vitagraph Feature, "Mortmain." In "The Black Gate" this style of visualizing the mental agitation of the principal character will again be used to great advantage.

FIRST FEATURE FINISHED

The first of the Lew Cody Productions has been completed and is being edited and titled under W. Christy Cabanne's direction at the S. J. Gasnier studio.

The story is a social satire originally written by Stephen Fox, Jr., and scenarized by the star and Louis J. Gasnier, the producer, in collaboration.

The feature has been renamed "The Beloved Cheater" from "The Pleasant Devil."

ROUGH STUFF

Larry Semon is working on the final scenes of his newest comedy riot, "One Wild Day." It has for its central theme the adventures of a revenue officer in a contest of wits with a band of moonshiners. Stunts of the "daredevil" type are plentiful and everyone in the troupe is receiving his share of rough treatment.

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

MORENO SERIAL

Work was started this week on the new Antonio Moreno serial. The story is by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady and will be produced under the working title of "The Secret Service Serial."

Pauline Curley is playing the leading role opposite Antonio Moreno. Brinsley Shaw is cast as the "heavy" while Jay Morley and Sam Polo are playing two big parts. Wm. J. Baumann is directing.

DE MILLE LINE-UP

Cecil B. De Mille begins this week with "Why Change Your Wife." Gloria Swanson and Thomas Meighan will have the leading roles, and Mr. Meighan is expected back shortly from the east where he has been visiting his mother, who is ill.

WARWICK FEATURE

Robert Warwick is to begin work on "The Tree of Knowledge," very shortly, under the direction of William C. DeMille. Mr. Warwick will have a splendid cast with Wanda Hawley, Kathlyn Williams and Tom Forman in important roles.

CLAYTON FILM

Robert G. Vignola will very shortly begin work on a new picture for Paramount-Artcraft starring Ethel Clayton. The work will be done at the Morosco studio and as yet the picture has not been finally titled.

"THIRD EYE"

Production has been launched on "The Third Eye," the forthcoming Astra serial co-starring Warner Oland and Eleen Percy, at the Astra studio in Glendale (Cal.) with James W. Horne at the directorial helm.

"The Third Eye," was written by H. H. Van Loan. The continuity was constructed by William Parker and supervised by Gilson Willets, Pathe's scenario chief.

Oland will enact a dual role. He first is Curtis Steele, the brains behind an international organization of crooks; then Malcom Graw, under which name he continues his crimes.

Eileen Percy plays Rita Moreland, film star, whom Steele desires to possess but whose sweetheart is Dick Keene, a newspaper reporter, played by Jack Mower.

Mark Strong is Captain Gale, the chief of detectives in the serial. Olga Grey is Steele's cast-off mistress, the "vamp" of the piece.

The camera work will be done by Connie De Roo and Harry Cooper.

Denver Harmon is the lighting chief while Al Barker is property mogul. Frank Ormston is Horne's technical director and A. T. Dobson is assisting.

INTERESTING UNIVERSAL NOTES

From Ham Beall

The starting on a new serial adapted from "The Strange Case of Cavendish," novel by Randall Parish, was the highlight in the current week's activities at Universal City.

Kathleen O'Connor, who played opposite James J. Corbett in "The Midnight Man," is to be starred in "The Strange Case of Cavendish" with Jack Perrin as her leading man. Jack Wells, will produce the eighteen-episode chaptered melodrama. The novel was adapted for the screen by William Pigott and Joe Brandt, and the continuity prepared by Karl Coolidge.

Miss O'Connor will be seen as Stella Donovan, an intrepid newspaper reporter, who loves to unravel mysteries for her paper.

Miss O'Connor's supporting cast includes Barney Sherry, Robert Walker, Gertrude Astor and Henry Barrows.

Mary MacLaren is still enjoying a summer vacation while Tod Browning, her director, is supervising the erection of the elaborate sets required for "Myself, Becky," a W. Carey Wonderly story, which is to be Miss MacLaren's next vehicle.

"Wild Lions and Loose Bandits," the five-reel animal comedy starring Joe Martin and other brute histrions of the Universal Zoo, has been cut and titled under the direction of William and Harry Burns, and is soon to be given a private showing to the critics in the Theatre de Luxe at Universal City.

"Betty Reforms," the six-reel feature starring Ora Carew, Forrest Stanley and Charles Clary, which William C .Dowlan is producing, is well under way.

Frank Mayo and Edith Roberts, who are featured in a screen version of "Lasca" adapted from the famous poem by Frank Duprez, are at Victorville, California, taking desert exteriors under Norman Dawn's direction.

"The Gift of the Desert" is to be the title of Harry Carey's next starring vehicle. It is being adapted from a story by Peter B. Kyne. It originally appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. The continuity is being prepared by H. Tipton Steck.

Monroe Salisbury completed "The Divorced Wife" this week under Douglas Gerrard's direction.

Allen Holubar is making elaborate preparations to start soon on the filming of "Ambition," his own story, in which Dorothy Phillips is to be starred.

The final scenes were taken this week for "The Winged Trail," the aerial melodrama starring Lieutenant O. L. Locklear, by Director Jacques Jaccard.

All is in readiness for Rollin Sturgeon to start production on Tsuri Aoki's first Universal special, "The Breath of the Gods," which is adapted from the novel by Sydney McCall.

Unusual activity is shown in the two-reel westerns.

Fr tzie Ridgway has just completed two of them, "Winning a Bride" and "The Ranger of Pike's Peak." The final shots were taken at the studio this week following the "shooting" of the principal scenes of the first at the Cheyenne, Wyoming, rodeo and the latter at Colorado Springs. Robert Wells directed both pictures.

Pete Morrison and Magda Lane have just finished "Dynamite" under Edward Kull's direction; Marie Walcamp has completed "Tempest Cody's Expose" with George Holt directing; while "Hoot" Gibson is now working on "A Voice in the Night" under Reeves Eason.

Comedy production is again receiving an impetus.

Florence Turner is directing and starring in "The 5000 Bargain," a Protean comedy in which she plays several different roles.

Frank Coleman has joined the Universal fun forces to produce "When Cactus Corners Went Dry," a burlesque on the prohibition situation. May Allen is playing the leading feminine role.

Edd e Lyons and Lee Moran are enjoying a few days' breathing spell after completing "Solid Comfort."

FOURTH BRENTWOOD

The new Brentwood feature has not yet been titled but is announced as pointing the fallacy of judging a man's real value to his fellows by the too prevalent standard of exterior evidences, a judgment which is usually influenced mainly by whatever lack the man may show of the so-called refinements, or, by any failure on his part to live up to society's code of manners, rather than morals.

Miss Vidor is supported by Charles Meredith as in the last picture from this studio and as provision against any dull moments ZaSu Pitts has been cast for a strong pathetic comedy part, supported by Roscoe Karns, Lillian Leighton and Wm. P. (Billy) De Vaull have been signed for the roles of mother and father respectively of the characters taken by Miss Vidor and Miss Pitts.

LEWIS IN L. A.

Mitchell Lewis and his director, Robert Bradbury, have returned with their company from locations in the north where scenes were shot along the Columbia and Hood Rivers and around Mt. Hood for the new Lewis production, "The Last of His People." They will remain in Los Angeles two days—long enough to add twenty additional players to the cast—and then leave for further location work around Big Bear Lake where an elaborate hunting-lodge set is being prepared by the technical staff for use in the big house-party scenes. Interior sets are now in course of construction at the Universal City studios where the picture will be completed on the return of the company from Bear Lake.

ROMAYNE NEWS

Mr. J. P. Hamilton, personal representative of the Romayne Superfilm Company, is touring the United States, making connections with new exchanges for one, two and five reel subjects.

Major Robert Black Dimon, will depart September 1st for Paris, where he will establish the Romayne European office.

Johnny Hayes, who has been, for the past six years with the best known comedians, will act as personal supervisor over the Romayne comedies.

CRUZE BUSY

James Cruze finishes "Captain Dieppe" this week, the picture in which Robert Warwick is starred. They have just returned from Kernville and are completing the work in and about the studio. As soon as this is finished—to be exact—on the 21st, Mr. Cruze will start with Wallace Reid in "Hawthorne of the U. S. A." In this picture, Lila Lee will support the star.

Donald Crisp is starting in fine shape with Bryant Washburn on the Paramount-Artcraft picture, "It Pays to Advertise," from the famous stage farce by that name. A stage and portion of an auditorium of a theatre were the first scenes taken, depicting a college play and the attendant excitement when some of the students in the audience became obstreperous.

"PEGEEN" FOR LOVE

Bessie Love, under the direction of David Smith, is preparing to start production on "Pegeen" from the book by Eleanor Hoyt Brainard. The scenario was prepared by Wm. Barbarin Lamb who has elaborated the sylvan settings for the pretty rural romance conceived by the author.

NEW METRO FEATURES

Maxwell Karger announces that six celebrated Drury Lane melodramas have been purchased for Metro and will be filmed with all-star casts.

The Metro stars' next pictures will be: for Nazimova, "Maison de Dance;" Viola Dana, "The Willow Tree;" May Allison, "Along Came Ruth;" while Bert Lytell is as yet undecided.

STRIKERS' FUND

Local assistance for the eastern strikers is chiefly confined to the activities of a committee authorized by the Actors Equity Association of New York City, and headed by William Courtliegh and Milton Sills, who are stopping at the Hollywood Hotel. The committee has already collected $4000 from members of the Actors Equity here, which will be used in the fight against the theatrical managers.

Plans are being discussed, and later the motion picture people will perhaps be asked to participate in a large benefit program, which the local members expect to swell their strike campaign fund.

CAMERA! suggests that we motion picture people do not wait until our services are requested. Volunteer now, immediately, to do all we can to show our comradeship and desire to co-operate with our fellows of the legitimate stage. Picture people have successfully carried out many other campaigns for raising funds, and CAMERA! feels that again an opportunity worthy of our endeavors presents itself.

At the Thursday night meeting of the Actors Association of Los Angeles, the members and directors all emphatically indorsed CAMERA!'S suggestion that work on a benefit be commenced at once. Charles Mack of the Photoplayers Equity Association assures the support of the Equity members in any project of this nature.

Monday night, at the Hollywood Hotel, the Actors Equity Association members living in Los Angeles will hold a meeting to form definite arrangements for a local benefit.

So get together, picture people! Be ready with the pep and enthusiasm and the executive ability that has characterized all previous successes.

CAMERA! offers its columns to give full publicity to any further benefit plans that the picture people will present in an effort to assist in this cause.

THEY SWIM

Eugene Field of the Charlie Chaplin studio won the Walter Bell diving trophy at the Los Angeles Athletic Club Thursday evening after a very spectacular exhibition of fancy diving from the ten-foot springboard. Haig Prieste, formerly of the Mack Sennett studio, had two wins on the cup, Clyde Swendsen had two and Eugene Field at the final dive off for the cup. Eugene Field won by two points over Swendsen. Eugene is now sporting his 18-inch silver cup around the studio.

Victor Heerman spent a few days in the L. A. A. C. His excuse for leaving his cozy cottage at Del Rey was he longed for a swim in the cool L. A. A. C. plungs. Vick says the ocean is too rough for him most of the time, and he doesn't care much about picking kelp out of his teeth.

Wallace MacDonald is now mastering the crawl stroke. Wallace lives in the L. A. A. C. and makes use of the plunge several times a day. He has become so fond of swimming that he has placed on exhibition at the club a very beautiful cup for the L. A. A. C. members to swim for. The Wallace MacDonald trophy will have to be won three times for permanent possession. The L. A. A. C. members will swim for this cup in a handicap affair, the first swim for this cup to start Thursday evening, August 21st.

Clifford Bowes, now with the L. K. O. studio, was a visitor to the plunge several days ago, and made many of the members laugh with his funny shimmie dive. Cliff Bowes was formerly Pacific Coast diving champion, and he is as funny in the water as Charlie Chaplin is on terra firma.

Charles Meredith is sporting to Santa Monica for a swim in the ocean every day in his classy Cadillac roadster. Pretty soft for some people.

There was a rumor in the locker room of the L. A. A. C. that Charlie Chaplin was going to take a swim. Everyone stuck around and the last they heard of Charlie he was doing a water stunt all his own in the two by four tank in the Turkish bath.

Lyons and Moran are two classy swimmers and often they take to the club plunge after a hard day on the set.

Billy Williams, international diving champion and formerly with Mack Sennett as cameraman, has written from Germany that he will be home in a month. Billy was one of the first boys to go over and he has been photographing for Uncle Sam for a long, long while. Bill writes he will be glad to get back and shoot pictures for his old boss, Mack Sennett.

THE NECESSITY OF TRAINED WRITERS

By Frank E. Woods

Among the hardy pioneers of the school of photoplay writers are Anthony Paul Kelly, who has already earned a big reputation and who has written a stage play, "Three Faces East," which enjoyed a big run in New York; Gardner Sullivan, who trained himself to write for picturts and who specialized in his profession, and of course there is David W. Griffith, who has written his own stories, but whose ability to create his own picture material has almost been lost in his genius as a producer and showman. Jeanie Macpherson, Elaine Sterne, John Emerson, Anita Loos and others have mastered their trade and all these have had their setbacks and have gone through special training to earn their rights to be considered photo-dramatists.

Other good writers are coming along and are not above starting at the bottom of the ladder, learning the requirements, limitations and possibilities of motion pictures. They are building solidly along new lines for the not too distant future when many of them will be recompensed by large returns and recognized names by the producers and the public; of this I am convinced.

I believe that it is easier to write a play for the stage than it is to write one for the screen, and at that there are not many great dramatists. In a play of equal quality, there are more things to consider in a picture than a stage play, the art is less straightforward and more intricate. I believe that most of the writers who have specialized on screen work and who have succeeded could write a successful stage play after proper training and study; Anthony Paul Kelly has done it; Frances Marion is collaborating with another author on a spoken drama, and Crane Wilbur has already "arrived," and surely Gardner Sullivan, John Emerson and Anita Loos and others could do it. We all know that David W. Griffith could and probably will.

I do not call to mind any writers of the spoken drama who have yet written a successful original screen play, and in order to do this they would have to educate themselves along fresh lines and forget most of the technicalities and formulas of their present calling. I do not think one of them could adapt one of their own plays for screen purposes without some initial study. This is not casting any slur at the writers of plays; I am simply insisting that writing spoken dramas and screen plays are arts and professions apart and that they are entirely dissimilar, and each needs its own special training.

Owing to the absence of trained screen writers, photoplay authors at the present time are not ranked with dramatists, novelists or even the writers of short stories, nor as a body do they yet deserve to be, but from the ranks of the trained writers for the photoplay will arise a school whose names will become well known and who will, with Gardner Sullivan, Anthony Kelly and a few more, attract others and the often unmerited feeling against writers for the screen will gradually die out and their profession will parallel with and be accepted as honorable, lucrative and as distinguished as other branches of the writers profession.

It must be remembered that the novelists and dramatic and historical authors have the tradition of centuries behind them, while the writers of photoplays have been experimenting for but a very few years; it is hardly possible that a "school" could have been established in that time.

Jack Conway: Some are born great—some have good press agents; others have their love letters read in court.

Henry Otto: Don't count your closeups before the film is cut.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

DUG-OUT DANCE

Friday night the girls of the Dug-Out were the guests of the crew and officers of the battleship Wyoming. A dance on deck was the feature of the evening which everyone enjoyed to the utmost. The ship was brilliantly lighted and decorated, which, combined with the sailor's and officer's uniforms and the girl's frocks created a picture not easily forgotten.

In return for the excellent entertainment given them by the men of the Wyoming the Dug-Out girls will hold a dance in honor of their Friday night hosts. This dance will be given at the Dug-Out Saturday night.

Among the girls who enjoyed the Wyoming hospitality and who will act as hostesses Saturday are Peggy Prevost, Miriam Meredith, Edith Roberts and Mrs. Roberts, Violet Schram and her mother Mrs. Schram, Evelyn Adamson, Helen and Agnes Lynch, Mildred Richter, Francis St. George, Carol Dempster, Florence Prager and her mother, Harriett Wilber and Margaret Coe.

The chaperons are Mrs. Ford Lindsay, Mrs. Meredith Woodwards and Mrs. Dora Oliphant Coe.

RHODES DINNER

Last Saturday evening Gladys Rhodes, who is on a vacation at Balboa, made a short visit to her home in Hollywood to act as hostess for a little dinner. The guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glenn. The other guests were Mr. Walter Wherle, Miss Myrtle Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Kimball.

TEA

At afternoon tea Tuesday Mrs. William Dowlan entertained a group of friends in honor of Mrs. Arthur Mackley. A quiet afternoon was enjoyed by all the guests, among which were Mrs. Arthur Ainsley, Mrs. J. Liddy, Mrs. Albert Smith and Mrs. R. Brooks.

HONORS MRS. JOHNSTONE

One of the attractive affairs of the week was the birthday party given by Mrs. Renee Beauman at her Laurel Canyon home, in honor of Mrs. Lamar Johnstone. A delicious out-of-doors supper was served, one of the unique features being a huge birthday cake decorated in American and Italian flags, the later in courtesy to the country of Mrs. Johnstone's birth, and ice cream shaped to represent the battleships of the fleet.

Mr. Charles Christie, who had provided a portable projection machine for the occasion, entertained the guests, after supper, with a first-run Christie picture.

Guests who enjoyed Mrs. Beau-hospitality were: Misses Dorothy Thompson, Gladys Carley, ZaSu Pitts, Julanne Johnstone, Rose Williams, Chase Herendeen, Nell Newman, Margaret Ettinger, Alice Mirshell, and Messrs. Roland Lord, Jack Barrymore, Dudley Murphy, Earl Pearsall, Chas. Christie, Dorren Bick and Al Wilkie.

Miss Edna Haris, Mrs. Radford Johnstone and Mrs. Al Cohn chaperoned the party.

GUEST OF HONOR

Miss Lucille de Levars was guest of honor at the weekly Sunday night supper given at he Studio Club for the members of the Club and their guests.

Accompanied by Miss Yvonne Brasdall, the pianist, Miss Levars entertained the guests with a delightful selection of songs and ballads.

AT STUDIO CLUB

Out of town guests at the Studio Club last week were Mrs. Charles Deane of Chicago, and Mrs. Kimball Wilde and daughter Priscilla. Miss Priscilla is a student of drama and art in New York City.

QUINDY DINNER

The Ship Cafe at Venice has become a very popular resort for dinner parties and dancing. On Sunday evening, August 10th, a smart dinner was given there by Mr. Fred C. Quindy, the Pathe Exchange manager from New York City. The evening was spent in dancing to the popular Ship "jazz" orchestra. Mr. Quindy's guests were Miss Ruth Roland, her serial co-author, Mr. Gilson-Willets, Mr. and Mrs. Carmicheal (Mr. Carmicheal is the local Pathe manager), Mr. Rudolph Proctor, of the United Artists Corporation, Mrs. Edith Thompson, Miss Roland's aunt, and Mr. Lionel E. Kent.

YOUNG ENTERTAINS

Miss Clara Kimball Young was another to entertain at the Ship. Last Friday evening she had as dinner guests her manager, Harry Garcon, Miss Bebe Daniels, Miss Priscilla Dean, Miss Pauline Stark, Miss Marie Mousquini, Mr. Sidney Cohan and Mr. Sanborn.

MITCHELL STUDIO NOTES

Acting upon the many requests from its photoplayer patrons the Mitchell Hollywood Studio will hereafter hold the Studio dances only twice each week, on Wednesday and Saturday evenings. The first dance under the new schedule wil be held on Wednesday, August 20th.

Among the photoplayers who are making up parties for the affair are Margaret Campbell and Christine Mayo at the Metro Studio, Stanhope Wheatcroft of the Universal, Texas Driscoll of the Neal Hart, Charlie Dorety and Bruno Becker. Another guest, who will come up from San Diego to attend the affair, is Dr. Edward R. von Preissig, of the Naval Aviation, who will make, as he calls it, an Inspection Trip, to see how his son is managing his parties. Dr. von Preissig is prominent throughout the country as a historian, being the author of five or six well known historical works. Mrs. von Preissig will accompany her husband from San Diego.

COLLEEN MOORE

By Mildred Davis

We are told that Colleen Moore was born at Port Huron, Michigan. But we can't believe that without taking a firm grip on our imagination, and forcing it to be still. No, it is hard to accept such a commonplace fact, for we would rather think that Colleen came out of an Irish fairy tale. Her eyes, the corners of her mouth, and the tip of her nose are all tilted up a bit in the very best "fairy-fashion."

Contrary to all the make-believe things that Colleen's eyes suggest, she is a real girl. She is not even every bit Irish, for all of her father's people are Scotch. Quite emphatically Colleen claims exclusive right to the Irish half, while she delegates the Scotch part of their heritage to her brother, Cleve.

"Cleve is my hobby. He is the best pal in the world, you see I don't believe he ever does anything wrong. He is only a year younger than I am, but mother says I spoil him," Colleen told us, with a little smile.

'Poor mother, she is always the victim for our family. When Cleve wants anything all we have to do is coax three minutes, and he gets what he wants. In about a week he is going way back to Pennsylvania, to finish his preparatory course for Boston Tech., or Harvard."

Colleen would have talked indefinitely about brother Cleve, because she was sure that there was no "story" in her life. We finally learned that the Irish Colleen spent most of her short life in Tampa, Florida, where she went to school at the Convent of Holy Names. There most of her time was devoted to music. When she left the convent she went with her mother to Chicago, with the expectation of continuing her musical education.

All her life Collenn's greatest desire was to become an actress some day. A very intense desire it was, but there seemed to be no definite or immediate means of satisfying it. It was in Chicago about three years ago, that her unexpected opportunity came. Colleen meet D. W. Griffith socially, and the director evidently saw picture possibilities in the little girl, for, when he heard of her ambitions he engaged her. She was sent to Los Angeles, and her first picture work was done in "The Bad Boy." Mildred Harris was also in this picture, Bobby Harron was starred, and Chet Whithey directed.

Colleen's next step was to sign a contract with the Selig Company to produce a series of James Whitcomb Riley's stories. She appeared in only two Selig films, one being 'Little Orof August.

Of all things on earth Colleen believes that she likes children best. "I enjoyed making 'Little Orphant Annie' more than any other picture because it was such fun to play with the kiddies," she exclaimed. Colleen says she is never, never, going to be married. She is just going to have an orphan asylum when she is too old to be in pictures. This made us ask if Colleen was domestically inclined.

"What shall I say, mother?" she appealed to the chief adviser.

And mother smiled, advising the truth. The truth very emphatically placed the much lauded domestic duties in disfavor. So, you see, that ancient order is minus one lovely member.

phant Annie." Uncertain conditions delayed production for a year, and as Colleen was under contract she remained idle. As soon as she was free little Colleen re-entered pictures as leading lady for Charles Ray, with whom she made two films. Later she played opposite Tom Mix. Universal was her next field of endeavor. Her first few pictures there were in the capacity of leading lady, and in the last she was starred. The working title for her starring vehicle was "Common Property."

Just now Colleen is "resting."

"I'm really busy every minute. I don't sleep nearly half as much as when I'm working. But I'm having the time of my life, for it's my first vacation in a long while, so I don't care if I do wear myself out having a good time." she laugned, "because I'm going back to work in two weeks."

We wanted to know where she would work, and immediately the tips of the Irish lips turned up and the eyes became very mysterious. So we don't know where she will work, though it seems to be quite exciting.

Colleen in an ardent picture fan. In spite of an ancestry which is famous for its humor, she prefers to do serious roles. But, then, Colleen is very young. She will only be eighteen on Tuesday, the nineteenth

The Studio was greatly enriched this week by the arrival of some of the beautiful color etchings by Vojtech Preissig, the famous Czech etcher, now in charge of the Etching Department at the Art Students' League in New York City. In the collection received by the Studio is the famous etching known as the Seven Ravens, which won the Grand Prix in Paris in 1906. Other etchings to be used in the decoration of the Studio are on the way, as Vojtech Preissig is keenly interested in the success of his nephew's venture.

ENTERTAIN PARENTS

King W. and Mrs. Florence Vidor are entertaining Mr. Vidor, Sr., here on a visit from Texas to enjoy the two-fold pleasure of becoming acquainted with his little granddaughter, Suzanne, and watching his director-son produce pictures.

EILEEN PERCY BRIDE

Cupid again has proved his ability as a marksman, for as the result of his aim Eileen Percy and Ulrich Busch, millionaire and grandson of the late Adolphus Busch, are married.

Busch, it is said, fell in love with his bride some two years ago when he first saw her on the screen.

At the Wilshire Christian Church, they were married by the Rev. B. C. Hagerman two weeks ago. Mrs. Busch admitted that she was only to finish her present production and a serial to be produced at the same studio before starting on an extended world tour honeymoon.

BELANGER DANCE

Mr. Ed Kline was the guest of honor at a dance given by his Canadian friends, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Belanger, at their Alvarado street home last Saturday night. All the guests testify that they enjoyed the evening very much. Yes, indeed, the refreshments were exclusively liquid. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Slim Summerville, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Albright, Mr. Chas. Duffy, Miss Margaret Goldwyn, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bordeaux, Mr. Hyman Benniskey, Mr. Roy Del Duth, Mr Ross Ledouman, and Mrs. Marcella Brush.

FLEET ESCORT

One of the smart yachting parties which greeted the Pacific Fleet last Saturday was held on Viking III, which lead the parade of yachts escorting the fleet to the Los Angeles Harbor.

After the formal maneuvering was completed, the members of the Viking III party were entertained on board the Mississippi.

Among the picture girls who greeted the sailors of the Mississippi were Flora Hollister, Priscilla Dean, Rhea Mitchell, Pauline Stark and Bebe Daniels.

NAVAL VISITORS

Ten naval officers of the Pacific Fleet, straight and tanned and handsome, were shown through the William Fox studios in Hollywood last week. They were intensely interested in the work of both the dramatic companies in the lot on one side of North Western avenue, and in the Fox Sunshine comedies on the other. They learned more about making pictures than they had ever before dreamed.

FOR MISS HERENDEEN

A birthday dinner complimentary to Miss Chase Herendeen was given at the Studio Club, last Wednesday evening. Lieut. Herendeen was guest of honor, and outside guests of the Club were Miss Elinor Fried, Miss Betty Bouton, Mr. D. Murphy and Lieutenant Herendeen.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

UP AGAIN

Aviation has claimed another of our young leading men. The newest member of the "I've Been Up" Club is Marshall Mackaye of the Alkire Photoplay company, who has fallen hard for the fascination of the spiral dip and nose dive stuff. He is spending all of his time at DeMille Field giving vent to his effervesing enthusiasm over the newest sport.

RETURNS TO STAGE

Billy Bray, has joined the Burbank Stock company to appear in the musical comedy.

VAN DYKE WITH CAREWE

Truman Van Dyke is again at the Universal playing along with Forrest Stanley, who is leading man to Ora Carewe, in her current picture. The company expects to leave for Bear Valley within a few days.

FAY HOME

Fay Tincher, having returned to the Christie studios after her tour of the northwest, will soon start work again under Al E. Christie's direction in another comedy of the western type.

WITH YOUNG

Pauline Stark is now working with Clara Kimball Young in "Eyes of Youth."

KARNS WITH VIDOR

Roscoe Karns whose stage experience has been mainly confined to the legitimate and who is now appearing as "Jack Rutherford" in Civilian Clothes" at the Morosco theater has been engaged to support Za Zu Pitts in the fourth Vidor production now under way at the Brentwood.

BAKER ILL

Eddie Baker, heavy man with the Gale Henry Comedy company, is confined to a hospital at Balboa suffering with a bad attack of pneumonia and according to his physician is said to be critically ill. The company went to San Pedro Monday morning to film a few scenes of the Pacific Fleet and from there they went to Balboa where the final scenes to the latest comedy starring Gale Henry were to be taken. Mr. Baker was rushed to the hospital on Tuesday afternoon.

SCHAFER HOME

Ann Schaefer of the Vitagraph company after constantly enduring the annual, semi-annual and more recently the quarter annual demands for tribute from rent profiteers, has finally revolted and purchased a home in Hollywood.

NEW STAR

LITTLE BROTHER

Laddie Earle, is playing the part of "little brother" to J. Warren Kerrigan at the Brinton studio.

WITH OR WITHOUT?

To shave, or not to shave—this is the question confronting William Lion West, who has just completed work in the current Geraldine Farrar production. Mr. West is at present the possessor of a beard, which, if picturesque, is nevertheless but temporary.

"Unless some director shows a marked desire for the beard within a few days, I'm going to sever connections with it," declares West. "Hanged if I'm going around looking like Robinson Crusoe any longer than necessary."

FAIRBANKS RELEASE

Douglas Fairbank's first picture to be released through the "Big Four" has been titled "His Majesty, The American." Something unusual, even for Fairbanks, has been promised. C. S. Widom costumed the entire production.

WITH MABEL NORMAND

Jean O'Rourke has just finished a four week engagement in the latest Mabel Normand picture under Victor Schertzinger's direction at the Goldwyn studio.

JENNINGS HEAVY

George F. Cummings, who was formerly in the Helen Holmes serials, has been cast as a heavy in the present Al Jennings picture.

SUPPORTING GUINAN

Percy Challenge has just finished a congenial character part in support of Texas Guinan with the Frohman Amusement. company.

NE WLEAD

Margaret Villmore, a supporter of Bert Lytell in several of his new Metro pictures, has joined the Bulls Eye comedies to play opposite Dorety.

WITH MOORE

Kathleen Kirkman and Henry Miller, Jr., have been added to the cast supporting Tom Moore in his current Goldwyn picture.

DUBRAY WITH CODY

Joseph Dubray, for many years chief of Pathe's Cinematographic Corporation cameraman for the Lew Cody Productions. Dubray was in the Great War and emerged with the Crois de Guerre citations and press mentions too numerous to mention and three wounds.

STAR? PERHAPS

Doris Pawn, according to a report current in film circles is soon to be starred at the head of her company.

FAIRBANKS STUDIO

Douglas Fairbanks scored another hit, when he put over the big rodoe at Exposition Park for the entertainment of the sailors of the Pacific Fleet. 15,000 people attended this big show.

Doug offered a prize of $100 at the Rodeo to anyone that would ride Poncho Villa, the unrideable Bucking Broncho. Skeeter Bill Robbins took him up and Doug is out the $100 and Poncho Villa is no longer the unrideable horse.

Tom Geraghty and Mr. Woodcock are at the studio working on the Continuity for Douglas Fairbanks next picture.

Lou Howland, Continuity Clerk for Douglas Fairbanks shortly expects to move into his new home at 1916 Franklin Circle.

A new addition to the Camera force at Douglas Fairbanks Studio is Bill McCann, who formerly shot first camera for Select Pictures and George Beban. He will shoot Dougs next picture.

MORE HIGH FLYERS

Bob Hunter and Mary Land now belong to the "I've Been Up" Club. And they were so thrilled, they can't even pretend to be blase about it. They're always "up in the air" now—and the way they cultivate all the aviators at hand is sumpin' scand'lous!

TO BAD

Director Wayne Mack of Super Art Productions is getting pretty sore at all the delays which are extending his stay in New York. We really can't tell everything he writes, but carefully edited and censored, all his letters end like this: "Why didn't I send someone else, so I could stay in California?"

Wadsworth Harris, lately with Earle Williams picture is now playing a prominent part in Rex Ingrams' first production at Universal since the latters' return from overseas.

IN FAIRBANKS COMPANY

Philip Gastrock, just finished a ten week engagement with Douglas Fairbanks, in his first "Big Four" production.

ENGAGED BY KEENAN

James Barrows has been engaged for the character part of Professor Renaud in Frank Keenan's next picture.

WITH FAIRBANKS

Mr. Bill Ryno, the character actor, has just finished with the Douglas Fairbanks company in "His Majesty, The American." Mr. Ryno was with the Fox Company during the filming of "Evangeline" and "Love Is Love."

IN SERIAL

Mr. Martin Best has just finished the father of Ruth Roland in her serial.

AT UNIVERSAL

Miss Cora Drew, has been working at Universal, under the direction of Mr. Dowlan.

WITH NAZIMOVA

Margaret McWade has been engaged to play an important role in Mme. Nazimova's production, "The Hermit Doctor of Gaya."

SECRETARY OF ASSOCIATION

Edward McWade has been elected secretary of the Actors' Association. He is booked for an important part in a forthcoming production.

MILLER WITH UNIVERSAL

Carl Miller, has finished with Universal, after doing three leads with Marie Walcamp. As yet he has not announced new affiliations.

MISS WARRENTON

Lule Warrenton, the versatile character actress, has finished with the Peggy Hyland company, where she was cast in a gypsy role, and is now doing a scrub woman in George Loane Tucker's present production.

WITH LYTELL

George McDaniels is with the "Lombardi, Ltd." company, starring Bert Lytell.

MORE TERPISCORE

Claire DuBrey and Ora Carew are going to take dancing lessons from Ruth St. Denis. Miss DuBrey received instructions from Miss St. Denis two years ago.

BACK TO INCE

It is said that Lloyd Ingraham will return to Mr. Thomas H. Ince to direct Douglas MacLean and Doris May. Mr. Ingraham directed these stars before.

L'ESTRANTE EAST

Dick L'Estrange has gone to New York City, to act as casting director for the Myron Selznick enterprises at the Goldwyn studios, which were formerly Universal, at Fort Lee, New Jersey.

SCHLEGAL WITH FARRAR

Palmer F. Schlegal who was formerly with Dixon and Horsley, is now the assistant art director with the Farrar company at Goldwyn studio. For the past year he has been with 40th division of the United States army, and only recently returned from overseas.

AT THE BEACH

Clarke Irvine, of the Goldwyn "Skeleton," is at the beach for the summer, endeavoring to have a few Sundays vacation between "Skeleton" press days. Early morning tennis, a swim in the surf, dinner and a dance have successfully filled most of the Sundays up to date.

UNION REPRESENTATIVE

Mr. S. E. Jennings, has taken over the position of outside business representative of the Motion Picture Players Union.

BECKER WITH OAKLEY

F. S. Becker, formerly with Balshofter productions has accepted the position of location manager and outside manager for the Oakley productions, which will start producing six-reel dramas about September 1st.

VERA LEADING

Miss Vera Stedman, known on the screen as a bathing beauty, has been engaged by Hampton Del Ruth, supervising director of William Fox Sunshine Comedies, to lead in a comedy now being made by Frank Griffin.

NEW COMEDY LEAD

Maude Wayne, is a new acquisition to the William Fox Sunshine comedy lot. She has been engaged by Hampton Del Ruth to lead in a comedy now being finished by Jack Blystone.

FRENCH JUVENILE

Walderman Waldron, the young French actor of Paris, plays the juvenile role in the production of "The Radium Mystery," at Universal City. M. W. Waldron, is late of the Comedie Francaise and the Folies Bergere, is the son of an old-time French theatrical family.

KING WITH HAMPTON

Henry King, has signed a long term contract with Jesse D. Hampton to direct special features. Mr. King directed Douglas MacLean and Doris May at the Ince studios and previously directed the William Russel productions.

OPPOSITE J. WARREN

Fritzi Brunette, who has been playing opposite J. Warren Kerrigan, has been re-engaged and will be Jack's leading woman in another picture.

REAL VACATION

Gus Inglis and Richard Willis of the Los Angeles motion picture firm of Willis & Inglis, have each taken a two weeks' holiday.

BUSY AT METRO

Ray Smallwood, long the head of the Metro photographic department, has been made a director for the same company.

Harry Todd and Margaret Campbell, both screen players of note are portraying the parents in Viola Dana's comedy, "Please Get Married."

William Buckley has a splendid role with May Allison in her present picture. He plays the part of "the other man."

IRISH COMEDY

Mr. James O. Barrows, has just finished playing the part of "Michael Lynch" leading character comedy part in J. Warren Kerringan's present production.

CAST WITH LYTELL

Thomas Jefferson, at present with "Lombardi, Ltd.," starring Bert Lytell, will join Mr. Rossen in a "Splendid Hazard" next week.

CHIT, CHAT & CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Allen Watt no more than returned from Colorado Springs with Bob Wells than he was assigned to Director William Dowlin at the Big U.

Ray Meeker is assisting P'What Frank Coleman at the Universal where the latter is producing one-reel comedies. Fair enough, boys.

Ray Marshall, who works with King Vidor, was seen at the boxing bouts Tuesday night. He sat near some picture stars. Hurray!

Chester Bennett looms up in the limelight to direct Earle Williams in his next picture at the Vitagraph. That'a boy, Chester.

Joe McDonough was about the Universal with Al Santell. Heard the pair were going back to work there. Step on it, fellers.

William Dyer was seen carrying a script and coatless the other day. "Suppose he could be working at his old trade again?" Hope so.

Buck Connors sent a postal from Cheyenne which showed him off as an Indian in costume and everything. Well, he is a real artist.

Ward Lascele no doubt will be among those present since I saw Director S. A. Franklin at the scraps Tuesday evening. They've been away.

Albert E. Green besides being one of our most promising directors looms up as the champion fight fan; he roots 'em hard and loud.

Bert King seems to be getting fat on the job he is holding as king of properties out at the Universal.

Joe Hennaberry, dame rumor has it, will quit Douglas Fairbanks at the conclusion of the present picture and cast his lot with the Clara Kimball Young Co., in their new home out Edendale way.

Henry McRea is going to take a company to the Orient and do a serial, leaving here the 15th of next month, sent by the Universal.

Chuck Riesner has been signed by Charles Chaplin to help him produce his comedies. Chuck will be remembered in a like capacity about a year ago.

Lynn Darling is directing Marshall Mackaye at Horsley's while O. F. Himm is camera chief. They have just completed a two-reel comedy-drama.

Bob Vernon has been showing some of our dare-devil actors what a real athlete he is. Leaping from roof to roof is just fun for Robert.

Eddie Cline is on the last lap of his present picture now in the making at the Fox-Sunshine studio. Follow me.

Babe Hardy is working with Jimmy Aubry at the Vitagraph, doing one of the villainiest villains that ever tackled a hero.

Jack Wells, directing at the Big U, had almost three hundred extras in a scene the other evening, and the way that he and his assistant Mack Wright manupulated matters shows that they have had quite a schooling in such matters.

Bob McKenzie, who is known as "The Comical Scoundrel," has been aiding W. S. Campbell in the cutting and titling of his present Joe Martin Comedy and will be a steady fixture with that company in both capacities.

Dan Crimmons just completed a good part with Director Frank Coleman and expects to be cast in a feature production by one of our leading directors within the next seven days.

Vernon Dent, well known as a cabaret entertainer, has turned his attentions to the movies, and is now doing "heavies" for Hank Mann. He is surprising some of the knowing ones by the way he is getting away with it.

Walter Long is working opposite Major Robert Warwick under the direction of James Cruze, playing a very important part.

Chas. Clary is playing an excellent part for the Universal under the direc tion of William C. Dowlin. It's a long time since we've caught Mr. Clary looking chipper than he does right now.

Arvid Gilstrum, who directed the Lee Kids here for the Fox, is now in Denver where he is producing some comedies that are short subjects on topics of the day. Buddy Ross went there the other day to join him.

E. R. Hinds is going to the Orient with Henry McRea as cameraman and laboratory chief. He has only been back from France a short time where he served Uncle Sam.

Fred Starr has been cast for a good part with Madeline Travarse at the Fox studio, and starts working Monday. Fred just completed a picture at the Universal.

William S. Hart and Douglas Fairbanks, I'm told, are hustling at top speed to get their present productions finished so they will be in New York City ready to release September 1st, and from all reports the Hart aggregation have the lead as far as having more of their subject cut and titled than has the Fairbanks company.

Roy Del Ruth is directing Jack Copper. They seem to get along like brothers, which accounts for the good subjects that Roy is reported to be producing for the Fox-Sunshine Corporation.

Duke Warren is directing Bert Wilson and Neva Gerber in a serial out at the Universal. He is about half way through the subject and from what they tell me he is going to make 'em sit up and take notice.

Bob Kortman, who does stunts in serials, is out hunting deer over Sunday and says that if he brings back as many deers as he has promised to share among his friends, he will need a dray to haul them in.

J. G. Blystone starts a new picture Monday at the Fox-Sunshine studio in which Glen Cavender will play the leading role. I'll bet it will be funny, for Glenn is naturally so, and that simplifies matters.

Mack Swain always gets Saturday and Sunday off after finishing one of his comedies for he figures he owes those days to his family, chickens and everything that he has on his ranch.

Frank Hayes is amusing Vitagraphites in a Larry Semon comedy now in the making and as soon as he completes this story he will return to W. S. Campbell for a series of two-reel subjects.

John P. McCarthy is cutting and titling his story and expects to get started on another one in ten days.

Joe Singleton is playing the villian in the play for Texas Guinan. Saw some of his scenes run off the other day, he's the meanest man in the town and everything.

Fontine La Rue is working nights at the Goldwyn studio and days at the Stuart Payton plant down at Santa Monica, which means that the charming Fontine is motoring between home and these studios, and while enjoying such wonderful drives is drawing down double pay. Gee! it must be great to be in the movies.

Mrs. Victor Potel (Mildred Pamm), motored up to Victorville and out on to the desert to meet friend husband and escort him back home after he completes his work in a Goldwyn picture now in the making up there.

W. S. Campbell is almost ready to write finis to his present vehicle at the Universal, which will be a five-reel subject featuring Joe Martin. This will be the first comedy of this length ever released that features an animal.

Harry Mann is waiting on the powers that be to give him the word as to his future efforts for the Big U.

LEAVES FOR ORIENT

Miss Elinor Fried leaves early in the week for San Francisco, en route to Japan and the Orient. Miss Fried will be gone for an indefinite length of time.

LLOYD HAMILTON

Lloyd Hamilton has thrown one of his old hats into the ring along with the rest of them, and has issued a challenge to the w.k. Jack Dempsey. After stating that the challenge is not issued for publicity purposes, "Ham" lays down the following conditions:

The fight shall be for ten rounds, and during the first nine rounds Dempsey's right hand shall be tied to his necktie.

Throughout the fight Dempsey must carry a step-ladder.

The floor shall be covered with feather mattresses not less than fourteen inches thick.

Only spectators with luxurious hair may occupy ringside seats. No hard domes allowed within ten rows of the ring.

Ham must be permitted to carry his lucky horse shoe in his right glove.

Either contestant may stop the action at any moment by crossing his fingers.

"AMONG THOSE PRESENT"

Five boxes at the big Western rodeo held at Los Angeles Sunday as greeting and entertainment to 10,000 sailors of the Pacific Fleet were occupied by Metro people. Mme. Alla Nazimova had a box. May Allison had a box and was present with her sister, Mrs. Maude Latham, and her escort. Viola Dana had a box, and sat with her sister, Shirley Mason; their mother; Bernard Durning, her brother-in-law, and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Ince. Bert Lytell had a box and with him sat Alice Lake, his leading lady; Jack Conway, his director; Ann May, Jack Dillon and Virginia Caldwell. In the official Metro box sat Frank Currier, Joseph Kilgour and Joseph Connelly.

PATENT ON MARKET

Roscoe Arbuckle has embarked on another business enterprise, and has become the financial backer of the Olin stage brace, recently invented by Earle Olin, technical director at the Henry Lehrman Studios, where the Arbuckle company is now making pictures. A partnership has been formed by Mr. Olin and the comedian, and the new combination brace and scenery clamp will soon be placed on the market through a San Francisco manufacturing firm.

Lou Anger, business manager for Mr. Arbuckle, will be in charge of the marketing of the new device, which entirely eliminates the use of nails in erecting sets. This will prove a measure of distinct economy for producers, both in saving wear and tear on scenery and in the saving of time in erecting it.

MORE POINTERS FOR SCENARIO WRITERS

By Will M. Ritchey

7. Do not think out horrible incidents or situations.

8. Don't submit a detailed continuity until you have studied how; stick to a well composed synopsis.

9. Do not give a lot of advice to the director; he knows how to obtain results better than you do.

10. Avoid too many adjectives and, for that matter, superlatives.

11. Do not write of phases of life you are unacquainted with.

12. Remember that imagination must link with facts.

SPEAKING OF BASEBALL

Bert Lytell told visiting sailors of the U. S. S. Wyoming, U. S. S. New York and U. S. S. New Mexico this story when they visited him on the "Lombardi, Ltd." set this week:

"Say men, did you ever hear about the Englishman at his first ball game? He watched one side hang up a score of three runs in the first inning, and the other side follow it with four runs. Then for inning after inning the scorekeeper hung up big empty zeros on his board. Finally the Englishman left in disgust.

"What was the score?" asked the gatekeeper.

"'My Gawd, old chapie, it was up in the beastly millions—I lost count!"

Back from Location

Tom Moore has returned from San Francisco and Burlingame, California, where he got some interesting scenes for his latest production which is being directed by Harry Beaumont, with E. J. Babille assisting and Norbert Brodin at the camera. The famous George W. Pope estate was used, and there Tom Moore had the honor of meeting Major General Liggett who was a guest at the house. Among the supporting players are: Gloria Hope, who plays opposite; Hazel Daly (Mrs. Beaumont); Naomi Childers; Sydney Ainsworth, the heavy; Kathleen Kirkham, Artnur Housman, Henry Miller, Jr., Clark Coffey, Dorothy Gordon and Florence Lawson.

Sol. M. Wurtzel, general superintendent of the Fox Film Corporation studios in Hollywood, Cal., Hampton Del Ruth, supervising director of the Fox Sunshine comedies, and Lou Seiler, assistant superintendent Fox Sunshine comedies, spent the week-end at the Hotel St. Catherine, Santa Catalina. Mr. Wurtzel caught a 98-pound tuna fish after a fight of forty minutes. Mrs. Del Ruth, who accompanied her husband, returned with him. Mrs. Wurtzel and Miss Lillian Wurtzel will remain at the hotel for some weeks.

By Harry Burns

The arrival of Uncle Sam's Pacific Coast Fleet caused the assistant directors of the Southland no end of worry, for the studio managers immediately struck upon a noble idea of what a fine thing it would be to photograph some scenes about the water fronts, out at sea, and of course aboard some of the vessels. In fact, scenario writers schemed in all sorts of situations which would call for many interesting views of the big fleet.

This was all nice and sweet for these individuals to think up but the assistant directors were the boys who had to be the Mr. Fixits as usual and they had to prove better scouts than any of the Burns Detective Agencies in order to arrange everything.

It was a grand sight, mates, to see the companies with their outfits, actors and auxiliary facilities which they have to use to make motion pictures on the jump, going here, there and everywhere that you might think a battleship would anchor. To say that the assistant directors got everything that they went after, would be putting it mildly, for they once more proved that they are the men of the hour, deserving of consideration beside their "boss" who is given screen mention for producing and directing a timely story, with real atmosphere, in which the smallest detail hasn't been overlooked. No matter what the event, happening or situation, the assistant directors always prove themselves to be the main spring of the time, and their handiwork can be seen everywhere.

The day will soon arrive when every one will realize what a valuable man such an individual really is to a motion picture studio.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

PRAGER HOME

William Langton Prager, formerly a juvenile at Universal City, has returned to the city after two years service overseas with the American engineers. Leaving the film plant to go to war he was in the first contingent to arrive in France, and has the distinction of having been the first American in uniform to step foot in Amsterdam, Holland. He will resume his picture work after a short rest.

WEBER HERE

Lois Weber, is back once more in California. With friend husband Phillips Smalley, she will keep on holidaying for a spell and will then start making features once more, said pictures to be released by the Paramount-Artcraft.

PLAYING HEAVY ROLE

Joseph Singleton, who was cast in heavy roles in the James J. Corbett pictures, for seven months, is now with the Texas Guinan company.

FALL FASHION FANCIES

Perhaps the question of the early autumn wrap is one of the most important, just now. We find that the Parisian continues to hold the cape very much in favor. Capes of every sort of material are very smart Satin, fur, velours, mousseline—the new capes are cut without collars, to be worn with fur neck-pieces or very large fur collars are attacked.

GREAT HOPES

The Fred Stone company is still in Wyoming and director Frank Borzage sends a little note which says, "Working like blazes. Hope to see you in about two weeks' time. Think we have a big and unusual picture."

MADLAINE'S STORY

Miss Madlaine Traverse, William Fox star, in her next picture, a South African story, will be directed by Edmund Lawrence.

MACDONALD PRODUCTIONS

Katherine MacDonald will be presented by Sam E. Rork in a series of twelve productions for the First National to be completed within the next two years. Mr. Rork, who arrived from the east Sunday night, confirmed the announcement which had already been officially made from New York. The contract is said to be one of the biggest ever signed involving the productions of a single star. Two of the productions, "The Bleeders" and "The Thunderbolt," have been delivered to the First National and work will start within the week on the next production at the Katherine MacDonald studios.

A SPLENDID HAZARD

The photoplay rights for Harold MacGrath's romantic tale of adventure, "A Splendid Hazard," have been purchased, and the story will be produced for the screen in the near future under the direction of Allan Dwan.

Lillian Ducey, the short story and scenario writer, is finishing the final work on the script to be used for the picture version of the story.

Announcement has not been made yet, as to who will appear in the cast of the picture.

The story as it appears in book form is what could properly be termed as an all star story. Each of the leading characters in the tale has an equal amount to do with the unfolding of the story.

BILL HOME

"Smiling Bill" Parsons has returned from New York, having completed his business in the eastern metropolis. His stay was somewhat shortened, due to the showing of Billie Rhodes latest feature, "The Blue Bonnet," at the Kinema Theatre, which debut he was desirous of witnessing.

DE HAVEN'S FEATURE

Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven have completed their latest feature comedy, "His Own Medicine," and will start immediately on the first scenes of another mirth provoker under the direction of Wm. Seider, from a story by Bob McGowan.

FINIS TO "CONFESSION"

Director Bertram Bracken has written finis to the stupendous feature production, "The Confession."

It is rumored that a new star will be added to the National roster, in which event Mr. Bracken will undoubtedly be selected as the director.

Eddie Flanagan and Neely Edwards, co-starring in the "Hall Room Boys" series at the National Studios, have nearly completed the seventh comedy of their scheduled twenty-six. Harry Edwards is directing them. Reports from New York state that they are going over with a bang wherever shown.

FROM LITTLE BEAR

Ann Little and Jack Hoxie with their entire company have returned from a several weeks sojourn in Bear Valley where they have been engaged in taking many episodes of their eighteen-episode serial, "Lightning Bryce," under the direction of Paul Hurst.

"DEVIL'S RIDDLE"

Frank R. Beal, Fox Film director, who has gone to San Francisco with Mrs. Beal, will return to the Fox Film studios in Hollywood in a few days to begin with Miss Gladys Brockwell in a picture written from Edwina Levin's short story in the Argosy, "The Devil's Riddle," which largely concerns an artist and his model.

RAY-FAIR FILM

Albert Ray and Miss Elinor Fair, co-stars of the Fox Film Corporation, are enjoying a vacation for a few days after hard work for several months in the production of four pictures. Scott Dunlap, their director, will begin with them in a few days on their fifth picture for the Fox Company. Mr. Dunlap will write the scenario from a story by J. Anthony Roach.

NEW BEACH PRODUCTION

"The Silver Horde," conceded to be Rex Beach's finest novel, has been placed in production at the Goldwyn studios, with Frank Lloyd directing. The entire company, numbering fifty persons, left Wednesday for Bellingham, Wash., where they will remain several weeks.

"The Silver Horde" will bring Myrtle Stedman back to the screen in the role of Cherry Malotte, one of the author's finest character creations. It will be remembered that Cherry Malotte also appeared in "The Spoilers."

R. D. McLean will play Wayne Wayland and Robert McKim was chosen by Rex Beach to essay Marsh, the arch-villain of "The Silver Horde;" while Hector V. Sarno, remembered for his work in "The Crimson Gardenia," has an even better role in the new production.

Betty Blythe, brought from New York expressly for this production, appears as Mildred Wayland. Others of note are Bull Durham, M. B. Flynn, E. J. Denecke, Frederick Stanton, Carl Gerard, Curtis Cooksey, Neola Mae and Murdock MacQuarrie, who also assists Frank Lloyd in the direction of the drama. William Foster is the cinematographer.

WURTZEL RETURNS

Sol M. Wurtzey, general superintendent of the William Fox studios in Hollywood, has returned from Ponca City, Okla., to which place he accompanied Tom Mix to start him off on his new picture.

SHOOTING TO START

Henry Lahrman has returned to Los Angeles from Colorado Springs, Colo., where he has been for the past week attending an important meeting of the executive officers of the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. The producer was accompanied by Henry Symonds, a member of his staff.

Filming of the first Lehrman comedy will be started immediately.

MAY WALTERS EAST

May Walters is enjoying a goodly vacation for two months, having gone to Washington on a visit to her mother. She will be home and ready for work early in September.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

Robert E. MacAlarney, head of the scenario department of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, will pay his first visit to the Pacific coast, arriving in Los Angeles this week. He will combine business with pleasure and spend a considerable time in consultation with Frank E. Woods at the Lasky studio, over the work and plans of this tremendously important department of the big film organization. Mr. MacAlarney was formerly a well-known New York newspaper man.

LIGHT INCREASE

With construction of the new $25,000 stage rapidly nearing completion at the Goldwyn Studios, it has been decided that more electricity will be needed for the artificial lights, so a $13,000 motor generator outfit is to be installed, the order going east this week for the high voltage equipment. An addition is to be made to the concrete power-house which will house this big 450 horsepower set. This is composed of a 2300-volt cynchronous motor, directly connected to two 125-volt generators. This will be the largest set at the studio.

"EVERYWOMAN" ELABORATE

George H. Melford is still working on the Paramount-Artcraft spectacle, "Everywoman," and has now arrived at a point where the vision of the court of King Love as seen in her mind's eye by "Everywoman" is shown. The settings and costuming of this scene are all in the Louis XV period.

The Famous Players-Lasky studio this week has been the Mecca for the officers and men of the Pacific Fleet, who have visited the spacious plant almost daily and have one and all expressed great enthusiasm over the extent of the industry as exemplified thereby. Secretary Daniels and Mayor Snyder of Los Angeles were among the guests of Monday and were escorted by Cecil B. de Mille, Frank A. Garbutt and Milton E. Hoffman on their tour of the studio.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Allen and Mr. James Fish spent last week-end at Palisades Tavern as the guest of Mr. Franklin, the proprietor of the tavern.

REFLECTED GLORY

George Beban's appreciation of a good joke is in no wise lessened when the joke is on him.

The other day a young lady and her father, visitors from the North, were sauntering slowly through the lobby of the Athletic Club. At the desk, Mr. Beban was hastily gathering up a pile of mail handed over by the clerk. Turning hurriedly, he collided with the young lady's father. A profuse apology was offered, and Mr. Beban dashed on his way—but the young lady stood rooted to the spot.

"Dad!" in a stage whisper, "do you know who that was?"

"No!" (quite gruffly) "Who?"

"Why—George Beban!"

"Well, who's he?"

"Oh, Dad" (a hasty glance around to see that none had heard this overwhelmingly embarrassing admission of ignorance) "Surely you know who George Beban is!"

"Beban? Beban? Oh, to be sure! He has a little son who is a very clever actor—or something!"

The following is an example of what we would emphatically term "Great Stuff":

Mr. Wiliam Carr,
Marshall Neilan Productions,
Los Angeles, California.

Dear Mr. Carr:

I am about to leave for New York, and during my absence I want you and other members of my loyal organization to have a vacation on me. It is probable that I will not resume work until about four weeks from the present time.

Please leave your address and phone number with Mr. Wales, my business manager, who will notify you when I wish you to report again. In the meantime, Mr. Wales will mail salary checks weekly to you.

Hoping you will have a good rest, which you deserve, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
M. A. NEILAN.

P. S.—Salary two weeks in advance will be paid you as soon as you finish with Anita Stewart Company.

'THE BEACH COMBER'

Frederic Starr, has just completed an important part in Rex Ingraham's feature, "The Beach Comber." Mr. Starr moves over to the Fox forces, to a part with Madaline Traverse.

WITH MISS YOUNG

Ralph Lewis is playing the role of Goring with Clara Kimball Young in the current picturization of "Eyes of Youth." Others in the cast are William Courtleigh, Vincent Serrano and Sam Southern.

NO REST FOR THE WICKED!

George Beban had an idea that his travelling days were over for a while, so he settled down the other day for the entire afternoon to work on the story for the second Beban Production. Then, as he was preparing to go to the club for dinner, there came a phone call from the Los Angeles representatives of Sol Lesser.

"Say, George,' said Benjamin, "I know you're tired of this personal appearance stuff after your long tour, but "Hearts of Men" plays San Diego next week, and if you could——"

"But I can't!" interrupted Beban firmly. 'I'm just starting on my next story, and have lost enough time!"

"Well, all right," replied Benjamin gloomily. "And say—coming down town now? Well, will you drop in?"

An hour later, the two sat chatting in Benjamin's office—about everything in the world except a personal appearance in San Diego! The door opened—a smiling gentleman appeared—apologized for having intruded and started to withdraw.

"Oh, come in Mr. Bush—I'd like to introduce you to Mr. Beban. You two should certainly know each other—you're both such enthusiastic fishermen."

"Well, well!" exclaimed Mr. Bush, heartily as he grasped the star's hand. "If you like to fish, San Diego's the place for you. I live there, you see—and such fish! Sword fish—the gamest you ever saw! I have a yacht, and I'd like to se if I couldn't beat you bringing in the——. Say, Mr. Beban, come down and be my guest for a week! We'll have a fishing contest!"

Mr. Beban's eyes sparkled, but he hesitated.

"No," he shook his head sadly. "Mighty kind of you but I'm working on a story. Mustn't loose time. Have a whole staff who would be held up by my absence."

"Objections all thrown out!" laughed Mr. Bush. "Bring 'em all! I invite your whole staff! Work when you have to—and fish when you can!"

And of course, the invitation was accepted! Then—

Said Mr. Benjamin: "You'll be able to see how San Diego picture-goers like your picture, George. Mr. Bush here, owns the Superba where it is playing."

"That so?" Mr. Beban was surprised. "Then, about that personal appearance—of course, I could make——"

"I should say not!" indignantly exclaimed Mr. Bush. 'With all the work you have to do? We've got to fish, you know!"

"But a couple of appearances," said Mr. Beban to his prospective host. "I'd be glad to arrange——."

Still Mr. Bush refused to listen to it—but as they went out, arm in arm, Benjamin heard Mr. Bush say, reluctantly, "Well—if you insist——."

And that's no fish story!

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

CATHRINE CURTIS FORMS COMPANY

What is believed to be the first instance on record, in which the feminine mind assumes the dual role of producer and executive manager, became known, this week, with the announcement of the launching of the Cathrine Curtis Corporation. Backed by Wall Street financiers, the organization after months of silent preparations, has just sprung into being, with headquarters in Los Angeles, and New York offices at 120 Broadway.

Miss Curtis, through whose efforts alone, new eastern capital has become interested in the photoplay industry, has been made president, George M. Taylor, vice-president, and Dorman T. Connet, secretary and treasurer. On the board of directors are Arthur F. Spalding, Malcolm McLellan, and Robert M. Simpson, all members of New York Stock Exchange and New York Cotton Exchange; George M. Taylor, E. R. Pirtle and Albert L. Judson, capitalists; George J. Whalen, president of the United Cigar Stores Company; Reese Llewellyn, president of the Llewellyn Iron Works, and William Dewey Loucks, the attorney. Loucks and Alexander are counsel for the corporation.

Miss Curtis is now in Los Angeles organizing her producing forces. She has not as yet announced the details of her first undertaking. Miss Curtis informs us that she will probably rent studio space, at first, but she wants to have her own studio as soon as possible.

KERRIGAN COMPLETES THIRD FEATURE

The third of J. Warren Kerrigan's new series of productions made by Robert Brunton with the star's own company was completed this week, and is in the hands of the cutting, editing and titling departments. No name for the Kerrigan story has as yet been given out. The story gives Mr. Kerrigan an Irish characterization, and the action is divided between Ireland and America.

Fritzi Brunette, leading, heads Mr. Kerrigan's cast, which besides Miss Brunette includes Joseph J. Dowling, Wedgwood Nowell, William Ilingford, James O. Barrows, and Aggie Herring. Ernest C. Warde directed the feature, with cameraman Arthur Todd grinding the film. The star and producers are particularly pleased by the beautiful lighting and photographic effects obtained by Mr. Todd; this being his first picture with Mr. Brunton or Mr. Kerrigan.

GLAUM VEHICLE

J. Parker Read, Jr., is putting the final touches to Louise Glaum's latest starring vehicle, under his management.

HUGHES' STORY

"The Cup of Fury," by Rupert Hughes, first of the Eminent Authors' productions announced by Samuel Goldwyn, has been started at the Culver City studios under the direction of T. Hayes Hunter. In collaboration with Major Hughes, the scenario was written by E. Richard Schayer and an uncommonly interesting case, personally selected by the author, has been chosen to interpret the drama. Helene Chadwick, now a permanent member of the Goldwyn repertory players, and Rockcliffe Fellowes, assume the leading roles. Kate Lester, Florence Deshon, Sydney Ainsworth, also regulars at the studio, have important parts, together with Clarissa Selwynne, Frank Leigh and Dwight Crittenden.

BLACKWELL COMPANY

The Carlyle Blackwell Company have been at Laguna, New Mexico, for the past week taking special scenes for his first big super production.

Carlyle renewed his acquaintance with his old friend, Frank Whitmore lieutenant governor of the Pueblo Indians, and Mr. Blackwell and his company were accorded a royal welcome by Mr. Whitmore and the Indians and were given the use of their entire village.

BEACH STORY UNDER WAY

Frank Lloyd has commenced the production of "The Silver Horde, by Rex Beach, for the Goldwyn company. It will be a massive production and scenes will be taken in a number of distant locations. Director Lloyd has a carefully selected all-star cast with Myrtle Stedman in one of the leading roles.

RAY-FAIR FEATURE

Albert Ray and Elinor Fair, under Scott Dunlap's direction, are putting on "A Little Prayer for Rain," adapted from a story which appeared in "The Red Book." Al appears as a jocky and Elinor has a sympathetic part. The company will take race course scenes at Sacramento. Hal Roach did the adapting.

TREASURE ISLAND

Maurice Tourneur has nearly completed his production of "Victory" and is preparing for an adaptation of that entertaining classic, "Treasure Island." This should make a wonder-Island." Included in a large cast are Jack Holt, Lon Chaney, Wilton Taylor and Bull Montana

BARRISCALE FEATURE

"Kitty Kelly, M. D." will be Bessie Barriscale's eighth picture under her Robertson-Cole contract.

CHRISTIE SPECIAL

With another special cast lined up, headed by Fay Tincher, Al E. Christie has started production of a two-reel entitled "Wild and Western."

In the cast are Fay Tincher, Earle Rodney, Eddie Barry, Neal Burns and Zelletta Du For. Rodney and Barry appeared with Fay Tincher in "Dangerous Nan McGrew," a special which has just been released. Neal Burns, for a long time a leading player in Christie Comedies, appears with Edith Roberts in the Christie Special for September entitled "He Married His Wife," while Miss Du Far, who plays the ingenue role, is a new arrival in the Hollywood film colony from New York.

COMEDY COMPANY FORMED

A new comedy producing company has been formed known as Gaiety Comedies, Inc., to produce in Los Angeles comedies in one reel, to be released through independent exchanges. Production of comedies begins the week of August 18th, studio space having been secured at the enlarged studios being rebuilt on Gower street and Sunset boulevard. Los Angeles capital is mainly behind the organization, corporation papers of which have been filed, and E. H. Emmick, president of the Peerless Film Service, San Francisco, and J. L. Friedman of Celebrated Players Film Corporation, Chicago, hold interests in the company and will be prominent on the board of directors.

George Ovey, musical comedy man, has been secured as principal comedian. Ovey will be featured in one release every week, the type of pictures being light farce.

Craig Hutchinson will be the chief director.

James Clemens has been named as studio business manager of Gaiety Comedies.

FARRAR LOCATION

The Geraldine Farrar company of Goldwyn players left Thursday afternoon from the Southern Pacific station on a picture taking expedition to the desert near Oxnard and Hueneme. A vanguard of fifteen heavily laden motor trucks are on the way north now.

CAPITOL NEWS

Al Jennings and S. L. Barnhard, president of the Capital Film company, just came from the east where Mr. Jenning made a personal appearance tour. The object of the president's visit is to enlarge the quarters and consolidate so that the Capitol Film company can operate four units instead of two, this being due to the fact that the Hart and Jennings pictures have been sold through the United States, Canada and European rights, leaving the sales organization with nothing to do until they can supply them with additional pictures for distribution.

ATHERTON PICTURE

Gertrude Atherton's first story to be pictured by Goldwyn will be "Perch of the Devil." Rupert Julian, who was "the Beast of Berlin," will direct it.

William Watson, who is directing two-reel Century comedies at L. K. O., has just completed another "Wild Lion" comedy. He is assisted by Charlie Roberts, with R. D. Armstrong turning the crank. Myrtle Sterling is his leading lady while Cliff Bowes is the comedy lead, ably assisted by "Bud" Jameson.

THIRD MacDONALD FILM

Work on the third picture to be produced by the Katherine MacDonald Pictures Corporation for the First National Exhibitors will begin at the Georgia street studio in less than ten days. The completed series will consist of twelve photoplays, to be delivered in two years. "Japonette, or the Turning Point," by Rober W. Chambers, is the new story. It is now being turned into scenario form in New York by Anthony Paul Kelly, in collaboration with Mr. Chambers himself. The screen version will be called "The Turning Point." In the story Miss MacDonald has the role of Diane, a California girl who became a social entertainer in New York.

"SEA WOLF"

George H. Melford will direct "The Sea Wolf," Jack London's masterpiece, although the choice for the title role has not yet been determined upon. It is to be a Paramount-Artcraft picture. One of the requirements of the picture is a ferry boat, which will be pretty well destroyed before the film is completed. Therefore, Fred Kley will leave for San Francisco next week to purchase a ferry boat and also to arrange for securing a schooner for the Sea Wolf's use.

CLAYTON AT MOROSCO

Ethel Clayton is to start work in a few days under her new contract with Famous Players-Lasky on a picture to be directed by Robert G. Vignola.

BACK TO BAGDAD

Violet Heming leaves Monday for New York to resume her work in "Three Faces East" on the stage, for she will by that time have completed her work in "Everywoman," directed by George H. Melford. The remaining scenes, in which Miss Heming does not appear, will be completed by some time next week when the picture will go to the cutting room for final treatment.

William C. de Mille has begun upon "The Tree of Knowledge," starring Robert Warwick, and the first work was in the nature of a prologue, portraying a fanciful vision of the days of our first parents, with Eve played by Yvonne Gardelle and Adam by Theodore Kosloff, the famous dancer.

Gale Henry this week started work on a new comedy under the direction of Herman C. Raymaker.

REID BUSY

James Cruze starts Monday on "Hawthorne of the U. S. A." Wallace Reid is the star, supported by Lila Lee.

UNIVERSAL NOTES

From Ham Beall

The starting of production on "Ambition," Allen Holubar's next feature to follow "The Right to Happiness," has been the biggest event of the current week's activities at Universal. Holubar took his company to the little town of Pleasanton near San Francisco to start shooting the "small town" scenes. Holubar wrote the story himself and Dorothy Phillips is to be the star, surrounded by a cast including Robert Andersen, Rulof Valentina, Mrs. Margaret Mann, George Hackathorne, Elinor Field, William Ellingford,, Emily Chichester, Mary Wise and Katherine Griffith.

Harry Carey has started work on a new six-reel feature entitled "The Gift of the Desert." Jack Ford is directing the production. The story was written by Peter B. Kyne and appeared in the Saturday Evening Post under the title "The Three Godfathers." Carey plays the part of one godfather, while the other two are oJe Harris and J. Farrell McDonald.

Director Douglas Gerrard is shooting the concluding scenes of Monroe Salisbury's latest starring vehicle, "The Divorced Wife."

Frank Coleman has just completed a one-reel comedy, "When Cactus Corners Went Dry," in which he played the principal role. He also wrote the story.

"Betty Reforms," a six-reel special feature, starring Ora Carew, Forrest Stanley and Charles Clary, is under way under William C. Dowlan's direction. Other players in the cast are Frank MacQuarrie, Blanche Rose, Frank Thompson, Burwell Hamrick, Andrew Waldron and Cora Drew. Mildred Considine wrote the story, the scenario of which was prepared by Doris Schroeder.

Director Rex Ingram has taken his company of players, headed by Elmo Lincoln, to San Francisco, where they will film scenes for "The Beach Comber," Lincoln's big sea story. Mabel Ballin is playing opposite Lincoln, while other important roles are in the hands of Frank Brownlee, Paul Weigel, Dick La Reno and Ethelyn Irving. Harvey Thew prepared the scenario from J. G. Hawks original story.

Director Jacques Jaccard has practically completed his special air story, "The Winged Trail," featuring Lieut. O. L. Lockyear. Francelia Billington, Allan Forrest, Carmen Phillips and Ray Ripley are in the supporting cast.

Director Norman Dawn and his company have left Universal City for Victorville, Cal., where they will shoot the round-up and stampede scenes for "Lasca," a six-reel feature starring Frank Mayo and Edith Roberts. The story was adapted for the screen by Percy Heath from Frank Duprez's famous poem of the same name.

Work has started on the production of a new two-reel western, "Shameless Saunderson," in which "Hoot" Gibson and Josephine Hill play the featured roles. Eddie Kull is directing.

The following letter was received by Camera! from the local committee of the Actors' Equity Association:

"Through the courtesy of Camera! we would like to publicly express, on behalf of the Actors' Equity Association, our heartfelt gratitude for the most generous financial support tendered by the men and women of the motion picture industry. Their kindness will never be forgotten. Those of you who want your names added to the list, address any of the undersigned."

WM. COURTLEIGH,
MILTON SILLS,
EDWARD CONNELLY,
BERT LYTELL.

In accordance with the suggestion made by Camera! in the last issue, the motion picture people have responded promptly and generously in subscribing to the striking actors' fund. The first Hollywood mass meeting of the Actors' Equity Association was attended by a large number of motion picture people. Seventy-three hundred dollars was subscribed Monday night, and by Wednesday evening the pledges had swelled the total to $10,000. Telegrams from New York City are very favorable, the benefit-program actors playing to a full house, which has sold out every night at $2 a seat, amounting to about $10,000 each night.

At this rate Hollywood members feel that the strike cannot last much longer, and will not spread further west. Bert Lytell, speaking for the local committee, says that the idea of a sympathetic studio strike in Los Angeles is absolutely ridiculous and out of the question. The circumstances are entirely different and the picture people have no complaint whatever to make against the motion picture actors' labor conditions. Their support of the Equity Association members is given in a realization of existing relations between the legitimate actor and manager.

Camera! has published of late the opinions and criticisms of various directors, producers and writers in regard to the current screen literature. Here we have the ideas of a star on this much discussed subject.

Why do stars, in both dramatic and comedy fields, write their own scenarios? One logical answer is volunteered by Lew Cody.

"The trouble is this," says Mr. Cody. "Scenario writers do not study their stars. They create their plots in too general a manner. They write their material to fit too many people. It is the most difficult thing in the world for me to find suitable stories for the reason that I am creating an entirely new sort of screen character, because I am trying to do something different. Scenario writing has not developed the necessary 'selling confidence.' That is, the author trying to make sure of disposing of his wares, writes for 'types' and not for individuals.

"It would be decidedly more worth while for the screen author to create new characters than for him to be continually marketing stories along lines already passe. In other words, the reason why cinema writers have not yet been recognized on the same plane with legitimate playwrights and novelists is that they have not striven for original expression in the same measure as have other literary creators. That is why, too, the novelists, short-story writers and playwrights are being welcomed into pictures, and that is why the literature of the screen is going to go forward by long strides from now on."

A HEART TO HEART TALK

By J. B. Laflin

The system adopted at the studios in regard to the workers has outlived its usefulness and is now an unmitigated curse.

It stands in the way of progress and checks the advance of the actor, and the production has to suffer.

If by its fruits we know the tree, so by the same token do we know our industry's system.

Its corrupt fruit betrays its foul and unclean system and condemns it to death.

Evolution is the order of nature and society, and, like the units that compose it, are subject to its inexorable laws.

The day of individual effort to accomplish one's own rights is gone, never to return.

The studios reared on their old foundation are crumbling.

The working class are being knitted together in the bonds of co-operation. They are becoming conscious of their interest as a class.

With the triumph of the players, the mode of production will be completely revolutionized.

The players will work together in harmony, instead of being arrayed against each other in competitive warfare.

The player should know that the Labor Movement means more, infinitely more, than paltry increase in wages; that while it engages to do all that possibly can be done to better the working conditions, one of its highest objects is to give to the world the real art, and to give the artist a chance to give his best to the public, who are now craving for the real productions.

Wendall Phillips once said: "I hail the Labor Movement—that is my hope for Democracy."

Wendall Phillips was right. He spoke with prophetic insight. He knew that the Labor Movement alone could democratize society and give freedom to the race.

I suggest a little more democracy among the actors outside of our Picture Players' Union, and a little more interest taken in the co-operation that is sooner or later going to make it possible for a man to be a man and a woman to be a woman—even in the picture game.

THIS WINS THE FIRELESS COOKER

Following are four announcements issued by Henry Lehrman this week:

Mr. Lehrman does not promote golf tournaments.

Mr. Lehrman is not acquainted with any Chinese bandits.

Mr. Lehrman never disappears, since he always carries a compass.

Mr. Lehrman has never received a letter from a Japanese schoolboy.

This is really unkind, Henry. You know us "movin' pitcher" people must have publicity, even when it's gained through a "take-off" on the undefended absent ones.

MOTION PICTURE PATENTS

Attachments for Moving Picture Machines. Basil G. Downer, South Bend, Ind. Filed October 3, 1917. Serial No. 194,445. One claim.

The combination with a film box formed with a light-admitting opening and cooling plates secured thereto, of a shutter formed with slots to slidably engage the cooling-plate connecting means, a lever pivoted on the box and having one end adapted to be moved to and from a position beneath the lower edge of the shutter, an arm pivotally mounted in the box with one end formed for rolling contact with the film, the opposite end of the arm being adapted to engage and operate the lever upon breakage to the film.

Method of producing Moving Pictures. Lura S. Brainerd, Meriden, Conn. Filed June 9, 1915. Serial No. 33,102. Three claims.

1. The process of producing a film for moving pictures that consists in arranging a stage in front of a screen, placing a projecting apparatus and camera, introducing objects onto said stage in front of the screen while the camera is in operation, and without stopping the operation of the camera, changing the condition of the projecting apparatus.

Stereoscopic Motion Picture Camera. Howard L. Quick, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed January 29, 1916. Serial No. 74,988. Four claims.

1. In a device of the class described, the combination of a camera for taking successive pictures of objects in motion, and means for recording the subject on a sensitized medium or film and including a lens through which all the exposures are made and means for alternately opening different portions of the lens whereby alternate exposures will record the subject stereoscopically and with all the exposures in substantial alinement lengthwise of the sensitized medium.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

RUSTICATING

Mr. William Ely of The Screen Talent Representatives has left for a week's vacation in the mountains.

ON VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Peebles returned Thursday from Wheeler Hot Springs, where they have been spending their vacation.

HOLLYWOOD STUDIO CLUB NOTES

Sunday afternoon the Studio Club girls were invited in Miss Pickford's party to have tea on board the battleship "Texas." Among those present were the Misses Zasu Pitts, Betty Bouton, Helen Eddy, Julanne Johnston, Margaret Ettinger, Violet Clark, Peggy Hagar, Alice Mitchell,, Gladys Carley, Sarah Mason, Magda Lane, Cahse Herenden, Dagmar Godowsky, Gladys Baxter, Nell Newman. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. H. G. Montgomery, Mrs. Radford Johnston, Miss Mabelle Lewis and Miss Edna Harris.

Friday night an informal dance will be given at the Club and Miss Wanda Hawley will act as hostess. It is hoped that all members and friends will attend.

Tuesday night an informal birthday dinner was given at the Club in honor of Miss Chase Henderson, Alice Mitchell and Adeline Johnston. Guests, other than the girls of the Club, were Miss Breed, Lieutenant Herenden of Fort Worth, Texas, and Dudley Murphy.

Monday night Miss Renee Beaman gave an informal dancing party at her home in Laurel Canyon, entertaining the girls of the Club.

Miss Sarah Harris, who is Dean of Women and Rigestrar at Northwestern University, of Evanston, Illinois, spent the week-end with her sister, Miss Edna Harris, secretary of the Studio Club.

The Studio Girls are the proud possessors of a beautiful picture of their president, Miss Louis Huff, made by Alfred Cheney Johnston.

Miss Dorothy Reed was a guest of Mrs. Lamar Johnston for dinner on Monday night.

CLUB DINNER

Mr. Gilson-Willatts, who has been the guest of honor at many affairs during his stay in Los Angeles, acted as host last Friday night. The dinner was given at the Los Angeles Athletic Club, where Mr. Willatts is making his home. Among those who enjoyed his hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Gasnier, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Roach, Ruth Roland, Edith Thompson, Lionel Kent, Ralph Proctor and Mr. and Mrs. Field Carmichael.

MISS DANIELS HOSTESS

Last Saturday Miss Bebe Daniels was the hostess at a dinner given in honor of Hal Griffin and Max Stengler, both discharged soldiers. Corporal Stengler was gassed in the Argonne and entirely lost his speech for five weeks. He was with the Army of Occupation in Goblenz, Germany, and was recently discharged.

Miss Daniels' dinner decorations were red and white roses, with maidenhair fern giving a touch of greenery.

After dinner the guests attended the Orpheum, where Miss Daniels had arranged for a theatre party. Those who enjoyed the entertainment were Miss Georgie Griffin, Mrs. E. P. Griffin, Messrs. Max Stengler, Hal Griffin and Roy Phillips. Mrs. Phyllis Daniels assisted her daughter.

LIVE WIRE LUNCHEON

Miss Katherine Curtis gave a luncheon at the Alexandria Tuesday afternoon for local represenatives of the press. Everyone was surprised with a very novel arrangement. When the curtains closing the entrance to the private dining room were drawn aside, "WELCOME LIVE WIRES," in twelve-inch letters, stretched across the wall, greeted the guests. One glance about the room put everyone at ease, for it was as though they had stepped into a busy newspaper office. The floors were strewn with papers, and the small tables, placed in three rows, were covered with motion picture publications, ink-wells, copy-paper and pencils. Double-seated old-fashioned school-desk seats had usurped the place of the usual polite dinner chair.

On the hostess' desk was a telephone, and a very business-like type writer. For those who did not feel sufficiently snappy, a charged battery had been installed beneath one of the tables, and all of the seats had been wired. Kenneth O'Hara, Miss Curtis' news director, thoughtfully saw that every one was duly animated. Yes, it was really shocking! A buffet luncheon was served. The menus were typewritten on yellow copy paper, fastened with wire clips in a folded newspaper mat.

Among Miss Curtis' guests were Margaret Ettinger, Fritzi Remont, Florence Lawrence, Grace Kingsley, Mildred Davis, Marshall Lorrimer, Wid Gunning, G. P. Herleman, A. H. Geibler, Darwin S. Karr, H. E. Dougherty, I. C. Jessum, Homer B. King, R. W. Daley, and Kenneth O'Hara.

AT CATALINA

Mildred Harris Chaplin will leave this week for a short rest at Catalina Island, before resuming her picture work, according to her Louis B. Mayer contract. Mrs. Chaplin will stop at the St. Catherine Hotel, remaining there about two weeks.

HOME AGAIN

Gladys Rhodes is back again in her Hollywood home, after a very delightful vacation at Balboa beach. She is tanned and freckled—a regular redhead's complexion, Mrs. Rhodes declares.

AT WICKERSHAM HOME

On Saturday evening, Mr. Frederick Wickersham and Mr. and Mrs. Curt Woolfelt were hosts to nearly one hundred of the film people, at the Oxford avenue home of Mr. Wickersham.

The affair was undoubtedly the most prominent of the week. The large grounds surrounding the Wickersham residence were lighted by Japanese lanterns, and Max Fisher's orchestra furnished music for dancing throughout the evening.

SUNSET HOUSE PARTY

A coterie of film folk enjoyed a two days' house party at Sunset Beach over the last week-end, the promoters of the festivities being Harry Hammond Beall and Wililam Parker, the screen director. Dancing, dniing and swimming were the principal amusements enjoyed. Among the guests were Mrs. William Parker, Mrs. Harry Hammond Beall, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schroeder, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Finnan, Howard Knoth, Pearl Hutchinson, Miss Nellie Quinlan, B. D. Waugh and James Ring.

Among the guests were: Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, Misses Lottie Pickford, Signe Auen, Ruth Stonehouse, Clarine Seymour, Viola Dana, Shirley Mason, Edna Purviance, Gertrude Selby, Teddy Sampson, Ola Cronk, Emily Chichester, Ann May, Babe Daniels, Mildred Reardon, Messrs. Wallace FacDonald, James Kirkwood, Bernard Durning, Norman Kerry, Alan Dwan, Albert Parker, Eddie Sutherland, Vernon Kellogg, Sidney Cohn, Edmund Lowe, Jack Conway, Albert Roscoe, Kenneth Harlan, Bert Lytell, Max Fisher, Lew Cody, Mrs. Christy Cabanne and Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Hamilton.

OFFICERS ENTERTAIN PLAYERS

Without question, the officers and men of the battleships which have been in our harbor during the past two weeks will carry away with them many pleasant recollections of the courtesies extended them by the motion picture people of Los Angeles.

It is equally certain that the film people have appreciated thoroughly the affairs planned for them by the officers of the men-of-war. One of the most brilliant of these was the dinner-dance last Tuesday evening aboard the Georgia, at which the officers of the Georgia were hosts.

The ship was brilliantly illuminated with vari-colored lights, and the main deck was waxed for dancing. The guests of the officers were:: Misses Mabel Normand, Signe Auen, Clarine Seymour, Emily Chichester, Edna Purviance, Dorothy Wallace, Mrs. Williams, and Mrs. Pauline Gates of Pasadena, Messrs. Norman Kerry, Wallace MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. H. Ince, Mr. and Mrs. Curt Woolfelt, Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Sutherland, and Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie of Pasadena.

MITCHELL STUDIO NOTES

The first of the Wednesday evening inter-studio dances went off with a big noise. More than a hundred guests were present.

Among those present were: Clair Greenwood, Mrs. Frank Lowry, Margaret Miller, Mrs. R. B. Patterson, Faye Burley, Margaret Applewhite, Mrs. L. S. Moyer, Mae Wherret, Madelyn Roper, Ilean Hume, Miss Short, Mrs. Norton, Betty Waggoner, Mrs. Merl Forster, Ella Gaines, Marguerite Maloney, "B" Ackerson, Mabel McNeall, Allene Norton, Helene Lasham, Julia Henderson, Frances Warner, Gertrude Kelly, Charlotte Tully, Vivien Parmelle, Alta Hartman, Helen Stevens, Utahna La Reno, Rene Bannister, Fern Gardener, Genevieve Hartford, Dorothy De Noyer, George Darang, Al White, J. W. Andrews, Frank Stone, Dr. Harold Duey, "Jazz" Sharp, Ted Little, Lan Rico, W. B. Mullen, C. A. Baker, Jimmy Aubrey, Joe Kelly, Charlie King, Antram Short, Dr. Sidney Broadbent, Merl Forster, C. B. Currier, Harold Hamilton, Vincent Hamilton, Granville Campbell, Charles Crane, C. C. Conner, Russell McNeall, George Howard, Wallace J. Cenyseck, Ernest Sweeny, Henry Little Paul Palmer, Charlie Howkins, Charles King, and a host of others.

Next Saturday night James Mitchell will welcome his many old friends of the Dug Out, when the evening will show a big reunion among the Dug Out members.

Stanhope Wheatcroft, playing opposite Tsuri Aioki at the Universal, entertained a party of friends at the Studio last Wednesday.

* * *

Margaret Campbell, who supported Viola Dana in Please Get Married, just completed at the Metro, was hostess to a party of friends.

Antram Short, who is playing the lead opposite Viola Dana in Please Get Married, attended the dance with his sister. He executed a comedy dance introduction that was a knockout.

Charlie King almost stole Jimmy Mitchell's dance with Antram Short's li'l sister—but not quite. These fake phone calls come in too often.

Aileen Lowry was right in place with the Metro bunch.

LARRY SEMON

By Mildred Davis

Not many years ago the most conspicuous point of an actor's various talents was his versatility. The members of a theatrical road company found it necessary to be able not only to play one part successfully, but to "double in brass," as it were. In a week the actor was obliged to do the entire string of stunts—comedy, melodrama, dance and vaudeville-magic. And he had to get away with it in order to draw the weekly wherewithal.

A famous and successful showman of this type was Zera Semon, father of Lawrence Semon, the Larry Semon of comedy.

February of nineteen nineteen marked the twenty-eighth year since Larry Semon became a member of his father's stock company. The event occurred at West Point, Mississippi.

As soon as Larry began to talk and walk, he became his father's active assistant. We assume that he was a great help to father, for at the age of nine Larry was often left with the responsibility of seeing that everything "went right" for the evening show. Which all indicates that Larry was a studious youngster.

During his years of stage work, traveling practically every place in North and South America, Larry had an ambition aside from his acting. That was to become a cartoonist, an object which was realized. Using his keen observation, sense of humor and his natural ability, Larry became a successful cartoonist, signing a contract with the New York Evening Sun for his drawings.

While cartooning for the Sun, Larry was encouraged by his old friend, Commodore J. Stuart Blackton, to consider motion picture work, with a view to producing comedies. As Commodore Blackton's protege, Larry visited the old Vitagraph studios, at Brooklyn, whenever his drawing did not occupy his time. Larry studied industriously, and under the careful tutelage of the Commodore, he learned much of pictures.

After much preparation Larry signed with the Vitagraph to direct one-reel comedies, and as his contract with the Sun continued for a year the youthful director worked night and day for twelve months. That was about six years ago, and Larry has been working nearly as hard ever since.

Larry felt that he was through with acting for all time, but he gradually drifted into doing "bits," usually heavies, in his own one-reelers. He was then directing Hughie Mack and Jimmy Aubrey. When Jimmy Aubrey left the company, it was minus a star, and Larry was induced to step into the actor's shoes once more.

Four years he has been directing and starring in his own stories.

"I believe that the best results in pictures are always obtained when the individual is in a position to write and direct his own pictures. This is not always possible because few of the picture stars have had the necessary experience in the mechanics of the art," Larry tells us. "I have been fortunate in having had many years of experience and many friends to help me."

From his father, who was a magician, Larry learned many of the stunts which he now uses to great advantage in his own pictures.

Larry's friends in the profession are numerous, and the beginnings of some of the friendships date back to his boyhood. One of his oldest acquaintances is Charlie Murray, who staged his first act for Larry's father, remaining with him three years.

In Larry Semon we find a thoughtful worker. He applies the very best of his capabilities in each detail of his production, and he is obtaining results that place him in the first rank of comedy makers.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

NILLSON WITH DWAN

Miss Anna Q. Nillson is with Allan Dwan in the production, "The Luck of the Irish."

Miss Rosemary Theby is now playing the lead with a big independent production.

HEAVY WITH KERRIGAN

Wedgwood Nowell has just completed a production with J. Warren Kerrigan.

LEWIS CAST

FROM SANTA BARBARA

Wheeler Oakman is now at the American studios in Santa Barbara, where he is appearing opposite Charlotte Walker in a feature production under the direction of Burton George.

Director Burton George took the Charlotte Walker company to Summerland this week to secure a number of the location shots for the American Film company feature now under production.

Dal Clawson is now head cameraman for the Charlotte Walker company at the American studios in Santa Barbara.

Director George L. Cox has been working with a large number of extras during the past week in filming some western street scenes for the Margarita Fisher feature, "The Rose of Hell," at the American studios.

L. C. Shumway is playing the lead in the current Margarita Fisher picture at the American studios in Santa Barbara.

Evans Kirk and Joseph Bennett, who are members of the cast in the Margarita Fisher company at the American studios in Santa Barbara, are spending all of their spare time on the beach with their fishing outfit.

FRISCO LOCATION

Mabel Ballin has gone to San Francisco for five days with "The Beach Comber" company, which Rex Ingram is directing for the Universal.

FISHING BOY

Tom Ashton has finished a good bit as New England fishing boy (not buoy) in Hobart Bosworth's production "Behind the Doors" at the Ince studio. He complains that all the time he was there he couldn't discover what was "behind the doors."

WITH GLAUM

Thomas J. Holding is playing opposite Louise Glaum in her forthcoming J. Parker Read Jr. production.

WITH CHAPLIN

Chet Reisner, the song writer, composer of "Good-by, Broadway; Hello, France," has cast his lot with Charlie Chaplin.

YEAGER STUDIO MANAGER

Ed Yeager has been engaged by the Mary Sharron company to act as studio manager.

TOO BAD, ISN'T IT?

Josephine Crowell has had a very bad appearance of late. It's unavoidable, however, for her part in the current Griffith film necessitates a "powerful" rough makeup.

EARLE FINISHES

Wm. P. S. Earle has finished work in "The Lone Wolf's Cub," an Ince super-feature, starring Louise Glaum.

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

WITH TOURNEUR

Al Filson has been cast in "Treasure Island," to be filmed at the Goldwyn studios under the direction of Maurice Tourneur.

RESUMES WORK

Lucille Carlisle, who has completely recovered from her recent illness, has been busy choosing costumes for the new Semon picture, on which work started late this week. Miss Carlisle will appear as a cabaret dancer, and a score of pretty girls have been selected to support her in the production.

WAYLAND WITH LLOYD

R. D. McLean is playing the big part of Wayne Wayland in Rex Beach's "The Silver Horde," which Frank Lloyd is directing for Goldwyn.

MAY BOWER HOME

May Bower has just returned with the Mitchell Lewis company from Bear Valley, where exteriors for his latest production were filmed.

HOUSE PETERS ARRIVES

House Peters has arrived in Los Angeles and will be starred in the first Monte Katterjohn production with Al Green directing.

PICKFORD CONTRACT

Jack Pickford has been placed under contract to the Goldwyn company.

Jimmy Mitchell finished a bit at Universal this week. He's now practising on a few new comedy kicks for the pictures, figuring that if he can turn down two vaudeville bookings in one week he ought to be able to get turned down once a week anyway in pictures.

IN SAN DIEGO

Leatrice Joy is to return to the scene of recent triumphs. George Leoane Tucker, under whose direction she is, is taking the company to San Diego where Leatrice made a host of friends while playing in stock. She is assured of a very hearty welcome.

BULLS-EYE PICKUPS

The Bulls-Eye program now consists of six one and two-reel subjects, the territory for which has already been sold.

Jack Morris, the youngest "human fly" in the business, has joined the Bulls-Eye comedies. He is 16 years old.

After several weeks absence Paddy McQuire has rejoined Bulls-Eye to do character parts.

Gordon Rymal, formerly with Christie Comedies, has transferred his talents to Bulls-Eye.

"LIGIT"

Helen Jerome Eddy is planning a trip to Chicago in the near future—perhaps as soon as her work with Sessue Hayakawa is finished in "The Dragon's Daughter"—for the purpose of studying the latest fads and methods employed in all the little theaters of that city. She is especially anxious to look into the ways of the Arts and Crafts theater, in hope that the best of those ways may be applied to the Hollywood Community theater, which will open again in September.

VAN DYKE WITH BAGOTT

W. S. Van Dyke is with King Bagott, directing serials.

WITH HART

Alvin J. Neitz is writing and directing Neal Hart's productions.

BERGMAN DIRECTING

H. W. Bergman, formerly of the Vitagraph, New York, is directing Al Jennings.

LAW WITH HARRY MANN

Burton Law is engaged in character portrayals with Harry Mann at the Vitagraph.

NEW "PROP" MAN

Ted Stevens, formerly with the L-KO studio, has been engaged as "prop" chaser for the Gale Henry comedy in Hollywood.

BURTON IN LASKY STOCK

Clarence Burton has been added to the stock company at the Lasky studio.

BAKER RECOVERING

Eddie Baker, who was stricken with pneumonia last week while on location with the Gale Henry comedy company at Balboa Beach, is reported by his physician to be rapidly recovering. All scenes in Miss Henry's current comedy in which it is planned for Mr. Baker to appear are being left until the last as it is hoped he will rejoin the company within the next two weeks.

THEN ROMANCE ENDS

The engagement of Miss Rae Lippman to Charles Hochberg, film editor of the Henry Lehrman Comedies, has just been announced. Miss Lippman is a graduate of Wellesley College, and is a native of Paterson, N. J., while the prospective groom formerly resided in Boston. The romance of the young couple began when Mr. Hochberg was in the government service, but the date of its culmination has not been set.

METRO NEWS BRIEFS
By Ted Taylor

For gallantry on the Lower Piave, where he drove an American ambulance, Charles K. Brown of Nazimova's company this week received the Italian war cross by mail from Victor Emmanuel III.

Jack Dillon obtained a release from Mary Pickford to direct May Allison's second Screen Classic.

Hundreds of sailors of the Pacific Fleet visited Screen Classics studio this week and were greeted by Viola Dana, Bert Lytell and May Allison.

Ensign George H. Hasselman, an aerial pilot of the U. S. S. Wyoming, and Harold Wenstrom, a cameraman with Nazimova, met at the Metro studio this week for the first time since they few together in France a year ago.

Miss I. A. R. Wylie, the British author of "The Hermit Doctor of Gaya," which Nazimova is picturizing, is seeing America by the novel plan of living for a month or so in each representative locality.

Name Five Melodramas

The five Drury Lane melodramas purchased in England by Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro Pictures Corporation, are "The Best of Luck," "The Marriage of Mayfair," "The Great Millionaire," "Hearts Are Trumps," and "The Hope," according to a telegram received by Maxwell Karger.

Ray C. Smallwood is to direct the Drury Lane thrillers. "The Best of Luck" will be the first one produced, and will have an all-star cast.

With Nazimova

Those who remember the splendid characterization of Henry Harmon as the brother in "Out of the Fog," with Mme. Nazimova, will be glad to know that he has another strong role in her present production, "The Hermit Doctor of Gaya." Mr. Harmon came west with the Nazimova party expressly to play the part.

Frank Currier, Soap King

Frank Currier has been loaned to Famous Players-Lasky to play the role of the soap baron in "It Pays to Advertise."

Connelly Back on Home Lot

Edward J. Connelly is back at the Screen Classics (Inc.) studio after two months' absence. He was loaned to Geraldine Farrar and to Anita Stewart for a production each.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION NEWS

The Actors' Association will give a housewarming dance on the evening of September 11th, at their new club rooms, the object of which will be to provide furnishings for the club. The committee in charge includes Vera Lewis, Margaret Cullington, Daisy Robinson, Carl Miller, W. J. Dyer and Henry Myers.

New members elected at the regular weekly meeting of the Actors' Association of Los Angeles are as follows: J. Edwin Brown, Gareth Hughes, John Lince, Rodolfo Valentino, Beverly Traverse, Christine Mayo, Margaret Campbell, W. A. Orlamond, Juanita Hansen, Milton Sills and Wm. H. Machin.

One hundred and fifty dollars was contributed to the striking actors of the Actors' Equity of New York by the Actors' Association of Los Angeles, at its regular meeting Thursday evening.

Ogden Crant has been cast as the heavy in the next Mabel Normand picture, under the direction of Victor Schertzinger.

George McDaniels, who was cast as "The Spaghetti King" in "Lombardi, Ltd.," has finished with that company.

Charles Hill Mailles is with Frank Beal at the Fox studios.

Chance Hard has been cast as a crook in the forthcoming Wallace Reid production.

"The Splendid Hazard," on which the Alan Dwan company is now working, includes in its cast Thomas Jefferson in one of the leading roles.

Mr. Barrows is still busy on the Brunton lot with Frank Keenan company.

Miss Katherine Griffith has been engaged to go to Pleasanton with the Alan Holubar company.

The role of "Major Witticomb" in the Goldwyn production, "The Cup of Fury," will be essayed by Dwight Crittenden. F. Hayes Hunter will direct the feature.

Betty Schade leaves for New York at the end of the week and plans include a stop-over at Chicago.

Jane Novak is cast with the Hobart Bosworth company, and is now "on location" at San Francisco.

Antrim Short has signed with Jesse Hampton, to play the juvenile with Blanche Sweet, under the direction of Robert Thornby.

Bill Ryno is back at the Fox studios, with Scott Dunlap, directing Albert Ray in a big racing story.

CAST FOR "GOLDEN TRAIL"

The cast of "The Golden Trail" to be produced by the American Lifograph company at Portland, Oregon, will claim several well-known Los Angeles players, among them being Jane Novak, star, Jack Livingston, leading man, Bert Sprotte, heavy, and Jean Hershott, director.

BLACKWELL PRODUCTIONS

Cliff Elfelt, assistant director for the Carlye Blackwell Productions, writes us that upon his return from New Mexico he will "be glad to renew old acquaintances, as well as make new ones." Mr. Elfelt says that there will be big western street sets, interior saloon sets and elaborate garden and reception and ballroom sets both day and night, at the studio.

The cast for the Blackwell picture includes, Carlye Blackwell, star, Gloria Hope, leading woman, George Hernandez, Myrtle Owen and Frank Lanning.

CHIT, CHAT & CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Frank Gereghty, who is Ernest Warde's right hand bower, says that he has been awarded credit on the screen for his latest efforts. That-a-boy, Frank.

Harry Schenck chirps in with the following, "Me Too," and what's more they added a wee bit, by making it Co-Director. Nothing fairer than that.

Eddie Laemmle sends word from the Orient, that he is up and at 'em, hitting on all cylinders, and meeting with great success and a welcoming hand.

Joe McDonough is back at the Big U working with Al Santell. Here is a pair that are hard to beat; that's why they were rehired out that way. Follow me?

Ed Sowders expects to go to work with Eric Von Strohiem, when the latter starts his next picture. Von couldn't pick a better lad than Ed.

Mac Wright admits that he asked for a job and ran into some real hard work when he was assigned to his present position. But he should worry, all's well.

Chas. Stallings is having the good fortune to have as good a hustler as Billy Wrighter as his right hand man in the big Farrar subject.

Walter De Coursey seems to be hiding out since he went back to work at Fox's. Is it because he's so busy that he doesn't even have time to say hello? Hope so.

Ruth Roland has just finished the fifth episode of her present serial in the making at Horsley's studio. A new angle in such subjects is promised which comes under the head of a finished episode at the last fade-out in each subject, instead of the "continued in our next."

Gilbert W. Pratt is having the comedy team of Montgomery and Rock get into all sorts of mix-ups in a caveman story.

Yvonne Pavis thought she was going to have an easy time of it when she first started in the Ben Wilson-Neva Gerber serial at the Big U, for she didn't work for seven days. But that's a different story. Miss Pavis is ready to admit that she never labored harder, and what's more, she is enjoying it.

Kathleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin are soon to get busy on a serial for the Universal, which will take them six months to complete.

Charles Avery has cast his lot with the Mack Swain forces out at the Big U where the funmaker is turning out one-reel comedies for the Frohman company.

Ernest Traxler dropped into the Universal to visit his many friends and report that he is taking a much needed rest.

Marie Walcamp is going to the Orient with the Henry McRea Co., to play the leading role in a serial. They expect to be gone about a year producing the pictures for the Big U.

Rhea Mitchell has joined the King Baggott Company as leading lady, taking Grace Darmond's place, who has completed her engagement with the Louis Burston aggregation.

Mrs. Robert Vernon was operated on for appendicitis at the Clara Barton hospital Thursday evening with Doctors Hagadown, Duffield and Lynch in charge. It was one of the most wonderful operations accomplished by local surgeons, according to those in charge of the case. Last reports from the hospital point to the Christie comedian's wife soon being up and about and feeling better than ever.

Chas. Clary is finishing with the William Dowlan Company Saturday after playing an excellent part opposite Ora Carewe and Forrest Stanley.

Reggie Morris has written finis to his initial comedy on the Sennett lot since he returned to the latter's fold, and according to those who have seen the picture projected upon the studio screen, Reggie has produced a winner.

Carmen Philips is working at the Universal. Saw her the other day, madeup, looking like a million dollars, and playing one of those she devils.

Stuart Payton is running things in ship shape down at Santa Monica where he has remodeled Nat Goodwin's old cafe into a tip top studio.

Beatrice Dominquez is doing a heavy part with the George Holt Company out at the Universal. Wearing a western outfit, she looks every inch like one of the Mexican border girls, who have set their eyes on one of "our boys" and plans to win him by hook or crook. Of course she doesn't win, but she's putting the part over.

Joe Rock reports that he is up and at 'em once more after a short spell, when he was laid up with a bad case of poisoned ivory.

Stanhope Wheatcroft has signed a contract with the Universal for one year, which calls for a four time change of salary during that period.

Harry Todd slipped out to the Universal and played a small town sheriff that took him back to the days when he worked with Slippery Slim for the Essaney. Doing this part for Mack Swain, he ran into his old friend, Bob McKenzie, who is at present with W. S. Campbell, on the same lot, and they held many a chat about Niles, California, which was the location for the Broncho Billy studio in those days.

Ivar McFadden is around with a beard on that makes him look like he is playing opposition to Pat Rooney. Ivar without whiskers looks immense, but with 'em, Om mommer.

Frances Guihan Kahn has written the continuity for the last three Texas Guinan stories which are being produced by the Frohman Company.

Duke Worne has finished the eighth episode of the Ben Wilson serial at Universal. Their line-up including the star himself, is as follows: Duke Worne, director; King Grey, cameraman; Jack Lawton, assistant director; J. Grubb Alexander, writing the stories.

C. B. DE MILLE STARTS

Cecil B. de Mille begins work Monday on "Why Change Your Wife."

N. Y. AUTHOR

Goldwyn is corraling talent from all directions. Pauline Frederick's story, "The Stronger Love," which she has just finished under Frank Lloyd's direction, was written by Louis Sherwin, former dramatic editor of the New York Globe, who has joined Goldwyn's staff of writers.

John Leezer drove in all the way from Burbank Corners to show us some peaches he's raising this year. He calls them Dorothy Gish peaches. John claims that he was the first motion picture photographer to use a fuzzy lens, and he also claims that he is the first motion picture photographer to raise peaches as big as the Dorothy Gish peaches.

NEW YORK GUEST

Miss Leota Lorraine is entertaining as her house guest Miss Alma Hook, a singer from New York City. Miss Hook will stay with her friend about a month.

"Old Dials for New" is the title of Florence Turner's new one-reel comedy which she is directing at Universal City. Miss Turner also plays the leading role.

Edward Morrissey is preparing Mary MacLaren's new feature at Universal City, temporarily titled "No Experience Required." Frank R. Odams wrote the story and Violet Clark prepared the screen version. Miss MacLaren's cast has not yet been selected. Tod Browning will supervise the production.

Al Santell has returned to Universal City to produce one-reel comedies, the first of which is "Thirty Minutes in Havana." Christian Rub, Margaret Allen and C. G. Briden play the leading roles.

Major Jack Allen, famous for his true-to-life animal stories, has returned to Universal City this week to film "The Story of the Wolves." Major Allen will also appear in the production.

Art Acord, famous for his "Buck Parvin" series, has joined the Universal forces, where he will be featured in a series of two-reel westerns, the first of which is entitled "Out West." George Holt is directing Acord. Madga Lane plays the leading feminine role.

THE FOLLIES

Alphin and Fargo's Follies are the snappiest, prettiest girls that Los Angeles musical comedy fans have had the opportunity of viewing in a long time. The Follies show more jazz music, dancing, beautiful girls and good comedy combined than has been presented here in many weeks.

THE BURBANK

Big and appreciative audiences are attending the daily performances of "The Yankee Prince" at Pelton's Burbank. Not in many days has there been anything like the new musical comedies in this city. The entire chorus of twenty-five pretty girls has been carefully selected by the new management, and the musical productions from now on will be excelled only by the road shows coming from New York.

Mary Roberts Rinehart and Basil King, important factors in Eminent Authors, Inc., are this week's arrivals at the Goldwyn studios. Although each has contributed to the literature of the screen, personal contact between writer and producer has never been a factor until now. Mrs. Rinehart and Mr. King will collaborate in the picturization of their novels at the Culver City studios, giving their personal attention to the preparation of the scenarios. Mrs. Rinehart's book, "The Amazing Interlude," is the first to be produced by Goldwyn.

Basil King is paying his first visit to Los Angeles and, incidentally, his first visit to a motion picture studio. "The Street Called Straight" will be his first contribution to the productions of Eminent Authors, Inc.

Mrs. Rinehart is accompanied by her two sons, Alan and Frederick, and is domiciled at the Beverly Hills hotel where Basil King is stopping.

BRENTWOOD PURCHASE

With the outright purchase of the studio buildings, laboratories and equipment, which they had formerly rented from the Mena Film Company, and the transfer of a long term lease on the ground fronting for one block on Fountain avenue between Berendo and Catalina streets, the Brentwood Film Corporation is preparing to carry out an extensive expansion program both as to its studio facilities and as to its production plans.

The purchase, which was effected this week, at a reported consideration of $45,000, has been contemplated for many months, but was held up because of the conditions brought about by the war, which prevented the Mena company from carrying out its original intention of sending its company to Palestine to complete its series of biblical pictures. Those obstacles now being removed, the latter company accepted the standing offer of the Brentwood company, which will immediately commence the construction of the additional buildings and the installation of the additional equipment which is necessary for the accommodation of the two companies that are to be steadily engaged upon the production of Brentwood features.

SUMMER SHOWERS

It has been a rainy wek for Helene Chadwick, who is playing opposite Robert Warwick in a Lasky picture. The company has gone on location daily to the Lasky ranch, where all the rain-making devices known to the profession have been employed, no doubt for the benefit of the production, but certainly not for the comfort of the players. Though the thermometer hovered somewhere in the neighborhood of ninety, a fire was kept burning near the sidelines of the set, where Miss Chadwick would repair after various and lengthy rain-sessions, to "steam out."

DOINGS OF ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

By Harry Burns

Boy, Page, Mister Assistant Director, I want to have a heart to heart talk with the chap, who everybody in the motion picture profession ought to become better acquainted with. For if you are earning a living by using your gray matter, you'll appreciate the value of this man of the hour.

That'a-boy. Now listen to what I have to say. Did it ever occur to you that the majority of people who work side by side with you fellows that they call script bearers, errand boys, goats, flunkies, and many other names too numerous to mention, are realizing every day that your business has developed into just as important a factor as has any other department, and that you are just essential as anyone in the making of motion pictures.

And, that after laboring for years, producers, directors, stars, technical experts, laboratory workers, look to you to build a niche in the hall of fame in helping to produce better pictures, and now that you have turned their attentions in your direction, always keep them smiling, pleased, satisfied, gain their confidence, hold it be honest with them, as you would have them be with you, and remember that their success means an increase in your pay, standing, rating, and possibly an advance into the directorial division. Time has seen to it that your efforts haven't been in vain, and with the forming of the Assistant Directors' Association, there came a new life. For the boys have been rounded up not to tell the directors, producers, stars and studio workers what they must do, but to bring about greater harmony, good fellowship and co-operation between studios. Every member feels in duty bound to try and help everyone else to obtain whatever might arise from time to time to help make better pictures. And there you have my little tale about the A. D. A. boys.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

HACKATHORNE WITH HOLUBAR

George Hackathorne, who will be remembered for his splendid characterization of "the youngest brother" in the Alan Holubar feature, "The Heart of Humanity," is again cast with the Holubar players, in "Ambition," tentative title for the next production starring Dorothy Phillips.

The Alkire company is in the market for ideas on two-reel comedies to feature their star juvenile comedian, Marshall Mackaye, preferably in rural type roles based on amusing domestic situations only. Positively no slapstick stuff will be considered. Cash will be paid on acceptance.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS STUDIO NOTES

Douglas Fairbanks' new home at Beverly Hills is completed and Doug moved in last week.

Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., tried to outdo his father by staging a rodeo at the Brunton Ball Park Saturday, August 16, of which he was the star performer. He showed that he inherited his father's daring and versatility by his exhibition of trick riding and poney express. All the children of the neighborhood were present.

PROSPERITY

It really is not a matter of moment, so we shan't mention that a returning pilgrim from that place of lights and license, New York, encountered Bill Russell there in a just-purchased Pierce Arrow touring car.

The first Lew Cody Production, "The Beloved Cheater," having been edited and titled under the supervision of Louis J. Gasnier, Director W. Christy Cabanne has started work on "Mr. Don Juan," which is the working title for the new play. It was written by Elmer Haris, author of "So Long Letty" and "Canary Cottage."

There will be six leading women in "Mr. Don Juan," none of whom has as yet been chosen.

AT PINE KNOT

BRYSON AS LACL

Mr. J. J. Bryson, who is playing the part of Lacy in "The Last of His People," is back in the city awaiting the return of the Mitchell Lewis company.

FOR FRISCO

Warren Millais will leave Tuesday for San Francisco to assume the duties of studio manager for Miller and Hight studio, formerly the old Essaney.

BEALL LEAVES UNIVERSAL

Harry Hammond Beall, director of publicity for the Universal Film Manufacturing Company at Universal City, will sever his conection with that organization on September 12, when his present contract expires.

At the conclusion of his services with the "Big U," Beall will take a three-weeks' motor tour of the state, including a ten-days' visit to Lake Tahoe. After that he will either accept one of the offers made him by independent producers, reestablish the Beall Publicity Service, of which he was head before joining Universal eighteen months ago, or become an exhibitor in one of the larger suburban cities adjoining Los Angeles.

For the greater part of his term with Universal, Beall, in addition to heading the publicity department, acted as general manager of the Broadway Theatre Company, operating the Superba Theatre in Los Angeles, the Laughlin Theatre in Long Beach and the Alhambra Theatre in San Francisco.

Where to Sell Your Scenarios

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Fay Tincher, Katherine Lewis, James Libby, Gertrude Selby and Harry Depp. Please submit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

CONSTRUCTION AT LASKYS

The new wardrobe building for the Lasky studio is now under way and it is believed that a record will be achieved in construction work for it is planned to complete a three-story building in sixty days time. This structure will be entirely of reinforced concrete and modern in every respect. What with the production of such pictures as "Everywoman" and the C. B. de Mille specials, requiring extensive and elaborate costuming, the present quarters have been completely outgrown and the new buiuding has become an absolute necessity.

HOLLYWOOD SMASHUP

Lieut. M. D. Taylor of 1424 South Vermont avenue near death and 25 other persons more or less seriously injured is the incomplete casualty list following a collision between a sightseeing bus containing 40 persons and a Van Nuys car at Cahuenga avenue and Pass avenue early Friday.

E. H. Herrich of 811 West Sixth street, driver of the bus, which was owned by the Standard Transfer company, and who was hurled 20 feet and carried on the fender of the street car, said the accident was due to the fact that the signal system at that point failed to operate.

The bus was struck on the right front wheel and was almost totally demolished when it was jammed into a telephone pole.

Most of the injured, which included a number of women, were taken to the hospital of the Universal Film company for emergency treatment.

The bus was carrying a number of extras from the Metro Film company to Gopher Flates, just back of Universal City.

Lieutenant Taylor, who had formerly been with the British army in India, was the most seriously injured and is expected to die. He sustained a basal fracture of the skull as well as other injuries.

Those treated at the Receiving hospital included Frank Enriquez of 315 North Bunker Hill avenue, who was cut in the head; Thomas Martin of 634 Sunset boulevard, cut in head; Eddie Martin, 634 Sunset boulevard, broken arm; Jose Racheo, aged 60, 420 North Bunker Hill, legs injured.

According to Pacific Electric officials the accident was caused by the driver of the bus, who, they claim, drove into the heavy street car. The street car was in charge of Motorman H. L. Kapp and Conductor A. J. Speak, both old employes of the company.

Beginning September 5 the future home of the Model Comedy company, producers of Gale Henry comedies, will be located at what is now known as the Clifford studio, 5813 Santa Monica boulevard, Hollywood. Equipment is already being transferred to the new studio and a crew of men from the technical department of the company are making improvements to the stage, dressing rooms and other parts of the building. The Bulls-Eye Film company will occupy one-half of the new studio. A lease has been taken on the new studio, negotiations being arranged by General Manager Becker, General Manager Spitzer of the Bulls-Eye company and Milton L. Cohen, president of the Bulls-Eye producing and distributing corporation, who is here from New York on a few days' visit.

PAT MOORE

With "Out of the Dust," the newly completed feature produced by McCarthy Picture Productions, finally edited and ready for release, much of the favorable comment which the photoplay has won is based upon the exceptional work of Master Pat Moore, four-year-old Thespian to whom was given one of the important roles of the picture.

Pat Moore, who previously was known for his attractive portrayal of the boy in the Lasky production of "The Squaw Man," is to be engaged by John P. McCarthy, the director, in future subjects of McCarthy Picture Productions requiring juvenile types, according to an official of the organization. Appearing as co-stars with Master Pat are Russell Simpson, Dorcas Matthews, Robert McKim and Bert Sprotte.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

William Duncan sent back to the Vitagraph studio, from location at Huntington Lake a few days ago, the following message: "Two birds hurt, one duck missing. Send others." The message might have puzzled Studio Manager W. S. Smith were he not familiar with the unique vocabulary of "Dunc." As it was he sent three men to Huntington Lake and knew he was filling the Duncan order. He later learned that the injuries of the two "birds" were not serious and that the missing "duck"—a cowboy—had simply taken a few days off without leave and had gone up the country a mere matter of a hundred miles to say "how'dy" to a chap with whom he had punched cattle a few years ago. Duncan agreed that was an instance of friendship for an old pal but wanted to know just what the proper etiquette might be toward a director in a case like that. The cowboy could give no brilliant reply so his address at present is somewhere between Huntington Lake and Hollywood.

Mabel Normand's brother, Claude, the standby of weary publicity writers, has bobbed up again. He is always getting into print ever since he was accidentally "discovered" by a distraught and balked interviewer in the days when Goldwyn occupied the Fort Lee studios. Since then he has gone to war, has made his sprightly sister frantic by not writing, has been wounded, has been cabled vast sums by her, and at last returned safe and sound to New York. Now he wants to come to California and play with Miss Normand at the Goldwyn studios. Not having the heart to deny him anything, nevertheless the comedienne has resorted to subterfuge. She has introduced him by correspondence to young Cullen Landis, her leading man, with the strict injunction that Claude be told what a comedown it would be for an ex-hero to essay a screen role. Candidly, our Mabel prefers to remit the season's luxuries by mail rather than have Claude as a screen extra.

CLIFT HEADS FOX SCENARIO DEPARTMENT

Denison Clift, for the past year and a half special writer at the Fox West Coast studio, has been appointed by General Manager Sol M. Wurtzel to be the supervising editorial head of all feature productions to be made in California by William Fox.

I O

The producer, the actor, the mechanic and all others connected with the motion picture industry may as well set their minds at rest regarding unionism as a menace to the pictures. Whether you favor it or not; whether you like it or not; it is coming, and the man with a sense of logic or busines acumen would do well to prepare himself for the day in which it fully arrives.

Camera does not venture any answer to the question, "Will unionism brings about better conditions?" That part hangs solely on the characters of the people in power on both sides of the issue.

It does not matter, in this present case, whether conditions are to be better or worse, Camera's object being merely to show that the organization of motion picture employees is absolutely inevitable and is being brought about by a condition over which neither employer nor employee has now or has ever had any control whatever.

A pair of shoes of a very serviceable kind used to be bought from $3.50 to $6.00, depending on the personal taste of the buyer. Today the same quality of shoe is priced from $7.00 to $13.00. In other words, it requires two dollars to do the same work that one dollar used to do. Stating it in a slightly different way, it may be said that a dollar is worth but 50 cents in buying value. This is one of the several conditions now existing over which no one connected with pictures has any control. But it is a condition which has not made its seriousness fully felt, and one whose cause is the cause of all present labor troubles.

Motion picture people have good cause to remember that this nation has floated five Liberty Loans. Their total amounts to approximately $23,000,000,000, on which the government now has to pay an interest rate of almost four per cent. This amounts to $920,000,000 annually with nothing said about returning the principal.

It has been usual to raise these amounts through internal revenue, which, aside from the income tax, last year netted total collections of $855,000,000, or less than enough to pay the interest on the bonds. Now, in addition to this figure of nearly one billion dollars annual expense which has never before been a part of the national cost of existence, comes a loss of nearly one-half a billion dollars that liquors were furnishing last year in revenue taxes.

The government has this money to raise by taxation. Thus a wool(?) shirt purchased a few days ago was priced at $4.25, but when it had been wrapped up, the salesman genially announced that there was a luxury tax of 65 cents on it. The shirt thus cost $4.90. It used to cost about $2.25. It is quite evident then that the government will succeed in raising the money to pay interest on the bonds, but it will do so by raising the price of nearly everything in the nation except most urgent necessities. The motion picture worker will find a still greater outlet for his money. And the value of a dollar will approach 30 cents in buying power.

The exchange value of the German mark has now reached about 19 per cent of its face value. If it can be forced down to less than 10 per cent, the German people will be able to pay the interest on the indemnity, if allowed to remit in their own coinage.

It will be noticed also that the British pound sterling shows a considerable reduction from its pre-war value, and the French franc piece is somewhat of an unwelcome quantity unless turned in at considerably less than its face value.

In fact it is not to the interest of any government to have its monetary unit maintain its worth at home. The money for the war was borrowed when a dollar was worth its face value in buying power. If that money can be repaid at a time when a dollar is worth but 25 cents, the bondholder receives in actual value $25 for the bond that cost $100. Likewise, the $4 interest is going to be worth $1.

Such is the financial condition the motion picture people face, and in order to successfully meet it, they must receive as much more in proportion for their services. Now let us look at the purely local condition and venture a guess as to the probable outcome.

Averages drawn from many cases in which figures are available show that the weekly income of the average extra woman is about $13.50. The average extra man is making $22.25.

The proposed union wage scale, to become effective on September 1, provides that electricians, property makers, carpenters and all other skilled labor be paid 87½ cents an hour; all heads of departments and foremen to receive $60 per week, property men $45 per week, assistant property men $35 per week and technical directors $75 per week, with the proviso that all studios must have a technical director.

Between the first and second paragraphs there is a considerable difference, brought about chiefly through organization of some years' standing and of recent perfection.

The extra man is paid from $5.00 to $7.50 per day, depending on his versatility and wardrobe. He is employed about five days a week, three and a half of which are spent before the camera and the balance in collecting his wages, which latter labor brings no return except a deficit by way of carfare.

The woman does not command as much salary or as many days work, yet she has more of an expense than the man, exclusive of family provision.

The atmosphere players are at the point today where the income must rise or the H. C. L. must come down and as we have tried to show above, the latter is not likely to happen for several years.

For them to demand increases singly as individuals is nonsense. Producers will get others, who, through need of money, will be glad to work for even a smaller amount than the regular wage. Their only hope lies in organization and they are speedily realizing it.

No producer will voluntarily raise wages if it can be avoided. That is true of any industry and as well of private individuals. We buy where we can buy the cheapest and be assured of the same quality.

As an added menace to the workers, and as much to the producers is the action of L. J. Reynolds of the Service Bureau, if the reports we receive are true. From sources we have always regarded as reliable comes the report that Reynolds is now offering all the mobs wanted at the rate of $3.00 per head, and it is stated that two companies are using these people. This is apparently a saving of several hundred dollars on each picture, but actually it represents a promise to pay more even than that at a later date.

Once organized firmly, the motion picture player is apt to take a breath of independent freedom, and once that day arrives, the scare is apt to be settled with interest.

Believe it or not—like it or not, complete organization of not only the recognized players but the outlaws as well is just as inevitable as the morning's dawn. There will probably be some trouble and a lot of hard feelings. If we were producing, we'd try to get the gang together and sort of try to fix things up. E. M. R.

MISS TRAVERSE HURT

Madlaine Traverse, Fox film star, was seriously hurt when she was thrown from a horse on which she was riding in Topango Canyon last Wednesday afternoon.

Work on the picture in which Miss Traverse is starring was suspended for the present.

M. P. P. U. IN PARADE

POINTERS FOR SCENARIO WRITERS

By Will M. Ritchey

Do not write "begging" or letters of appeal. Motion picture producers are cold-blooded business men.

Do not send your stories direct to the stars. Not one in one hundred reads them.

NEW BRENTWOOD COMPANY

The Brentwood is arranging to put a second producing unit at work immediately upon the completion of the picture which is now being filmed. The story and direction have not yet been announced.

NEW PRODUCTION

Upton Sinclair's radical novels are to be put on the screen by a Los Angeles company with Walter McNamara directing.

ACCORDING TO REGULATIONS

Viola Dana and her company were swapping stories "in between scenes" of "Please Get Married" on the Metro stage the other day, and the cameraman's assistant told this one:

"At Camp Grant we had a lot of negro rookies, and one of the first jobs handed out to them was to guard a number of haystacks against fire. One of the black boys was taking it easy on top of a pile when the general in command passed.

" 'Who are you?' demanded the general.

" 'Why, s'pose Ah'm some kind of a sentry,' was the reply. 'Who all am you?'

"The general was quick to see the fun in the situation.

" 'I suppose I'm some kind of a general,' he replied.

" 'Dasso! Dasso!' said the rookie, hastily buttoning his coat. 'Reckon Ah better give you some kind of a salute!' "

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

GRANDON PRODUCING

Francis J. Grandon, the director, has organized his own producing company. It is rumored he will locate in San Francisco, producing magazine stories by well known authors and some of Raymond S. Spears' Tennessee Mountain stories. Mr. Grandon has secured the services of two prominent stars, though as yet the names are not made public.

Mr. Grandon produced the first serail, "The Adventures of Kathlyn." He has also directed such stars as Mme. Petrova, Marie Doro, Gale Kane, Doris Kenyon, Jack Pickford and Henry Walthall.

UNIVERSAL NOTES HYLAND STORY

Miss Peggy Hyland will begin work during the week on a society and Bohemian picture the title of which has not yet been chosen. She will be directed by Howard M. Mitchell.

AT NATIONAL

De Haven Feature—Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven of the National studios have nearly completed their latest comedy entitled "Boys Will Be Boys." William Seiter is directing. The story was written by him in collaboration with Bob McGowan.

New Serial—The National studios have taken on the appearance of Chinatown, several hundred real Orientals having been engaged by Director Paul Hurst to appear in numerous scenes of the eighteen-episode serial "Lightning Bryce," in which Ann Little and Jack Hoxie are costarred. The company is now on the eighth episode of the serial. Harvey Gates is responsible for the story and continuity.

Eighth Comedy—Harry Edwards, directing Eddie Flanagan and Neely Edwards in "The Hall Room Boys" series of two-reel comedies, has started upon the eighth story of the scheduled twenty-six.

Rhodes Story—Bilile Rhodes' forthcoming production will be "Hearts and Masks," from the novel of that name by Harold McGrath. The adaptation for screen purposes is now being made by Franklyn Hall, and the working script will be ready in two weeks. Louis Chaudet will direct.

VITAGRAPH NEWS

Duncan Back—William Duncan and his company of serial players returned this week from Lake Huntington with ten of the episodes of "Smashing Barriers" practically completed.

New Comedian—A new comedy company has been added to the forces making the Big V subjects at the West Coast studio. Harry Mann is the star and the new laugh-makers will depict the adventures of "Simple Harry." Margaret Riker has been engaged to support Mr. Mann assisted by Alfred Hollingsworth and Burton Law. Ben Cohen is co-directing with the star and Ernest Depew is at the camera.

NEW FARNUM FILM

President J. A. Berst of United Picture Theatres, Inc., announces that Louis J. Gasnier will produce the forthcoming United feature starring Mr. Dustin Farnum. Production will start within ten days at the Gasnier studios in Glendale.

President Berst is expected in Los Angeles within the next few days and expects to be present during the production work. He has selected an all-star cast which includes Miss Winifred Kingston, who has supported Mr. Farnum in the past.

Mr. Farnum's next feature is from the pen of one of the world's best known authors. The contiuity was written by Catherine Carr.

Colin Campbell, who directed William Farnum in "The Spoilers," has been engaged to direct.

AT LASKY'S

Reid Cast—In the new Wallace Reid picture, "Hawthorne of the U. S. A.," in which he is supported by Lila Lee, a remarkable cast will be seen, including Edwin Stevens, Charles Ogle, Tully Marshall, etc.

Progressing—William C. deMille has progressed beyond the prologue of "The Tree of Knowledge," in which Robert Warwick is the star, and is now well into the story.

Location—Ethel Clayton is now at work at the Morosco studio on her new vehicle which has been titled "More Deadly Than the Male." Robert G. Vignola is the director. The company is now at Bear Valley making some beautiful exterior shots.

Leaves for N. Y.—Marguerite Clark leaves Thursday of this week for New York where she will resume her eastern production work for Famous Players-Lasky. Miss Clark will be accompanied by Lieut. H. Palmerston Williams, her husband, and also by Walter Edwards, her director, and his assistant, Fred J. Robinson.

Houdini Starts—Houdini returns on Monday to Hollywood, where he will start work on his new picture at the Lasky studio September 22nd, under James Cruze's direction.

Melford Cutting—George H. Melford will complete "Everywoman" by the end of this week and this feature will go to the cutting and assembling room where a couple of weeks or more will elapse before it is entirely finished.

DeMille Feature—Cecil B. deMille is assembling his cast and the sets are being constructed for "Why Change Your Wife," a new special, work on which will begin in a very short time. Gloria Swanson and Bebe Daniels will each have a very important role.

LEHRMAN STARTS

After many months of preliminary activity, actual production of the first of the Henry Lehrman Comedies was started last week in Culver city, with the producer directing the opening scenes.

Billie Ritchie is presented in the chief comedy part in the initial subject, while the feminine lead will be in the hands of Miss Virginia Rappe. Other players are being added daily, but the complete cast is not yet ready for announcement. Abe Alt has been engaged as assistant director, while George Meehan is head cameraman, with Jack Miller assisting.

The second company, featuring Lloyd (Ham) Hamilton, is scheduled to start production within a few days.

UNIVERSAL NOTES

From Ham Beall

Two six-reel features were completed this week at Universal City. Monroe Salisbury finished "The Divorced Wife" under Douglas Gerrard's direction, while "Betty Reforms" was completed by William C. Dowlan, with Ora Carew, Forrest Stanley and Chas. Clary in the leading roles.

"Betty Reforms" was written by Mildred Considine and will be released under the title, "Under Suspicion."

Three Universal producing units have invaded San Francisco for location shots.

Allen Holubar took his entire company, headed by Dorothy Phillips, to Pleasanton for the small-town scenes for "Ambition," the newest Holubar-Phillips production. Among those making the trip were Margaret Mann, Robert Anderson, George Hackathorn, Frank Elliott, Rudolf Valentino, Mary Wise, Elinor Field, Emily Chichester, Dan Crimmins, Rosa Gore, Katherine Griffith and Emma Gerdes.

Elmo Lincoln and company are still at San Francisco shooting the maritime scenes for "The Beach Comber." Among those on location with Director Rex Ingram are Mabel Ballin, Harry van Meter, Ethelyn Irving, Frank Brownlee, Dick La Reno and Paul Weigel.

Tsuru Aoki's company, under direction of Rollin Sturgeon, is the third producing unit to go on location to San Francisco. Scenes are being taken for "The Breath of the Gods," a six-reel feature adapted from Sydney McCall's novel of the same name. Supporting Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa are Stanhope Wheatcroft, Pat O'Malley, Barney Sherry, Arthur Carew and Ethel Shannon.

Only a few scenes remain to be taken for "Cassidy of the Air Lanes," with Lieut. O. L. Locklear as the star, which Jacques Jaccard is producing.

Universal City resembled San Quentin penitentiary this past week with hundreds of extras dressed in convict garb for the prison scenes for "The Gift of the Desert," Harry Carey's latest starring vehicle, adapted for the screen by H. Tipton Steck from Peter B. Kyne's Saturday Evening Post story, "The Three Godfathers." Winifred Westover is playing opposite Carey, who is also supported by J. Farrell McDonald, Joe Harris, Charles Le Moyne and Ted Brooks. Jack Ford is directing the production.

Eric von Stroheim is preparing to film "Clothes and Treachery," the story of Parisian life by Baroness de Meyer. The production will have an all-star cast, including Una Trevelyn, Lillie Leslie, Sam de Grasse and Clyde Fillmore.

"Lasca," a six-reel feature, is nearing completion under Norman Dawn's direction. Frank Mayo and Edith Roberts are playing the stellar roles, while other characters are in the hands of Lloyd Whitlock, Veola Harty and Arthur Jasmine. "Lasca" was adapted for the screen by Percy Heath from the poem of the same name written by Frank Duprez.

Mary MacLaren is working in a new six-reel feature entitled "No Experience Required," written by Frank R. Adams and scenarioized by Violet Clark. Edward Morrissey is directing the production under Tod Browning's supervision. Miss MacLaren's supporting cast includes David Butler, Carl Stockdale and Johnnie Cooke.

Hoot Gibson and Josephine Hill have just completed a two-reel western melodrama, "Shameless Salverson," at Universal City under Eddie Hull's direction. Harvey Gates wrote the story.

Art Acord has just started work on another two-reel western entitled "The Fighting Line." Reeves Eason is directing, while Magda Lane is playing opposite the star. The story was written by Karl Coolidge and prepared for the screen by Jack Jevne, a new addition to the Universal scenario department.

Jack Wells is working on the second episode of the new Universal serial, "The Lion Man," in which Kathleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin play the principal roles. It was adapted from the novel, "The Strange Case of Cavendish," from the pen of Randall Parrish.

"Old Dials for New" is the title of Florence Turner's most recently completed one-reel comedy at Universal City. The story was written by Philip Hubbard.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran have just completed "With the Help of a Friend" and are enjoying a brief breathing spell while their scenario writers prepare a new comedy.

Al Santell has finished his first one-reel comedy since his return to Universal City. It is entitled "Thirty Minutes in Havana" and features Chris Rub. Margaret Allen and C. G. Briden also appear in the picture.

GOLDWYN PRODUCTION

Worsley Busy—Wallace Worsley is the latest director to start work at the Goldwyn studios, having commenced this week production of Basil King's "The Street Called Straight," with Robert Newhard at the camera.

Barker Finishing—The Geraldine Farrar company, of which Reginald Barker is the director, has returned from a week's stay at Oxnard for final scenes at the Goldwyn studios, after which Director Barker will at once commence work on the third Farrar-Tellegen production.

Atherton Story—Rupert Julian has begun work on Gertrude Atherton's "Perch of the Devil," among the first o fthe Eminent Authors' productions at the Goldwyn studios. Barbara Castleton and Ethel Gray Terry, the latter having been brought from New York for this occasion, assume the feminine roles while Lawson Butt and Willard Louis do justice to the masculine interest in the drama.

LEADING PLAYERS FOR STRAND

Beginning a new series of Strand comedies, to be released by Robertson-Cole through Exhibitors' Mutual, the Southern California Producing Company has formed a stock company around four leading players who will appear together in pairs in each alternate picture.

Gertrude Selby and Katharine Lewis are announced as the two featured feminine stars in the new releases. Harry Depp and James Liddy are the juvenile men completing the two pairs of star teams.

LEWIS PRODUCTIONS

The Mitchell Lewis Company have returned from Big Bear Lake locations after a filming expedition to secure proper atmosphere for the exterior scenes of "The Last of His People." They are now located in their new quarters at the Universal studios.

NEW SUPPORT

Fox Casts—Several well known actors and actresses have been employed at the Fox studios in Hollywood on new pictures just started by three stars. Frank R. Beal, directing Miss Gladys Brockwell in "The Devil's Riddle," has chosen these actors in support: William Scott to lead, Richard Cummings, Claire McDowell, Easter Walters, Nicholas Duncan and Kate Price.

Scott Dunlap, directing Albert Ray and Elinor Fair in "A Little Prayer for Rain," has selected this cast: Jack Rollens, John Cossar, William Ryno and Lloyd Bacon.

In "The Heritage of Eden," in which Miss Madlaine Traverse is the star, Edmund Lawrence, her director, has chosen this support: George McDaniel to lead, Henry Hebert and Edwin Booth Tilton.

Goldwyn Players—Pauline Frederick's current Goldwyn picture, now being produced under the direction of William Parke enlists the support of a brilliant cast. Albert Roscoe is the leading man and James Neill, recently added to the Goldwyn repertory players, makes his first appearance at the Culver City studios. Others are Elizabeth France, recently from New York, Kate Lester and Carrie Lee Ward. Warburton Gamble is now on his way from the East to play a significant role in the same production.

Doris Pawn is Tom Moore's new leading woman, making her first appearance with Goldwyn in the comedy-drama being directed by Harry Beaumont. Macey Harlam has completed his work with Geraldine Farrar to play an important role with Tom Moore, while Arthur Houseman is carried over from the previous Moore production. Others are Colin Kenny, Augustus Phillips, Catherine Wallace, Violet Schram and Ruby La Fayette.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

Thursday Tea—At her studio home on Sunset Bolevard Mrs. Eloise Donovan received at tea Thursday afternoon. Among Mrs. Donovan's guests were Miss E. M. A. Gibsone, of the Mabel Condon Exchange; Mis Agnes Considine, and Mrs. Henry Gage, wife of ex-Governor Henry Gage.

Last Saturday Director William C. Dowlan, who is filming "Under Suspicion," took his company to Carter Camp for the week-end. Mrs. William Dowlan, Miss Harriet Dowlan, and Miss Flo Hollister accompanied the party.

House Warming—Mrs. James Cruze is very busy in her new home, and next Saturday she will hold a big house warming.

Sunday Dinner — Miss Katherine Adams was hostess at dinner at her Hollywood home last Sunday evening. Covers were laid for six, the guests being Miss Tule Belle, Mrs. H. Oeg, Mrs. Charles Wakefield, Mrs. A. E. Morman, and Mr. Charles Morman.

Mitchell Studio Notes—Once more, and for the last time Jimmy Mitchell changes his name. This time he assumes his real honest-to-godness name and hereafter he shall be known as J. Mitchell von Preissig. Also different arrangements in regard to the studio have been made. Mr. von Preissig is vacating his location in Wilcox Hall, and beginning with Wednesday, August 6, the dances will be held at the Hollywood Woman's Clubhouse.

The first night in the new quarters will be Jimmy Aubrey night. The big feature of the evening will be a fox-trot contest, the winners of which will receive a cup given by Jimmy Aubrey. All the festive fox-trot fiends should be polishing up their steps at the news.

Wallace Reid has put his stamp of approval on Jimmy Mitchell's efforts to bring the film folk together at the Inter-Studio dances.

One of the biggest drawing cards that Mr. Mitchell has arranged so far will be staged at his dancing studio at Hollywood boulevard and Cahuenga avenue, on Saturday, September the sixth, when the best dancers among the film folk and fans will compete for the Wallace Reid cup to be given away in a fox-trot competition on that evening. The trophy is a beautiful one and is well worth competing for. On it will be engraved the donor's and winners' names.

Further interest is caused by Wally's promise to show us a few new moans on his saxophone, and to lead the orchestra in a few rounds.

Other well-known film folk who are helping Jimmy Mitchell put the Inter-Studio dances across are Bessie Love, Gale Henry, Charlie Dorety, Jimmy Aubrey, Raymond Cannon, Lucille Carlisle, Montgomery and Rock, Harry Carey, Dorothy Phillips, ZaSu Pitts, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Margaret Campbell, Al Jennings, and Ruth Roland.

Francis Ford Banquet—Forty members of the Francis Ford Studios tendered to Director Ford a Birthday Anniversary Banquet, Saturday night at Christopher's.

With the spacious banquet hall lighted by the myriad of ultra marine blue shaded candelabras, decorating the banquet tables. Director Ford was ushered into the surprise gathering to the music of "Wearing of the Green," rendered by McVea's Howdy Band, which reception with the turning on of the lights, made the surprise complete. Louis Burston of Burston Film Co., was toastmaster and speeches were made by Rosemary Theby, King Bagot, Harry Ellis Dean, Jack Ford, Pete Gerald. Phil Ford, Nigel de Brul- evening was terminated by dancing to the small hours of the morning.

Edwards Dinner—Last Tuesday evening Walter Edwards entertained at dinner a group of friends at his Douglas Terrace apartment. Those who enjoyed Mr. Edwards' hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Somers, Miss Winefred Haslan, Mrs. Harold Lockwood, Messrs. Herbert King, Geo Hall and H. Hopkins.

Beach Party—Surf bathing at Santa Monica has become very popular with lier, Mark Fenton, Mark Thwaites, Scotty Young and Pat O'Brien. The the picture people this season, many of the film folks running down for an ocean dip when their work allows. Tuesday afternoon, among those of one party who enjoyed the bathing and sun were Viola Dana, Lottie Pickford, little Mary Pickford Rupp, Mrs. Christie Cabanne, with the two youngsters, Walter Morosco, Bert Lytell, and Kenneth Harlan.

At Catalina—Miss Katherine Adams left Friday for a week-end visit at Catalina Island.

Week-end Party—At her Hollywood home Mrs. Gladys Rhodes entertained a group of friends with a week-end party. Friday evening the guests gathered on the lawn, where refreshments were served Sunday the party will motor to Ventura by the coast route—in search of some big breakers. Mrs. Rhodes says that the surf bathing near here is entirely too calm.

Among the house guests will be Lucille Humbert, Winifred Haslan, Myrtle Prescy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glenn, George Hall, and Walter Wherle.

Attend Opening—The Misses Lillian and Dorothy Gish, with their mother, Mrs. Gish, were present at the San Francisco premeire showing of "Broken Blossoms." The Gishes were in San Francisco from Saturday to Monday.

Mountain Rest—Miss Miriam Meredith, with her mother, Mrs. Meredith Woodward, left Los Angeles Thursday for the San Bernardino mountains. Stopping at Forest Home, Miss Meredith will take a week's rest away from labors in the Thomas Ince scenario department.

Miss Herendeen Weds—One of the attractive affairs of the week was the dinner party and shower given at the Studio Club, last Friday evening, in honor of Mrs. Dudley Bowles Murphy, who, before her marriage on August 25th, was Miss Chase Herendeen.

Miss Herendeen was one of the most popular girls of the Studio Club and has a wide circle of friends in Los Angeles. She is the daughter of Mrs. Ada Dudley, of New York City, and is the sister of Miss Ann Herendeen, a prominent writer.

Mr. Murphy, who is art director at the Universal studios, is the son of Herman Dudley Murphy, architectural instructor at Harvard University.

The young couple, after enjoying a brief honeymoon, will return to Los Angeles, where they will make their home.

Visits at Studio Club—Mrs. E. K. Harris recently spent several days with her daughter, Miss Edna Harris, at the Studio Club.

Studio Club Dance—Miss Wanda Hawley was hostess at the latest Friday evening dance of the Studio Club. Through the courtesy of Mr. Christie, of the Christie Film Corporation, a portable projection machine was brought to the Club, and the guests were entertained with motion pictures the most interesting and amusing of which was a strip of film recording Zau Pitts' first motion picture test.

Among the guests who enjoed the hospitality of the Club were: Misses Mabel Condon, Florence Straus, Agnes Weiner, Peggy Hagar, Helen Carlisle, Mr. Tow Hawley, Mr. Condon, Mr. De Pew, Mr. Weatherby, Mr. Chas. Radford, Mr. Jerry Nolds, Mr. Lubin, Mr. House Peters, Mr. Richenbacher, Mr. James Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Al Cohn, Mr. and Mrs. King Vidor and Miss Kathrine Vidor.

Clifford Guest—Attired in sporty red jockey caps and bathing suits of a magneta hue, Mabel Normand and Kathleen Clifford appeared on the beach opposite the Virginia Hotel at Long Beach Sunday. They were accompanied by Mr. Samuel Goldwyn. After a plunge in the surf Miss Clifford entertained her friends at dinner at the Virginia.

With Roland—Lorraine Wise, the leading dancer of the "Reckless Eves" act of the Orpheum circuit played with Ruth Roland this week. Various of the other dancers in the Orpheum act have been with Miss Roland this week.

Back to Stage—Philip Ryder, recently honorably discharged from the U. S. army, has deserted his picture work to appear in musical comedy at the Burbank.

KATHLYN WILLIAMS

By Mildred Davis

The motion picture industry has known its share of scoffers in the past, and perhaps not the least of these, particularly in the degree of scorn, was Kathlyn Williams.

Nine years ago Kathlyn Williams came to Los Angeles from New York City and became a member of the Belasco stock company here. Miss Williams was not one of "the idle rich," in fact she was just plain poor, and when the necessary wardrobe money was taken from her salary there was only enough left to make existence barely possible.

Then one day a telephone message came from the D. W. Griffith studio, asking the haughty Kathlyn if she would do a part in a Griffith picture. Miss Williams was insulted.

"I don't know now why I didn't hang up the receiver and refuse," Miss Williams smiled. "I knew nothing whatever about pictures and as I turned to the friend with whom I was staying then, between indignation and ignorance I could scarcely explain the telephoned request. As I had nothing to do the next day I said I would be at the studio. My first two days in pictures were filled with more surprises than I had ever anticipated. I expected to see a bunch of shabby, cheap people, and a studio was sure to be a disagreeable place. But every one was well dressed and they all appeared quite happy. I met Mr. Griffith who told me that I was the type he wanted for a part, and if I accepted it I would receive $5 for rehearsal days and $10 when the scenes were made. Well, I simply didn't believe it. Why, there couldn't be that much money in the whole firm."

Everything was fine the first day, too good to be true. When night came she was told to report tomorrow, to start work and get her check for the two days. The "pay you tomorrow" part confirmed all of her suspicions. But she did return, drawn by curiosity and hope. At night the fifteen dollars materialized —the greatest fifteen dollars Miss Williams has ever earned, she says.

Every morning at 8:30 Kathlyn reported at the studio, heavily veiled, for she was still desperately afraid that someone she knew would discover that she was working in pictures. She soon realized that all the people at the studio considered their work very seriously, so she decided to overcome her fear and aversion and enter into the work in the proper spirit.

"To me those were wonderful days with the Griffith company. At that time there was an atmosphere of cheerfulness and comradeship which I'm afraid will never return. We were all like a congenial family, and the attitude of grasping and maintaining a position, which prevades the pictures now, had not developed."

It was not long before Mr. Griffith returned to New York, leaving Miss Williams in Los Angeles. Then she joined the Selig forces with which she remained for seven years. While with Selig Miss Williams worked in the first two and three reel pictures ever made. Though she had done many good things in the pictures before, the serial called "The Adventures of Kathlyn" made Miss Williams famous as a motion picture actress.

"Perhaps the most amusing part of my picture career was the first time I saw myself on the screen," Miss Williams tells us. "David Belasco and Oliver Morosco were to attend a preview of my first picture with Mr. Griffith. I knew them both and when I heard that they were to be present I knew that I was ruined. As they came in one door of the projection room I scooted out of the other. From a dark corner I watched the picture run. And, oh, what a blow to my conceit! Why, it couldn't be me! I had never looked that way, and I certainly had never acted like that in all my life. But, nevertheless it was, and my self esteem went down several points.

"Since my early scornfulness I have come to love my picture work, and I have a great respect for motion pictures as an art."

Miss Williams is a native of Butte, Montana, her mother being the first white woman to live in that northern city. Miss Williams was educated in a Methodist school, and her relatives were strongly opposed to her taking up theatrical work. But one of her earliest recollections as a child was a performance of "Billy Gaylor," and right then she decided that the stage was the only thing for her. From her mother she had inherited a remarkable singing voice, and it was the delight of her life to sing at the local entertainments.

The youthful Kathlyn was totally at a loss for some means of breaking into real theatrical work, so as a possible avenue she studied the voice. But her voice had been used too much before maturity, and as so often happens was ruined so far as anything big was concerned.

Finally she arrived as near her goal as the Empire School of Drama in New York City. On graduating Miss Williams was engaged by a stock company in Boston. Later she worked with William Morris in "The Genius," "When We Were Twenty-One" and "Mrs. Dane's Defense." She was with Williard Mack in Salt Lake City and with various other directors and road companies she has played all over the United States, until her motion picture advent nine years ago.

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

FROM SANTA BARBARA

Opposite Walker—Wheeler Oakman is now at the American studios in Santa Barbara, where he is appearing opposite Charlotte Walker in a feature production under the direction of Burton George.

Head Cameraman—Dal Clawson is now head cameraman for the Charlotte Walker company at the American studios in Santa Barbara.

Shumway Lead—L. C. Shumway is playing the lead in the current Margarita Fisher picture at the American studios in Santa Barbara.

With Margarita — Evans Kirk and Joseph Bennett are members of the cast in the Margarita Fisher company in Santa Barbara.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS STUDIO NOTES

Lieut. Harry Thorpe, who was one of Douglas Fairbanks' cameramen when the war broke out, returned from France after 18 months service abroad and will resume his job on the camera in Doug's next picture.

Vic Fleming, who will direct Douglas Fairbanks in his next picture, shot a 250-pound buck deer while on a hunting trip and everyone in the studio was treated to some fresh venison.

On account of the railroad strike, the prints of Doug's next picture, "His Majesty, the American," were rushed out of Los Angeles by airplane so that they will reach exchanges in the east in time for the release date, September 1st.

Saxon with Hart—Hugh Saxon has been engaged to play the part of Pop Long, in the latest Wm. Hart production, work on which started late this week. Mary Thurman will support Mr. Hart, and Lambert Hillyer will preside over the megaphone, as usual. The working title of the film is "Dan Currie's Inning."

Continuity for "Japonette"—H. Tipton Steck has been engaged to write the continuity for Katherine MacDonald's latest vehicle, "Japonette." Mr. Steck recently completed continuity for the Peter B. Kyne story, 'The Three Godfathers," in which Harry Carey will be starred. This latter picture will be filmed under the title "The Gift of the Desert."

New Star — Russell Simpson will soon see his name blazing forth from the billboards throughout the country as the star of "Out of the Dust," a McCarthy production lately finished at the Universal.

Green Resigns— Alfred E. Green, who was employed as director of the Fox Film Corporation in the studios of Hollywood, Cal., has resigned to go with another film company. He made one picture, "The Web of Chance," with Miss Peggy Hyland as the star.

MacDonald with Keenan—Do you know Frank Keenan's son Of course you do, though probably you are familiar with him as Wallace MacDonald. Young Mr. MacDonald has been cast as the great character actor's son in the latest Keenan production, "The Life Test."

With Nazimova—Marie Beaudet is doing a Grecian dance, in the Nazimova picture, "The Hermit Doctor of Gaya." Miss Beaudet has just finished out at Universal, where she enacted the role of a Spanish dancer, in Director Kull's present picture.

McDaniels Finishes — George McDaniel finished his work in "Lombardi, Ltd." last Tuesday at Metro. He immediately began at the Fox studios on a new picture, "The Heritage of Eden," playing the leading masculine role opposite Hadlaine Traverse. "The Heritage of Eden," both story and scenario, are from the pen of Dennison Clift.

Finished in Serial—Doris Dare has finished her "strenuous stunt" activities in the Francis Ford serial. Miss Dare played the ingenue lead.

Valerino at Metro—Valerino, of the Service Bureau, has taken the place of casting director at the Metro, recently vacated by Miss Rose Mullaney.

Old Stuff—Montgomery & Rock are busy on a burlesque of the high life that existed in the stone ages. That is the jazz stuff they believe went on when barefoot dancing was first introduced.

Alley Life—Jimmy Aubrey under Neel Smith's direction is finishing a two-reel comedy of back alley life.

Comedy Cast—Larry Semen is leading another big company of players through a laugh-producer. He has assembled one hundred and sixty-four players for his current production.

Mr. Wallace Beary recently finished a character heavy in a Thomas Ince production and was engaged with Maurice Tourneur. This is his fourth engagement with Mr. Tourneur within seven months.

Mr. Hugh Fay just finished his fifth consecutive picture with Metro.

Mr. Pell Trenton is now playing juvenile lead in the Metro production.

Mr. William 'Buckley, character juvenile. Now fifth week with "Fair and Warmer." Six feet, two inches tall, good appearance, stage and screen experience. Will be at liberty in about a week.

Miss Helen Jerome Eddy. who recently finished her co-starring picture on the Universal program, was engaged by Sessue Hayakawa for ingenue lead. This is her second engagement opposite Mr. Hayakawa.

Miss Anna Q. Nillson is with Allan Dwan in the production, "The Luck of the Irish."

Miss Rosemary Theby is now playing the lead with a big independent production.

Actors' Association Notes—At the regular weekly meeting of the Actors' Association of Los Angeles the following new members were elected: Violet Radcliffe, Margaret Whistler, Alice Lake, Alice Wilson, Charlotte B. Merriam, J. W. Griffin, Richard Cummings, Howard Crampton, G. Raymond Nye, Joe Ray, George C. Dromgold, Noah N. Beery, Jack Gilbert, James Kirkwood, J. Morris Foster, Harry S. Griffith, making a total of 183 members.

New Costumes—Viola Dana is busy planning costumes for her next production, "The Willow Tree."

In the Big Town—Vivian Martin is still in New York where she is enjoying her first real vacation in over three years.

Up North—Mr. R. D. McLane is up north working hard with the Frank Lloyd company.

Buggy—Thomas Jefferson is playing a "Butterfly Hunter" at the Brunton studio.

With Mabel—Edward Jobson, Andrew Arbuckle and J. H. Hozelton have been cast in the Mabel Normand production at Goldwyn's.

Short and Sweet—Antrim Short is just finishing a juvenile heavy with Blanche Sweet at Hampton's.

With New Company—Carol Halloway has been engaged by the Cinema Art Productions to play the lead in "The Lincoln Highwayman."

With Nazimova — Margarite McWade, who just finished a characterization with Henry Walthall in "The Confession," has been engaged by Nazimova for an important part.

Opposite Moran—Betty Peterson has just completed two consecutive leads opposite Lee Moran.

With Hart—Louis Fitzroy starts to work with William S. Hart this week.

Lewis With Brockwell—Vera Lewis is very busy between her work at Metro and a leading part she is doing with Gladys Brockwell, at Fox.

From New Mexico—Frank Lanning has returned from New Mexico, where he has been with the Carlyle Blackwell company.

Starred in Frisco—Jane Novak leaves Saturday for San Francisco where she will be starred by the American Lifeograph company.

Eagles Nest—Jack Webster has no time for reel work at present. He has just purchased the site for his new home, and after climbing to the location Jack has christened it "Eagles Nest."

Home—Sydney de Grey has just returned from location with Bill Rogers.

Antiquity—Joe Singleton has been playing opposite Texas Guinan who claims that he is the oldest leading man in captivity.

Going Strong—In spite of the street car strike CAMERA! still finds Tom Bates flaunting his pink whiskers on Main street at midnight.

Lillian's Mother—Ruth Hanford is doing Lillian Gish's mother in the current Griffith production.

Farnum News—Mr. S. W. Daniels, formerly manager of the LaFayette Theatre, New Orleans, was a visitor to the Walter Farnum Agency the other day. Mr. Donalds is so attracted by the great possibilities of Los Angeles that he is now looking for a location here.

New Company—Ethel Tucker, noted actress and mother of George Loan Tucker, is organizing a stock company through the Walter Farnum Exchange.

Thank You—That old-time trouper, Jim O'Neil, who is doing well in pictures, called on his old manager, Walter Farnum, the other day. Mr. O'Neil says he likes picture work so well that the lure of the footlights has no attraction for him.

Dan Emerson, noted minstrel man, is furnishing soul stirring banjo music for the picture people now.

Hurrah!—Bert Lytell is ready to throw a party to all his friends by way of celebration. The next few days will see the end of his present picture, "Lombardi, Ltd.," and he will be able to get rid of the long hair that was necessary to the Italian character character that he portrays. About another week, Bert says, and the barbers would have been after him with a lawn-mower.

Stays With It—Bob Kurlle, Bert Lytell's cameraman, suffered a smashed thumb this week at the studio when he lowered the hood of his Hudson Super in too big a hurry. He showed his pluck though and stayed on the job of "cranking" although the smash was on the camera hand.

Cranking Again—Billy Wililams, international diving champion and formerly the photographer of Mack Sennett's comedies, will soon be back on the job after a long camera service abroad for Uncle Sam.

Bracken Resting—Bertram Bracken, having finished "The Confession," will go on a short vacation prior to starting on a new production. Mr. Bracken has established quite a record for himself in the past ten months, having completed in that time seven dramatic features under the National Film Corporation's banner. It is expected that a new star will soon appear on the National roster in which case Mr. Bracken will be retained to direct.

New Technician—Leroy H. Casto, scenic artist in the Bulls-Eye corporation, has been appointed technical director, vice Andrew MacDonald, who has resigned. Casto will supervise all interior sets and in addition will handle construction matters.

New Beauty—Patricia Hanna has signed with the Bulls-Eye Comedies as an additional member of the beauty corps.

On the Job—Eddie Baker, Gale Henry's heavy man, has returned to work looking healthy and husky as ever although he had a most unpleasant vacation while doctoring a bad attack of pneumonia.

From Vaudeville—The films have claimed another vaudeville actor, in Sidney Payne, who has signed with the Frohman Amusement company, under the management of Walter Farnum.

Lederer to Orient—Otto Lederer, who, for the last six years has been associated with Vitagraph productions, has enlisted under the Universal banner and will accompany the Henry McRae serial company to the Orient the middle of September. Present plans indicate that the company will remain in the Orient for about six months.

New Scenario Head—Denison Clift, for the past year and a half special writer at the Fox West Coast studio, has been appointed to the supervising editorial head of all productions to be made in California by Wililam Fox. Clift's advancement to the head of the scenario division comes after a record of photoplay successes, which began two years ago under Cecil and William DeMille at the Lasky studio. Later Clift wrote William S. Hart's greatest success, "Wolves of the Rail," and that drama of the police and Chinatown, "The Midnight Patrol." When Sessue Hayakawa entered the independent field he engaged Clift to write his first important feature, "His Birthright." Clift was engaged as special feature writer at the Fox studios, and he has written the script of every play in which Miss Traverse has starred, including her recent productions, which are all original stories from Clift's pen—"Rose of the West," "The Snares of Paris," "The Heritage of Eden," and "The Secret Husband."

GRAPHOLOGICAL READINGS

BY FRITZI REMONT

One reason why graphology is popular with those interested in dissecting character is because it's not necessiry to paw ver heads, examine dusty palms or become a mathematician-astrologer to discover another's weak and strong traits. Handwriting is always accessible—moreover, reading from writing is the easiest form of character delineation. The novice may acquire this knowledge rapidly, it makes a good "indoor sport" and livens up dull corners at evening gatherings.

Then, too, when choosing a lifemate much misery may be averted by knowing whether one's handwriting promises congeniality—i. e., when compared with that of the deadly of the species whom one desires to pursue or the male pibed who looks so alluringly handsome on the surface. Diseases are apparent in the writing, bad tempers can't hide their little heads ostrich fashion, and extravagance swings out in open "s, a, o and d" as well as in long terminal strokes on the words written, resembling an outstretched "glad hand" which can't save a cent.

So then, let's examine a few "live wires" of the motion picture industry.

No. 1—Alfred A. Cohn, of Photoplay

Mr. Cohn is aborn politician, diplomatic, quite suave, deductive, analytical, would have made a great lowyer. He has enough stubbornness to carry out his plans, is secretive, but a good mixer.

Further, his hand sows optimism, enthusiasm, the literary bent, farsight, shrewdness and excellent powers of observation and criticism. He is ambitious, self-reliant, fond of music, loves elegance, leans toward generosity and extravagance, and yet will not be poor, since his hand shows executive ability, resourcefulness and excellent chances for financial success. He learns much about others, but divulges almost nothing about himself or his plans. He can fairly "tie himself up into a knot" when any one tries to make him talk confidentially. His hand is versatile, original and creative, concentrative, and shows good development of the think-tank altogether.

Mrs. Alfred Cohn

I've only a short sample from which to make deductions, but Mrs. Cohn is quite her husband's opposite, being emotional, unrestrained, governed by the impulses, always jumping at conclusions, may be aroused to jealousy, is very magnetic, intuitive, observant and critical.

She loves comfort, beauty, style and quality. Her hand is very womanly, unselfish and generous, and Mrs. Cohn would not consider any sacrifice too great to make for a friend. She writes the gracefully flowing hand of one who loves the arts, music, dancing, motion—and should be fond of travel, excitement and meeting new faces. She does not concentrate because of a restless streak which is also responsible for her mental vivacity.

Dann C. Byck, of Metro Publicity

This hand betrays fine mental and physical vitality and force, a stubborn and dogged determination to stick till "hades is clothed in ice," and a very inquiring turn of mind.

Mr. Byck is aggressive, blest with initiative, very practical, can always make money, and while impulsive, ardent in wooing both business and the "hank of hair," will not squander. That is because he has a good idea of value, proportion and weight, and can get a dollar's worth of fun out of every little cartwheel he twirls.

He connects cause and effect well enough to be a lawyer, doctor or character dissecter. He has self-esteem, independence, cheerfulness and enthusiasm. He should engage in out-of-door work, vary his occupations, and really would do better on a ranch, as a mechanician, or in some emotionally and physically active sphere than behind a desk.

Truman B. Handy, of Photoplay Magazine

A very creative and inventive "phist" and one which shows just a bit of coquetry, betraying the fact that this young writer likes the "rag and bone" when it is original and interesting. Dull girls might as well keep out of his company; he is brainy and cheerful, has a fine sense of mimicry and humor, and wants some one who can appreciate those qualities. Bromides are not in Mr. Handy's hand at at.

He is exceedingly inspirational and feels happiest when doing as he jolly well pleases. He is vivacious, generous, sympathetic, but may often hide his tenderest feelings behind the mask of impenetrability, i. e., a good laugh. He doesn't wear his sentiments for cuff-buttons. He's artistic, cultured, shows good birth and breeding, is often a bit secretive, stubborn and very positive. He lives to be unconventional, independent, and shows his versatility and trained reasoning powers plainly. He never does more than is necessary to accomplish a duty well. He's proud and sensitive to criticism, has a fine sense of form, and should pursue a hobby. The hand shows determination and a quick temper.

Alice Lake, of Metro Studio

Miss Lake is a born psychic, and her hunches come true with clock-like regularity. She is lovable, magnetic, original and very sensitive, would feel thought transference quickly, and be uncomfortable in quarrelsome atmospheres, with vulgar people, or if forced to live with doleful folk. She has the lines of wit and mimicry strongly developed, that is, the one upper strove of "y" higher than the other.

She is conscientious, loves justice, would stop a man from beating a kiddie or dawg, and would have a goldfish eating out of her hand in no time. She is of the sympathetic temperament, and people will want to love and cuddle her. She thinks fast, is talkative, but through her intuitions may often be secretive, too. She is not the same always; moods affect her strongly. There are moments when even her sociable nature prefers solitude. She can attract money and many friends through her psychic forces. Through her experiences and hunches she has learned that her judgment is reliable, so it's not easy to talk Miss Lake out of any preconceived idea. She likes or dislikes on first meeting and doesn't have to change her conceptions later. She is sensitive to insincerity and bluff.

Lois A. Woods

Miss Woods writes one of the most musical hands I've analyzed, and has personal magnetism, independence, facility for meeting the public, and very high ambitions. Her writing is creative and artistic, very proud and sensitive, resistant of evil, of other's advice, and of disease. She has wonderful mental and physical vitality and recuperative powers, and never will be "down and out" long. She bobs up like a cork on the wave. Her hand is effervescent, buoyant, inspirational, idealistic, and she's talkative but distinctly uncommunicative when she desires to be.

She has a very successful hand from the financial viewpoint. She is generous and fond of beautiful things, but she can conserve her assets. Her judgment as to quality is excellent. No butcher would sting her on a bargain. She is shrewd, cautious, resourceful, yet often yields to impulse and emotion. Her writing shows wit, love of travel, versatility.

Wid Gunning, of Wid's Daily

A distinctly "different" and very original hand, with invention and creativenes, originality, keen insight and critical analysis to burn!

He has a very strong will, is obstinate, hard to convince, relies on both reason and intuition to guide him. He seldom makes errors of judgment, and doesn't make the same mistake twice.

His writing betrays force, resitance, very fine vitality, fondnes for music, excellent imagination, ideals, punctuality, and just a touch of hidden liking for the other sex. But he's fussy about the sort of girl he takes out. He is very observant, and you can't put anything over on Mr. Gunning. He is secretive, sees more than he acknowledges in words, and feels far more than he expresses outwardly. He is proud and sensitive, hates ridicule, likes to start things, ought to make a success in promoting enterprises. He should take up the study of music, become a good gymnast and have great facility in writing, learning foreign languages and really acquiring anything he desires, since Mr. Gunning can concenrate and is quite self-sucient. He never would lack amusement if left to his own resources.

BULLS-EYE LEASES

Moving—On September 10th the studios of the Bulls-Eye Film corporation will be removed to 5813 Santa Monica Boulevard, Hollywood, formerly occupied by the Clifford Photoplay corporation.

MARY SHARON PRODUCTIONS

Mary Sharon is back in Los Angeles trying to make up for the time she lost during her late illness. She has assumed the duties of manager of Mary Sharon Productions. The series series have foreign settings and atmosphere dealing with French and East Indian characters.

Mary Sharon Productions will start shooting their five-reel feature a week from next Thursday, if proper leads can be discovered in the meantime. They are putting out five-reel features and one and two-reel polite comedies.

TREFON STUDIO

Trefon Productions have taken over the old Chaplin studio at Fairview street and laborers are busy cleaning up and getting the studio ready for immediate use.

SHORT REST

J. Warren Kerrigan's company is taking a rest between pictures while the adaptation of the next feature is being made from the story purchased. Ernest C. Warde directs and Arthur Todd is head cameraman. Fritzi Brunette, leading lady for Mr. Kerrigan in his last picture, has been re-engaged and another cast will be selected.

B. B. HAMPTON BUSY

Benjamin B. Hampton has started camera work this week upon an Emerson Hough novel, third of the books of our contemporary authors to be filmed under Mr. Hampton's supervision. Mr. Hough, Zane Grey, Stewart Edward White and several other writers of "best sellers" have arranged, through Mr. Hampton's corporation, "Great Authors' Pictures, Inc." and "Zane Grey Pictures, Inc.," to film all of their works in big productions with all-star casts.

Mr. Hampton's entire production schedule will be produced on the west coast at the Brunton Studios in Los Angeles. J. B. Chapman, who exploited the first of the Hampton productions, has been re-engaged and will be placed in charge of the publicity on the new pictures. W. H. Clifford has been added to the staff who are to adapt the novels into screen versions.

UNION BENEFIT BALL

Great preparations are now under way for the large benefit ball to be given by the Motion Picture Players Union at the Goldberg-Bosley Hall. A very pretentious affair is being planned for the evening of September 12, the proceeds of which will be donated to the strike fund of the members of the Actors' Equity Association in the east.

ALKIRE STORY

Marshall Mackaye's new vehicle for the Alkire company will be a comedy-drama of rural and city life, written by Miles Overholt, but as yet unnamed.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Fay Tincher, Katherine Lewis, James Libby, Gertrude Selby and Harry Depp. Please submit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic, for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

POPPY COMEDY CO., 735 BOYLE AVE. Wants one-reel comedies for Mack Swain, which include dancing and swimming girls; and six-reel dramas of semi-western type for Tom Santschi. Also want a series of four pictures. Address Santschi, care Stuart, Camera!, 4513 Sunset Blvd.

MODEL COMEDY COMPANY, 1329 GORDON ST., HOLLYWOOD, is in the market for two-reel comedies featuring Gale Henry. Stories must contain strikingly snappy situations for female boob characters. No slap-stick will be considered. Please remit by mail.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

YOU MAKE ME TIRED!

You people who are always complaining about not having a chance to show what you can do. Why, if half of you were given the chance of a lifetime to play a big part in some picture you would fail miserably! You kick because you haven't a chance, and never stop to think that you probably aren't prepared. We prepare you for the biggest things. That's what we are here for. Facial expression, gestures, make-up, scene rehearsals, and actual screen tests, given at our own studio, give you the essentials and extras in Motion Pictutre Acting.

Oil and gas seepages in various parts of the field (which indicates a suply of oil below.)

Oil in some of the water wells. Sulphur deposits lying on the surface. (These are dried residue after oil has evaporactd.)

Outcrop of stratas of rock lpainly show anticline.

Active drilling is started in the Pecos field, which indicates that wise and practical oil men are spending thousands of dollars.

Standing and Management of the Company

What the Bankers Say

From H. E. Christie, Cashier Texas Bank and Trust Co., El Paso, Texas

"The possibilities of their production are unlimited."

From T. H. Beauchamp, Cashier First National Bank, Pecos, Texas

"We commend the company to those with whom it may have business."

From E. W. Kayser, Vice-President First National Bank, El Paso, Texas

"They are men of ability and high integrity."

Geologists Say

These Geologists All Reported Favorably

Dr. Davis T. Day of the United States Geological Survey, in a lecture before the Naval Academy at Annapolis, in 1914, said: "It is easy to forecast that oil fields will be developed in the near future in the State of Texas to a much greater degree than at present, near the Staked Plains and in the extreme western portion of Texas, in the region of the Pecos River, where seepages exist in great numbers and so far have received no accurate investigation."

Lew H. Davis, mining editor of the El Paso Times, and a geologist of thirty years of active experience, said in a review of the Pecos field, written for his paper: "That the Pecos oil field, in the Valley of the Pecos, near the village of Pecos, Texas, is destined in the near future to devouep wells of large production of oil and gas of suprior grade, and is one of the largest in area in the State of Texas, is the opinion of the writer, formed after a careful and detailed examination occupying a week's time, as far as twenty miles south, ten miles east, twenty-five miles north, and several miles west and northwest. This extensive tour was necessary to see the exposures of the structure and anticlines."

VICTORY LOTS MAY START YOUR FORTUNE

Oil is no respecter of persons, and anyone, anywhere, may profit from oil wells.

Influence does not count in oil, for you don't have to make a pull to make money.

It is one of the world's most necessary raw materials.

The demand for oil is running far ahead of the suply.

Oil is called "Liquid Gold." It is paid for at the wells.

THE SUNSHINE OIL CORPORATION

(Incorporated April 17, 1918, under laws of Texas)

The permit of Corporation Commission of California is No. 7574

OFFERS UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY for participation in oil profits in the development of a property sold under a unique plan, as follows:

The Property

is located in Pecos, Texas, which is a new oil field in Ward County, east of El Paso and west of Ranger.

1280 acres lease of wonderfully well situated land called the Victory Plat, divided into Victory lots, which are to be sold.

Wells sites reserved for community wells within the Victory Plat are as follows:

One 20-acre well site near center of plat, and twelve 5-acre well sites so located in such places through the plat that all lots are close to community drill sites.

Five 20-acre community drill sites outside the Victory Plat joining locations in other parts of the field where wells are now being drilled or contracted for.

The title to this property has been passed upon by the most competent legal talent, and the oil and mineral rights are shown to be owned by the Sunshine Oil Corporation, subject to a customary one-eighth oil royalty to the owner of the land.

The lease (a) is a perpetual lease when oil is produced in commercial quantities.

The lots sell at $30.00 each, which also pays for the lot owner's share of the oil developed on the community sites.

The size of the lots is 2700 square feet or over.

The Victory Plat is located on the oil structure, and by best geological advice there is every reason to expect great production.

The lease is a commercial lease of standard form, and all of the requirements under said lease are performed by Sunshine Oil Corporation.

The purchaser of Victory lots may drill upon his lots, but is not required to do so. With the lease is a sharing in oil profits from community wells. (See plans.)

Plan of Operation

First, the drilling to completion of the well now started in the central well site on the Victory Plat. This well is known as the Victory Well, and all costs of drilling will be paid for by the Sunshine Oil Corporation.

Second, the second well will be drilled either on one of the five-acre reserved well sites in the Victory Plat, or in one of the twenty-acre Victory well sites in other parts of the field. This second well will be started when one-half of the lots on the plat are sold. The cost of this well will also be paid by the Sunshine Oil Corporation.

Third, a part of the money from oil produced in the two producing wells will be used to pay for drilling the third well in one of the reserved well sites. The same procedure will provide a drill fund for the fourth well and subsequent wells on the reserved community well sites, which will be drilled for the benefit of the owners of the leases in the Victory Plat proposition.

Under this plan, when commercial oil is produced, the purchaser of Victory lots becomes the beneficiary, of the production of all oil wells drilled in the well sites. These well sites, totaling 180 acres, contain ample room for fifty or more wells.

After deducting the one-eighth royalty, every dollar of the net proceeds from sale of oil from the wells drilled on the reserved sites will be distributed pro rata among the owners of the leases in the Victory Plat proposition.

All money obtained from sale of these lots, except sales costs, will be used for development of Victory Plat reservations and adjoining land held by Sunshine Oil Corporation.

EXTRACTS FROM THE REPORT OF DR. HUGH H. TUCKER

I examined the country for twenty miles along the river valley.

There are many places throughout this part of the Pecos Valley and nearby country that show things encouraging in the search for oil-bearing lands.

Salt water, salt lakes, soda, sulphur, sulphur water, and in many places some oil is found seeping from ledges or banks with water, while in some several wells drilled for water, some oil has been found, and may be drawn or pumped from such wells daily in small quantities.

Briefly, the surface indications of oil in the area examined are all that could be expected in an undevlopd oil field.

This immediate section is Permian, while on the north and overlapping is the later Conozoic and Cretaceous.

All of this section is underlain with the Pennsylvania formations, well known for the production of oil and gas.

The structural formation, thought to be the best for the accumulation of oil and gas, is an anticlinal fold or upbuckle.

This is the kind of structure found in the above described locality.

The Pennsylvania should be reached at a depth not far from 3800 feet, with two sands in the Permian before that depth is reached which may prove pay.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) HUGH H. TUCKER.

(Dr. Tucker's home address is 1911 West Tenth Street, Dallas, Texas.)

JUDGE, THEN ACT

We respectfully suggest that you cannot "sit on the fence" and make any part of the flood of oil profits which are enriching so many at this time—you must "dip in" somewhere if you desire to get your share.

ANENT CAMERA'S! "STAND" ON THE LABOR QUESTION

LITTLE BEAR LAKE, Sept. 5.—(Special Editorial.)—Office reports reaching here indicate that there has been no little commotion caused by last week's editorial on the labor question, and the statement that organization was an inevitable thing. Certain parties have notified the publishers that if any more of this "biased and wilfully misrepresented" matter is published they will be compelled to "withdraw their financial support" from CAMERA'S! pages.

So—they are going to withdraw their "financial support." That statement moves us to a flood of salty tears.

"Support." What do they call support? In this case it can mean nothing more or less than advertising or subscriptions, for the only other financial support ever afforded this paper was put up in cold hard cash, oftentimes borrowed, by the publishers themselves, during that period when these same people who are now threatening, were telling the world that CAMERA! would not last three months.

"Support." Why do they advertise in the pages of CAMER!? For no other reason than that they know every dollar spent in those pages means double that value to them. Why do they subscribe to it? Why do they buy it on the news stands? For no other reason than that they find information in its pages that they cannot read in any other paper in this country.

Is the man who seeks all over the city to find where he can buy a pair of shoes the cheapest "supporting" the store he finally patronizes? Not on your glorious monochrome. He is finding where he can save himself a two-bit piece, and the only moral obligation connected with it is his own imagined duty to his pocketbook.

There are many readers of this paper who used to pass the office and see two men and a woman, sweating and ink besmeared, pulling out their back muscles on a Washington hand press, inking the copies and press them into the wee small hours to get each week's issue of CAMERA! on the news stands. Who was "supporting" it then? And what did the people who are now in such a mental state of worry have to say about it?

They were the people who at that time would not even take a chance on subscribing for three months at fifty cents. They were the people who laughed and said that this paper would not be able to exist. Advertise? You could not have taken advertising away from them with a corkscrew.

If any newspaper in the United States has made its own way, unaided except for the voluntary words of appreciation spoken by satisfied readers, that paper is CAMERA!

If it is independent today of outside influence, it has a right to be. Its news columns have been free from prostitution by any class. It maintained its same independence when the publishers were borrowing money to tide them over the coming week. And get this into your mind—IT IS GOING TO KEEP ON BEING JUST AS INDEPENDENT AS IT IS TODAY!

If any man who patronizes these columns does not feel that he is getting value received AND MORE, he can really give us "support" by taking his ad out of the paper and leaving it out.

CAMERA'S! "Stand," as they call it, is no stand at all. Readers who have intelligence enough to understand what they read should have been able to comprehend that much at least. The article referred to was written because it was true. If the news favored the union or organization of studio employees, that is no concern of ours. Neither is it if the news favors anyone else. This is a NEWSPAPER. Most readers have recognized that fact and it is that fact alone that has built CAMERA! to a point where it is practically alone in its field, commanding both the real news and advertising of the entire Los Angeles motion picture colony.

Those who read CAMERA! may expect to find news both good and bad. If they do not want that kind of a paper, we suggest their subscribing to some other. The advertising columns, also, are open to any one who has a legitimate offer to make to any one else. And when any one feels that it will not be profitable to use those columns, the grandest little way in the world to keep from losing peace of mind will be to leave the ad out. At present our advertisers seem to be rather well satisfied.

And the "stand" of CAMERA! will remain the same.

E. M. R.

MEN WORTH WHILE

"I give preference to unionists, * * * because I am convinced that the man who gives a considerable portion of his time each week and a considerable portion of his earnings each week to try and improve the condition in which he lives is justly entitled to more consideration than the man who remains outside and will not give a portion of his time or a fraction of his money to better the conditions of himself and those who are dependent upon his earnings."—Judge Cussen of the Australian Arbitration Court.

FILMS OF SERIES OF TEN FROM JOHN LEITCH'S "MAN TO MAN" TO BE DISTRIBUTED FREE

Indosed by leading labor and Government officials interested in labor questions, a motion picture campaign is to be started among American industries to offset labor unrest and to establish the principles of industrial democracy in localities where industry has suffered from lack of co-operation between employer and employee.

The campaign will be based upon a series of ten pictures produced from the book "Man to Man," by John Leitch, who is active supervisor in more than a score of plants of the system of industrial democracy as set forth in his book. The films will be furnished to a list of 2,000 important industries throughout the United States, the list having been furnished by the Government.

The principles of industries democracy, as set forth by Mr. Leitch, stress the importance of acknowledgment by the employer that his employee is as important in the successful conduct of the business as he himself. The ideal industrial in many industrial democracy, as it has been installed in many industrial concerns throughout the country, provides a system of government identical with that of the United States. The active head is the president, the executive officers compose the cabinet, the department heads the senate, and the house of representatives is elected by the men and women in the workrooms.

This system has been adopted by several New York concerns with highly successful results. The film campaign is to be based upon scenes taken in these factories and in others where the principles of industrial democracy have been applied to smooth over labor difficulties.

"It is not a campaign for profit," Mr. Leitch has announced. "It is not to be distributed to the theaters. Only those organizations which desire to visualize to their executives and employees what may be a solution to their labor problems will be allowed to exhibit the films. It it primarily an answer to the eternal problem of capital versus labor, or, better, employer versus employee."

One of the ardent advocates of the film drive is Dr. Francis Holley, Director of the Bureau of Commercial Economics in Washington, the largest distributor of free motion pictures in the world. Dr. Holley said:

"These films have my hearty support. The energy of myself and the bureau will be devoted to giving this series as great a distribution among the factories and factory workers as is humanly possibly. I believe it is a great answer to a great problem at a time when an answer is most urgently needed."

The entire series will be furnished only to organizations which have suitable facilities for projecting film.—Official Trade Journal, I. A. T. S. L.

VALUE OF TRADE UNIONISM

"If I were a factory employee, a workingman on the railroads, or a wage-earner of any sort, I would undoubtedly join the union of my trade. If I disapproved of its policy I would join in order to fight that policy; if the union leaders were dishonest I would join in order to put them out. I believe in the union and I believe that all men who are benefited by the union are morally bound to help to the extent of their power in the common interests advanced by the union."—Theodore Roosevelt.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

LASKY NOTES

General Manager — Charles Eyton has now assumed general management of both the Lasky and Morosco studios, with Fred Kley as studio manager at Lasky's and Frank E. Garbutt occupying the same position at Morosco. Milton E. Hoffman, former general manager, has departed for New York where for a time he will devote his energies to whipping into shape the organization at the International plant, after which he will leave for London to assume the general studio management of the Famous Players-Lasky British Producers, Ltd.

New Feature—Cecil B. DeMille has begun work on "Why Change Your Wife. Among the leading players are Thomas Meighan, Gloria Swanson and Bebe Daniels. The play is an original by William C. DeMille. Alvin Wyckoff is again presiding at the camera.

For N. Y.—Walter Edwards leaves on the 15th for New York to direct Marguerite Clark in "Easy to Get." With Mr. Edwards will go Fred Robinson, his assistant.

Bryant Washburn and company, directed by Donald Crisp, will go to Chicago in about a week to complete the filming of scenes for "It Pays to Advertise."

Warwick Vehicle—William C. DeMille is progressing splendidly with his Paramount-Artcraft picture, "The Tree of Knowledge," starring Robert Warwick, with Wanda Hawley as the leading woman and Kathlyn Williams playing the heavy role.

More So—Ethel Clayton is well under way with her new picture, "More Deadly than the Male,' which is being made at the Morosco studio under the direction of Robert G. Vignola.

Houdini has not arrived as yet from New York but is expected back to California in the next week or so to take up the production of his new Paramount-Artcraft picture at the Lasky studio. "The Grim Game," which he completed just before leaving for New York, is said to be one of the biggest sensations in years and is termed a classic in mystery pictures. The film colony will be glad to welcome the return of the genial and talented escape artist.

English Romance—Earle Williams, under the direction of Chester Bennett, will start the production of "The Far East" this week. The story is an English romance in a Japanese setting written especially for Mr. Williams by H. H. Van Loan.

Semon Production — Larry Semon has started production of his latest two-reel comedy in which he will introduce an immense number of scenes of New York cabaret life.

Finishing—Bessie Love is on the last week of her production of "Pegeen," with David Smith directing.

Working Hard—Antonio Mereno is on the second episode of the "Secret Service Serial" and William Duncan is busy on the tenth and eleventh episodes of "Smashing Barriers."

Simple Harry Starts—Harry Munn started his first comedy production for the Vitagraph this week innovating a new screen character, "Simple Harry," a "hard luck" individual.

Curtis Signs Platt—Cathrine Curtis, president and executive manager of the Cathrine Curtis Corporation, announced this week that she has engaged to direct the Curtis productions George Foster Platt, whose first contribution to the silent drama—the Helen Keller picture, "Deliverance"—is now creating a sensation at the Lyric Theatre, New York. Mr. Platt has already arrived in Los Angeles.

Christie Anniversary — Passing the third anniversary of Christie Comedies as an independent producing organization, the Christie Film Company celebrates the month of September with more than a hundred Christie Comedies and half of the first year's schedule of two-reel specials released.

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

Author—Victor Eubank, recently a captain in the army and for several years director general of the Essanay company, evidently does other things besides produce pictures. It is announced that three one-act plays written by Captain Eubank are now in production. The first of these, "Camouflage," is to be used as a headline vehicle for James Meehan and an all star cast. It is being produced by Russell Mack and is scheduled for an opening week in one of the prominent vaudeville houses.

Brentwood Year—A report most gratifying to the stockholders of the Brentwood was presented by its president, Mr. L. C. Haynes, at the first annual meeting of stockholders of the corporation held during the past week.

It was shown that during its first year this company had released through Robertson-Cole Company and the Exhibitors Mutual of New York, three photoplays each of which has attained a very high degree of public favor and consequent promise of profit, and that it is now completing its fourth production under Director King W. Vidor.

Starting with rented studio space, offices and laboratory facilities, Mr. Haynes reported the outright purchase of the studio and presented plans for considerable enlargement and improvement of stages and of buildings and equipment immediately necessary for the accommodation of the second producing unit under a second director who has been engaged to commence work within a few days.

For the ensuing year a new board of directors was elected comprising L. C. Haynes, R. G. Beebe, H. M. Brandel, W. H. Rimmer and O. C. Kingsley. At the meeting of directors which followed that of the stockholders the following officers were appointed: L. C. Haynes, president; R. G. Beebe, vice-president; Willard Barrows, treasurer; S. P. Trood, secretary; H. M. Brandel, assistant treasurer; H. L. Haynes, assistant secretary.

To Hampton—Victor Milner has completed the J. P. McCarthy feature, "Out of the Dust," and has joined the Jesse B. Hampton staff, as photographer.

Ditching—Back to the soil. Ernest C. Warde, director for Warren Kerrigan, has acquired an orange ranch a few miles north of Monrovia. He intends to dig irrigation diches every week-end by way of relaxation

With Beauman — Wm. Merrill McCormick, who played Shalum in the "Perils of Thunder Mountain," after three week's absence with Pathe, has returned to Viagraph for Wm. Beauman's new serial.

Fair Enough—Jack Rollins is now working on his third picture with Scott Dunlap, playing Eleanore Fair's brother.

Button-button — Frank Geraghty, assistant to Director Warde of the Kerrigan Company, has returned from a grand tuna hunt at Catalina Island. At least that is what Frank calls it. The first day out he landed an impressive-looking fish and lugged it three miles to the Tuna Club office to claim his blue button. The secretary in charge winked at his stenographer and explained at some length that he Club awarded buttons for tuna—not barracudda.

UNIVERSAL NOTES

From Ham Beall

The starting of Marie Walcamp's new serial, "Petals of Lao-Tze," from the novel by J. Allen Dunn, and the finish of the Jewel production, "The Beach Comber," starring Elmo Lincoln, have been the two big events of the week at Universal City.

Henry McRae, who directed Lincoln in "Elmo, the Mighty," is producing the new Walcamp serial. Harland Tucker is her leading man, while others in the cast include Otto Lederer, Wadsworth Harris and George Hively, who in addition to playing the heroine's father, is preparing the screen script for the various episodes.

"The Beach Comber" was produced by Rex Ingram from the story by J. G. Hawks, with a cast including Mabel Ballin, Harry van Meter, Ethelyn Irving, Frank Brownlee, Paul Weigel and Dick La Reno.

Preparations are being made for the starting of production on "The Virgin of Stamboul," which is to be a Priscilla Dean super-feature. The story was originally called "Undraped" and is from the pen of H. H. Van Loan. It was written especially for Miss Dean. She will be seen as an Oriental dancing girl, seeking alms in the streets of Constantinople. The scenario was prepared by William Parker. Tod Browning is to direct the feature. Several thousand persons are to take part in the street scenes.

Browning is also supervising the production of "No Experience Required," Mary MacLaren's current vehicle, which Eddie Kull is directing. The story was written by Frank R. Adams.

Miss MacLaren's supporting cast includes David Butler, Johnnie Cooke, Carl Stockdale, Lydia Knott and Charlotte Woods.

"Buried Alive" is the title of Monroe Salisbury's next Universal production to be directed by Douglas Gerrard. The story was written by F. McGrew Willis.

"The Story of the Tiger Hunt," written and produced by Major Jack Allen, has been completed at Universal City this week.

Hoot Gibson and Magda Lane are playing the principal roles in "The Trail of the Hold-Up Man," a two-reel western melodrama now under production by George Holt.

Director Allen Holubar is at Pleasanton, California, filming the small-town scenes for "Ambition."

"The Gift of the Desert," Harry Carey's current production, is well under way under Jack Ford's direction. Carey's supporting cast includes Winifred Westover, J. Farrell McDonald, Ted Brook, Joe Harris and Charles LeMoyne.

Director Reeves Eason is filming a two-reel western melodrama, "The Fighting Line," written by Karl Coolidge and scenarized by Jack Jevne. Art Acord and Mildred Moore are playing the principal roles, supported by George Fields, Chris Enriques and Charles Newton.

Florence Turner is directing and playing the leading role in "The Village Blacksmith," a one-reel comedy. Gwendolyn Logan wrote the story.

Director Norman Dawn is taking the finishing scenes for "Lasca," the six-reel feature starring Frank Mayo and Edith Roberts. The story was adapted for the screen by Percy Heath, from the poem written by Frank Duprez.

Eric von Stroheim is making preparations for a big feature, "His Great Success," written by Baroness de Meyer and prepared for the screen by von Stroheim himself. The production will have an all-star cast, including Sam De Grasse, Una Trevlyn, Clyde Fillmore, Maude George, Leo White and Mae Busch.

The third episode of "The Lion Man" is under production by Director Jack Wells. Kathleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin are the featured players.

At "U"—A stickler for realism and correct detail, Mitchell Lewis last week directed Charles Odds, his technical man, to proceed, post-haste, to Big Bear to secure still photographs of the interior of the famous mountain inn known as The Tavern in order to exactly duplicate the general arrangement and furnishings in sets at their Universal Studios to match up with the exterior scenes the company made while on location there, for their latest feature, "The Last of His People."

First Gaiety Comedy Filmed—First of a new series of Gaiety Comedies featuring George Ovey has been produced under the direction of Craig Hutchinson.

Comedy-Drama—Marshall Mackaye's new vehicle for the Alkire company will be a comedy drama of rural and city life entitled "An Ace in the Hole."

DeHaven Comedy — Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven have begun work on a new feature comedy at the National entitled "A Sure Cure," under the direction of Wm. Seiter. Bob McGowan of exhaustless wit and novel ideas, wrote the story in collaboration with Mr. Seiter.

Rest—Harry Edwards, who is directing Eddie Flanagan and Neely Edwards in "The Hall Room Boys," will alternate with Wm. Seiter in directing Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven in future comedies. This arrangement is due to the fact that Messrs. Flanagan and Edwards are desirous of taking a vacation, which same will probably cover a period of two or three weeks, and since someone must work, Harry has been elected.

Henry Company—Gale Henry, supported by Eddie Baker and Hap H. Ward, this week "shot" the final scenes to her latest fun fest, the title of which is "Gas." Herman C. Raymaker directed.

Herman C. Raymaker was badly burned on the face and hands on Sept. 2, when a gasoline station erected on a lot in Hollywood was burned to the ground for a scene in Miss Henry's latest comedy, "Gas."

Ray Vehicle—Charles Ray has commenced work at the Thomas H. Ince studio on a story by Agnes C. Johnston. His leading woman in this production is Millicent Fisher. Others in the supporting cast are George Webb, Thomas Guise, and Andrew Robson. The working title of the piece is "He Who Hesitates." Jerome Storm is directing the picture.

Location—Hobart Bosworth, accompanied by his director, Irvin Willatt, and company of players, spent last week in San Francisco getting a lot of harbor battleship pictures for the Ince production soon to be released.

Mary's Ankle — Douglas MacLean and Doris May have commenced work at the Ince studio on the story, "Mary's Ankle," which will be the third of the comedy-dramas to be released for this team. The continuity for this was written by Luther E. Reed.

Title Artist — More than 100 art titles, each illustrative of the thought or action on which the reading matter is based, are being prepared by Ferdinand Pinney Earle, the noted artist, for "Out of the Dust," the eight reel romance just completed by John P. McCarthy for the McCarthy Picture Productions.

First prints of the picture were exhibited at the artist's sudio in Hollywood, in order that Earle might begin work at once on the paintings for the titles.

MORE TERSE POINTERS FOR SCENARIO WRITERS

By Will M. Ritchey

Do not mention the fact that you have graduated from a scenario school; it will go against you.

Don't waste time writing stories featuring children.

Don't write to a star saying you are sending to him direct because the scenario writer may steal your story. The scenario editor reads the letter "not the star) and does not see any humor in it.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

Grassby Dinner—Last Sunday evening at her home in Hollywood, Mrs. Bertram Grassby entertained several friends at dinner. Among those who enjoyed Mrs. Grassby's hospitality were Mrs. Henry O'Neil, Miss Jeanie MacPherson, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sands.

Yachting—Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ince made the trip to Catalina in Mr. Ince's yacht, last Friday, and remained until Monday. They had as their guest Mr. Jack Reid of the Ince Studio.

Flyer—Miss Leota Lorraine is entertaining Mrs. Van Vleit, a San Francisco friend. Mrs. Van Vleit, who has an aviator's license, flew down from 'Frisco. She will remain with her friend here about a week.

From East—Mr. Brown, of the Maurice Tourneur company, is entertaining his mother from the East.

At Beach—Violet Radcliffe is spending a few weeks at the beach, recuperating, after her recent illness.

At St. Catherine — Miss Louise Glaum was the guest of Mildred Harris Chaplin, over the week end, at the St. Catherine Hotel at Catalina.

Real Sorrow — John P. McCarthy was staging an emotional scene for "Out of the Dusk," which is a romantic drama of early Western days, in which Master Pat Moore and his screen father, Russell Simpson, were the principal players. But with nothing, either by persuasion or scolding could McCarthy or the boy's mother induce a single tear.

"All right," said the director, with an "aside" to let the mother in he secret, "you're fired, Pat We've got to have a real actor in this scene. I'm going to phone for little Ben Alexander to play the part."

And then the seven-year old wept—with tears of jealousy and rage at the aspersion on his professional standing.

UNION DANCE

The grand benefit affair is to be staged Friday evening, September 12, at the Goldberg-Bosley hall. Elaborate preparations for a large and festive crowd are being made. The hall will accommodate seven hundred and fifty couples, and the Union members expect a capacity attendance.

The Player Union entertainment committee have secured a twenty-piece jazz orchestra which will keep the dancers busy. Refreshments, liquid and otherwise, but especially liquid, will be available for the thirsty thespians.

The Follies—"A Night In Paris"—even the title does strange things to the imagination. And when you have seen this galaxy of pretty girls, with the comedy and music to back them, you will know that the old mind didn't run so far astray.

NO VACATION

ZaSu Pitts has been prevented from enjoying a vacation by the same condition but not for the same reason as that which has held quite a lot of people in Los Angeles for the past few days, namely, the strike of the steam railroad workers.

Miss Pitts had planned to go to Balboa with friends for the week between the finishing of the scenes in which she appears in the picture now being filmed at the Brentwood, and the commencement of a new photoplay to be filmed by the recently formed No. 2 producing unit of the same organibation. No railroad is necessary for a trip to Balboa, but the last scene in which Miss Pitts appears in the present picture calls for a departure by train, and with not a wheel of freight or passenger train moving for several days past, she has had to stay in town from day to day in the hopes that the strike would be settled and the short flash taken which would release her for a well earned vacation.

Luncheon Guest — Thursday Mrs. George Seigley gave a luncheon in honor of Mrs. J. Morley. Astors, combined with maiden-hair fern, furnished the decorative note. Mrs. Seigley's guests were Mrs. Tony Lugo, Mrs. William Slauson, Mrs. Lorenzo de Soto, Mrs. J. Morley, and Mary Jane Morley.

Leave for N. Y.—Mrs. Carle Boynton, and Clara Louise Boynton, sister and niece of Al Semnacker left Los Angeles Wednesday for New York City. Mr. Semnacker's relatives have been his guests here for about six weeks.

AT CATALINA

Week-End Guest — Lillian Greenberger and Spencer Valentine entertained Beulah Bevington at Catalina Island over the week end, including Labor Day.

AT THE SHIP

Last Saturday night many of the motion picture people were at the Ship Cafe, at Venice, enjoying the dancing and the ginger ale.

Viola Dana, Lottie Pickford, and Kenneth Harlan formed one party. At another table was Miss Dana's sister, Shirley Mason with Lew Cody. Katherine MacDonald and Mary MacLaren were also there with a party of friends, and Allen Dwan added his festive presence.

Moore Party—Colleen Moore was hostess of a small party. Her guests were Miss May Kranchorz, Mr. Wilfred Kranchorz, and Mr. John Simpson. Mrs. Kranchorz chaperoned the party.

To Santa Monica—Mother Anderson has purchased an attractive little home at Santa Monica, where she has taken up her residence.

DOUGLAS MACLEAN

By Mildred Davis

Conversation drifted to the theatre, and, on learning that Douglas had been interested in acting, Mr. Belasco encouraged him to take it up seriously. He gave Douglas a letter to John Emerson, saying that there was a great demand for the well educaed refined young fellow at that time.

Now Douglas MacLean's father is a clergyman, and Douglas had told the family that he would not go on the stage, but honestly felt that it would do no harm to see Mr. Emerson, at least. Nothing would come of it he was sure. So he went to the theatre, watched rehearsal, and John Emerson had him read the part of the young reporter.

"I was stiff, and didn't know what it was all about, but we read about one act and a half, when Mr. Emerson said it was enough. I only wondered why he hadn't spoken sooner," Douglas tells us. "He said it was good, and he liked it, but—, oh, I knew it would come. It wasn't so bad, though, because he did engage me. I thought it would be fun to play about that way on my vacation. I wouldn't use my right name, and no one would know me. On receipt of the news father came dashing to New York to argue, remonstrate and discuss with me. He finally concluded that the best cure was to let me get it out of my system. He felt that I'd soon find that the "Play-actor's life was tawdry, all tinsel and lace."

Douglas became very enthusiastic, took lessons in the voice and elocution, and when his allotted vacation time was over he was deep in his work with no intention of quitting. His father had watched his progress and was loosing his horror of the stage. His son had done nothing horrible, most of the characters he played were rather pleasing, idealistic, young heroes. Not bad at all. So father saw the light and became converted.

Nearly all of Douglas' work has been in light comedy. He enjoys and appreciates the more serious drama, and the great classics, but he feels that it is a fine thing to make people laugh.

It is only a little over two years since Douglas McLean did his first work in motion pictures, beginning with which he had signed a year's contract. Up until that time his theatrical work had all been done on the New York stage where his historonic career had begun by a slight turn of chance, at a dinner party.

Douglas had gone through "Prep" and college in Chicago with the firm intention of becoming a civil engineer. In his case the firmness was unusually significant, for though he had a leaning toward the stage in his college life, the parental objection was so strong that Douglas renounced the stage idea. After college, Douglas, with a cousin, had been set up in bond brokerage in Philadelphia by his father and uncle. The two young business men were doing very well when a New York friend wrote, urging Douglas to make a trip, to Europe. Douglas ran up to New York, engaged passage, and at the last minute the trip was called off, because of the death of his friend's father. So Doug stopped in New York for a vacation, and one night attended a dinner where David Belasco was also a guest.

"I try to make each of my characters different, in order to make each one a living person, even though they are all of the amiable young fellow type. To me it seems that this is a period of characterization in acting. The day of the polite 'regulation hero' has gone; the actor who is always just himself is becoming passe. Only a few years ago the hero, for the star or leading man must be more or less a hero, did one character succesfully, and that character was his own personality set in a story. The really big actors and actresses today are those who have broken away from the old idea," Douglas sincerely tells us.

"To that you will say, 'But they are always the same' " he continued, "and I will agree so far as to concede that it is an actor's individuality that 'puts him across,' but only insofar as that individuality is applied to his method of portrayal. There is where the indefinable, but very necessary thing called individuality, scores heavily. Without it the artist will never reach his goal, for though the public may demand a certain star's work, in that star's style, the same public will refuse to accept another actor in the same line of work, even when he gives a fairly creditable imitaton. We all know that there are no new stories or characters, so if an inspiring actor would be successful, he should portray his characterizations in his individual manner."

When Mr. McLean signed his Tom Ince contract he asked to be allowed to rehearse the picture in its entirety before shooting a scene. It was with Mr. Griffith, in the "Hun Within," that Douglas first observed this method, and realized the advantage of it. He feels that he gains the best results this way. The entire company have an opportunity for thought and consideration of their parts and their relation to the whole. Though a week may be spent in rehearsal, the actual shooting time is shorter, property expenses are less, and a finished product may be turned out in regulation time.

Fishing — Miss Kathleen Clifford spent last week at Catalina on a fishing jaunt, with a party of friends from Hotel Virginia. Miss Clifford is an expert with the rod and reel.

Miss Ettinger at Santa Barbara—Miss Margaret Ettinger, western representative of the New York Telegram, spent the week-end at Santa Barbara, the guest of the American Film Company.

Studio Tea—Guests at the Studio Club tea, last Sunday evening, included Mr. and Mrs. Morgan of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and daughter Marion of Pittsburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Don

Guest of the Club—Wallace MacDonald was a guest at the Studio Club for dinner, Saturday night.

Recreation Worker Here—Miss Marion Hunter, of New York City, arrived in Los Angeles last week, to take care of the recreation work at the Studio Club.

Return to Los Angeles — Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Bowles Murphy returned last week from Santa Barbara, where they spent their honeymoon. Mr. Murphy is art director for the Universal studios.

Sept. 3 — To the honorable John and Lady McCready, twins,—girls.

Smock Party at Club—There are parties and parties. One of the most attractive and original ones of the week, was the smock party given at the Studio Club last Friday evening, with the Misses Magda Lane, Margaret Ettinger and Violet Clark as hostesses to the girls of the club. A two course supper was served, and among the guests were: Misses Peggy Hagar, Florence Straus, Sarah Mason, Janet Eastman, Betty Boulton, Nell Newman, Edna Harris, Yvette Mitchell, Mrs. Lamar Johnston, Mrs. Rene Beauman, Mrs. Dudley Murphy and Mrs. Squiers of Pasadena.

At Club—Miss Wilson, Miss Melly Warrington and Miss Jean Little are now making their home at the Studio Club.

Scenario Writer Returns — Miss Agnes Johnston, who wrote the continuity for "Daddy Long Legs" and other screen succeses, and who is at present with the Brunton Studios, returned this week from New York city, where she has been enjoying a two month's vacation.

MITCHELL STUDIO NOTES

The change of the Mitchell Studio Inter-Studio dances to the Hollywood Women's Club was the signal for an immediate jump in attendance. About one hundred guests were present last Wednesday evening.

Miss Edna Harris, secretary of the Studio Club was assisted in her duties as hostess of the evening by a number of the Studio Club girls. Among the studios which were represented were the Vitagraph, Lasky, Universal, Neal Hart, and Metro.

Mr. Von Pressig, familiarly known as "Jimmie Mitchell," expects practically all of his friends Saturday night — Wally Reid night. Wallace will be there with his moanin' saxaphone to put extra pep into the guests. The feature of the evening will be the presentation by Mr. Reid of the Cup Trophy to the winners of the Fox Trot Contest.

It is announced that with the closing of the old location it has become necessary to withdraw the privilege extended by any tickets which may now be unused.

At Pelton's—Harry Siebert will have a very snappy line-up at Pelton's Burbank this week. A big addition to the now popular company is made by the arrival of Hellye Nestor, an Eastern prima-donna. Miss Nestor will have the title role in the new piece, "A Stubborn Cinderella." The Pelton chorus of lovely girls and the comedians will give the necessary pep and ornament to the program.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

At Brunton—Zelma Maja has completed her contract with Lasky and will support J. Warren Kerrigan in "Live Sparks." Before entering on a screen career she made a tour of England, America and Australia with a company of champion divers and swimmers. At the Australian Aquatic Championships held at Sydney two years ago Miss Maja placed second in the women's mile swim against an entry of sixty-five.

To Leave for New York—Charles Mortimer Peck is hard at work upon a screen vehicle for Baby Marie Osborne. Mr. Peck is spending the summer in Long Beach. At present he is in solitary confinement from seven a. m. to seven p. m., denying himself to all visitors, in order to finish the Baby Marie picture-play, before leaving for New York with his own initial screen production, "Prudence Peck, (Peck's Bad Girl), in "Cupid's Little Sister."

With Hampton—Gavin Young, one of the premiere Casting Directors of Los Angeles, has been secured by the Hampton Studios in his old position. He will be well remembered in the casting department of the Paralta Studio when he started many a well known actor or actress on his screen career.

Versatility—Rodolph Valentino, who has been playing American juveniles and juvenile heavies for the films, has now donned the Nipponese kimono. He has been cast in the male leading role supporting Earle Williams, and is portraying the character of a young Japanese aristocrat, educated at Oxford. As soon as he has completed the present picture, he will start work with the Allen Holubar company, playing one of the leading male roles in the next Dorothy Phillips vehicle, "Ambition."

Green with House Peters—Alfred Green is directing House Peters at the Garson Studios. The company left this week for San Francisco, where exteriors for the production, "Love, Honor and Obey," will be filmed. Included in the cast are such well known players as House Peters, Mary Alden, Vincent Serrano, Edward Kimball, Mildred Reardon, Ruth Sinclair and S. Southern.

Freddy Busy—Fred Fralick is putting in a busy week casting for three new pictures and then intends taking a few days' rest at one of the Springs. Fred has now been constantly in harness for three years and undoubtedly will enjoy the time off and then be back to look after the ever increasing business of the Ince Studio.

New Casting Director—C. B. Collins, Casting Director, who has just taken Wm. Ely's place at the Brunton Studio, is well known to the old timers in the picture business, having been four years with Thos. H. Ince as assistant director and after that casting for them.

A Squad—Steve Norton will have charge of the squad of cameramen engaged to photograph Super Art productions.

New Star—Wm. Parsons, president of the National Film Corp., has added a new star to his production roster—Francis McDonald.

Francis McDonald has been signed by the National for a long term contract, the same to begin immediately. The finest vehicles obtainable will be accorded him, the initial one being, in all probability, "The Kentucky Colonel," from novel by Opie Read.

Mystery Cast—"Jimmie" Davis, maker of Helen Holmes serials, and for years spectacular comedy director, has succeeded Robert Broadwell as director of the Radium Mystery. Eileen Sedgwick is the ingenue and Bob Reeves the male lead. Cleo Madison plays the part of a mysterious stranger and Ed Brady and Bob Kortman do the dirty work.

Not So Bad—Director Fred Niblo, of the Thomas H. Ince photoplay studio in Culver City, has just received a unique gift. It is an elegant meerschaum pipe which was accompanied by a presentation card reading "From the Bolsheviki." Mr. Niblo is now engaged in directing Thomas H. Ince's production, "Americanism vs. Bolshevism," written by C. Gardner Sullivan. In this production many of the spectacular scenes include an army of Bolsheviki. The courteous manner of the director in handling this crowd through the trying rehearsals and taking of the scenes won the affections of all and as an expression of their appreciation they presented him this pipe.

In New Feature—Joseph J. Dowling, who played "The Patriarch" in George Loane Tucker's "Miracle Man," has been signed for a part in J. Warren Kerrigan's latest Brunton feature, "Live Sparks." John Stepling, Roy Laidlow and Mary Talbot have also been added to the cast.

Good Part—Wallace MacDonald is enjoying the acting role of his life playing Frank Keenan's son in Mr. Keenan's big picture, "The Life Test," now under production at the Brunton Studios.

Moore with Goldwyn—W. Moore, father of the clever Moore youngsters, Pat and Micky, has been cast in the new Goldwyn production, "The Cup of Fury," under the direction of T. Hayes Hunter.

With Brentwood—Margaret Campbell, known better in Shakespearean roles and in support of Leslie Carter, Amelia Bingham and Olga Nethersole, has recently settled permanently in Hollywood, purchasing her own home, and accepting an engagement for pictures with the Brentwood.

At Community—Charles Meredith, now playing leads with the Brentwood productions, will play the lead in "The Lady with the Dagger," by Arthur Schmitzler, author of "Anatol," on the coming program at the Hollywood Community Theatre.

Casting Director—Helen Jerome Eddy has been made casting director for the Hollywood Community Theatre which will open its autumn repertory of little classic plays very soon.

Will Support George Ovey—Lillian Biron, who was formerly connected with Mack Sennett comedies, has been engaged by Gaiety Comedies, Inc., to play leads with George Ovey.

Busy—Burt Wilson has just finished playing the "jealous husband" in one, and the "father" in the other, of the first two initial comedies of the Gaiety Company.

With Alkire—Mr. E. G. Miller has finished the heavy lead in the first Alkire production, "Love Apples." He was immediately re-engaged for the next production.

At Goldwyn—Howard Johnston, who has just finished portraying The Lord High Commissioner in Farrar's "Flame of the Desert," has been retained by Goldwyn to do an English Secret Service Agent in Rupert Hughes' "Cup of Fury," directed by T. Hayes Hunter.

Some Heavy—Frank Thorne, who has just finished with Tom Mix, has since been doing a Mexican heavy with Al Jennings.

English—Tommy Brown has finished a long engagement with Nazimova. Tommy took the part of a dapper English officer.

In Frisco—Billy Horne has gone to San Francisco with Alan Dwan.

Popular Request—Dave Allen just finished a Jewish comedy salesman part with Florence Turner, By Request.

Home—Mr. Wm. Ely has just returned from a vacation at Bishop, Cal., where he went to recuperate for the coming season.

At "U"—Jim Farley, the congenial heavy, is at Universal City with the Jack Wells company.

With Wells—Charles Le Moyne is under Jack Wells' direction at the "U," in "The Lion Man." Gertrude Astor and Paul Weigal are also in the cast.

Supporting Phillips—Emily Chichester will appear in support of Dorothy Phillips in "Ambition."

To Bagdad—Mabel Ballin's stay of five days in San Francisco with Universal's "The Beach Comber" company, has stretched itself into two weeks. Miss Ballin will probably trip to New York at the end of this picture engagement.

Will Stay—Clyde Fillmore is playing the lead in a Universal feature in addition to starring in the Morosco production, "Civilian Clothes." He has decided to remain in the California Film colony instead of proceeding to Chicago with the Morosco production.

Second Feature—William Russell's second Fox production will be the novel, "Eastward Ho!" which has William McLoyd Raine as its author. At the completion of this picture Mr. Russell will return to Los Angeles.

More Weeps—Helene Chadwick is of the opinion that the Rupert Hughes story in which she is playing the lead at the Goldwyn Studio and which is entitled "The Cup of Fury," should have been named "The Vale of Tears." And this for the reason that during every day of the picture's making to date, Miss Chadwick has had to contribute "bunches of real tears," to quote Helene, who entertains the truly feminine idea that she looks much better when not weeping.

Bolsheviki—Lloyd Hughes is playing the part of the young American in Thomas H. Ince's coming production, "Americanism vs. Bolshevism."

Vacation—Julien Josephson, who has written many of the Charles Ray successes, has just completed for him the eighth that he has written. Mr. Josephson has not had a vacation in three years, so he has decided to lock up his typewriter, forget the moving picture business and go fishing for two weeks.

Head of Cameras—William Paley, affectionately known as "Daddy," is now with the National Studios, being recently engaged by Production Manager Bernstein to photograph titles and also to take charge of all cameras and keep them in A-1 condition.

In Frisco—"Smiling Bill" Parsons has left on a short business trip to San Francisco. Upon his return he will again don the old grease paint in the interests of a new Capitol Comedy which will be directed by Wm. Seiter.

Knock 'Em Cold, Elmo(?)—Paul Mullen, physical instructor at the Robert Brunton Studios, has just issued a challenge for a fight to Elmo Lincoln. Lincoln recently gained much front-page prominence by challenging Jack Dempsey to a fight for the heavyweight title. But Mullen goes further and provides the place and all the accessories, leaving the time to the challenged. Mullen only does this out of the goodness of his heart, as he wishes to see the motion picture industry well represented in a fight for the world's championship. But he makes the condition that all the proceeds of the contest be turned over to the striking actors fund in New York.

Through the courtesy of Robert Brunton the large tract of land opposite the Brunton Studios on Melrose avenue, now used for a ball park, would be converted into a huge arena seating at least four thousand people. With the technical equipment of the Brunton Studios at their command, his army of workmen could prepare the grounds in a very few days.

With Kerrigan—Clyde Benson has been engaged to appear in J. Warren Kerrigan's latest Brunton picture, "Live Sparks." During the last year he has been under contract with Thomas H. Ince.

Kerrigan Lead—Fritzi Brunette, who played opposite J. Warren Kerrigan in his recently completed production, "The Lord Loves the Irish," has been re-engaged and will suppoft the star in his forthcoming production, "Live Sparks," a story of the Texas oil fields. Ernest C. Warde will direct.

At Sea—Following the visit of a number of officers and men from the U. S. S. Wyoming at the Christie Studio, thirty of the Christie comedians were the honored guests on the battleship at Venice, California.

New Story.—J. Warren Kerrigan is negotiating with Henry Herbert Knibbs, California's leading western author, for the film rights of "Tang of Life," a story of the Arizona Blue Country. "Tang of Life" was a close runner-up to Harold Bell Wright's "When A Man's A Man" for best selling honors two years ago.

Finished—After two months of intensive camera grinding, the McCarthy production, "Out of the Dust," starring Russell Simpson, has been announced ready for release. The picture will be shown locally at an early date.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Lee Moran, outside of being Tom Mix's trainer, is a fighter by trade. He has decided that he wants to fight and will in all likelihood meet Gene Watson within the next week, and then watch the fur fly out Vernon way.

Chester Bennett tore away from his script long enough the other evening to attend the fistic doing at Doyle's. There was nothing strange about that, but Chester only heard the pleadings of about 500 who offered to pay any price for seats, and he was fortunate to hold one in the front section. Lucky boy.

Nelson McDowell just finished a part with the Tom Mix company at Fox's studio.

Mack Swain is working fast these days since he has Chas. Avery helping him in the direction of his pictures.

Paul M. Powell is to direct our own Mary Pickford at Brunton's studio.

Neal Burns has been engaged by Thos. H. Ince to play opposite Douglas McLean, and alongside of Neal there will be Victor Potel.

Joe Ryan, I'm told, is to do a serial for the Vitagraph in which he will be the main actor and perhaps the director.

Teddy Sampson drove out to the Big U just to renew acquaintances. She was seen talking to a well known director. Can it be possible that she is to labor for the powers that be out that way?

Dorothy Vernon just completed a character part with Hank Mann out at Horsley's studio.

Major Allen is doing wild animal pictures for the Universal. He cancelled a lecture tour to accept this position, and has Curley Stecker handling the stock for him.

Duke Lee, who used to act, has turned to assistant directing and now acts only once in a while, on the side, just to keep his hand in. He's helping Edward Kull out at the big U.

Arthur Allard is playing an excellent part with Blanche Sweet at the Hampton studios.

Harry Pollard has been given his own company by Rolin, and from all reports will put over some real fun films.

Harry Todd has been cast for the heavy part for Director Edward Kull out at the Universal, in a two-reel western subject, featuring Hoot Gibson and Mildred Lee.

——DOINGS ASSISTANT DIRECTors

You have heard your best friend tell you of some fellow who is a sort of a "Jack of All Trades," and you wondered just what that individual couldn't do, and you've racked your brain to think up some darn fool stunt, action or suggestion to make. But did it ever occur to you that the assistant director of today is the sort of chap who might be dubbed as such, and live up to the title?

He is called upon to do everything from putting the eye in a needle to soothing the injured feelings of the president of the organization, and when it comes to customs of people, countries, locations and everything pertaining to the making of pictures, why he has to be a walking encyclopedia.

He acts as the middleman between producer, director and artist and is the means of bringing out the very best efforts of the trio.

Don't misunderstand me when I make this assertion, thinking that any director, star, producer, cameraman, can't get along without having any particular assistant director on the job, for there never lived a man who couldn't be replaced by just as competent an artist in his line. But an organization that is founded and groomed by such individuals, who have been brought up knowing those connected with them and their capabilities, will soon show the results of co-operation and harmony.

Then they become a "Jack of All Trades."

Billy Bletzer reports that he has finished his job at the Ince studio where he was assisting Director Earle, who handled the Louise Glaum feature, and that he expects to sign up with another organization inside of the next week.

E. P. Hunziker, who used to hold down the office of technical director in chief out Universal way, is now acting in a like capacity for Roy Clements who is starting Niles Welch on a feature story out at the John Jasper studios. This is one one of the four star productions that the Zimmerman Porter and Hicks corporation intend to have making pictures for them in Hollywood.

Eddie Kull has an opportunity to direct a six-reel feature picture for the Universal, after making a number of two-reelers for the same company. Mary MacLaren is to be starred in his present vehicle. Duke Lee is holding down the assistant director's position with Director Kull.

Mack Sennett is going in for filming the old-time dramas with his true comedy touches. After finishing "Uncle Tom's Cabin," minus the cabin, he will follow it up with "The Face on the Bar Room Floor."

Dustin Farnum is starting at the Astra studio under Colin Campbell's direction. There are two episodes in the story, the first calling for Spanish types.

Carylle Blackwell is working at the John Jasper studios under Charles Swickard's direction, with Cliff Eldfeldt acting as assistant.

Walter Stevens is directing Zip Monberg and Fay Holderness at the Rainbow studios (L. K. O.) where they are putting over comedy subjects.

Slim Summerville was seen walking down Broadway minus his bodyguard, Bobby Dunn, wihch is very out of the ordinary. What's up, Slim?

George Fields is doing the heavy in the Art Acord-Mildred Moore serial out at the Universal, which will keep the trio busy for at least six months.

Allen Watt is helping Director Dowlan prepare his new story that the latter is about to produce for the Universal.

Norman Taurog and Abe Alt are stepping fast about the Lehrman studio, where they have started working full blast.

Joe McDonough is aiding Al Santell. They just finished a picture and may do a serial with some well known players.

Pete Gerald reports that the Francis Ford company is taking a much needed rest, and that they intend to start another serial in about ten days. Mr. and Mrs. Ford are vacationing at Yosemite Valley. The company is on pay during the lay-off, which is not so bad for those concerned.

George Pankey is working at Selig's where he is aiding Director L. De La Motte in getting the results for Franklyn Farnum.

Juanita Hanson is being directed by M. Martin in a serial at Selig's. Just imagine going up in an aeroplane daily and being paid for having that much fun, and you just about get the drift of Miss Hanson's duties and weekly income, which proves that some of us are very lucky.

Mrs. Robert Vernon is once more home and resting after undergoing an operation for appendicitis. She's doing fine and dandy.

Harry Wiel returned from France last Sunday and expects to get right back in harness once more. 'Tis rumored he will once more join Frank Lloyd, by whom he was employed prior to joining the colors.

Hal Wilson seems to have landed himself a solid berth with the Florence Turner company out Universal way, for he is once more cast in an excellent part in the forthcoming production which is being directed by Miss Turner.

Frank Hayes is working with Wallace Reid at Lasky's under the direction of James Cruze. He reports that everything is working in ship-shape manner for him.

Tote Du Crow has finished his engagement with the Vitagraph and expects to be cast to play a Chinaman character in a well known serial company shortly.

S. A. Franklin, 'tis rumored, is to direct Marion Davies shortly, while his brother, C. M. Franklin, will handle the directorial destinies of Mildred Harris Chaplin. Which listens good for both.

Noble Johnson is doing a heavy character with the Rex Ingraham company that is producing the "Beachcombers," that features Elmo Lincoln. The company just returned from an out of town location and will film their interiors at the Big U.

Johnny Powers, formerly manager for Francis X. Bushman, is now casting director and assistant manager of the Capital Film company, and will be glad to meet any of his old friends.

Jimmy Clemons reports that things are running smoothly at Christie's, and that beside his losing sixteen teeth, nothing exciting has happened.

Fred Fishbach is going to direct a lion picture, which will have a galaxy of human stars that range from Jimmy Adams on down the line, for Messrs. Stern at the Rainbow studio (formerly L. K. O.).

W. S. Campbell has severed his connection with the Universal after making three Joe Martin comedies. The last story is to be a five-reeler, which will be the first subject of this length ever filmed with an animal portraying the leading role. Director Campbell will soon announce his new affiliation, which is said to be with one of the largest producing concerns he has yet been connected with.

Gavin Young is casting director at Jesse Hampton's studio, going there from the Majestic Theater where he was Dave Hartford's right hand man in the staging of the Lewis Stone productions.

Vin Moore has severed his connections with the Sunshine-Fox company as a director, and expects to sign up with another comedy producing unit.

Ora Carewe finished her picture at the Big U under the direction of William Dowlan, in which Forrest Stanley plays opposite her. They are expected to start another story the first of the week.

Al St. John is playing a messenger boy in his present picture now in the making for Paramount.

Billie Bennett is doing a character part with Blanche Sweet under Robert Thornby's direction.

Sam Polo is working with Antonio Mareno at the Vitagraph. Samuel will be remembered for the work he did with the Universal while his brother, Eddie Polo, was still there.

Claire Anderson is working for Stuart Payton down at Santa Monica, and chirps "this is the life," meaning the ocean and everything.

WEEKLY BITS OF NEWS

New Contracts. — Director Wayne Mack of Super Art Productions returned to Los Angeles last Monday from New York with contracts for thirty-two pictures during the coming year. This will mean four units operating, each to turn out eight productions per year. All productions will be made under the direct supervision of Mr. Mack.

Finishing.—Fred Fishback has just finished "A Jungle Gentleman," a two-reel comedy featuring "Milton the Monk." Jimmie Adams is a frolicksome doctor and the picture is a blue streak of action.

Laid Up—Ward Crane has been confined to his home for several days with a broken rib which he sustained during the filming of a fight scene for Allan Dwan's forthcoming production, "The Luck of the Irish."

Finishing—Al St. John is finishing his first Paramount production being supported by Bonnie Hill, who played Angela in "The Brat;" Jack Hathaway, Jack Cosgrove and Eve Lothem.

Bulls-Eye Pickups—The Bulls-Eye Film corporation, along with the Model Comedy, moved to the studios on Santa Monica avenue formerly occupied by the Clifford Photoplay corporation.

George W. Jaeschke, formerly with Mack Sennett, is now appearing in Bulls-Eye productions.

Miss Eleanore Gilmore, a Chicago girl, will make her coast debut in the latest Charlie Dorety master comedy, now filming.

In a letter to Nat Spitzer of Bulls-Eye, Leland J. Burrud writes that everything is going fine and that the "Sunset-Burrud Legends of the Wilderness" will be released according to schedule.

Guest of Governor—Tom Mix, William Fox's cowpuncher star, has just returned to Hollywood from San Francisco, where he was entertained with Governor Stephens of California and Mayor Rolph of San Francisco, while they welcomed the sailors of the Pacific fleet, which officially visited San Francisco September 1. The mayor had sent his invitation by John J. Davis in an airplane. Mr. Davis, driven by Lieut. Dan Davison, formerly of the United States army, made the trip of more than 500 miles in less than six hours.

The day after Mr. Davis arrived at de Mille field in Hollywood, Tom Mix sent him back with a letter of acceptance to the mayor, and he flew back in the same time. Mr. and Mrs. Mix followed that afternoon in their racing car, because the railroad strike had tied up the trains between Los Angeles and the bay city.

Wells Feature—"Martyrs of Yesterday" is the title of a big film that is being made near Portland with Raymond Wells directing. It will be accurately historical and will feature Barney Sherry.

Great Expectations—Charlie Chaplin has a new comedy partner—Baby Jack Coogan, four years old, that the famous funster thinks is capable of development to big things. Baby Jack is drawing a man's size salary.

At Goldwyn—After a long engagement as leading man for Louise Glaum, Bertram Grassby has moved a few yards farther south to the Goldwyn studios to fill an important part in a new production.

Directs Warner—Henry King has started work for the Jesse D. Hampton company on a special with an all-star cast headed by Henry B. Warner. Mr. King, who is an all-around expert, has been working with the scenario department on the story.

New Contract—Still reaching out for talent, Paramount-Artcraft has taken Lois Wilson "into camp." This actress has been signed to a long-term contract and will work with the Lasky forces.

Plot Thickens—Jack Gilbert, quizzed about George Loane Tucker's big and mysterious new production, in which he has a leading juvenile role, yields no information. The greatest secrecy surrounds this film, which has been a long time in the making. No one but Tucker, it is said, has seen the script of the play, and it has as yet no title.

Lloyd Recovering—Harold Lloyd, the comedian, who was terribly injured in a bomb explosion, is mending nicely and the surgeons now assure him of restoration to his career.

New Star—Rumor, apparently well founded, says that Fritzi Brunette, who is now Warren Kerrigan's leading lady, is to be starred at the conclusion of this engagement by a company bearing her name which is now in process of organization.

Normand Picture—Mabel Normand's newest Goldwyn picture, work on which has just been started with Victor Schertzinger as the volatile star's director, introduces the latter in a new role—that of author. Cullen Landis again finds himself her leading man and George Nichols once more becomes her father, as he was in "When Doctors Disagree" and "Mickey." The long cast is further strengthened by the presence of Edward Jobson, William Elmer, Andrew Arbuckle, George Kunkel, Milton Brown, John Burton, Joseph H. Hazelton and Manuel R. Ojeda.

On Location—Allan Dwan left for San Francisco on Thursday of this week, accompanied by his staff and company of players who are appearing in the scenes of his forthcoming production, "The Luck of the Irish."

Repertory Contracts—The Goldwyn Repertory Players are gradually increasing in number, James Neill and Edythe Chapman being the newest interesting additions. They have just signed contracts whereby they will appear in productions made at the Culver City Studios for a term of years.

"Letty" Completed—Pauline Frederick has just completed her latest Goldwyn picture, "Letty," adapted for the screen from the famous stage play by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero. When the final scenes were taken, Frank Lloyd, who directed "Letty," immediately went to the Pacific Northwest to direct the Rex Beach story, "The Silver Horde." Many of the scenes in this latter story are being taken in one of the great salmon canneries at Bellingham, Washington.

MacDonald Starting—The third story that Katherine MacDonald, the latest star of the First National Exhibitors, will offer is a screen version of Robert W. Chambers' famous novel, "Japonette," which will be called "The Turning Point" in the pictures. The supporting cast is an unusually brilliant one, containing, as it does, such men and women (and one child) as Nigel Barry, Kenneth Harlan, Edwin Stevens, Colleen Moore, Mrs. Claire, Ed Colvin, Grace Morse, Walter Hiers, William Mong and little Pat Moore.

Fox Production—Five dramatic companies have been working on the William Fox studios in Hollywood during the past week. Miss Gladys Brockwell, under the direction of Frank R. Beal, is getting toward the end of "The Devil's Riddle."

Tom Mix has spent most of the time in San Francisco, but his company, working on "The Feud," under Director Edward J. Le Saint, has been busy on location and in the studio.

Scott Dunlap, with Albert Ray and Elinor Fair, is at work on "A Little Prayer for Rain," and he is nearing the end.

Miss Madlaine Traverse, the Fox star, has spent most of her time during the week on location in connection with her picture, "The Heritage of Eden," which is being directed by Edmund Lawrence.

Miss Peggy Hyland began work during the first of the week under Howard M. Mitchell, in "A Girl in Bohemia."

Fox Sunshine—Four comedies are in the making at the Fox studios in Hollywood under Hampton Del Ruth.

Eddie Cline has been at Balboa Beach with Miss Polly Moran, Slim Sommerville and Harry Booker to say nothing of the Sunshine bathing girls.

Roy Del Ruth and K. G. McLean are on another comedy with Jack Cooper, Miss Blanche Payson, Roscoe ("Tiny") Ward and Miss Marvel Rea.

Frank Griffin is making another comedy with Chester Conklin leading. He is aided and abetted in his fun making by Miss Vera Steadman and Tom Kennedy.

Jack Blystone has a larger company than any other director on the Sunshine lot. With him are Miss Ethel Teare, Harry McCoy, Bill Franey, Dorothy Lee, Mrs. La Varnie, Ed Kennedy and last, but not least, Glen Cavender.

Goldwyn P. A.'s—The publicity department at the Goldwyn Studios in Culver City is keeping in step with the general expansion there. This week the engagement of Charles Condon follows the recent acquisition of Helen Starr and next Monday Donald Biddle Keyes, late lieutenant in the photographic division of the army, comes with his cameras to record the succession of daily happenings of informal interest at the studio.

Miss Starr is well known as a writer of scenarios and as a contributor to the better magazines, having at one time been in charge of Universal's literary bureau in New York. She will give the needed feminine touch to studio publicity.

Charles Condon, recently discharged from the army, is the brother of Mabel Condon. For the time being he will specialize in the preparation of the press books.

Coincident with this increase in personnel the entire department has been removed to more spacious and interesting quarters, each worker having a newly decorated private office. Norbert Lusk, who remains in charge, finds himself in a Ballinesque apartment done in dove gray and green as a fitting background for his ministerial personality and an effectual disguise for his rococo opinions. A sign, also in gray and green, hangs outside the olive curtains and reads: "The Invited Guest is Always Welcome." This was prepared expressly for mothers of precocious juvenile players who invariably demand to see "that still of little Carolyn in her big scene with Geraldine Farrar."

Clarke Irvine continues as active editor of The Studio Skeleton and is so much occupied with it that he can not move out to have his office redecorated with a frieze of cavorting skeletons.

SWIMMING STUFF

Wallace McDonald has so improved on his Crawl stroke, that he nearly broke his wrist the other evening while swimming a length of the Club plunge. Wallace has developed the speed of a racing swimmer.

Richard Jones has developed a liking for the showers. He rushes to the plunge with the idea he is going to take a long swim. We find Richard nearly asleep under a hot shower, with the plunge nearly thirty feet away, and as far away in Richard's mind as the South Sea Islands.

Mack Sennet has developed into a strong ocean swimmer. He mastered a fine Trudgeon stroke here at the L. A. A. C., and has done wonders with it down at Del Ray where he swims every day. Mack hasn't so far had the good luck to show his real ability by saving a life. If he had to be could, as he has all the dope on life saving and ocean swimming stored away in his fertile brain.

Frank Keenan was once rated as a swimmer of note. Here of late Frank hasn't been heard of much when it comes to swimming.

Thomas Ince is a powerful swimmer and can handle himself in the ocean like a life guard. His swimming has done much to improve his physique.

Eugene Field of the Charlie Chaplin Studio will compete in the diving contest at the L. A. A. C., Saturday evening, Sept. the 13th, against the San Diego Rowing Club. Eugene is one of the most promising springboard divers in the states. He dives close onto the heals of the National Champion, Clyde Swendsen. They both represent the L. A. A. Club.

Norman Manning is some human fish and swims in the L. A. A. C. plunge regularly. He has posted a challenge to swim Victor Heerman a length under water. We are waiting to hear from Victor. Vick is some swimmer, and can swim as well on the bottom of the plunge as on the top, and that's some swimming.

Charles Meredith has returned to the Club plunge after a little vacation at Avalon, Catalina Island. Chas. made the trip via Sid Chaplin's plants and did some clever aquaplaning and diving while on the island.,

George McLean has just returned from the Island, where he has been fishing. He fished in luck, catching a 175 pounder, a sword fish.

ACTORS ASSOCIATION NOTES

Mr. R. D. McClane has returned from the North with the Frank Lloyd Co.

James Kirkwood will play the lead in Allen Dawn's next picture.

Thomas Jefferson expects to go to 'Frisco for some yachting scenes—direction of Art Rossin.

Viola Dana is to play a Japanese in her next picture,"The Willow Tree."

Bessie Barriscale is half way through the largest contract ever signed by a M. P. star, under the Robertson-Cole management.

Mr. Henry Walthal has been engaged for the star part in, "A Splendid Hazard," under the direction of Art Rossin.

In case you see Hardy Kirkland down town in the traffic, you may rest assured he has conquered the Buick.

Fifth Dorety—"Blue Blood and Bevo,"the fifth Bulls-Eye Master-comedy, starring Charles Dorety, supported by Sid Smith and James Parrott, has been completed and will be marketed in September on the state rights basis.

FROM CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER

Largest Morning and Sunday Circulation in Ohio

Editor Cameral.
Los Angeles, California.

Dear Sir:

Your Year Book for 1919 has been of interest and service to me in my work on the Plain Dealer, where I have been handling photoplays for the past two years.

Now that I am about to take up the same line of work for the Detroit Journal, I wonder if you would put me on your mailing list, or provide me with the most recent copy of the Year Book, or whatever you would most like to do.

I want to organize a real department on the Journal, and feel that we may be of use to each other.

Please address me in care of the Detroit Journal, Detroit, Michigan.

Yours sincerely,
MARJORIE DAW

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

ACTOR'S EQUITY WINS STRIKE

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The Actors' Equity Association won all their demands. A magnificent victory for the profession. This was accomplished in less than four weeks.

The climax came when the International Alliance of Stage Employees and Moving-Picture Operators ordered a strike in 800 theaters throughout the United States and Canada. Most of these houses booked Shubert's Productions.

Augustus Thomas was given credit for arranging the conference at which the differences were adjusted.

President Francis Wilson states that most of the closed theaters would open today.

THE "AMAZING IMPOSTER"

By Fritzi Remont

A LITTLE BROTHER OF THE RICH
Met PRUDENCE ON BROADWAY;
The SHADOWS OF THE PAST she'd lived
Darkened that sunny day.

The GRAY HORIZON far beyond
Led to THE JUNGLE TRAIL,
Where dwelt THE DAUGHTER OF THE WOLF—
SOME BRIDE! She had the kale.

In RAGS that LITTLE BROTHER sought
To FIGHT FOR LOVE—poor Mutt!
THE MINTS OF HELL were beckoning
Straight to THE BRAT'S rich hut.

"It's EASY TO MAKE MONEY here!"
A snakey damsel cried.
"COAX ME!"—BILL HENRY hustled on
To moon by MAGDA'S side.

NEW BREAKFAST FOODS she fed to him—
THE THIRD KISS felt so funny.
BILL quite forgot THE HOME TOWN GIRL—
You know—"FOOLS AND THEIR MONEY!"

A LONE STAR RANGER stopt to pluck
A CRIMSON GARDEN-EE-A;
THE WOMAN ON THE INDEX howled:
"STOP THIEF! For I can see ya!"

'Twas FAIR AND WARMER. Later on
THE BLINDING TRAIL grew hotter.
Alas for that poor PRUDENCE when
THE BEAST OF BERLIN got her.

But HAWTHORNE OF THE U. S. A.,
Taught by THE TREE OF KNOWLEDGE,
Quoth "Prudence, PLEASE GET MARRIED, dear,
Ere I return to college."

THE CUP OF FURY fired resolve—
THE SPLENDID HAZARD offered
Some chance for SECRET SERVICE, so
Prude took the HOME he proffered.

HIS BRIDAL NIGHT just proved to be EXPERIMENTAL MARRIAGE;
No TRUE HEART SUSIE stuff for Prude.
Scene: FINAL CLOSE UP—carriage.

"I'LL SWAT THE CROOK!" she cried aloud,
"THE BUSHER! He shan't trifle
With EVERYWOMAN, when he's served
As target for me rifle!"

"A VERY GOOD YOUNG MAN he's been!"
Prude sneered, the villain dragging
OUT OF THE FOG. "Now, EYE FOR EYE, LOVE BURGLAR! Quit yer lagging."

EPILOGUE

THE AVALANCHE of shots she fired
Just tossed Bill like a feather
Among the WAGON TRACKS. Unwept,
He croaked on THE WHITE HEATHER.

THE BELLS were still. The night wore on—
THE NEW MOON sailed by gaily.
God love 'em! That's the sort of thing
Which CAMERA gives us daily.

MOTION PICTURE PLAYERS ON PARADE LABOR DAY

The parade committee of the Motion Picture Players Union, Tom Ray, Ed Heim, Joe Hunt, G. W. Clayson, Bobbie Robertson and Anne Hedrick, worked hard and with excellent results to make the Union a prominent feature in Los Angeles greatest Labor Day parade.

Almost every known character portrayed upon the world's screens was impersonated by members of the Union. Children and Mothers carried a large American flag donated by Minnie Stern for the occasion. This flag was presented to her mother by General Phil Sheridan at the close of the Civil War.

Last but by no means least was the stage coach donated by Curley Eagle surrounded by cowboy and cowgirl members.

After the parade most of the participants enjoyed themselves at the Selig zoo.

WHAT SHAKESPEARE NEVER KNEW

Joseph E. Singleton

Knowing that I talk in my sleep, D. W. Griffith, Thomas H. Ince and Mac Sennett were discovered at three o'clock in the morning beneath my bed with writing pads and pencils stealing my ideas.

Owing to the high cost of living the gold fish in Westlake park decided to reduce, and are being weighed every day by me. They bring their own scales.

The actions of the Clown Quince have proven he is as free from brains as a fish is from hips.

That Mark Twain, Longfellow, Tennyson and Dante on reading my poems realized their smallness and did the Brodie act over Brooklyn bridge.

Why the hungry world turned down your bit. They wanted Lamb and Bacon.

The best way to cure a sick bee? Treat him with respect.

As a King's Jester Chaplin would make Toucheta look like Macbeth.

That Hamlet in the 20 cent would look like a Pea-nut.

That Kaiser Bill made your villains look like nurse girls.

That the "Town Cryer spoke" your lines, and is now a movie star.

That your Vamp Cleopatra was put on the bum by Theda Bara.

That the Banished Duke and his court in the Forest of Arden could have made a lot of dough as a movie actor.

That the "Comedy of Errors" would look like a gnat's egg alongside some of the errors in a motion picture.

....Weakly—The third reel of, "The Weekly Indigestion," has been completed and is now being marketed. According to the Bulls-Eye Film Corporation, distributors of the "weakly," some news items are burlesqued in an interesting way in every "issue" of the weakly, which is released in one reel. Mr. A. Lincoln Miller, the director and editor of the "Weakly Indigestion," has started on the fourth reel.

SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Fay Tincher, Katherine Lewis, James Libby, Gertrude Selby and Harry Depp. Please submit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic, for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

BRUNTON STUDIOS, 5341 MELROSE AVE. Scenarios for the following companies may be addressed to R. B. Kidd, Scenario Editor, or to the individual companies.

POPPY COMEDY CO., 735 BOYLE AVE. Wants one-reel comedies for Mack Swain, which include dancing and swimming girls; and six-reel dramas of semi-western type for Tom Santschi. Also want a series of four pictures. Address Santschi, care Stuart, Camera!, 4513 Sunset Blvd.

MODEL COMEDY COMPANY, 1329 GORDON ST., HOLLYWOOD, is in the market for two-reel comedies featuring Gale Henry. Stories must contain strikingly snappy situations for female boob characters. No slap-stick will be considered. Please remit by mail.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

YOU MAKE ME TIRED!

You people who are always complaining about not having a chance to show what you can do. Why, if half of you were given the chance of a lifetime to play a big part in some picture you would fail miserably! You kick because you haven't a chance, and never stop to think that you probably aren't prepared. We prepare you for the biggest things. That's what we are here for. Facial expression, gestures, make-up, scene rehearsals, and actual screen tests, given at our own studio, give you the essentials and extras in Motion Pictutre Acting.

A NEW ACHIEVEMENT IN FILM DRAMAS

So much of the unbelievable is to be heralded as absolute truth in connection with the announcements that precede "Back to God's Country" that the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc., which will announce this as the first of their six big specials, have placed Ernest Shipman, the man responsible for this production, upon his oath as to the authenticality of all statements, and as sometimes truth is indeed stranger than fiction, ample facts of deep interest will be unrolled from time to time.

On the first day of November, 1918, Ernest Shipman decided to go into the producing of pictures. His first move was to contract with an author of unquestioned standing. James Oliver Curwood's previous successes plus his contracts of great value with the International Publishing Company for stories which are running in serials at the present time in Cosmopolitan, Hearst's, Good Housekeeping, etc., assured Mr. Shipman an audience of twelve million readers monthly for anything Mr. Curwood would produce. The fame of this author as a writer of animal stories in the big North countries was a most potent factor in the arrangements which resulted in Mr. Curwood giving Mr. Shipman an option upon everything he would write or publish for a period of two years.

Mr. Shipman then selected the director, David Hartford, the star, Nell Shipman, and the cast composed of Rolan Byrom, Wheeler Oakman, Wellington Playter, Charles Arling and a supporting and technical organization headed by Dal Clawson and Joe Walker, cameramen, and proceeded across the International boundary far into the North country of Canada, where the winter scenes were made for the first production. James Oliver Curwood accompanied as supervisor of the expedition to insure that the correct locations, costumes of the Royal Mounted, the selection of the Indian runners, dog teams, etc., and especially the construction of the great whaler frozen in the ice was to be in every sense true to his story.

Many interesting and some tragic occurrences happened in connection with the making of this portion of the picture, the most fatal of which was the unexpected and sudden death of Rolan Byrom, an Australian actor of prominence, who had already won his spurs in support of and co-starring with some of the best cinema stars of the day. Mr. Byrom was not in the best of health, and through love of the part he was to play and his high regard for Nell Shipman, who was to make her stellar debut at the head of her own company, he disregarded these warnings and accepted the leading role.

Despite every precaution, the rigor of the climate made a rapid inroad upon his health and resulting in double pneumonia, which brought about his end at a hospital in Edmonton, Alberta. Members of the company and officials of the Canadian government arranged for a battleship to take his body back to Australia, but Byrom's father, who was a patriot, felt that their personal grief should not be permitted to interfere with the stringent demands of the government during war times. He cabled his appreciation and thanks and asked that the body be interned temporarily at Edmonton, where it rests today awaiting a fitting moment for transfer to his native soil.

ERNEST SHIPMAN

It is an absolute fact that this film drama was photographed north of parallel 55, at a temperature which averaged 52 degrees below zero. The people lived in shacks constructed by the half-breeds on the bosom of Lesser Slave Lake. Nell Shipman was the only white woman in the company. For three weeks they did not have their furs off and slept on beds composed of branches of spruce and fur covered with skins. Moose meat and white fish formed the staple fresh food for man and beast, and the dog teams brought in supplies from Edmonton twice weekly. On one occasion, when available moose meat was running low and supplies at Edmonton considerably delayed on account of the storm of four days duration, the belated dog teams arrived with the usual packages, which upon being opened proved to be mostly soap which had been shipped by mistake.

The cameramen had to work with huge mittens on, and every time they framed or focused or threaded their machines it was at the risk of frost-bitten fingers. The oil had to be withdrawn from their cameras so that it would not freeze, and any time the film was for more than an instant stationary, the emulsion would freeze so that the celluloid would break like brittle glass. It is an amazing fact scientifically that under these conditions not one foot of static was had in over twenty thousand feet of negative.

The company was assembled in Los Angeles and moved from a temperature of summer weather to this degree of frost in eight days traveling over seven railroads, crossing the International border in a snowstorm and finishing the last leg of their journey upon sledges pulled by dogs and with Indian guides.

The summer scenes were made on the upper reaches of Kern river, California, and all the scenes upon the whaler were made one hundred miles west of the Golden Gate, San Francisco. One of the mishaps that sometimes arise in the making of productions occurred in connection with this whaler.

Originally the contract had been made for a vessel known as the Mary McLaren, and on the journey north Mr. David Hartford, the director, made extensive photographs of all portions of the ship so that the whaler which was later to be constructed as frozen in the ice would be identical in every particular. What was the consternation of the company, however, on returning to California to fulfill their contract with the whaler to find that the excessive profits being offered for vessels of all kinds had induced the owners to disregard their contract and put to sea, and it took over a week's scouting with tugs to locate another vessel which would resemble the Mary McLaren sufficiently to faithfully represent the vessel which had already been photographed up north on the bosom of Lesser Slave Lake.

The hours and days of patience exhibited by the entire company to get a few feet of natural negative is now amply rewarded.

Once More the Fireless Cooker Is Bestowed—A miraculous escape was recorded this week during the filming of the first episode on the new "Secret Service Serial" being made by the Vitagraph Company, when a premature explosion sent Antonio Moreno high in the air mounted on a horse.

The scene was staged in Griffith Park and the action called for an explosion to occur just as Mr. Moreno rode swiftly past a given point. The dust raised by the galloping horse blinded the operator of the battery box and he threw on the spark just as Mr. Moreno was over the charge.

Fortunately the animal was equipped with an armor to protect it from flying stones and it escaped with a few bruises sustained when it fell. The star was thrown clear of his mount and he landed squarely upon both feet without receiving a scratch.

Smith Injured—In the last scene of the last comedy the Bulls-Eye filmed in its old studios, Sid Smith, principal comedy support for Charlie Dorety, was painfully injured while making a running jump. Smith's spine received a jolt that put him out of the running for several days. After a week's rest Smith resumed his duties at the new Bulls-Eye fun factory on Santa Monica avenue.

From N. Y.—Warburton Gamble arrived from New York, made up, and was on the set for the new Frederick picture just on time.

Clary With Goldwyn—Charles Clary is at Goldwyn, acting in "A Street Called Straight."

Klein With Christie—The Christie Film company has secured the entire services of Ernest G. Klein, well known poster and commercial artist of Los Angeles, who was formerly in business for himself, for the designing of lithographs and other accessories for Christie films.

At National—The National studios are buzzing with activity. Six companies now working at top speed and arrangements made for a seventh to start as soon as a new director, who is now in the east, arrives.

William Parsons has purchased the picture rights to three fiction works, namely, "The Kentucky Colonel," by Opie Read; "Hearts and Masks," by Harold McGrath, and "Mary Minds Her Business," from the story which is now appearing in the Ladies' Home Journal. He is now negotiating for the rights of a Broadway success, which same will be used as a vehicle for Billie Rhodes upon the completion of "Hearts and Masks."

The directors now engaged in turning out productions for National include Bertram Bracken, directing all-star features; Harry Edwards, directing Eddie Flanagan and Neely Edwards in "The Hall Room Boys" series of comedies; Mark Galdaine, directing "Smiling Bill" Parsons in Capitol comedies; William Seiter, directing Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven and also the forthcoming production of "Hearts and Masks," starring Billie Rhodes; and Paul Hurst, directing the fifteen episode serial, "Lightning Bryce," in which Ann Little and Jack Hoxie are co-starred.

Brentwood Head Purchases Home—Following the recent outright purchase by the Brentwood of the studio property and equipment which they formerly rented on Fountain avenue, comes the announcement that Mr. L. C. Haynes, president of the company has purchased and is remodeling for his own use a handsome plaster house one block east of the studio, with extensive grounds fronting on Fountain and New Hampshire avenues.

Warner's Vehicle—"A Fugitive From Matrimony" has been chosen as the name for the first of the plays in which H. B. Warner will be directed by Henry King for the Jesse D. Hampton company.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

For Small Companies—Van S. Trefon, having completed his first production, turned the studio at 651 Fairview Ave. over to J. Laurence Derfus. Mr. Derfus severed connections with the Metro Studio to take over the studio.

Mr. Derfus has been so busy cleaning up that he has not decided just what to do with the place yet. But if the present plans are carried through the studio will be rented out to small producing companies who wish to use one or two sets to complete their pictures.

Later it is possible that Mr. Clyde Meginness will be connected with Mr. Derfus and productions of their own undertaking.

Gas—Gale Henry has finished her fifeenth comedy under the banner of the Model Comedy Company and production has started on her next two-reeler of mirth at the company's new studio in Hollywood. Her latest is titled "Gas."

New Department—The Model Comedy Company, producers of Gale Henry comedies, has erected a cement "still" department building at its new studio quarters on Santa Monica boulevard, Hollywood. Don't push—it's not that kind of a "still." The building consists of three rooms—one for developing plates, one for printing negatives and one for the office of the department. The construction and lighting of the building is strictly in accordance with the latest Eastman-Kodak design for "still" rooms.

Sharon at Work—The first of a series of comedy pictures by Mary Sharon Productions is under way. The company is on location doing exteriors at Beverly Hills. A prominent vaudeville star is being featured and Van S. Trefon is playing character lead in the series, alternating in Mary Sharon Productions and Trefon Productions. The first picture produced by Trefon Productions, "Bugs," was completed Saturday and the film is now being cut and titled.

Hart to Victorville—The Wm. S. Hart players left late in the week for Victorville, the little desert town which so often has served as a "supply base" for motion picture companies filming desert stuff. Included in the location cast are Wm. S. Hart, Mary Thurman, Patricia Palmer, Hugh Saxon, Lon Poff, Raymond Nye and Harry Duwar. The company will return within two weeks' time.

Second Lehrman Unit—With a second producing unit at work on forthcoming Lehrman Comedies the new Lehrman Studios at Culver City have taken on a busy aspect, and sets are going up on every hand.

Lloyd (Ham) Hamilton, doing his first screen work for seven months, heads the company which has just started work, under the direction of Jack White.

Norman Taurog is assistant director, with Charles Selby behind the camera.

The first company, working under the personal direction of Henry Lehrman, has been augmented by the management of Hugh Fay, to appear opposite Billie Ritchie, who heads the list in this unit. Mr. Lehrman has also engaged (through parents and guardians) the baby comedian, "Dave," whose antics are already familiar to followers of screen comedy.

Henry Feature—Gale Henry has finished her fifteenth comedy to be released by the Bulls-Eye Film Corporation and has started work on her next two-reel comedy.

The cast of Earle Williams has been filled and work is well under way on "The Far East," by H. H. Van Loan. The artists that are supporting Mr. Williams include Edward McWade, Margaret Loomis, T. S. Guise, Barbara Tennent, Rudolph Valentina, John Elliott, Yuki Aeyama and Mrs. Margaret McWade.

William Duncan is on the eleventh episode of "Smashing Barriers," and is keeping well ahead of schedule.

Williams' ontract—Earle Williams has signed a new contract with the Vitagraph Company that assures his services to that company for several years to come. The new contract becomes effective on September 1st and places Mr. Williams in the class of the three highest salaried players on the screen.

Two-Reelers—Production of two-reel comedies with Hank Mann as the star, Madge Kirby as the leading woman and one of the foremost fun-makers on the West Coast as director, will be announced in the near future by Morris R. Schlank, producer of the Hank Mann Comedies, upon completion of the present series of one-reel subjects being made by Hank.

New Farrar Vehicle—With Lou Tellegen, Geraldine Farrar has begun, under the direction of Reginald Barker, her new film, arranged for the screen by J. G. Hawks. Negotiations for a Spannish classic have been going on for a year and the production promises to make the delay thoroughly worth while. Percy Hilburn, Miss Farrar's cinematographer, is behind the camera.

Mme. Rose Dione, who made her debut in "The World and Its Women," with Miss Farrar, plays a role in the new production, while Macey Harlam, Gertram Grassby, Dorothy Drumming and Milton Ross are also equally fortunate.

Dalton's New Picture—Dorothy Dalton has begun work on her third Thomas H. Ince-Paramount picture, to be made in the East. The story, "Black Is White," is from the book of the same title, by George Barr Mcutcheon. The screen adaptation has been made by E. Magnus Ingleton. Charles Giblyn will direct and the photography is in the hands of John Stumar.

The supporting cast includes Holmes Herbert, Jack Crosby, Lillian Lawrence, Joseph Granby and Miss Claire Mersereau.

Bennett's New Story—"The Woman in the Suitcase," is the title for the new Enid Bennett story, by C. Gardner Sullivan. Fred Niblo will direct Miss Bennett.

Mitchell Finishing—Mitchell Lewis has completed his latest characterization, that of Lone Wolf, an Indian chief, in his newest production, "The Last of His People," while Director Bradubury is cutting and titling the feature.

Bosworth Feature—Irvin Willatt has just completed for Thomas H. Ince a filmization of Gouvernor Morris' story, "Behind the Door," in which Hobart Bosworth, supported by Jane Nocak, is featured.

New Ray Story—Charles Ray is completing work at the Thomas H. Ince studio in Culver City on a story by Agnes C. Johnston. His next picture is a story provided him by Julien Josephson.

Shooting Begins—Douglas MacLean and Doris May commenced the actual taking of scenes this week in "Mary's Ankle," which is to be the third photoplay released with these players in the principal parts. Lloyd Ingraham is directing, and Bert Cann is in charge of the photography.

Agnes C. Johnston, scenario writer, who has been enjoying a two months' vacation in the East, has returned to the Thomas H. Ince studio in Culver City, and is using her accumulated enthusiasm in typing a big story.

Houdini Back—When Houdini returns to Hollywood from the big town, he will be directed by James Cruze. While Houdini will arrive about the 15th, he will not start work until the latter part of the month, and the title and exact character of the story upon which he will work is not yet known.

Washburn Feature—Bryant Washburn will wind up his work on "It Pays to Advertise" with a trip to Chicago, and on his return to the studio, probably the last week of this month, will start on a new picture under Donald Crisp, which is a screen version of William Gillette's "Too Much Johnson."

William C. de Mille is in the midst of "The Tree of Knowledge," in which Robert Warwick is the star, Wanda Hawley is leading woman and Kathlyn Williams appears in one of the most powerful roles she has played in a long time—the heavy part. The story offers Tom Forman, Irving Cummings, Winter Hall and others excellent opportunities.

"The Thirteenth Commandment"—Ethel Clayton is still at work at the Morosco studio on "More Deadly Than the Male," which is being directed by Robert G. Vignola. On completing this film the star will begin the production of "The Thirteenth Commandment," by Rupert Hughes. Mr. Vgnola will again direct.

Benefit Performance—A benefit performance, given in aid of the needy families of employes of the Pacific Electric, who are now on strike, will be given at Walker Auditorium, Grand avenue between Seventh and Eighth, on the evening of Saturday, September 13th. A lengthy program has been arranged, including star performers from local theaters and motion picture studio.

Charley Murray, assisted by Snitz Edwards of the George Loan Tucker studio, will act as stage manager.

Among those who will appear will be Flannagan and Edwards of the National studio; Al Jennings and Mal St. Claire of the Capitol studios; Harnden, lightweight wrestling champion of the world; Larry Semon and Mazzetti Brothers, Vitagraph; Hugh Fay, Lehrman; Jimmy Adams and Bud Jamison of L. K. O.; Will Rogers of Goldwyn; Cal Cohen and Jim Welch in a monologue; Olive Duvall, classic dancer; Beatrice Miller, specialty dancer; Freda Miller in popular songs; Rosebud Castlewood in her picturesque patriotic Victory dance; the Davis, musicians, and a number of other high-class acts which have not yet been announced.

The actors' strike in New York and throughout the country has created a bond of sympathy for the striking railway employes and more performers are volunteering their services than could possibly be included in one evening's program. For this reason the quantity and quality of the performance will be of a most unusual character.

Juvenile With Swain—Webster La Grange has just finished the juvenile part in Mack Swain's latest Poppy comedy called "Ambrose' Bungled Bungalow."

Miller at "U."—Harold Miller has been engaged by Universal to play a part opposite Ora Carewe, under the direction of Wm. C. Dowlan.

Pedlar With Williams—Gertrude Pedlar is playing a part with Earle Williams.

Part With Allen—Armand Triller is at present at Universal studio with Major Allen, playing the part of Dick Harding in "The Story of the Jaguar."

With Fisher—Albert Pollet has gone to Santa Barbara to work with Margarita Fisher.

Improbable—Someone asked Jimmy Fish ex-Secretary McAdoo's telephone number, and he didn't remember it.

UNIVERSAL NOTES

From Ham Beall

Attention at Universal City just now is centered on the forthcoming expedition to Japan and the Orient of Marie Walcamp's company under the direction of Henry McRae to film the big Universal series, "The Petals of Lao Tze." The company, including Harland Tucker, leading man; Otto Lederer and Wadsworth Harris, heavies; George Hively, scenario writer, and a complete staff of technical experts, will sail from Seattle, Saturday. The first episode of the serial has just been completed.

Jacques Jaccard has completed the production of "Cassidy of the Air Lanes," the big Universal aerial feature starring Lieut. O. L. Locklear, the only aviator who changes from Francelia Billington plays opposite the flyer in this six-reel thriller.

Lively preparations are in progress at Universal for the Priscilla Dean eight-reel feature, "The Virgin of Stamboul," work on which will begin within the next few days. The story, Oriental in flavor, is by H. H. VanLoan and prepared for the screen by William Parker. This production will be directed by Tod Browning. "The Virgin of Stamboul" will be Priscilla Dean's first picture under her new Universal contract.

Director Allen Holubar has returned from Pleasanton, California, wnere he shot the small-town scenes for Dorothy Phillips' current feature, "Ambition."

Eric von Stroheim has commenced work on a new six-reel special feature, "The Charge Account," written by the Baroness de Meyer. Von Stroheim, who prepared the screen version, has an important cast, including Sam De Grasse, Clyde Fillmore, Una Trevelyn, Maude George and Mae Busch.

Mary MacLaren is at work on the final chapters of her current feature, "The Pointing Finger," under the guidance of Eddie Kull.

"The Gift of the Desert," Harry Carey's current vehicle, is well under way under Jack Ford's direction. A week on the desert for the exteriors will complete the production.

Tsuru Aoki's company, under Rollin Sturgeon's direction, has returned from San Francisco, where scenes were made for "The Breath of the Gods." The company, including Arthur Carew, Stanhope Wheatcroft, Barney Sherry, Pat O'Malley and Ethel Shannon, is at present engaged on the interior scenes at Universal City.

Director Rex Ingram is making rapid progress filming "The Beach Comber," Elmo Lincoln's feature. The story was written by J. G. Hawks and prepared for the screen by Harvey Thew.

Work will start in a few days on "The Pedlar," a Saturday Evening Post story by Henry C. Rowland and prepared for Universal by Philip Hurn. This six-reel feature will be directed by William Dowlan, with Frank Mayo and a notable cast.

A few more exterior scenes will complete the filming of "Lasca," based on the poem by Frank Duprez and scenarioized by Percy Heath. This picture, featuring Frank Mayo, Edith Roberts and Veola Harty, is under Norman Dawn's direction.

The fourth episode of "The Lion Man," the serial starring Kathleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin, is under production at Universal City by Al Russell.

Florence Turner has started work on another one-reel comedy, this one being entitled "His Wind Cured." Miss Turner is playing the principal role, with Hal Wilson and Lester Marsh in her supporting cast.

"The Trail of the Hold-Up Man" is the title of Art Acord's current two-reel Western, being produced by Director George Holt.

Al Santell's latest one-reel comedy, with Chris Rub and Beatrice Burnham, is called "Hot Tamale."

Lyons and Moran have completed "The Honeymooners," and are now at work on another rib tickler entitled "Taking the 'She' Out of Bolshevik."

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

Returns East—After a ten months' visit here Leota Lorraine's mother returned to her home in Kansas City Saturday.

Hunting Party—Last Friday, Mrs. Gladys Rhodes with a party of friends made a trip to Antelope Valley for rabbit hunting. The party returned Monday. Among those who pursued friend cotton-tail were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glenn, Miss Myrtle Crescy, Mr. Maurice Freeman, Mr. Walter Wherle, and Mrs. Rhodes. The only game that most of the "hunters" got was sunburn, though in all thirty-two rabbits were shot. Mr. Wnerle was given credit for most of these, as all the guests insisted that he was the only "shot" in the party.

Birthday Surprise—We are not so blase after all, are we? Not when a busy director can take the time to prepare a regular birthday surprise party. Last Tuesday evening Mrs. Jimmy Cruze was the happy victim of such an intrigue, and her husband was chief offender. A late dinner began the evening, after which the guests were entertained by a three-piece orchestra, and enjoyed a quiet visit with each other. The decorations for the affair, which was given in the new Cruze home, were carried out in a purple and gold color scheme.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Neilly Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. William Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Reid, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Geraghty.

Day-End Parties—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clifton are able to go back to nature a few hours out of every twenty-four by motoring to their ranch near Sunland each night. Regardless of how late they are detained in the city they make the trip to their ranch tent-house every night.

Butlers Entertain—Mr. and Mrs. David Butler entertained with dinner at the Ship Cafe, Venice, last Saturday evening. They had as guests Mr. and Mrs. N. Schwab. Mr. Schwab is the buyer for the Carlyle Blackwell productions.

Prager Dance—Langdon Prager was the guest of honor at a dance given at the Dug Out, last Tuesday evening, by his sister, Florence Prager. As Langdon was recently discharged from the United States Army, the appropriate patriotic atmosphere was gained through the Dug Out decorations. A profusion of lovely flowers and beautiful lights carried out a red, white and blue scheme of coloring. The lawn surrounding the Dug Out was lighted by lanterns of patriotic hues, allowing the guests to stroll about when not dancing, or enjoying the refreshments. The music was furnished by the Lewis Orchestra.

Among the motion picture people who participated in the evening's pleasures were the Misses Edith Roberts, Yvette Mitchell, Miriam Meredith, of the Ince Research Department, Mildred Richter, the film editor, Evelyn Adamson, Peggy Prevost, Helen Lynch, Agnes Lynch, Agnes Lowatney, Anne Schaefer, Margaret Coe, and the Messrs. Neal Burns, Fred Burnworth, Stockton Quincey, Ashton Wheatcroft, Charles Marshall, Cliff Vigus, and Frank H. Ware.

Season Opens—Next Saturday evening the Dug Out will give its first dance of the new season. Only members of the Dug Out will be invited to the first affair, which all concerned are anticipating with keen pleasure.

Playing at Catalina—Mildred Harris Chaplin and Kathleen Clifford were busy putting the Catalina force of divers on their mettle all last week, when they amused themselves diving off the deck of the Cabrillo after coins. Miss Clifford successfully landed a swordfish and her boat put into port flying the blue pennant. All the island turned out to see the catch. Mrs. Chaplin, who was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Harris, gave Miss Clifford a few thrills in the way of trips in the Chaplin hydroplane and in the Spearmint, the sixty-mile-an-hour motor boat. Now Miss Clifford is wondering how she can return these thrills next week when Mrs. Chaplin comes to visit her at the Virginia.

Through the Yosemite—Immediately after the completion of the last episode of "The Mystery of 13," Director Francis Ford left the studio for a two weeks automobile trip through the Yosemite. On his return he will start work at once on his new serial, the name of which has not yet been decided upon.

With Pickford—Helen Jerome Eddy will play Nancy in the new film version of Eleanor H. Porter's "Pollyanna," which began rehearsing at the Brunton Studios last Monday.

Reunion Dinner Dance—Ernest C. Warde, who is directing Warren Kerrigan's current Brunton feature, "Live Sparks," is making extensive preparations for a "Thanhouser" dinner dance to be given within a few days at the Alvarado hotel. The affair is intended to be a reunion of all players, directors and technical men who were formerly connected with the old Thanhouser studio at New Rochelle. Among the guests expected are Clarine Seymour, Hector Dion, James Cruze, Arthur Todd, Mignon Anderson, Frank Geraghty, Maurice Foster, Gordon Hollingshead, Mace Letson, James Dunn, Peggy Snow, Howard Mitchell and William Park.

Off on Hunting Trip—J. Parker Read Jr. has just finished the supervision of the Louise Glaum special, "The Lone Wolf's Daughter," and feels he has earned a vacation. A trip to the mountains is to follow a few days' shooting at Catalina Island.

Mitchell's Dances—The Inter-Studio dances, under the direction of "Jimmy Mitchell," are now being held at the Hollywood Woman's Club on Wednesday and Saturday evenings instead of at the Wilcox Hall as formerly. The informal dances are meeting with much popularity and are gaining new supporters at every party.

MARGARITA FISHER

By Mildred Davis

In Santa Barbara, the Flying "A" studio is the home of a rare spirit of enthusiasm and co-operation. In this beautiful studio Margarita Fisher is in no small way responsible for the splendid comradely attitude of all the workers. The most prominent characteristic of the little American Film star is perhaps her radiant cheerfulness. She always "has a smile"—and her smiles are never wasted.

Miss Fisher has been in theatrical work since she was a child, and until a few years ago she had only appeared in legitimate drama. Unlike many other people who have spent happy years on the stage, Miss Fisher confesses that motion pictures appeal to her more than the stage. She feels that the applause and demonstration of an audience do not mean so much to her as do the letters of appreciation and criticism from her various "fan" friends. In the past two years Miss Fisher's films have become very popular in South America and Japan from where scores of her fan letters come. The star finds great pleasure in the letters written from the Latin republics, where her pictures are becoming well known. Frequently these letters are written "en espanol" and, as Miss Fisher is quite a linguist, she is able to read them herself.

When complimented upon her enviable disposition Miss Fisher always insists that whatever of happiness she reflects is inherited. The affection bestowed upon her by her parents was the one possession with which they were abundantly supplied, for they were in severe poverty all during the early days of Margarita's childhood. Now, perhaps, the star's greatest joy is to care for her little mother, with whom she lives. We often hear that we receive from life only that which we put into it—and this statement adequately expresses Miss Fisher's philosophy of life.

Margarita Fisher expends the best of her capabilities upon her work, and is amply rewarded, for the best comes back to her.

For the judges in the Wally Reid fox trot contest at Mitchell's dance last Saturday, Wally appointed Miriam Merideth, Dudley Blanchard and Frank Urson. From among the thirty couples competing for the cup the judges picked as the winners Georgetta Mullen of Los Angeles and Charles A. Baker of Hollywood.

During the contest at the Mitchell dances last Saturday Wally Reid joined the orchestra with his saxaphone. Antrim Short and Jimmy Mitchell are still arguing as to whether he was playing "Alcoholic Blues" or "Mother Turn the Hose on Me."

In presenting the cup to the winners of the fox trot contest at the Hollywood Woman's Club, Wallace Reid pulled a practical joke that won't be forgotten by the Mitchell Dance fans for a long time. Holding the cup above the heads of the winners, he announced that all would rise during the playing of the "National Hymn." Acting upon his whispered instruction the orchestra gave a funeral rendition of "How Dry I Am," the entire body of guests remaining standing for about five bars of the music before they realized what had happened.

Aubrey Dance Contest Postponed—Due to the failure of the engravers to finish the Jimmy Aubrey cup in time for the Jimmy Aubrey dance last Wednesday, the Jimmy Aubrey dancing contest will be postponed until Saturday, September the twentieth. The contest will take place at the regular Mitchell Inter-Studio Dance at the Hollywood Woman's Club on that date. J. Mitchell von Preissig, who has acted in a similar capacity at many of the contests at the Madison Square Roof Garden in New York City and the Jardin de Dance at Washington, D. C., will act as the judge. He sounds the warning beforehand that shimmying and head to head dancing will immediately disqualify a contestant.

"Paco," well known in filmland for his work at the Sunshine, and as the owner and trainer of "Bobbie," the clever bull terrier in pictures, has accepted Mr. von Preissig's invitation to stage an exhibition Tango at one of the inter-studio dances at the Woman's Club in the near future. "Paco" won the amateur championship of Paris in 1913, in the Argentine Tango, in a "Concourse" at the Olimpia Theatre, lasting three weeks. He will also demonstrate the Brazilian Maxixe.

SWIMMING NOTES

George W. Beranger is fast rounding into shape as a swimmer. After taking three lessons Mr. Beranger has mastered swimming across the L. A. Athletic Club plunge. This is quite a feat for a beginner, and especially for a person who has had great fear of the water like Mr. Beranger, but now he is master of the aqua pura, and will soon be challenging his boss, D. W. Griffith, for a 50-yard dash.

Priscilla Dean, the Universal Film Co. star, has donated the most wonderful swimming trophy, ever before in the history of swimming been presented. Swimmers have received some wonderful trophies for swimming, but never was there such a trophy given. Miss Dean will present her wonderful cup, and will also start the Senior Mile race to be held at Venice Sunday, September 21. This is the first time in the history of swimming that a motion picture star has started a race of this kind. There will be three races, a senior mile, junior mile, and ladies' race; for all three races there will be cups.

Norman Manning and Wallace MacDonald have been selected to act as officials in The Record ocean race slated for Sunday, September 21. Many motion picture actors who have swimming ability are slated to swim in The Record ocean race at Venice, Sunday, September 21.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

Only One Fault—Clarke Irvine says that "The Miracle Man" has but one fault—it is a terrible one, and the only one that can be named. When the picture closes, they snap on the lights and turn the people out into the cruel, scrutinizing world, which may be a darned good ad, but it is darned hard on the spectators. Who likes to be seen in that condition?

With Mary—Louise Du Pre, professionally termed "The Cinema Cameo," has been engaged by Miss Mary Pickford for the production of "Pollyanna."

Wm. Earle Leaves—Wm. P. S. Earle, the director, has packed his megaphone, and hied himself eastward. Mr. Earle, who recently completed "The Lone Wolf's Daughter," starring Louise Glaum, has signed with Myron Selznick, and will direct Selznick super-features, in New York City.

Leaves for Orient—Captain Richard Luther, brother of Miss Irene Rich, who is playing opposite Will Rogers, at the Goldwyn studios, will leave on the 27th for China.

Captain Luther, who during the war saw active service in France, has been the guest of his sister for several weeks, during which time he has been a frequent visitor at the various studios.

With Ora—Truman Van Dyke is working on "The Peddlar," his second picture with Ora Carewe.

G. P.'s Return—The Griffith players who have been in San Francisco since the opening of "Broken Blossoms" there, returned to Los Angeles Wednesday night. The players, Carol Dempster, Clarine Seymour, George Fawcett, and Lafe McKee, appeared in Griffith's prologue to "Broken Blossoms," and will probably be seen here in the same capacity.

Illness Delays—The Katherine MacDonald company had expected to begin work on the new picture, "Japanette," last Monday, but because of Miss MacDonald's illness the filming was delayed until Friday.

With Jack—Beth Ivins has completed her contract with Ince and will support J. Warren Kerrigan in his new Brunton picture, "Live Sparks," a Caroline Sayre comedy. Before taking up picture work Miss Ivins supported Chauncey Olcott and Henry Miller.

Chinese Actor Returns—James B. Leong, the Chinese actor, has returned from the north, where he has spent the last few months in San Francisco and Sacramento. Mr. Leong announces that he has devoted his time to writing a story, which he hopes to have filmed before long, under the title, "The Unmarried Mother."

Mr. Leong will be remembered for his characterizations in the Nazimova production, "The Red Lantern," in which he played four different Chinese roles. He also acted as technical advisor to D. W. Griffith during the filming of "Broken Blossoms" and to Jesse B. Hampton during the production of "The Pagan God."

Completes "Japonette"—H. Tipton Steck has completed the continuity for "Japonette," Katherine MacDonald's next vehicle, and has already started work on the continuity for the Henry Herbert Knibbs' story, "Overland Red," starring Harry Carey.

At Sea—Jimmy King has just returned from a yachting trip. He was at sea five days.

At Goldwyn—Mrs. Lydia Titus is still with Goldwyn.

Back to Life—Edward Dahlen, who was playing a British officer with Nazimova, and was in the street car and bus accident which occurred on August 22nd, is with us once more. Dahlen was injured in the accident and reported dead. He has been laid up in the hospital until this week, but is now rapidly improving and will be back in the game shortly.

With Sweet—Ed Peil is still playing with Blanche Sweet at Hampton studio.

Chinese T. D.—Moon Kwan has arrived from San Francisco to accept an engagement at the Metro Studios as technical director to Henry Otto in a film entitled "The Willow Tree," featuring Viola Dana. Mr. Kwan's skill as an artist of rare ability is now established in the picture profession. He was engaged by Mr. D. W. Griffith as technical director in "Broken Blossoms." Since the completion of "Broken Blossoms" Moon Kwan has been associated with the Joseph A. Eliason Enterprises in San Francisco, where Mr. Eliason has been working with the Motion Picture Welfare Committee of the Bay City establishing what is to be known as "Film City," the Unit-Rental Studio. For temporary quarters Mr. Eliason will house the many companies who find it necessary to shoot locations in San Francisco at the Walthew Studio, which will accommodate six or more companies at the present time. Upon the completion of the "Willow Tree," Mr. Kwan will return to San Francisco and assist the Eliason Enterprises on Oriental productions.

Gaye Remains in L. A.—Howard Gaye was unable to go with Wilfred Lucas to direct pictures in Australia, owing to the fact that he could not complete his part in "Captain Dieppe" at Lasky's in time to catch the boat at San Francisco. He will remain in Los Angeles.

Lead—George Sherwood, who has been playing leads with Bessie Barriscale and Texas Guinan, is Gale Henry's leading man in the latest comedy starring the comedienne.

New "Vamp"—Dorothy Canterbury, who played the heavy in "Super-Strategy," a recent production, and who has played leading parts in many other well known screen successes, has been engaged to play the part of a vampire in Gale Henry's latest comedy. Miss Canterbury was formerly on the New York speaking stage.

Back from Vacation—Gilbert Warrington, who, with Charles Rosher photographed the two latest Mary Pickford productions, "Heart of the Hills" and "The Hoodlum," has returned from a vacation at California Hot Springs.

Mary's Dad—Wharton James has been cast to play Mary Pickford's father in her new story, "Pollyanna," which is being directed by Paul Powell, assisted by Wm. Crinley.

Miss Williams Ill—Miss Williams, sister of Clara Williams of "Carmen of the Klondyke" fame, is at present very ill in the hospital, having just gone through a major operation.

Clayton Support—Edward Coxon and Peggy Pearce are supporting Ethel Clayton at the Morosco in "More Deadly than the Male."

Emily Home—Emily Chichester is back in Hollywood again. She was at Pleasanton with the Allan Holubar company.

Busy Again—Colleen Moore, who has been having a vacation, is busy again before the camera with Katherine MacDonald. She left Thursday night on location with the company.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Earle Olin, technical head of the Lehrman Comedies, Inc., reports every thing moving along very nicely at the Culver City plant.

Jack Richardson is finishing his engagement with the Fred Niblo Co. at the Thos. H. Ince studio.

Johnny Reese is working with the Albert Ray-Elinor Fair Co., under Scott Dunlap's direction at the Fox studios.

Rose Mullaney, dame rumor has it, is about to sign a contract with a well known firm to once more take up her duties of casting.

Carl Laemmle is once more in our midst, after making a short trip to the mid-west, and is looking his local interests over.

Bill Crinley is assisting Paul M. Powell at Robert Brunton's studios in the direction of Mary Pickford in "Pollyanna." Mr. Grinley but recently co-directed a pictutre with Marjorey Wilson as the star.

Clara Kimball Young has rented a home on West Adams street.

William Worthington, who directs Sessue Hayakawa, is in between pictures and glad to get a rest, for he has been laboring night and day to keep up with the release. He'll be back at it soon.

Tom Jefferson is playing a very good part with the Douglas Fairbanks company.

George Siegman, who directed three pictures out at the Universal, has decided that he wants to rest his weary brains, and will turn his attention to acting for a spell.

Billy Bletzer returned from San Francisco where he was working with the Allan Dwan company.

Eddie Cline is down at Balboa listening to the sad sea waves wail about the bevy of girls that he is using in a bathing picture featuring Polly Moran.

Arthur Millett is doing a heavy character with J. Warren Kerrigan at the Robert Brunton studios.

Carol Jackson is working at the Metro studio for the John Ince company in a story at present called "Should a Woman Tell?"

Joe Singleton has been cast with the Maurice Tournuer company at Goldwyn's after going through a very pleasant engagement with the Texas Guinan organization out at the Big U.

Tom Wilson is doing a southern dary part in the present D. W. Griffith vehicle.

Vin Moore has gone over to the Rainbow studios (L. K. O.) to direct Dot Farley and Phil Dunham, supported by a line-up of dumb animals.

Marjorey Wilson will soon number among the stars who have their own studio, for down at Santa Monica the Herman Film Corp. are building a plant for her.

Mal St. Clair and Hugh Mack have cast their lot with the Capital Film Corp., producing two-reel comedies.

Claude H. Mitchell has been engaged to direct Zazu Pitts for the Brentwood Film Corporation. His initial subject will be a rural story.

W. S. Campbell has been searching the Southland studios over for a suitable plant in which to house the animals that he intends to use in his comedies.

William Dowlan, accompanied by Allen Watt, motored down to Montecito to look some locations over for his forthcoming production at the Universal.

Chester Bennett has been engaged to direct Earle Williams for the Vitagraph Co. This is a promotion for him, as he has been acting in the capacity of assistant director up to the last Williams story.

Joe Ryan is sporting a new touring car, which means that Mr. Ryan has saved up a nice bank roll through his efforts in the Duncan-Vitagraph serials in which he portrayed heavy parts.

Slim Peppercorn and Dorothy Wolbert are working at Horsley's, where they are appearing in a comedy that will be released as The Horseshoe Brand.

Vernon Walker, who recently returned from France, is Hank Mann's cameraman.

Walter De Coursey is assisting Alfred E. Green, in the direction of House Peters, at the Harry Garson studio at Edendale. Walter came over to that plant with Director Green from the Fox studio.

Harry Mann's initial picture that he made for the Vitagraph is reported to have gone over good and he is to make some more "Simple Harry" pictures of the same caliber.

Gertrude Astor is working in the Kathleen O'Connor-Jack Perrin serial out at the Universal.

William Duncan has just about finished his serial "Smashing Barriers" which 'tis said will be released the first part of next month. He will do a feature picture for his next subject.

Lee Larson is working with the Ruth Roland Co. out at Horsley's handling the technical part of her serial organization. Lee was with the Universal after returning from France, where he served Uncle Sam.

Katherine Griffith is doing Aunt Polly in Pollyana for Mary Pickford at the Robert Brunton studios, under the direction of Paul M. Powell.

Jimmy Clark returned from France the other day and immediately went to work at the Robert Brunton studios. Thata boy Jimmy, go to it.

Billy Du Vall just finished another picture for the King Vidor Co. called "Poor Relations."

Frank Thorne joins the Tom Mix forces for a picture, playing a heavy.

Clarence Arper is doing a portrayal of O'Henry for the Al Jennings Co. over at the Capital studio under H. W. Bergman's direction.

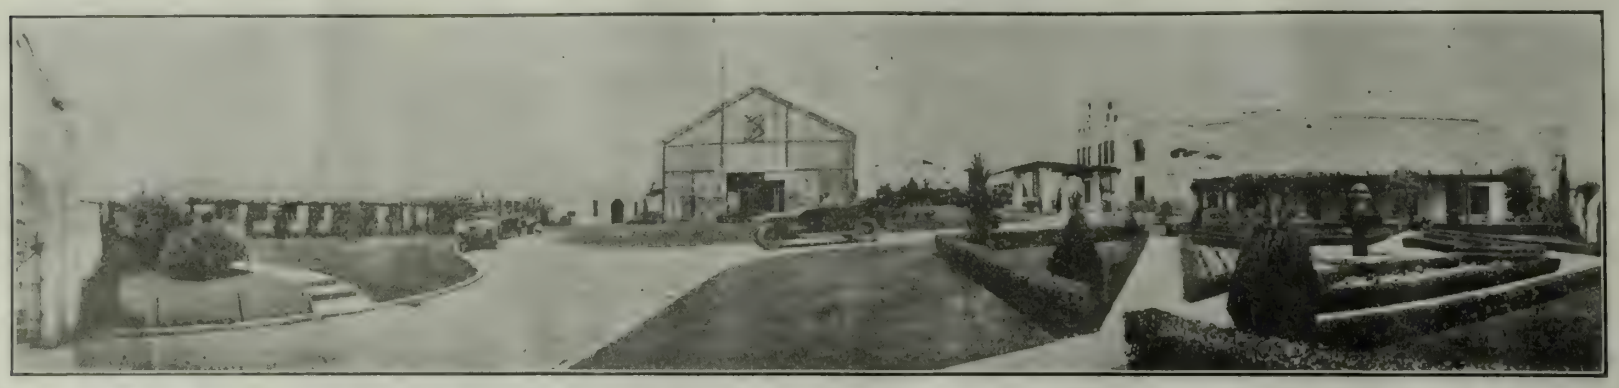
DOINGS ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

Every now and then something crops up in the daily doings of the filmland workers, and we hear of some abuse that should be brought to time, and since this is an age of strikes and unrest and everybody meddling in things that concern them most, we now come face to face with a new angle, that demands strict attention and will bring forth hearty cooperation from all sides.

I am referring to the assistant director who permits anyone connected with his company to ruin private property, leaves a location in an untidy condition, allows any conduct unbecoming a lady or gentleman, unnecessary noises, either by principal or extra, and above all things makes certain promises to the owners and then breaks his word.

At the last meeting of the Assistant Directors Association, this subject came up, and the members took to it like a duck does to water, and there was voiced the sentiment of the majority of its members, who pledged themselves to help do away with all barriers that even look as they might be used.

AT THE AMERICAN FILM STUDIOS



VIEW FROM THE ENTRANCE GATE OF THE AMERICAN STUDIOS AT SANTA BARBARA

To one who has become thoroly familiar with the ins and outs of the motion picture studios around Hollywood, the first impression given by a visit to the American Film Company studios in Santa Barbara is something of a shock, as a most delightful surprise awaits the visitor.

Resembling one of the old missions, with wafting palms lending a tropical aspect and completely surrounded by a massive, altho not forbidding, concrete wall, the premises of the "Flying A" studios are regarded as one of the most artistic industrial places in California.

The studio property at Santa Barbara comprises almost six acres of buildings, stages and grounds, all of which is owned outright by the company. A wide, artistically arched entrance in the center of the main front on Mission Street leads into the grounds. Upon entering, one sees lanes of pergolas and rose-laden bowers which mingle harmoniously with the business atmosphere of the place.

To the left is a private entrance for the stars and principal members of the casts, leading to the famous "Green Room," with its huge fireplace and leather-upholstered easy chairs, where the players may lounge in comfort while awaiting their calls to the sets. To the extreme right is an entrance for the executives of the company, where the offices of Studio Manager A. L. Thompson and the business offices are located.

Conspicuous on the grounds is the quaint tower of the photographic building, where the laboratories, developing, printing and drying rooms are located. The still department and the cutting rooms are also housed in this building. A. G. Heimerl is chief of the photographic department and is responsible for the laboratory work.

Opposite the photographic department is one of the large, completely closed "glass" studios, and back of this one catches a glimpse of one of the big open-air studios. Immediately behind the photographic department rises one of the largest glass-covered studios in the world. Carried by trussed steel, the ground glass roofs cover thousands of feet of spacious stages where there are often as many as ten large sets constructed under as the result of painstaking art-work, careful research and excellent mechanical construction. In their manufacture there is a conspicuous absence of waste, yet evidence of great solidity and sense of beauty. This is due largely to the fact that the American studios are absolutely independent of outside help in constructing sets, as any of the thousand and one things used in motion picture production can be made in the studio shops.

The technical department, under the direction of S. A. Baldridge, is housed in its own building, where a corps of architects and draughtsmen prepare the plans and specifications for all construction work. Superintendent Frank Shaw is largely responsible for one roof without crowding.

The sets built on these stages are said by visitors from other film concerns to be the equal of those used by any of the producing companies, and the smooth running organization which makes it possible to handle all routine construction work efficiently and also turn out "rush" orders without undue confusion.

The large carpenter shops, under the management of J. A. Long, are equipped with modern machinery for all kinds of mill work, while a complete cabinet works and furniture factory, with upholstering department, is also maintained. The sculptor's studio can supply statuary and compo decorations of original design on short notice, while the furniture collection offers a magnitude of selection of priceless Chippendales, period furniture, Florentine, Byzantine and other famous sets. In the rug and drapery rooms is found one of the finest assortments in filmland.

Immediately in front of studio number one are located the offices of the directors and assistant directors, while to the right is the purchasing department, publicity offices and the scenario department, where Art Zellner, scenario and production editor, has a corps of readers to assist in handling the thousands of scripts that are submitted for consideration.

An interesting feature of the studio is the flower gardens and green houses, which supply all the numerous boquets and floral decorations required in the American productions. Two of the green houses have been constructed with old photographic plates that have long since become valueless.

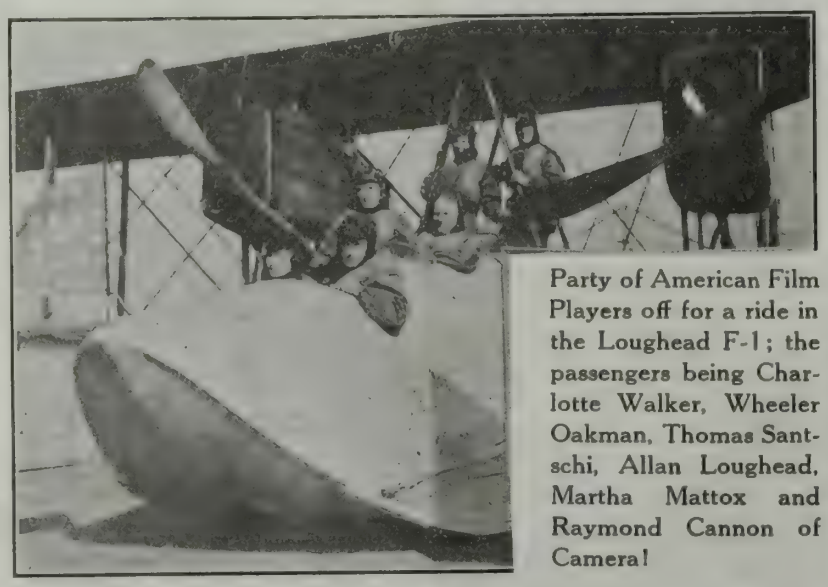
The "Flying A" stables shelter a valuable string of highly trained horses that can do any of the sensational stunts necessary for picture purposes.

The company garage houses seventeen motor cars and trucks, principally Wintons, Pierce Arrows and Buicks, and all of the repair work on the cars is handled under the supervision of A. A. Bonnard in the company machine shops, where modern lathes and equipment provide for any emergency. The garage is now being conducted along military lines, as all of the drivers are ex-service men, most of whom saw active service overseas.

The electrical department is well supplied with modern lighting equipment and is operated under the supervision of E. S. Taylor, chief electrician. The wardrobe department, in charge of Mrs. J. A. Long, contains a large and varied assortment of wearing apparel of every description. The employment offices, through which hundreds of people are secured for the big scenes, is handled by J. F. Churchill, who is familiarly known as "Church."

With one of the most completely equipped and advantageously located studios in the world, the American Film Company has maintained a policy of clean dealing and progressive growth since the pioneer days of motion pictures and is today conducting its business through world-wide affiliations, with a repute second to none. Truly Santa Barbara may well feel proud of the beautiful "Flying A" studios, both as an industrial asset to the business life of the city and as a wonderful show-place of interest to its thousands of visitors from every corner of the globe.

SANTA BARBARA'S OWN SEAPLANE



Party of American Film Players off for a ride in the Loughead F-1; the passengers being Charlotte Walker, Wheeler Oakman, Thomas Santschi, Allan Loughead, Martha Mattox and Raymond Cannon of Camera!

H. H. Harrod, better known to his friends as "Pete," has been busy for several days cutting over the switchboards and installing a large number of new lights and spots for the several studios on the American lot.

While the Pacific Fleet was in Santa Barbara, Ensign Franklin Young hopped off from a 65-foot runway on a gut turret of the U. S. S. Mississippi in a French Hanriot scout plane for the benefit of R. R. Nehls and a party of "Flying A" visitors who were on board as guests of Ensigns Young and C. E. Brown. The stunt was recorded on the movie film by Al Heimerl, chief of the American photographic department.

Miss Eva Wilson, cashier of the American Film Company, enjoyed a stunt ride in an aeroplane over the studio grounds one day last week with Lieut. Poppic, who gave her numerous thrills by doing the loop, wing-over, tail spin and nose dive. Miss Wilson now declares straight flying to be a very tame affair.

J. A. Long, who recently returned from overseas service, claimed Mabel Connell, the wardrobe mistress, as his bride, and has now settled down to enjoy life in Santa Barbara.

Mike Eason, head grip at the studios, is an excellent swimmer and has been doing double duty in some fancy diving stunts this week for the benefit of the camera.

George Periolat, veteran character man, who has been with the American in Santa Barbara for the past five years, has decided to enter upon a free lance career and moved to Los Angeles the first of the week.

Margarita Fisher returned last week from a brief vacation in Los Angeles and at once commenced work on a new production under the direction of George L. Cox.

Wheeler Oakman has finished his work as leading man in the Charlotte Walker feature and has returned to Los Angeles to accept an engagement with Edith Storey.

Kenneth Helwig, property man for the Margarita Fisher Fisher company, was called to Hollywood Wednesday by news of the serious illness of his mother, who is reported to be very low. George Gladwyn is handling the props during Mr. Helwig's absence.

Anita Bates is now chief operator on the telephone switchboard at the American studios.

All of the "Flying A" family believe in living up to the studio name and the majority of them are now enthusiastic fliers. Studio Manager A. L. Thompson and his assistant, C. D. White, are probably the most rabid of the flight fans.

On Labor Day in Santa Barbara, a party of American players flew in the Loughead seaplane along the coast to Summerland. The return was made over the hills of the Montecito district and the flight ended after a close-up view of the city of Santa Barbara from the sky.

"FLYING A" IS GUIDE FOR FLYERS

The American Film company at Santa Barbara has the distinction of having erected the first aero landmark sign on the Pacific Coast for the guidance of the aerial travelers. The letters, "Santa Barbara," are eighteen feet high and twelve feet in width, while the "Flying A" trade-mark measures forty-six feet from tip to tip. The sign is on the roof of the largest building on the American lot and can be seen from an elevation of over two miles.

Dal Clawson finished shooting on a feature at the American studios and returned to Los Angeles last week in his w. k flivver. After having been turned over a couple of times on Santa Barbara mountain roads the little Ford is now minus its top, one door, the windshield and half of the steering wheel. However, the engine, wheels and driving seat are still in commission and Dal swears that he will keep it on the road until Christmas. For complete data as to speed, apply to Tom Santschi, who accompanied Dal on his trip to Los.

Lois Zellner has just completed the continuity on an original story, which is now being produced under the direction of George L. Cox as a Margarita Fisher feature.

Melbourne MacDowell has completed his engagement in the Charlotte Walker cast at the American and has returned to Los Angeles.

Sidney Algier, assistant director of the Margarita Fisher Company, has been Dodging around in great style for the past few days. The reason? Why, it's a new Dodge car.

Ruth Phillips has been playing a bit with the Margarita Fisher company as a Japanese maid.

George Rizard is responsible for the photography in the Margarita Fisher picture.

Capt. Cecil VanAuker is in Santa Barbara from Los Angeles to play the lead in the current Margarita Fisher production under the direction of George L. Cox.

Hayward Mack will again be seen in support of Margarita Fisher in her current production which is now under way at the American.

Harry Lonsdale is a member of the supporting cast for the Margarita Fisher feature.

Studio manager A. L. Thompson, accompanied by Mrs. Thompson, returned Thursday from Los Angeles, where he has been attending to business matters since the first of the week.

Martha Mattox returned to Los Angeles Sunday after completing an engagement with the Charlotte Walker company.

Coleman Stewart has been engaged as assistant to E. P. Moore, the American still photographer, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of G. S. Hunter.

Mrs. Phil Renaud arrived in Santa Barbara from her home in Oakland Wednesday for a visit with her daughter, Lois Zellner.

Miss Winona Higgins has accepted a position as private secretary to Margarita Fisher and took up her new duties the first of the week. Miss Higgins was formerly connected with the reading department of the American studios.

Art Zellner, scenario and production editor, entertained at a funeral party the first of the week when he and Charlotte Walker, Martha Mattox and several others tenderly buried the script after the final scenes had been taken. On a miniature headstone at the grave is the inscription, "Here lies the poor scenario; it suffered much."

Ruth Putnam, of the cutting room, is now busy with cutting of two pictures simultaneously.

G. S. Hunter, who was formerly connected with the photographic department of the American studios, has moved to Los Angeles to accept a position as still photographer with one of the companies on the Brunton lot.

W. A. Sinclair, the "Flying A" purchasing agent, received a large box of candy the first of the week addressed to the purchasing agent, and immediately called upon a few of his friends to help him dispose of the sweets. Then a card was found in the bottom of the box, signed by two young ladies, extending thanks for courtesies extended during a visit to the American studios. And Sinclair was mean enough to deliver the card and empty box to C. D. White, assistant studio manager, who was the one responsible for the entertainment of the ladies.

Eugene Lowry, who has been assistant to Director Burton George for the past few weeks, has returned to Los Angeles to accept a similar position with the Edith Storey company.

Director Burton George finished shooting on the Charlotte Walker feature this week and is now busy with the cutting and assembling of the film.

Al King, the hustling advertising manager of Camera, was a business visitor in Santa Barbara Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

E. P. Moore, chief still photographer, has recently perfected a special type of aero camera for the "Flying A" studios and has been securing some wonderful views of Santa Barbara and vicinity from the Loughead seaplane. A number of these photographs are now on exhibition and are attracting much favorable comment from all who have seen them.

MERRY MIXUP

The music that rang through the night air was refreshing, machines whirled up to the door, when along came Charles Chaplin accompanied by Henry Lehrman. They quickly stepped in and were seated at a table, when Roscoe Arbuckle loomed in sight, and he entered the same door, followed by Larry Semon and Lucille Carlisle, James W. Horne, his charming wife, kiddies and others, Antonio Moreno, George Beban. Frank Berzage and his friend wife (Rena Rogers), Lew Cody, Louis Gasinier, Will Rogers, Tom Mix and Victoria Forde, Mitchell Lewis, Russell Simpson, Fred Fishbach and wife (Ethel Lynne), Buster Keaton, Al St. John and wife, Albert Ray and wife, Earle Williams and wife, Kenneth Harlan, Lottie Pickford, James Morley, Tim McGrath, Viola Dana and party, Teddy Sampson, Eddie Ring, Louie and Oscar Jacobs, and hundreds of others of filmland.

Some brought their own packages, which in some cases revealed all sorts of beverages, others had their joy bottles safely locked up in their lockers, and helped themselves. As a side attraction, James W. Horne's little kiddies took the center of the floor and gave the visitors a glimpse of the cutest wrestling match ever staged between children. All went along lovely, till Joimes had to call a halt. The guests moved from table to table, renewing acquaintances, the sea was rocky for yours truly, and the ship didn't seem to move out to sea. I waited to see if the ship wasn't booked to sail, when I was informed that the Ship Cafe was there to stay.

Ross Lederman is assisting Roy Del Ruth, who in turn is directing Jack Cooper and Marvel Rea in a Fox-Sunshine comedy, while R. D. McLean is co-directing and turning the camera-crank, with Al Breslau handling the second camera.

Al Herman, who has been connected with Henry Lehrman for some time, has severed his connections with the latter, and has cast his lot with Fred Balshofer, who is going to produce both comedies and dramas at his old stand on Gordon street where the Bulls Eye Corp. up to recently held forth.

EDWARD S. CURTIS SUPERVISES CAMERA WORK

Cathrine Curtis has engaged Edward S. Curtis to supervise the camera work of Curtis productions.

In 1895, J. Pierpont Morgan realized that the first American—the Indian—would pass into oblivion unless speedily placed in his proper niche in the records of the world's history; and, with the help of Colonel Roosevelt, he selected Mr. Curtis, who even then of his own volition was obtaining photographic and ethnological history of the American Indian.

Mr. Curtis accepted the commission with the result that his monumental work is generally conceded today to be the most remarkable and exquisite pictorial achievement ever produced. The undertaking entailed an expenditure of more than a million dollars, the photogravures alone costing $600,000.

Out of Town—Louis Lowry, A. H. Litkie, Burt Wilson, Earle Lyman and J. Buckley Russell are lined up for a short time with the Fisher company at Santa Barbara.

To Direct—Clyde McCoy has been engaged to direct for Oakley Productions, Inc., and will start casting the first picture the coming week.

To Direct Cody—Ida May Park has been secured to direct Lewis Cody's third feature picture, and Jack Mower as leading male support.

Gayety Completes Release—The first release of a new brand of Gayety comedies, featuring George Ovey, has been completed. The first comedy of the new brand is entitled "Dropped Into Scandal," and was written and directed by Craig Hutchinson. Barney McGill is in charge for photography for all the Gayety releases.

A second Gayety comedy to follow "Dropped Into Scandal," has been started with George Ovey in a blackface role.

With National—Everett C. Maxwell, fiction, vaudeville and scenario writer, is now affiliated with the National Film corporation, having been placed by William Parsons under contract to do a series of comedies for "Smiling Bill."

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

Suggestions of how to overcome difficulties in getting locations, those who are in favor of the motion picture companies, and those who from time to time have made a practice of overcharging for use of locations, were touched upon. Such straight from the shoulder talks are going to do the industry a lot of good.

Since the assistant director is the man of the hour and is looked upon to protect the interests of the firm he is employed by, his mistakes sometimes are very costly. Still he is charged with thrice his crimes, while it remains up to him to keep harmony working overtime, everywhere he goes.

House-Warming for Club Rooms—The buffet-supper and dance given Thursday evening by the Actors' Association, at the new club rooms in Hollywood was a marked success. It was in the nature of a house-warming, and over four hundred people, many of them prominent in filmdom, attended the affair.

Credit for the beautiful decoration of the rooms belongs to Jack Webster. Festoons of fern, smilax and evergreen, with carnations intertwined, drooped from the ceiling, and the chandeliers were cleverly concealed behind shields of evergreen, while huge palms graced the corners of the hall.

To show appreciation for his indefatigable efforts in behalf of the Association, Frank Newburg was presented with a silver cigarette case. Mr. Newburg leaves shortly for Portland.

MyVea's orchestra furnished jazz music for dancing throughout the evening. A flashlight picture of the guests was taken by Stagg, the photographer, and a delicious supper was served at midnight.

The floor committee in charge of the affair consisted of Vera Lewis, chairman; Margaret Cullington, Daisy Robinson, Anne Shafer, Carl Miller and Howard Davies.

Among the guests were Misses Leona Ross, Clara Horton, Eugenie Ford, Betty Schade, Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish, Lucille Carlisle, Margaret McWade, Miss Greenberger, Messrs. John Lancaster, Thomas Jefferson, Carl Stockdale, Frank Stockdale, Charles French, Wallace Reid, Will Rogers, Henry B. Walthall, Frank Keenan, W. S. Van Dyke, Park Frame, Mitchell Lewis, Russell Simpson, George Hackathorne, Rudolph Valentino, Jack Webster, Ralph Lewis, Edward Peil, Lars Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McWade, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brammall, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Ayling, Mr. and Mrs. Vin Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Badger and Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Collins.

SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL. See Laskey Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Fay Tincher, Katherine Lewis, James Libby, Gertrude Selby and Harry Depp. Please submit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY. YOU MAKE ME TIRED!

You people who are always complaining about not having a chance to show what you can do. Why, if half of you were given the chance of a lifetime to play a big part in some picture you would fail miserably! You kick because you haven't a chance, and never stop to think that you probably aren't prepared. We prepare you for the biggest things. That's what we are here for. Facial expression, gestures, make-up, scene rehearsals, and actual screen tests, given at our own studio, give you the essentials and extras in Motion Pictutre Acting.

AMERICANS RETURNED

New York, September 19.

Dick Bernard, Hartley Manners, Laurette Taylor, Walter Jordan, and Maxine Elliott arrived in New York on the Aquitania September 12.

PRODUCERS IN SCRAMBLE

This week found producers in a wild scramble to unscramble tangled bookings and get shows speeded into rehearsal. It will be weeks before dates are whipped into shape. Most of the road routes were prepared early last spring . There is considerable confusion in clearing the road situation.

There is almost as much difficulty in getting casts complete, some actors having "walked out on the strike" and traveled as far as California, there to await a settlement.

The rush on scenic studios to complete productions and costumers to speed work is the order of the day.

VAUDEVILLE SHOW STIRS ARTISTS

Chicago, Sept. 15.

With mingled curiosity and indignation the vaudeville interests of Chicago received the announcement of a departure launched by the Commonwealth Pictures Co., H. A. Spanuth, president. The idea of the new films is a vaudeville show on the screen, and in the first release the following acts appear: Three Anchors, marine comedy act; Happy Harrison, trained monkey; Peppe and Stoddard, hoop rolling and club swinging; Lasere and Lasere, contortionists; Case and Fowler, eccentric dancers; "Why They Laugh in Vaudeville," paragraphs and gags.

Several angles about the departure met with the pronounced disapproval of artists and booking heads. The "Why They Laugh in Vaudeville" angle appears to be a screen repetition of what some newspapers have been running as Sunday features, showing on the screen the dialogue from vaudeville acts. As there is no assurance that these will be confined to material not in present use, and as there is no way of protecting such material against publication on a screen, the comedians are in fear that their stuff will be taken down and shown on the screens, thus taking the edge off it.

The bookers are not especially delighted at their acts showing on the screens in picture houses, which are even smaller time than the vaudeville stands where such acts play, and may issue an order announcing that turns giving their routines to movies will lose their value.

The press matter of the Commonwealth proved particularly offensive to the powers, especially the following verbatim excerpts:

"This monologue will contain all the latest and best jokes which have sent vaudeville audiences into peals of laughter, and they will undoubtedly bring just as big a laugh from the screen.

"By the use of Spanuth's Original Vod-a-Vil Movies the exhibitor cannot only give his audiences vaudeville and pictures, but the one reel contains all the attributes of an entire program. The thrills are all these in the daring trapeze acts; the art is there in the dancing and posing numbers, and the comedy is there in the joke section.

"Each of these novelty films contains five vaudeville acts besides this new joke section."

Shipman Film Goes Over Well— "Back to God's Country," the first picture to be produced by Nell Shipman's company in Canada, has been booked to appear at the Capitol Theatre in New York City following the Nazimova and Fairbanks features. Added glory is also bestowed upon the producers of this nature film by the fact that Sir John Cooper, the Canadian government representative, has requested a preview at Ottawa for the Duke of Devenshire and members of Parliament. This means also an appearance at Sandringham, England, by royal command of the British King for the first established Canadian film with a Canadian star.

COMMUNITY THEATRE IN BIG OPENING

The Hollywood Community Theatre's first production of its third season, beginning next Monday night, has chosen strong casts to lead off its new year.

Schnitzier's tragedy, played for the first time on any stage, "The Lady With the Dagger," will be played by Helen Eddy of the Mary Pickford Company; Charles Meredith, Morosco's leading man until he went with the Brentwood studios, and Harold Matthews, formerly with Mrs. Fiske, and Holbrook Blynn.

"Fame and the Poet," the newest play by Lord Dunsany, will be played by Reginald Pole, Dick Morgan and Ethel Rosin Tyroler.

"The Pot Boiler," a good comedy by Alice Gerstenberg ,author of the "Overtones," will be played by Harold Matthews, Charles Meredith, Ted Laman, Clyde McCoy, Clarke Marshall, Nita McNeil, Marie Benise and Antrim Short.

The Japanese idyll, "The Song of Lady Lotus Eyes," has a cast of favorite Community Theatre players—Barbara Gurney, Joyce Percey and Clarke Marshall.

WHEN WARNER OLAND DEMANDED BIG SALARY

Warner Oland, who plays the villain role in Elsie Ferguson's picture, "The Witness for the Defense," which is being presented at Grauman's Theatre this week, tells an amusing story about himself.

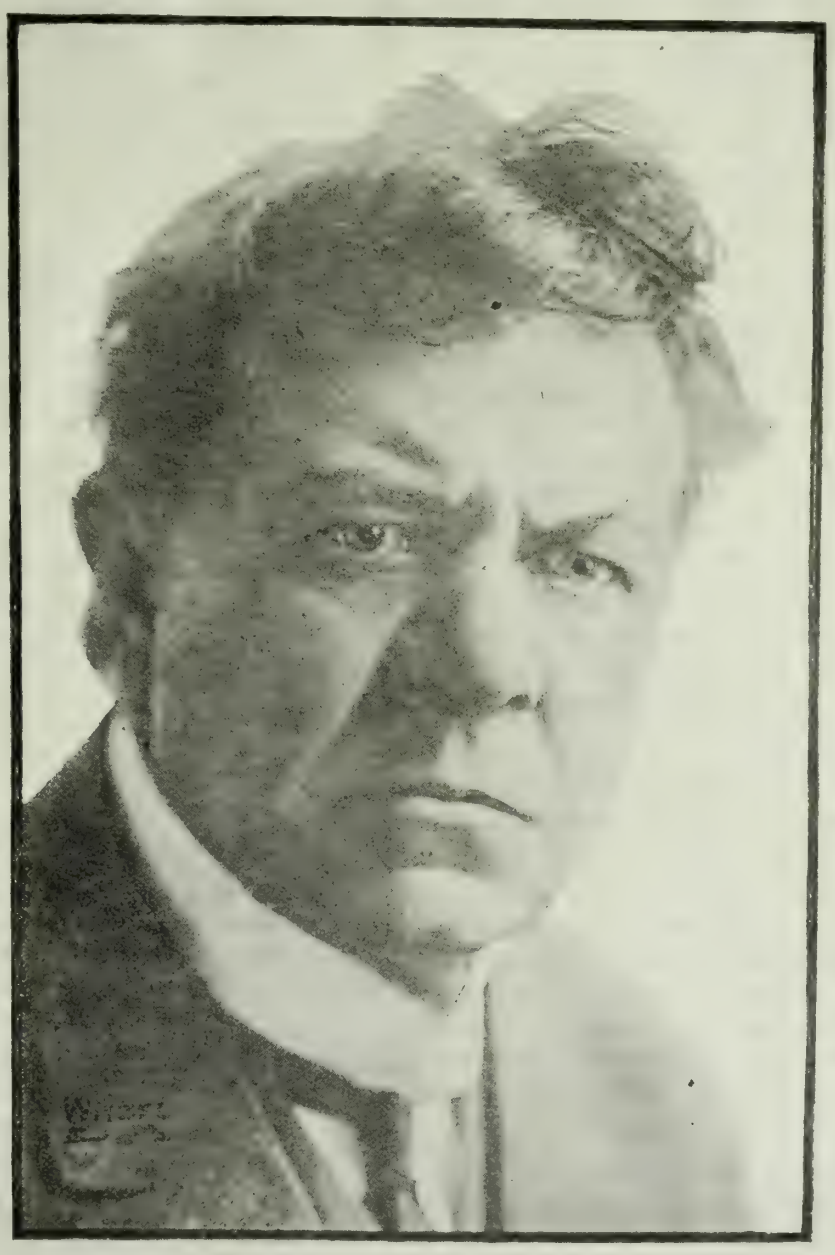
Before he became well known on the stage and in the movies, he was in Boston, a young man and quite satisfied with himself and his voice. A manager offered him an engagement to sing in one of the vaudeville theatres in that city. The salary offered was $15 a week. Mr. Oland refused it and told the manager that he had his price and he could not afford to work for less because it was against his principles.

MISS JOAN BOIESEN NOW SCENARIO EDITOR

Miss Joan Boiesen, who has been secretary to Douglas Fairbanks for many moons, and who has also assisted in handling his publicity, is now a full-fledged scenario editor at the Fairbanks studios.

Miss Boiesen has shown such a keen insight into the intricacies of story gathering, and her judgment in such matters has been of such value to the Fairbanks organiaztion, that her ability was recognized by placing her in the department that whips Mr. Fairbanks' screen vehicles into shape.

Her many friends will wish her success in her new department.



GEORGE FAWCETT

Mr. Fawcett will soon leave Los Angeles for New York City, where he will continue his film activities with another film company. For the past year Mr. Fawcett has been appearing in Griffith and Dorothy Gish features.

RETURN THAT CIGARET CASE TO MARK LARKIN

A gold and silver inlaid cigaret case given to Mark Larkin by Mary Pickford as a Christmas present has been lost by the owner. Just how it happened Mr. Larkin does not know.

He had the case in his possession when he left the studio on Melrose avenue, and it was lost somewhere between that point and Broadway and First street. Mr. Larkin is Miss Pickford's personal representative and he values the cigaret case very highly.

During a recent visit to San Francosco, Frank Keenan, in making a speech from the stage of a theatre, said: "I want to do something more than produce a play without any meaning to it. I want to leave a heritage to my grandchildren. I have grandchildren, but you wouldn't think it. I'm a young man; I live young, I think young and with the help of God I'll die young. When an old acquaintance says to me that we are getting on in years, I run away from him and let him talk to himself. I don't associate with old men."

In the lobby of the theatre an elderly woman stepped up to Mr. Keenan and said:

"Mr. Keenan, may I shake hands with you?"

"Why, certainly," replied the veteran star.

"I've been an admirer of yours for 35 years," said the lady.

"Not so loud," whispered Keenan. "I just told the audience I was a young fellow," and with this the two had another handshake and a hearty laugh.

The fire last Friday night which destroyed the studio of the Alkire Photoplay Co. in Edendale will not interfere in any way with that company's production of two-reel comedy dramas. According to Walter H. Alkire, president of the company, plans were rushed and work is now in progress on reconstruction on a larger scale of a studio building to accommodate several working companies and the very latest type of equipment will be installed. Meanwhile production of "An Ace in the Hole," featuring Marshall Mackaye, are proceeding, and the filming will start on Monday on the one stage remaining undamaged.

TO THE BUSINESS MEN OF HOLLYWOOD

There has never before been so great an opportunity to encourage the youth of our community, and to make them proud of their locality as at the present. There are possibilities of the Hollywood business men getting together and securing the Vernon ball team for Hollywood.

The majority of people living in Hollywood are now compelled to look elsewhere for their amusements and recreation. If proper co-operation is shown and this object is gained, innumerable advantages to Hollywood will result. This suggestion is made in view of actual facts. We invite the opinion of others in this matter, and sincerely hope that the project will be carried further.

Let Hollywood consider the prospect of building an athletic club. This is undoubtedly needed more than any other attraction for the Hollywood community. We feel assured that the people of the motion picture industry would give their enthusiastic support and co-operation in any proposed affair of this kind.

A SUGGESTION TO THE PHOTOPLAY EQUITY

The original intention of the organizers of the Photoplayers Equity Association was that the majority of the members should be artists of note and that their dignity should be upheld.

However, at present there are few inducements put forth to attract them to the Equity. Now that the Association has passed over its rough spots, weathered the storms, the producer realizes its true value —that there has not been the slightest breach in the plan of co-operation. The Equity's promise has been kept for two years, and indications are that it will continue to be kept. Not only is it an economic plan, but benevolent as well as monetary.

The Equity is now planning a campaign for membership. Few who really know the rules and workings of the Equity doubt the many advantages offered to its members. But, before starting this membership drive why not make it more worth while by establishing a senior membership making the qualifications as follows:

Any actor whose name has appeared on the screen at least five times (or three times, as may be decided) will be eligible to senior membership.

It appears that this would be an easy way to establish the known actor as a senior member, rather than having a committee try to analyze and judge the individuals' historic proclivities.

The qualifications for junior membership could remain as at present, that is to say: Any actor, actress or photoplayer securing a recommendation of a theatrical or motion picture director, shall be entitled to junior membership.

This will give the junior members' ambition a prize to look forward to. To acquire his seniority will give him pride.

In analyzing this you will see the encouragement it will give to the small bit player, many of whom have had one or two screen credits and hopes of others.

It would be hard to believe that there is a star who would be so aloof as to with-hold himself from such associates as the qualified members would of necessity be.

Think it over.

September 12th, 1919.

My Dear Robbins:

Having read with considerable interest and much pleasure the two editorials in Camera! of August 30th and September 6th, the paragraph in editorial of September 6th, wherein you write of the humble beginning of Camera!, how you and partner Ray and the Mrs. used to toil and sweat over a Washington hand press besmeared with printer's ink of a Sunday morning, particularly interested me.

To watch you and partners working tooth and nail to get out the little four sheet was certainly inspiring.

Well do I remember passing by on may way to the studio of a Sunday morning and being a witness of what you state, and you probably remember how I used to shout to you: "Drill, you terriers, drill."

To my mind though, old top, your picture was incomplete, for you said nothing of Kid Robbins not six feet away from daddy and mumsy and Partner Ray in his little stockade playing with old type and block cuts to keep him out of mischief, while "everybody worked but Kid Robbins."

Often as I was a witness of this scene, the thought always uppermost in my mind was that if ever an enterprise deserved success yours did, and as I have watched its growth from its humble beginning I am proud to have been one of Camera!'s first subscribers when subscribers were needed, though not one of the "supporters" ha! ha! you mention, and who seem to think Camera! can't exist without them.

My good thoughts were always with you all and I firmly believe that "all those upon whom your good thoughts rest are thereby benefitted."

May you hand your self-styled "supporters" a few more thinks such as you handed them in your editorials and may you continue to prosper until success in its fullest sense crowns your efforts, is the sincere wish of,

Yours cordially,

ADOLPHE LESTINA.

FRANCIS WILSON MAKES STATEMENT

There seems to be very little to say about the matter of the settlement between the managers and the actors except that all is over and that it will all result in the managers being better managers and the actors better actors, and the public is also going to gain infinitely.

Anybody who has even a slight acquaintance with the history of revolutions—and the recent strike was a revolution, and nothing less, in the dramatic world—knows very well that the period of readjustment following a revolution is one fraught with a great deal of misunderstanding, not to say danger.

There are bound to be people who have misunderstood the situation; people who feel that not enough has been exacted or granted; people who feel that if they had their way they could have conducted the strike a good deal more successfully than those who have had it especially in hand.

In this contest not all has been gained that many people of our profession would have liked, but it is an incontestable fact that more has been gained than was asked, and that this has been signed, sealed and delivered.

It is fine to be able to say that nearly all of those who misunderstood or seemed unreasonable as to the result of the settlement have been satisfied and made due acknowledgment thereof. There have been complaints that the terms after the prolongation of the strike should have been changed and insistence made for additional conditions. To me this would have been a fatal error, because it would have turned away the sympathy of the public (and I think that it is incontestable that the actors had from the first the sympathy of the public), which was largely attraced to us by the insistence, as well as the persistence, of our demands, and there was never any shifting from the beginning to the end. The keystone of our demand was for recognition, and we got it. This and the other demands will greatly benefit the conditions under which the actor will labor, and, to my thinking, will make for better acting and better management than has ever before prevailed.

Actors will have a greater sense of independence because of the power of their association, which speaks for them, saving them the necessity of embarrassing personal dispute or contention; and managers, in their acknowledgment of the rights of an individual to be represented by counsel and the right of the individual to collective representatioon, have brought themselves more closely in harmony with the trend of modern thought.

That seems to be about all there is to it.

(Signed) Francis Wilson.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

New Leading Lady—Mabel Juliene Scott has been engaged by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to play leading parts opposite male stars of the organization in the West Coast studios, and arrived this week from the East.

Houdini at Work—Houdini is back on the job at the Lasky studio and is engaged in preparing for a new production, which will be directed by James Cruze.

Warwick Finishing—Robert Warwick will shortly complete "The Tree of Knowledge," under direction of William C. DeMille, and will then begin work on W. Somerset Maughm's play, "Jack Straw." Mr. DeMille will also direct this production, and the scenario will be written by Beulah Marie Dix.

New Director—Sam Wood in a short time will begin his first directorial work with Wallace Reid as star in the Paramount-Artcraft picture, "Speed Carr," written by J. S. Woodhouse. Mr. Wood has been an assistant director for Cecil B. DeMille for a number of months and has a real practical knowledge of the difficult art of direction.

Washburn Returns—Bryant Washburn is in Chicago making the finishing scenes for "It Pays to Advertise," with Donald Crisp as director, and returns next week to Hollywood, when he will begin work on "Too Much Johnson," the William Gillette farce-comedy. Donald Crisp will again direct.

DeMille Busy—Cecil B. DeMille is still in the first stages of "Why Change Your Wife." Among those in the cast are Thomas Meighan, Gloria Swanson, Bebe Daniels,, Theodore Kosloff and others.

Clayton Finishing—Ethel Clayton is about through with "More Deadly Than the Male," which was written by Joseph Gollomb, and in a very short time will start work on "The Thirteenth Commandment," again directed by Robert G. Vignola. This is a story of New York life by Rupert Hughes.

Curtis Corporation Leaves—Catherine Curtis left Los Angeles this week for the Coeur d'Alene country in Northern Idaho, where the exterior scenes will be filmed for the first Curtis production. The cast includes such names as Tom Sanstchi, Lester Cuneo and Alfred Allen.

Arriving at Spokane the company will establish headquarters for the transaction of office business affairs. Then they will proceed to the headwaters of the St. Joe river in what is known as the Panhandle of Idaho, where they will establish a camp. This will serve as a base of operations.

In addition to Miss Curtis and the members of the cast, others making the trip include George Foster Platt, who will direct the production under the supervision of Miss Curtis; Edward S. Curtis, supervisor of photography; Homer Scott, cameraman; Jimmy Bowan, assistant director; H. B. King, business manager; Garret S. Veeder, brother-in-law of Miss Curtis; Maurice L. Brennan, auditor; Miss Catherine Traynor, private secretary to Miss Curtis; Guy Newhardt, private secretary to Mr. Platt, and Kenneth O'Hara, news director.

The company expects to be encamped in the Northwest about two months.

On Location—Zane Grey leaves Los Angeles this week on an expedition into new country in search of story material. With Mr. Grey will be his old guide, Al Doyle; a Texas ranger and frontiersman, Lee Haught, and an educated Indian friend of the famous novelist, who will lead the party to untrammeled ground in the desest mountains of Arizona. Eight horses and a full outfit will be taken from Los Angeles. He will be gone for an indefinite period — from three months to a year.

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

Hall With Williams—George Hall has been cast as a Japanese heavy with Earle Williams in his forthcoming production, "The Far East," work on which started last week. Mr. Hall will be remembered for his characterization of the Japanese spy in the Irene Castle serial, "Patria."

Corbett Feature—James J. Corbett is to be featured by the Universal company in "The Prince of Avenue A." Heretofore Corbett has been starred only in serials. Charles T. Dazey is the author of the new play.

Stephanoff to Chicago—Robert Stephanoff, the Russian actor, has departed for Chicago. Mr. Stephanoff has business interests in the East, but plans to return to Los Angeles by the first of the year.

Leaving for Chicago — Emerson Hough, the famous novelist, leaves Los Angeles this week for his home in Chicago. Mr. Hough is accompanied by his wife, the Houghs having come from an extensive vacation trip in Idaho a month ago to co-operate with Benjamin B. Hampton, the motion picture producer, in filming a special all-star production of one of the author's best-sellers.

Loaned—Miss Irene Rich, leading lady for Will Rogers, has been loaned between that star's pictures to another Goldwyn company. She takes one of the principal roles in "The Street Called Straight," an Eminent Authors production of the famous Basil King novel.

Prominent Men Arrive—Eltinge F. Warner, publisher of Field and Stream, Smart Set and other magazines, and Charles A. Weeks, general manager of Federal Photoplays, Inc., arrived from New York this week to consult with Benjamin B. Hampton, president of Federal Photoplays, on matters of business of the corporation and to see the filming of two productions now under way on the West Coast.

Swastika Film Corporation, 309 Lissner Bldg., Los Angeles: In market for five-reel dramas with good moral uplift theme, and for comedies and Westerns, short subjects.

UNIVERSAL NOTES

Work has started at Universal City on "The Virgin of Stamboul," Priscilla Dean's protodrama of Constantinople. The story was written by H. H. Van Loan and adapteu to the screen by William Parker. Tod Browning is directing the star in the production.

Dorothy Phillips is well into the theme of "Ambition."

Tsuru Ooki (Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa) will finish filming "The Breath of the Gods" this week and will shortly thereafer begin production on a protodrama called "The Yellow Orchid." Rollin S. Sturgeon is directing the star.

Al Santell is well started on a laugh-drama. It is called "Hot Tamale."

The fourth episode of "The Lion Man," filmed from "The Strange Case of Cavendish," has been completed. The successful novel by Randall Parrish is to be shown in chaptered form with Kathleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin starring.

Count Eric von Stroheim is at work on another feature. It is to be called "The Woman in the Plot." The count plays a part as well as directs. The initial showing of "Blind Husbands" was under the title of "The Pinnacle."

The cast for "The Pedlar of Lies," which Universal is producing, is very nearly completed. This well known Saturday Evening Post story was written by Henry C. Rowland under the title, "The Pedlar.' Frank Mayo portrays the title role, while Ora Carew plays opposite him. Ray Ripley, recently of "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," and Dagmar Godowsky have prominent roles.

William C. Dowlan is handling the megaphone on "The Pedlar of Lies."

Director Norman Dawn has returned from the cattle country, where the stampede scenes of "Lasca" were made. A few more interior scenes will see this picture completed. Its featured players are Frank Mayo, Edith Roberts and Veola Harty.

The Harry Carey company, under the direction of Jack Ford, is still braving the torrid heat of the California sands south of Victorville, where it has been for the past week, engaged on "The Gift of the Desert." Carey's support includes Winifred Westover, J. Farrell McDonald, Charles LeMoyne, Nancy Chase, Jack Woods, Wilmer Paquette, Joe Harris, Ted Brooks. Otto Myers, Harley Chambers and Ed Jones.

Hoot Gibson, assisted by Josephine Hill, has begun a new Western two-reeler for Universal, called "A Lone Hand." George Holt is directing.

Work has begun at Universal City on the fifth episode of "The Lion Man," the Universal serial starring aKthleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin. The current chapter employs the services of Henry Barrows, Gertrude Astor, Slim Pagett, Robert Walker, Phil Gastrock and Leonard Clapham, in addition to the stars.

Florence Turner has finished her latest Universal comedy, "The Health Farm," in which she is assisted by Hal Wilson and Lester Marsh, and will begin work on a new rib-tickler in the next few days.

Elmo Lincoln and supporting company, appearing in the big Universal special, "The Beach Comber," directed by Rex Ingram, have returned from a week's sojourn at Laguna Beach, where water scenes were made. The production is expected to be finished before the end of the week.

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran have finished "Small Town Stuff" and are ready to start on a new mirth-provoker.

With four producing units of the Universal now touring the far reaches of the Old World, a fifth expedition is on its way to the Orient. Under the direction of Henry McRae, one of America's most widely known directors, a Universal company left for the Far East, where the film will be made in Japan, China, the Philippines, India and Siberia. The company journeys afar to produce "The Petals of Lao-Tze," by J. Allen Dunn, the noted Californian. The company carries a complete portable film laboratory and left Universal City with 168,000 feet of motion picture film.

Francelia Billington, Barney Sherry and Gloria Hope will have the leading roles in "The Day She Paid." The production is based on a magazine story by Fanny Hurst, which appeared in the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Art Acord, the Universal cowboy star, who is soon to begin work on a serial feature called "The Man Hunter," under the direction of Reeves Eason, has issued a challenge to all Western stars in the Los Angeles studios to compete with him at the Stampede, which will be held in the film metropolis next month.

Currier in Melodrama—Frank Currier has been engaged to play Alice Lake's father in "Should a Woman Tell?", the original melodrama by Finis Fox.

Forrest at Metro—Alan Forrest has signed a contract with Metro as May Allison's leading man in "The Walk-Offs," the Screen Classics, Inc., production soon to be started.

With Bert ytell—Antrim Short has been added to the cast of "The Right of Way," by Sir Gilbert Parker, in which Bert Lytell will star.

His Boyhood Pastime—Finis Fox's favorite pastime when a boy was selecting a nice, large woodpile, imagining every stick of wood a dignified Roman.

Fishing — Robert McKim, screen heavy, who plays the part of Marsh in the latest Rex Beach production, "The Silver Horde," which is being directed at the Goldwyn Studios by Frank Lloyd, spent Sunday at Catalina Island indulging in sword fishing.

On Location—Director T. Hayes Hunter, directing the Eminent Authors Production of Rupert Hughes' "The Cup of Fury," leaves the Goldwyn Studios this week to spend several days in San Pedro securing exterior scenes and shipping episodes. Helene Chadwick and Rockcliffe Fellows are the two leading players, with Flarence Deshon, Herbert Standing, and others in the excellent cast. They will stage a big explosion as a part of this well known story.

Goldwyn Features — Two notable stage successes of last season have been secured by Goldwyn Picture Corporation. "The Woman in Room 13," and "Roads of Destiny," both A. H. Woods productions originally, will be screened with Pauline Frederick in the star roles. The selection of these plays is the first important development following upon the recent amalgamation of the interest of Shuberts, Selwyns, and Mr. Woods with Goldwyn, by which the latter has the first film rights to any of the productions of the three producing houses.

"Roads of Destiny" was written by Channing Pollock. It was suggested to that versatile dramatist by the famous story of the same name from the pen of O. Henry. Florence Reed was starred in the play, which won critical and popular applause. "The Woman in Room 13" was a happy composite from the imaginations of Percival Wilde, Max Marcin and Samuel Shipman. "Like "Roads of Destiny" it was a great success. A notable cast presented the play, including Gail Kane, Lowell Sherman, Janet Beecher, and others equally well known.

Character Role—In the new Pauline Frederick picture now in course of production at the Goldwyn studio, under the direction of Mr. William Parke, James Neill is seen in a role reminiscent of David Warfield's performance in "The Music Master."

New Scenario Man—Eugene Mullen, well known scenario writer, who has been acting as script editor for a western producing company, has joined the Goldwyn editorial staff. He will cooperate with Thompson Buchanan under the supervision of J. G. Hawks. With eight companies working full blast, it becomes a tremendous task to supply continuities for each director, hence the recent additions to this department.

Warburton Gamble, the latest arrival from New York, has started work in the new Pauline Frederick picture under the direction of William Parke.

Enid Bennett's New Picture—"The Woman in the Suitcase" is the title for the new Enid Bennett picture, which was begun the past week at the Thomas H. Ince Studio in Culver City.

J. Parker Read, Sr., has returned from South America, and is the guest of his son J. Parker Read, Jr., at his home in Culver City.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

Semnacker Dinner—Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Al Semnacker entertained with a dinner party a very interesting group of motion picture people. After dinner the guests enjoyed a quiet evening of informal visiting. Those who were present are Ruth Roland, Edith Johnson, Louise Lovely, Beverly Traverse, Fritzi Remont, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Cline, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, Wallace MacDonald, William Duncan, Al Riethe, Wilton Welch, Harry Rankin, Harry Bochme and Richard Stier.

Farewell Reception—Among the many farewell entertainments arranged in honor of Otto Lederer, perhaps the most appreciated was that given by the "boys" of the Western Costuming Company. As the crowning affair, of the dinner, the "boys" presented Mr. Lederer with a beautiful gold cigarette case, with his name and the donors' engraved upon the inside—surely a fitting tribute to real friendship.

Week-end Hunting—The Rhodes hunting party will fare forth again as usual this week-end in search of Brer Rabbit at Fairbrook, Antelope Valley. Those enjoying the trip are Mrs. Gladys Rhodes, Miss Birthday Dance—The Roberts home in Hollywood was the scene of much festivity last Wednesday evening, when a dinner-dance was given in honor of Miss Edith Roberts' birthday. The delightful dinner was finished with the cutting and serving of the beautiful birthday cake by Miss Roberts. After this formality the guests danced to the music of a five-piece "jazz" orchestra until the wee sma' hours.

Among those participating in the natal celebrations were the Misses Violet Schram, Helen Jacobs, Ruth Clifford, and the Messrs. James Finn, Neal Burn, Ray C. Roberts, Harvey Preister, Donald McCarthy and Louis Jacobs, with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Kline, Mr. and Mrs. B. Asher and Mrs. Ed Mitchell.

Wednesday Tea—Miss Marjory Miller, of the St. Francis Court, entertained at tea Wednesday afternoon. Among Miss Miller's guests were Mrs. A. Garvey, Mrs. I. T. Smith, Mrs. Carpenter, Mrs. William C. Dowlan and Miss Harriet Dowlan.

Browning Dinner—Mr. Tod Browning entertained a number of friends at dinner in the Alexandria dining-room last Sunday evening. Mr. Browning's guests were Mr. and Mrs. David Butler, Mr. and Mrs. L.H.Schwab,Mr. Leo Carey and Mrs. C. Houghton.

Miss Hollister Entertains—Miss Flo Hollister, one of the principal players in the Dowlan company, gave a dinner at the Hollywood Hotel Monday night for Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Dowlan and Miss Harriet Dowlan.

Lloyd Convalescing—Mr. Harold Lloyd has recovered sumciently from his recent accident to leave the hospital. He still retains a trained nurse and is convalescing at his Wilshire home.

Miss Daw Returns—Miss Marjorie Daw returned Monday from New York, where she has been vacationing for the past month. Miss Daw will start work shortly on a feature picture, under Marshall Neilan's direction.

Mrs. Moses Entertains—A dinner party was given by Mrs. Moses at her Oxford avenue home Saturday evening, with a group of Studio Club girls as guests. Those who enjoyed Mrs. Moses' hospitality were: Misses Grace Fosdick, Sarah Mason, Gertrude Sutherland Griffith, Peggy Hagar, Agnes Weiner, Violet Clark, Eleanor Moses, Nell Newman, Miss Hunter and Miss Harris.

Studio Club Gives Pantomime—The Studio Club gave one of its most attractive affairs last Friday evening, when the girls of the club entertained two hundred guests in honor of Miss Hunter, the new recreation worker.

A beautiful pantomime, with Miss Julanne Johnston in the solo part, was given. Misses Peggy Hagar, Helen Eddy, Auretha Pickering, Nelly Warrington, Gladys Carley and Yvette Mitchell also took part.

The stage settings were arranged through the courtesy of the Lasky Studios and the Community Theater, and much credit should be given the three scenic artists, Mr. Hodge, Mr. Earl Pearsall and Mr. Larson, for their work.

Dancing followed the pantomime, and among the guests were Count and Countess Tambourini, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. DeMille, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Pinney Earle, Mr. and Mrs. Pickering, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Kahn, Mr. and Mrs. Al Cohen, Misses Pauline Starke, Helen Eddy, Za Su Pitts, Sarah Mason, Violet Clark, Nell Newman, Messrs. Eddie Sutherland, George Beban, Jack Gilbert, Wallace MacDonald, Leonard Smith, Mr. Dowell and Mr. Moriarty. The chaperones were Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Johnstone.

Mitchell's Dance Plans—Mitchell von Preissig is making big plans for the entertainment of the Hollywood crowd at his dances at the Woman's Clubhouse this winter.

He has secured the services of the McVea's Howdy Orchestra for the season, and the four colored harmony-makers promise to inject pep. In addition to the new Darktown music Jimmy Mitchell is arranging a series of Star Nights and dancing compositions. The first of the Star Nights and dancing contests took place on the sixth, with Wally Reid on deck. The second occurred Wednesday night, when many of the Vitagraph Studio crowd were present to enjoy the party. Jimmy Aubrey, the Vitagraph comedy star, was the guest of honor, and he presented to the winners of a medley dancing contest a beautifully engraved silver cup. Of course it is to be expected that the Vitagraph representation will be greater tonight than that of any other studio.

FRANK KEENAN

FRANCIS GRANDON

By Mildred Davis

Francis Grandon was a pioneer in motion pictures. He was one of the few in the old, old days who had the courage and the faith to forge ahead in an unknown and scorned field.

Many years ago, wnen Mr. Griffith and his little stock company were still at the old Biograph studio in New York City, and before picture producers had moved west, Francis Grandon was a member of a stock company in Columbus. The show closed and he went to New York, where he formed the firm intention of entering picture work, if possible, or at least finding out something about the new art. To him it was not an art, just a new business of a sort, for which he had very little respect but much curiosity.

So Grandon visited the Biograph studio, where he applied for extra work as his only hope of getting inside the studio, to find out what it was all about. But, no, they did not need any extra talent. The persistent Mr. Grandon ignored the cue to be on his way. He stayed about the door leading into the studio, hoping that someone would appear there to whom he could present his case. He waited, and the first person who came through the door was the little property boy, whistling gayly. He was immediately commissioned to carry the Grandon card in to Mr. Griffith. Now, Master Robert Harron, the "props" kid, then possessed the amiable disposition which he still retains, so with an emphatic "Sure," he trotted in with the card.

Mr. Grandon was interviewed and told to return the next day to do a small part. He continued with the Griffith company and was soon put in stock. When they left New York for California, Mr. Kirkwood resigned and Francis took his place. For two and one-half years Grandon acted in pictures but he studied constantly with the ultimate desire of becoming a director.

When he finally felt that he could begin directing one of the first people he directed was Mary Pickford. She was then the highest paid star in pictures, receiving the fabulous sum of one hundred seventy-five dollars each week. Mr. Grandon remembers distinctly how incredible this amount seemed to everyone knowing about it.

For the Imp, with Carl Leammle, in New York City Grandon directed. His leading people in most of the Imp pictures were Ethel Grandon and Margarita Fisher. After a long stay with Imp Mr. Grandon went over to Lubin where he directed Clara Williams and Edgar Jones as co-stars.

One of the interesting features of Mr. Grandon's early directorial days was a two-reel submarine picture. J. Parker Reed collaborated on the story, and much time and thought was spent on technical preparation, a rare thing in those earlier days. Oddly enough, the idea and some of the details were similar to a recent vaudeville act. But withal, Mr. Grandon's picture was more plausible and undoubtedly more sensational, showing a sincere application which has been evident in all his productions.

It was about six years ago that Grandon left Lubin and joined the Selig forces. He now developed another important point in his own career, and in the evolution of motion pictures, for he produced the first serial. That was "The Adventures of Kathlyn," starring Kathlyn Williams. Mr. Grandon declares that the production of this serial was a serious undertaking, an adventure and a real pleasure. And we feel that no serial since has surpassed it for real worth, and few have equalled it.

Since the "Adventures of Kathlyn" period Mr. Grandon has traveled east, west, north and south directing stars with practically every company. The list of feature pictures to his credit include such stars as Ann Pennington, Doris Kenyon, Mme. Olga Petrova, Gail Kane, Henry Walthall and Jack Pickford.

The dear old bromide about history repeating itself, etc., presents itself for once more Mr. Grandon is at the Selig Zoo in Los Angeles directing an animal serial. He is relieving Mr. Martin who began the serial but was unable to continue because of illness.

When his present work is finished Mr. Grandon will begin direction of a series of six-reel features in which Lottie Pickford will be starred at the Brunton Studio. A well known magazine story will furnish material for the first scenario which Mr. Grandon is now working over. So, in a few weeks he will have run the entire Pickford gamut, which is certainly not such a poor record for one director.

Francis Grandon has presented many successful pictures in the past, and we feel that all his future achievements will be successful in so far as it is possible for his personal endeavor to reach.

Seigmann With Tucker—George Seigmann has become a member of Allan Dwan's forces. Arthur Rosson and James Hogan are working on production while the photographic staff consists of H. Lyman Broening, Glen McWilliams, Hal Rosson and L. W. McConnell. Among the well known artists working in Mr. Dwan's productions are Norman Kerry, Henry B. Walthall, Ward Crane, James Kirkwood, Anna Q. Nilsson, Rosemary Theby, Ann Forrest, Hardee Kirkland, Thomas Jefferson and others of equal note.

The Gift Supreme—The J. R. McCauley Co. (Humanity Film Co.) have bought the film rights of George Allen England's book, "The Gift Supreme," and will start producing in under two weeks at the Brunton Studio. J. R. McClosky is at present writing the continuity and will co-direct with Ollie Sellers and J. McKenzie will turn the camera. Bernie Durning will again play the lead supported by a strong cast.

Mickey Promoted—Mickey Whalen has been promoted to second cameraman at Metro.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Sam Rork says that everything is in readiness for the Katherine McDonald company to start working the first of the week.

Colin Campbell was seen about the Universal the other day. Guess he is going to rent some of their locations for the picture that he is directing with Dusty Farnum.

Art Acord and Mildred Moore are being directed in a two-reel Western story by Reaves Eason out at the Big U,; the latter is being assisted by Henry Murray.

Helen Gibson has located at the Capital studio, where she will produce her own pictures.

Chester Bennett is directing Earle Williams at the Vitagraph studio.

Hank Mann is writing finis to his present picture, which brings to a close his present contract with an Eastern firm for whom he was producing twelve one-reel subjects, under the management of M. R. Schlang. He expects to close another contract within a couple of days.

Hampton Del Ruth is keeping his directorial staff busy these days producing Fox-Sunshine comedies. Since that corporation has started to release these subjects, it's up to him to keep turning 'em out.

Otto Lederer is making the trip to Japan with the McRea company, doing a character part.

Hazel Dean, who used to face the Fox-Sunshine cameras, has just finished with the Hank Mann company out at Horsley's studio.

Larry Semon has written finis to a cabaret story that he has been producing for the Big V.

Dot Farley and Phil Dunham are being directed by Vin Moore in a two-reel comedy subject for the LK-O interests.

Nelson McDowell has been engaged to appear in the Stuart Payton company serial now in the making at the Santa Monico studio.

E. R. Hinds, cameraman, is on his way to Japan with the McRea company, having charge of the photography and laboratory work of that organiaztion.

Eddie Polo writes from England that three of his pectures were shown to King George and his family at the palace, and that he will soon be back home.

Fred Bond expects to direct two-reel comedy-dramas for a corporation which will produce their subjects at Niles, California, where the Essaney company held forth in days of yore.

Marshall Neilan is back and we can expect to hear some interesting things about his future plans.

Chas. Doherty is taking a rest. The Bull's Eye studio have discontinued his company for the time being, and he and his director, Chas. J. Parrott, expect to get busy soon at another plant.

Monroe Salisbury is sporting a new car; saw him being chauffeured down Hollywood boulevard.

Frank Lawrence has gone in for aviation, and has had built one of the latest type of aeroplanes, which he entered in the free for all race last Sunday that started from the Mercury Field.

Jimmy Adams is risking his neck daily working with lions at the L-KO studio under the direction of Fred Fishbach.

Monte Banks is being directed by Orth Heatling at the L-Ko studio, where the pair are rambling along at top speed.

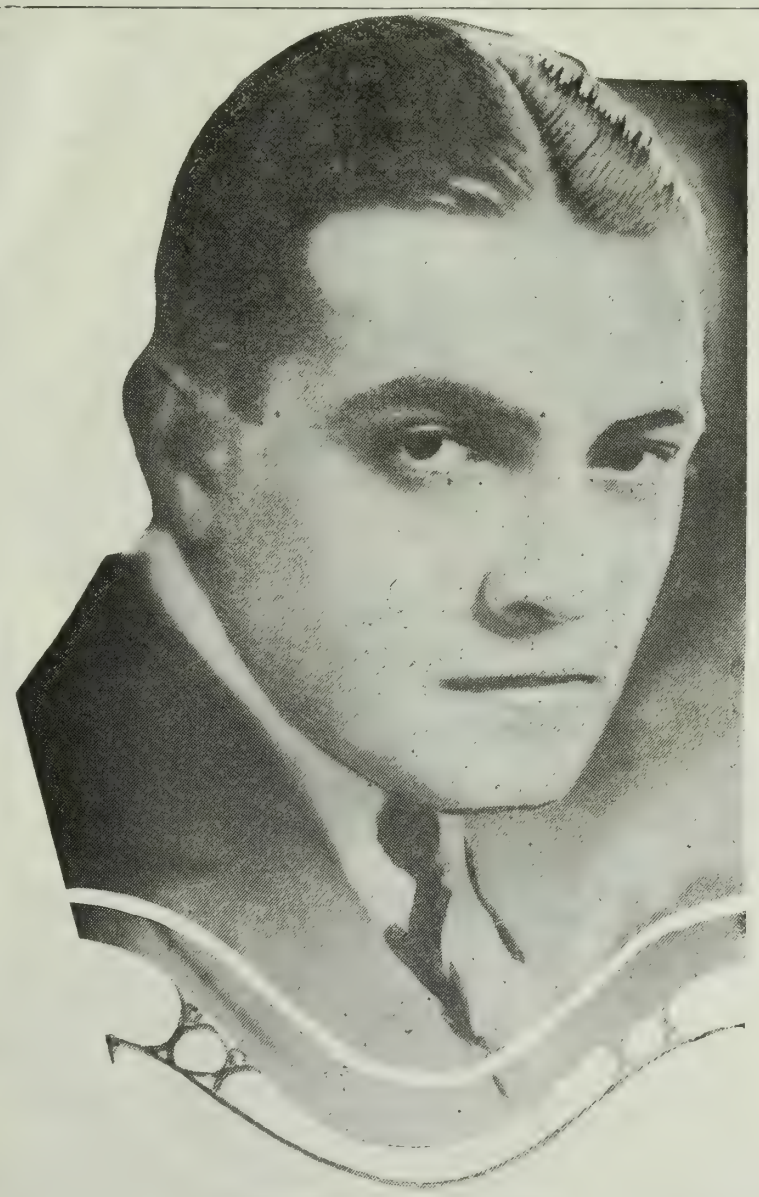
Chas. Dudley joins the Henry Lehrman forces, after working in one picture for Fred. Fishbach, where he went after severing connections with the Fox-Sunshine company.

Fontine La Rue has returned from San Francisco, where the Stuart Payton company filmed some scenes of her while en route on the boat and in 'Frisco.

Martin Murphy has several his connection with the Universal and cast his lot with the Stuart Payton company at Santa Monica, where he is to act in the capacity of studio manager.

Bobby Vernon has been spending a week's vacation at the beach with friend wife. They return Sunday, and Robert goes back to work Monday at Christie's studio.

Paddy McGuire is laying off temporarily while the pictures he worked in for the Miller Corporation are rushed to New York and shown to the powers that be.



RICHARD BARTHELMESS

Who may be seen this week in a wonderful character portrayal of "The Chink," in D. W. Griffith's "Broken Blossoms."

Major Allen has finished his contract with the Universal, where he was slated to produce three wild animal subjects. He will start on a lecture tour about the country, exhibiting his pectures.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven have three more comedies to make for the National, then they will cast their lot with the Paramount Comporation.

Bob McKenzie is playing a part for Jesse Robbins, who is producing a series of comedies with the Chinese comedian, Shai Hung, Charlie Chaplin's imitator.

Al Santell is to direct animal comedies with Joe Martin as the stellar star out at the Universal after he finishes his present story. He is being assisted by Joe McDonough.

M. S. Pebbles, who assists Larry Semon, has been on the sick list for the past week and will take a trip to health springs to rest up and recuperate.

Eunice Moore is spending her vacation at the expense of a well-known film corporation, who is building its studio down in Santa Monica.

Henry McRea got away last week for Japan, where he is to continue the serial that he started here with Marie Walcamp.

Slim Cole is working with the William Duncan company, doing "Slim Tom," or something like that; at any rate he is pulling some of his wild stunts, and I'm told that we can expect to see Slim featured in two-reel Western thrillers very shortly, doing his stunts on a motorcycle, which is unique in itself, when one knows he must mix up with horses, bulls and steers to perform his stunts.

Pat Rooney has gone and done it—shaved his whiskers and trimmed his hair. Looks like a young juvenile.

Harry Pollard has at last arrived. He is now a star in his own right. The Rollin Film Company is featuring him in a series of comedies. He has been playing opposite Harold Lloyd for many moons.

Helen Lynch is playing opposite Jimmy Aubrey at the Big V studio, under the direction of Noel Smith.

FILM BIBLE STORIES

The Excelsis Film Corporation, capitalized at $500,000, will make modernized versions of biblical stories under the direction of Frederick Vroon, who has just finished acting in a Lew Cody production. Local clergymen and business men are sponsoring the project. Moulton's version of Job, Ralph Connor's "Sky Pilot," Sheldon's "Crucifixion of Philip Strong" and "His Brother's Keeper" will be produced. Work already has begun on "Three Short-Sighted Fools" an "up-to-date cinedramatization of Christ's parable of the men who were invited to the wedding feast but refused."

Within the next few months thousands of churches and schools will become available for the purpose of screen entertainments. The Screen Entertainment Distributors, Inc., through a deal with the heads of the Inter-Allied Church Movement, which includes every sect with the exception of the Catholic Church, will have the furnishing of screen features for the various churches, colleges, schools and community centers of the Inter-Allied movement.

John McAleer is the president of the Screen Entertainment iDstributors, Inc., and associated with him in the project is A. D. V. Storey, who has been active in the picture field in an educational way for several years.

A deal has been closed with the Universal and Vitagraph companies for the use of certain of their subjects. A particular selected run of subjects will be used. According to report, almost 100,000 of the churches and schools listed are already equipped with projection machines and the balance will be fitted out during the balance of this year.

The item of adding the church and school days to the life of certain picture productions is one that will be of utmost interest to the trade in general.

DOINGS OF THE ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

What right have you to direct a picture? This was asked of a well-known assistant director who, but, recently was promoted to the directorial brigade. This coming from a fellow who has been shouting orders to actors and actorines for years through a megaphone and wears puttees and khaki garb and everything that tells outsiders that he is a director, should bring forth an answer, and here it goes.

With the assistant director, who usually starts at the bottom of the ladder, and starts climbing, and when he reaches the top, why he naturally must reach out for broader fields, and as long as he has the ability, why, it is for the good of the industry that he step into the higher position of director.

Young blood is what is keeping our country alive; it is the spirit of the youth of today which is keeping every one on his toes. The director of today should welcome the assistant who by his efforts has proven his true worth, to the extent that a producer has seen fit to advance him a notch and give his a company to direct.

Will he make good? Why, he can't go wrong, for he has overcome every barrier that ever faced any man in the making of motion pictures, and experience is admitted to be our greatest teacher. So why can't a man who is hardened to everything pertaining to his profession be able to face the people that he has worked shoulder to shoulder with, and use his knowledge and schooling with the different directors, to help put over as good a picture as some of the directors who are drawing down fat salaries, and haven't undergone half the trials and tribulations of the assistant director who has had to gain the opportunity to direct a picture?

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

Featuring Sid Smith—Sid Smith will be starred in a series of twenty-six "situation" comedies to be produced by the Alkire Photoplay Corporation of Los Angeles. The Smith series will be exploited under the title of the "Holly Comedies," and will be released by the Bullseye Film Corporation. Robert P. Kerr will direct the new venture. The Holly Comedies will be one-reel releases, beginning about November first.

"Newsie" in Cast—The most recent addition to George Beban's cast for his coming production is eleven-year-old Virgil Votelli, the little newsboy whose living has been made for the past two years on the corner of Seventh and Olive streets. Mr. Beban has long been interested in the beautiful eyes and rather pathetic face of the boy, and declares the child is a great thinker and a little artist. Mr. Beban intends to develop a small part for him and is hoping Virgil's "newsie" days are over.

At the Community—The Hollywood Comumnity Theater opens its season on Monday, September 22, in Arthur Schnitzler's little tragedy, "The Lady With the Dagger." The play is a romance of the early sixteenth century. Helen Jerome Eddy will assume the role of the woman in the case, Charles Meredith that of the man.

Mary's Company—The preliminary rehearsals of the Mary Pickford edition of "Pollyanna" being ended, the "shooting" began last Monday at Brunton's.

Split Reels—Wallace Beary is now with Priscilla Dean in the first of her four special pictures.

Simpson Busy—Russell Simpson having finished with Blanche Sweet in the picturization of Bret Harte's "Cressy," is with J. B. Hampton in support of William Desmond.

With Bosworth—Otto Brower has just finished a picture with Hobart Bosworth.

Pantomimes at Club—Last Friday night was a gala event at the Studio Club in Hollywood, when, under the direction of Helen Jerome Eddy, a series of beautiful Oriental pantomimes was given.

"Live Sparks" Author—J. Warren Kerrigan's latest Brunton production, "Live Sparks," is from the hand of Caroline Sayro, the bluegrass humorist, who wrote "Kentucky Low,' "Missouri Folks," and "Sold." It is a comedy of the Texas oil fields.

Don't Believe It, George—George Beban's coming production calls for a wine cellar set—but Mr. Beban isn't having a "set" built, for he says he knows of a real wine cellar he can use. "And I'll only take about four 'shots'—all I need." Pretty good control, that—to have a chance at a real wine cellar and take only four shots, eh what?

Assistant at Brentwood—Ralph J. Slosser comes to Brentwood from Goldwyn as assistant to Claude H. Mitchell in the direction of a series of pictures which are to be produced with Za Su Pitts and all-star casts.

Directs New Unit—Claude H. Mitchell, for several years associated with George H. Melford in the production of Famous Players-Lasky pictures, has been secured by Brentwood to direct the work of the new producing unit which the latter corporation is starting at work early in the coming week. The first picture under Mr. Mitchell's direction will be from an original story with ZaSu Pitts in the leading role.

Brentwood's plans for additional stage and equipment facilities necessary for its increased production program have been held up during the past week owing to the strike of carpenters, etc. Lumber is already on the ground for the commencement of construction of a covered stage and additional open stage.

More Sport—Henry Otto and his assistant, Jimmie Dunne, visited Catalina Island Friday for the hunting.

Sol Polito, Amos Myers and John Ince have been working day and night for three weeks on storm effects for Metro's Thomas Hardy story.

To Show Soon—Maxwell Karger has finished the cutting and titling of "Lombardi, Ltd." This picture will have a pre-release, showing at the California Theater in Los Angeles, starting September 22.

FROM TED TAYLOR

Goes to Goldwyn—Mickey Whalan, whose multitudiferous freckles have been an ornament to the Metro lot for many moons now, has accepted a position with Goldwyn as second cameraman.

Youthful Support—Richard Hedrick, a champion swimmer, although only two and a half years old, is playing a role with Alice Lake in Metro's all-star version of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles."

Alice's Brother—Carroll Jackson, eight years old, plays the part of Miss Lake's brother in the same picture.

Hunting Trip—Sherrie Harris, John Ince's assistant at Metro, spent Thursday at Catalina Island, location hunting with a graflex.

Eva Lewis is going to don the grease paint again. She has been connected with Motion Picture Players' Union for the past seven months. Miss Lewis has already had several offers, but will take a short rest.

SCREEN TALENT NOTES

Harold Miller will be seen at the California, playing the part of Craig, the Chauffeur, in support of Olive Thomas in "Upstairs and Down."

George Milo is with Von Stroheim at Universal City.

Al Garcia will soon be finished with his dual heavy role with Ben Wilson. Mr. Garcia's portrayal of the Chinese heavy, together with his work as the straight heavy (which, by the way, is featured heavy in the story), is worthy of special notice.

Mae Allyn has been engaged to do the Ingenue with Gale Henry in her forthcoming production.

Hugh Saxon has just returned from Victorville, where he has been entertaining Wm. S. Hart with his clever monologues, and at the same time doing the leading character role.

Bruce Randall has just completed a part as an accomplice to Thomas Lingham, supporting Ruth Roland in the sixth and seventh episodes, having been on the location at Silver Lake for several days.

Mr. William Ely, formerly of the Screen Talent Representatives, is now casting at the Metro studio.

Mary Land has just finished playing an excellent character part with Rex Ingraham at University in "The Beach Comber." Miss Land played the part of an old hag, which so impressed Mrs. Galloway Duncan, the prominent English artist, that she made an oil painting of the character and presented it to Miss Land.

Burt Wilson has finished a comedy part, playing the father to Teddy Sampson, under the direction of Jack McDermott, at the Christie studios.

Herma Cordova, who has returned to the screen after an absence of several months, has been playing a Spanish vamp with Al Jennings.

News reaches us from Universal that the work of Bertie Johns as the English captain in "The Virgin of Stamboul" is very fine.

A Lady—Kitty Gordon is now Lady Gordon. She was married to the son of Lord Beresford, whose death in England recently transmits the title to Kitty's husband. The actress has a daughter by the present Earl.

Another Star?—Kathleen Kirkham has been moving about in her circle of personal friends with a mysterious air and with unusual reticence. Rumor has it that she is harboring confidential information that has to do with a distinct elevation in her professional rank, which is already high among the supporting players.

With Tucker—Leatrice Joy has just finished working in Mr. Tucker's second independent picture.

Direct for Hearst—After canvassing the field, William Randolph Hearst, who is establishing a $20,000,000 film company in Los Angeles, has chosen Frank Borzage as his first director. He has just completed two independent productions with Fred Stone as the star.

New Kellerman Venture—A new company has been organized by Annette Kellerman, to make a unique type of film depicting the life of women in the various countries. Miss Kellerman will start in California and take scenes for the pictures in a trip around the world.

Biblical Films—J. A. McGill, a theater manager of the Northwest, has formed a company to film the Bible in fifty-two two-reel episodes for exhibition in the churches of the country. The work will be directed by Raymond Wells.

Entertains Parents—Claire DuBrey having finished her engagement in Thomas H. Ince's production, "Americanism," is entertaining her father and mother from the East and having the time of her life showing them the mysteries of the great motion picture plants.

Directs Mary—Mary Pickford has engaged Paul Powell to direct her in her first picture for "The Big Four" production, "Pollyanna."

Harris-Chaplin Feature—The first picture to be made of Mildred Harris Chaplin will be entitled "Old Dad," from a story by Elinor Abbott, who wrote "Molly Make-Believe," which Marguerite Clark produced.

World Tour—A good deal of Bessie Barriscale's time is being given up to a perusal of the geographies and time tables. She is planning a tour around the world at the conclusion of her present contract, and of course she will be accompanied by her husband, Howard Hickman.

Will Co-direct—An important new development in Filmland is the professional union of Ida May Parke and Joseph De Grasse. Before taking up their joint work Miss Parke will direct Lew Cody in his second feature picture.

Preparing New Story—After seven strenuous weeks filming "The Last of His People," Mitchell Lewis is now resting while Director Robert Bradbury is preparing a new story for the use of the star.

Kohler to Direct—Fred Kohler has been engaged by Phil White, production manager for Alkire Photoplays, to direct Marshall Mackaye in the next comedy-drama, "An Ace in the Hole." Production will begin next week.

New Ray Vehicle—Charles Ray, under the direction of Jerome Storm, has commenced work at the Thomas H. Ince Studio upon a new story, written by Julien Josephson, under the title "Paris Green."

"Sweet Cookie" Finished—Gale Henry and her company this week filmed the first scenes to her new comedy, "Sweet Cookie," in the San Fernando Valley. Miss Henry's support includes Eddie Baker, Hap H. Ward, May Allen and George Sherwood.

VITAGRAPH NEWS

Earle Williams has taken entire possession of the new number five stage, where some splendid Japanese sets have been erected for the Far Eastern story he is now producing. The working title of the new piece has been changed to "Somewhere East of Suez." Chester Bennet is directing.

Larry Semon, after a rest of several days, has started work on a new comedy, the title of which has not yet been selected.

William Duncan spent most of the week at San Pedro filming "water stuff" for the eighth episode of "Smashing Barriers." The toll of destruction included one practically new limousine and several expensive dresses for Miss Johnson.

Antonio Moreno and the "Secret Service Serial" company are piling up finished film on Hollywood Mountain. Three episodes of this new serial are now practically completed.

Harry Mann has finished his first two-reel comedy for the "Simple Harry" series, and according to reports it is well in advance of expectations. The second comedy will be started this week.

Jimmy Aubrey is half through the second of his "tenement house" riots, and it is expected that the comedy will be complete within the next ten days.

Director Dave Smith, after finishing "Peggeen," the last of the Bessie Love pictures, is taking a semi-vacation. That is, he is reading a number of scripts with the view of starting a new series of productions.

Edwards Finishing—Director Harry Edwards is shooting the final scenes of the latest De Haven comedy, entitled "A Domestic Discord," at the National studios. Rody Hathaway is assisting him, Walter Griffin is presiding at the camera and Micky Caldwell is still stage managing. The story was written by Monte B. Rice.

Bracken Shooting—Bertram Bracken is having a very, very soft time of late—so soft, in fact, that he states he is becoming just a trifle bored. 'S tough, Bert, old pal, but livelier times are in store for you. So saith Production Manager Bernstein, and Bernie ought to know. And he does. For all that prevents Mr. Bracken from taking up his megaphone is a little matter of an incompleted script, and Franklyn Hall has promised that it will be forthcoming in the very near future. So the National studios will soon have another company at work, and one composed of an all-star cast at that, headed by Francis McDonald, who is under a long-time contract with William Parsons. The production referred to is "The Kentucky Colonel," many scenes of which will be filmed in the old state herself. Shooting will start in a very few days.

Hurst Busy—Director Paul Hurst of serial fame has been a very busy man for the past few months at the National Film Corp., where he has been officiating in putting over thrills for the production "Lightning Bryce."

"Lombardi, Ltd." Complete—Thirteen weeks of labor on "Lombardi, Ltd., was closed when the completed seven-reel Screen Classic was thrown on the screen of Maxwell Karger's projection room, and the Metro director general; the star, Bert Lytell; the adapter, June Mathis; the editor, Col. Jasper E. Brady; and the cutter, George A. McGuire, viewed their handiwork.

New Allison Feature—Screen Classics, Inc., is ready to start production on the fourth Oliver Morosco stage success purchased by Metro Pictures Corporation—"The Walk-Offs," with May Allison starring.

Melodrama — Maxwell Karger announces that "Should a Woman Tell?" an original melodrama by Finis Fox, will be filmed by Screen Classics, Inc., immediately, and that Thomas Hardy's "Tess of the D'Uebrvilles," to which Metro owns screen rights, will be produced at a later time.

New Director—Jack Dillon will direct Bert Lytell in "The Right of Way."

Metro Heavy—Frederic Malatesta has been chosen for the "heavy" in "The Best of Luck."

Supporting May—Darrell Foss is the first actor engaged for the support of May Allison in "The Walk-Offs."

Stephanoff Remains—Robert Stephanoff, who had expected to leave for Chicago this week, has altered his plans, and will remain in Los Angeles for the present.

Technical Director—Yukio Aoyama has been engaged by the Vitagraph Co., as technical director and assistant director to Chester Bennett for Earle Williams' new production, "The Far East."

In "Pedlar"—Jack Rollens is now doing Jerry Metcalf in "The Pedlar" which is now running in the Saturday Evening Post, with Bill Dowlan directing at the Universal lot. Jack jumped from the Fox lot after doing three big parts, losing only three days after the closing of the Kolb and Dill show, where he will be remembered for his part as "The Slacker."

Back to the Old Job—Eddie Flanagan and Neely Edwards of "Hallrom" fame have ceased "hallrooming" temporarily and are enjoying—well, we don't exactly know what, but they are enjoying it, just the same. And it isn't work, either. But they expect to don the grease paint very shortly, having recreated around for some little time. They will be directed by Harry Edwards as per usual, at the same location, the National.

Miss Beulah Booker is now playing the lead opposite "Smiling Bill" Parsons in his latest Capitol comedy. Upon the completion of her engagement at the National Miss Booker will appear in the leading role of Maurice Tourneur's forthcoming production.

Fishing Wager—Louise Glaum spent the week-end with her friend, Mrs. Charles Chaplin, at Catalina Islands. The girls have been lifelong friends and enjoy "outing" together. Each one made a wager with the other, that the one catching the largest tuna fish, had to pay the forfeit in the largest box of candy they could find at "Pig 'n Whistle." So down to the beach they went, securing a rod and line, and as umpire an old fisherman, who has lived on Catalina Island for years. The girls sat for several hours, patiently waiting for the tuna to bite. After a while Louise got a nibble and was delighted that she was to make the first haul. Then the fish began to swim away, but also pulling off the line. Both girls were all excited, they called to the old fisherman for help. All three of them were pulling on first one line, then the other, which ended in the old fisherman landing a tuna much larger and heavier than both the girls. And to make a fitting climax, the tuna was on both lines. Louise's hook had caught him, and in his effort to get away, he became entangled in the line of Mildred's, so they are still trying to find out who has to pay the bet. Which one would you say?

ROSEMARY THEBY

Who can be seen as Betty Chesterson, supporting Olive Thomas, in "Upstairs and Down" at the California Theatre this week.

PARIS THEATRICAL STRIKE LEAVES LONDON UNAFFECTED

London, Sept. 10.

Paris managers' lockout has closed cinemas, music halls, concert halls, circuses and dance halls, resulting in loss of five thousand dollars daily to authors and composers, while the government is losing seventy-five hundred dollars daily on reduction of its ten per cent poor tax. Theatres remain open but they may also declare a lockout until half their employees sign agreement on managers' terms.

No indication of any movement on part of actors' association here and none likely as profession is overstocked at present by demobilized artists who are in no financial condition to make demands. Sometime ago managers agreed to increase chorus salaries and pay for rehearsals. Higher priced legitimate artists are not generally affiliated with actors' organization, hence small likelihood of imminent strike menace.

LOCK-OUT IN PARIS HALLS

Paris, August 30.

Following the claims made by the musicians, stage hands and other categories of theatrical workers through their head union, known as the Federation du Spectacle, affiliated with the General Confederation of Labor, the managers have held a meeting in Paris and decided to refuse any substantial increase of salary. It was rumored the directors of the music halls would rather close up than grant the demands.

M. Combes, the present chairman of the vaudeville managers' association and director of the Empire (ex-Etoile Palace), stated it was not correct that a lockout had been decided, but that the facts are, in view of the voluminous pretentions of the theatrical federation, particularly on behalf of the orchestra and staff, a proposition was voted at the last meeting of the managers, reading: "Declining to receive en bloc the claims presented en bloc by the Federation du Spectable, it is decided not to discuss any particular claim, but to accept any reasonable proposition which may be separately presented." M. Combes considers it inadmissable that performers should decide the salary to be paid the staff and vice versa; that stage hands should refuse the work even at the salary they demanded because a minimum of $100 a day is not granted a chef d'orchestra. "We have decided to remain open as usual," declared the managers' spokesman, "and it is only if a strike is declared in any establishment that we shall, by solidarity, close up."

The lockout at Marseilles has terminated and all theatres, music halls and movies are working on the former conditions, an arbitration committee having been appointed by the authorities to study the situation, the result of which both sides have agreed to accept.

Misunderstood—We find the following item in Variety:

200 in Coast Association.

Los Angeles, Sept. 10.

The Actors' Association here announces a membership of 200 in total. This organization is the result of the strike of legitimate players in New York and was formed for the protection of players on the Coast.

We do not know how this idea took form, but it is certainly an error, as all local professionals know. The Actors' Association of Los Angeles has long been in existence, and though it was in sympathy with the strikers, it was not formed as a result of the recent strike.

BEULAH BEVINGTON IS VISITING IN LOS ANGELES

Miss Beulah Bevington, the famous Cleveland, Ohio, artist, and cousin of Miss Grace Valentine, Los Angeles' favorite star, is visiting Grace's mother, Mrs. M. C. Valentine, at the Blackstone apartments.

Miss Bevington is singing the praises of Grace Valentine's new starring vehicle, "Seven Roads to Arden," which she saw in rehearsal in New York, with Warner Baxter as leading man.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD., LOS ANGELES. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL, LOS ANGELES. See Lasky Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGLESES. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Fay Tincher, Katherine Lewis, James Libby, Gertrude Selby and Harry Depp. Please submit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN, LOS ANGELES. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE, LOS ANGELES. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD., LOS ANGELES. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST., LOS ANGELES. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY, LOS ANGELES. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY, CALIF. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

MODEL COMEDY COMPANY, 1329 GORDON ST., HOLLYWOOD, is in the market for two-reel comedies featuring Gale Henry. Stories must contain strikingly snappy situations for female boob characters. No slap-stick will be considered. Please remit by mail.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

ROAD BULLETIN

Hills via Santa Ysabel to Warner's Ranch—good. The new cutoff from Willows to a junction of the main old road, one-eighth mile east of the junction of Warner's Hot Springs and Julian Road, is good, wide, smooth and has no heavy grades. This will save three miles over the Viegas Grade. The State is now working on a new road from Buckman Springs to Jacumba. The new road will shorten the main highway about fifteen miles.

Merced, Mormon Bar, Miami Post Office Route—Covered Saturday by the Cub car and found in very good shape. Merced to Mormon Bar, excellent graded State Highway is had with only a mile or two of slightly rough road. The road from Mormon Bar to Boot Jack was a little rough and a few grades encountered. An excellent dirt road is had from Boot Jack to Miami with only a few rough and dusty stretches. From this point over Chowchilla mountain one will encounter grades ranging from 12 to 16 per cent. Turns in the road are getting slightly rough and dusty owing to the heavy travel going this way. At a point four miles this side of Wawona the motorist will begin to descend on grades ranging from 12 to 16 per cent. Mileage over this route to Wawona to Merced—approximately 66 miles.

PAINFULLY POLITE

One of Jack Kerrigan's most pronounced characteristics is painstaking politeness on all occasions. While filming "Live Sparks," his latest Brunton production, the star took his company to a small oil town north of Bakersfield for a week's location work. A single frame hotel, already loaded to the guards with oil workers, offered the only accommodations in the place. Kerrigan and his director, Ernest Warde, were forced to bunk together in a narrow cell, one floor above the dining room.

That night the unmistakable clatter of a pianola set up from below. Beginning with "I'll Say She Does," the infernal device ground out everything on the jazz calendar from "Valse Blues" to "Ev-a-body Shimmies Now." Sleep was impossible. At 1 a. m. Warde sneaked from the room. He returned a few minutes later with a huge hand-ax.

"What in the name of sanity is that for?" demanded Kerrigan.

"Sh-h!" whispered Warde. "I found this on the woodpile in back of the hotel. I'm going down and ruin that blamed piano!"

"Do you realize that a lady runs this hotel?" said Jack.

"Well, what of it?"

"Do you think it would be nice—breaking up her furniture that way?"

"Er—no, but—"

"Give me the ax."

Early the next morning a boy delivered a package at the hotel. The proprietress removed the wrapping and found a large hand-ax. Attached to the handle was J. Warren Kerrigan's card and the words: "Try this on your piano."

And there was silence.

Blackwell Flies—Carlyle Blackwell took a trip aloft with an army aviator last Friday, and had a view of Hollywood from the skies. The aviator circled around the film studios several times, executed a few fancy curves for his passenger's benefit and then landed near the Blackwell studios, on Santa Monica boulevard.

"Kismet"—It is reported that "Kismet" may be filmed at an early date with Otis Skinner in his famous role of Hadji.

Charlie Aviates—Charlie Chaplin's next comedy will strike a new note. It will make sport of aviation, most of its scenes being taken in and around airplanes and up in the air.

At "U."—The Universal company has signed up Nell Craig, formerly prominent in serials, but absent from the silver sheet for some time.

To the Stage—Carmel Myers is leaving the screen for a stage career. This is Carmel's second advent into legitimate work. The details of her plans have not been completed, but will be made public at an early date.

Widom With Gasnier—C. S. Widom, having finished costuming the first "Big Four" production, "His Majesty the American," for Douglas Fairbanks company, has been engaged by Mr. Gasnier to costume the next production for Dustin Farnum company. Mr. Widom has been selecting and designing costumes for the coming production for the past week and will be ready in a few days.

Santa Barbara County—Paved from Ventura County line through Santa Barbara to a point one mile north of Los Cruses Store in Gaviota Pass, with the exception of dirt approaches to the new bridge at Refugio Pass and a small detour around bridge construction just north of Tajiguas Station, thence fourteen miles of good dirt road to Zaca. Pavement from Zaca via Los Alamos to Santa Maria River, with the exception of three and a half miles of rough oiled road between Divide and Orcutt. Refugio Pass open—but only advisable for experienced drivers. San Marcos Pass is reported to be in the best condition that it has ever been. Los Cruses Store to Lompoc—rough and dusty.

Madero, Raymond, Miami Lodge, Wawona Route—The scout car covered this route yesterday and found it in very good shape, excellent dirt road and dusty stretches principally on the turns between the two latter points. From the summit to Miami Lodge few grades and very good dirt road. The road from Miami Lodge to Wawona will be found somewhat dusty and slower driving will be required. Grades will range from 8 to 15 per cent. Wawona to the Park—excellent.

Madero, Raymond, Coarse Gold, Wawona Route—Very good dirt road from Madero to Raymond. From Raymond to Coarse Gold over the cutoff the road is over a rolling country and will be found in fairly good condition with the exception of a few rough stretches. From Coarse Gold to Wawona the road is the same as Fresno, Lanes Bridge, Coarse Gold, Wawona routes as is covered in paragraph one.

Fiume Route from Madero to Coarse Gold—The first two or three miles out of Madero on the Fiume route will be found a bit dusty and rough and quite a level road. The rolling country encountered shortly after this first couple of miles, and the road leading through it will, for a distance of ten miles, be found an improvement on that just passed over, and in fairly good condition. Coarse Gold to Wadona—the same as noted in paragraph one.

1. An apparatus for taking photographs for the stereoscopic projection of motion-pictures, comprising two adjacent reflecting prisms arranged to reflect images into a motion-picture camera, two spaced prisms arranged to reflect images to said reflecting prisms and means for moving said reflecting prisms to reflect images from either and both of said spaced prisms simultaneously into said camera.

5. A motion-picture film containing pictures of subjects alternating with pictures consisting of two partial views of the same subject taken from different view points.

Motion-Picture Apparatus. Samuel F. Stein, Williamsport, Pa. Filed July 17, 1918. Serial No. 245,283. 2 claims.

1. The combination of a picture projecting machine, a phonograph for producing sounds pertinent to the pictures projected from the projecting machine, a plurality of telephone receivers, seats with which the receivers are respectively associated for the individual use of seat occupants, and means for transmitting sounds from the phonograph to the receivers comprising a circuit acted upon by the phonograph with which circuit the telephone receivers are connected in parallel, the receivers bing detachable.

Moving-Picture Machine. James A. Cameron, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Jan. 3, 1916. Serial No. 69,731. Received Nov. 9, 1918. Serial No. 261,934. 3 claims.

1. The combination with the casing of a moving-picture machine, of a fire shield spaced a distance from said casing to provide a ventilating space between the shield and the casing, and a radiating shield intersposed in said ventilating space, the said shields and casings having an alignment for the passage of light.

ROAD BULLETIN

Riverside County—Riverside to Glen Ivy by way of Corona, paved, thence good dirt road to Elsinore, and with the exception of one mile. Riverside to Moreno, paved. Excellent dirt road over Moreno grade to Beaumont. Beaumont to Banning, paved. Fair dirt road to White Water Wash, thence paved south of White Water Wash to Palm Springs. Good dirt road from that point to Indian Wells, thence paved to Thermal, with the exception of two miles in the vicinity of Indio. Thermal to Mecca, road in poor condition and very dusty. Mecca to Blythe, fair desert road with the exception of patches of heavy sand. The only water obtainable is at Schaefer's Well, Gruendike's Well and Ford's Well. Riverside to five miles beyond Hemet, by way of Perris, paved, thence good dirt road to foot of Idyllwild Grade. Road is somewhat rough over the grade, after which excellent mountain road is encountered. Hemet by way of St. Johns grade to Oak Grove, god dirt road. Winchester to Murietta, very fair dirt road. Temecula to Warner's Ranch by way of Pauba Ranch, good except for short stretches of rough road.

San Juan Hot Springs—good dirt road.

San Francisco Route—The Coast route to San Francisco is little short of highway for the entire distance. The few short detours which are still in existence on this road are not of sufficient length to cause any inconvenience. Pavement is complete from Los Angeles to a point one mile north of Los Cruses store in Gaviota Pass, with the exception of a short stretch of dirt road over the Conejo Grade, also on either side of the bridge at Refugio Creek, and a small detour around bridge construction work north of Tajiguas Station, then fourteen miles of dirt road to Zaca, thence pavement to Arroyo Grande city limits, with the exception of three and a half miles of oiled road between Divide and Orcutt, and with the exception of dirt road through several owns, pavement is complete via San Jose to San Francisco.

San Diego Coast Route—Los Angeles to San Diego County line via El Monte, Pomona, Ontario and Riverside, thence via Perris and Elsinore paved. Good dirt road from San Diego County line to Camp Kearny, thence pavement into San Diego City, with the exception of a short distance through Old Town.

Report of the Yosemite Valley Scout Car

Fresno, Lanes Bridge, Coarse Gold, Wowona—First mile paved, then half mile of rough oiled road, then following approximately ten miles of good oiled and graveled road, thence dirt road to Coarse Gold. The road encountered between Coarse Gold and Wawona will be found somewhat dusty and rough owing to the heavy travel going into the valley this way. The road to Wawona to the valley is constantly being dragged and motorists will find it in excellent condition. The grades on this road will range from 6 to 16 per cent with numerous level stretches between grades. Mileage—Fresno to Yosemite, 102 miles.

San Bernardino County—Pavement from San Bernardino to summit of Cajon Pass, thence excellent dirt road to Victorville and Barstow. Barstow to Ludlow—good. Especially advisable to route travel on the north road, passing Klondyke Station on the right to Amboy. The old road of the National Old Trail is reported to be extremely rough and generally disagreeable. The cut off from Cadiz to Parker is not advisable as recent rains in that vicinity have filled the dry lakes, making it impassible. Needles to Parker route should be used by all means. Redlands to Yucaipa, paved. Good dirt road to Oak Glen. Lytle Creek Canyon to Glen Ranch—good. Upland to Camp Baldy—in excellent condition. Vicorville to Big Bear Lake by way of the desert—in very good shape, but very warm. The Crest Route, City Creek Road and Mill Creek Canyon Roads are in good condition though a trifle dusty.

Forest Home—Paved from Los Angeles by way of Pomona, Ontario, Colton, Redlands and Power House—total miles paved road, 76 miles Excellent dirt road is had the remaining 7½ miles to Forest Home.

San Diego County—Paved through Orange County line through Oceanside to a short distance this side of LaJolla, with the exception of a few short stretches where bridges are under construction, thence a short stretch of good road, after which pavement is had to a point 3½ miles south of LaJolla. Good dirt road from that point to the city limits of San Diego. From San Diego to India street, paved to the junction of Old Town and Ocean Beach Road, thence dirt road through Old Town to bridge. Paved from this point to Camp Kearny. The first five miles after leaving the pavement will be found slightly rough, but good dirt road is had over the Poway Grade, Escondido, Bonsall, Fall Brook to the summit of Red Mountain Grade, which is the Riverside County line. San Diego via University Avenue through El Cajon to within four miles of Alpine, paved, thence excellent dirt road to Escanso to Compo, with the exception of a short distance in the vicinity of Buckman Springs, which is just a trifle rough. Descanso via Cuyamaca Lake and Julian to Pine Hills—in very good condition at this time

SILK SHIRTS

New autumn broadcloth silk shirts of a highly individual type. They come in neat but snappy striped patterns that have an unusual appeal to the particular dresser because of their clever departure from the average.

FALL CRAVATS

Nothing finer displayed in the London Shops than our imported line of tailored silk scarfs of soft rich Italian and Swiss silks, moired effects and novelty weaves, colored in all the new autumn shades.

MEET ME AT THE STAMPEDE

ARIZONA BRADY

Of The Alnor Production Company

who accepts challenge issued by Art Acord and Hoot Gibson. Mr. Brady will ride in contest at the Stampede, October 10-11-12, at the Ascot Speedway.

IT IS EMPHATICALLY SAID THAT—

Lehrman Business Manager—Edward L. Symonds, formerly a lieutenant in the U. S. army, has been engaged as business manager at the new Henry Lehrman studios in Culver City, where Lehrman comedies are being produced for distribution by the First National Exhibitors' Circuit.

With Chaplin—Baby Jean O'Rourke is at present working at the Chaplin studios.

With Fairbanks—Captain Herbert Grimwood, formerly of the English army and a celebrity on the English stage for many years, is now in California and working with Douglas Fairbanks in his second Big Four production.

With Desmond—Russell Simpson is still with William Desmond at the J. B. Hampton studios, and all indications point o a long engagement.

Beary's Harem—Wallie Beary has a harem. Yea, brothers, a honest-to-goodness harem at the Universal studio. He simply had to have it for Prissilla Dean's forthsoming super-feature. Some guys are born lucky.

Lloyd-Buckingham Marriage—Tommy Buckingham, the cinematographer Mack Swain has to shoot his Poppy Comedies on the Universal lot, has gone and done it. He has taken unto himself a wife, but let it be understood right here that it is nobody else's wife but his own. Before becoming Mrs. Thomas Putnam Buckingham she was the very charming Miss Wave Lloyd of Chicago. Congratulations are in order.

Allard in "Danger"—Arthur Allard has returned to the speaking stage for a short engagement. He appears in one of the principal roles in "Danger," the new Bayard Veiller play at the Majestic.

Launch Boat at Shipyard—A new merchant marine, the name for which was selected by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, first lady of the land, who was here recently, will be launched at the Southwestern Shipyards in San Pedro next Sunday morning at 11:30.

It will be christened by Helene Chadwick, from the Goldwyn studio The name selected for this new 8800 tonnage ship is "West Niger."

Arrangements have been made with the shipbuilders to take moving picture scenes preceding and during the launching to be incorporated in the forthcoming Goldwyn picture, "The Cup of Fury," the Rupert Hughes story being filmed at the Goldwyn plant with an all-star cast, in which Miss Chadwick plays the part of the heroine.

The Emergency Fleet Corporation has not as yet announced to what shipping company this will be assigned. Boats are not assigned to companies until ready for use, which is usually from three to ten months after launching.

Details for the launching are in charge of T. Hays Hunter, Goldwyn director who is visualizing the Rupert Hughes story. The entire cast will participate in the ceremony.

With Ham—Harry Todd, the "Mustang Pete" of the old Snakeville comedies, has been placed as a member of the cast of comedians supporting Lloyd (Ham) Hamilton in his first Lehrman comedy, now in production at Culver City.

Butler at Goldwyn—Nick Cogley is playing the part of butler in the old southern home scenes which are part of Tom Moore's new Goldwyn picture.

At Long Beach—California Truman is on location at Long Beach.

STRIKE PROGRESS

The strike of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, which has been on for two weeks, is drawing to a close. The majority of the local studios have not objected at any time to the wage demand made by the organization, but they have objected to signing an agreement which would bind them permanently to definite terms. Originally the Brunton and Vitagraph studios were the only studios that persisted in hiring men far below the union scale and refusing to pay regular union rate throughout.

Twenty-nine of the studios have finally been won and have signed with the I. A. T. S. E. As we go to press the only unsigned studios are the Ince, Metro, Brunton, Fox and Vitagraph. A large meeting will be held Sunday, and by Tuesday the local representatives feel that all the studios will have signed.

Tom Santschi as "Dan Cregan" in "The Code of The Yukon" at the Hippodrome the last half of this week

O'Brien Ill—Myron Selznick writes to H. H. Van Loan, who shortly is to prepare a story for Eugene O'Brien, pital. O'Brien was attacked by an that O'Brien was attacked by an serious and extremely painful operation. Producer Selznick informs Van Loan that it will be some time before his star will be in condition to resume his studio work.

Miss Eddy's Mother Ill—Helen Jerome Eddy's mother was taken last Monday to the Thornycroft Hospital in Glendale for a minor operation. She is already on the road to rapid recovery.

Athlete Is Metro Assistant—Jack Huddleston, a young athlete who holds the Pacific coast record for the 220-yard dash, has been engaged as assistant to Arthur Martinelli, May Allison's cameraman, for "The Walk-Offs," her next screen classic.

Miss Mason Writes Continuity—Miss Sarah Y. Mason, continuity writer for the Brentwood studios, is at present engaged in writing a scenario from an original story by Claude H. Mitchell. ZaSu Pitts will be featured in the production.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION NOTES

Louis Fitz Roy has been engaged by the Allen Dwan company at Brunton under the direction of Dick Rossen.

Clyde Benson has just finished the part of William Carpenter in "Live Sparks" for the Kerrigan company.

John Cossar closed last Saturday with the Tom Mix company and starts Monday in support of Billie Rhodes.

Gordon Griffith is working with the Herman Film company supporting Marjorie Wilson in "That Something."

Lee Hill has just finished a good part under the direction of George Loane Tucker in his present production.

Carl Stockdale is supporting Mary MacLaren at the "U."

Gilbert Warrenton recently severed connections with the Pickford company and is now on his way to New York with his director, Frank Borzage.

Lule Warrenton has completed her part with George Loane Tucker and is now with H. B. Warner.

New Members—Following are the names of the new members of the association:

Wallace MacDonald, Josef Swickard, Geo. S. Stanley, Geo. B. Williams, Elsa Lorimer, Gladys Brockwell, Julia Calhoun, Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish, Maude Goerge, Madge B. Orlamond, L. M. Wells, Clarissa Selwynne, Louis Morrison, Gertrude Robinson, Harry Todd, John H. Elliott, Edwin N. Wallack, Elmo Lincoln, George Berrell, Arthur E. Carew, T. J. Lanoe, Vincent Serrano, Wedkwood Nowell, William Scott, Edwin Stevens, William Courtleigh, Wm. P. de Vaull, Chas. K. French, E. B. Tilton, Wallace Reid, Al W. Persse, Shirley Mason, Lola Maxam, Frank Fisher Bennett, Betty Benton, Geo. F. Cummings, Florence Gibson, Jessie de Jarnette.

George Milo is on location with Von Stroheim at the Virginia Hotel, Long Beach, playing the part of a French captain.

Charles Force has been giving us an example of his versatility lately, having just finished a Spanish guide with Geraldine Farrar, before which he played an Irish Tad with Will Rodgers.

Jack Lott has been engaged to play a part under the direction of Lloyd Ingraham in "Marv's Ankle."

Louis Natheaux has just finished a juvenile in support of Gladys Brockwell, under the direction of Frank Beal at the Fox studio, and starts next week with Billie Rhodes in "Hearts and Masks."

Walter (Doc) Bytell has been supporting Charlotte Walker in "Eve in Exile" for the American Film Co., in Santa Barbara.

Ruth Maurice has been engaged to play an ingenue with Miller and Hedley at Culver City.

Mae Allyn has finished her engagement as the ingenue in Gale Henry's last picture.

Huddleston made his record by running the event in 22 seconds flat at the Amateur Athletic Union meet, Tacoma, Wash., last July. He has won one letter at the Los Angeles High School and two at the Lincoln High School, Los Angeles. His film experience includes work in the title department at the Morosco studio and in the laboratories at Lasky and Morosco.

Character Part—Edwin Stevens has been given a particularly strong character part in the new production which Claude H. Mitchell is now directing for Brentwood.

LAWS APPLYING TO WORKING MINORS EXPLAINED

Following is an explanation of laws which will probably be of interest to studios when employing minors:

Laws passed at the last session of the state legislature providing for new age limits for minors to remain in school and for new requirements for paying working people are to be enforced strictly in Southern California, according to H. A. Cable, deputy state labor commissioner of this city.

It was explained by Mr. Cable that there is much confusion in the public mind about these new provisions.

The amendment to the school laws provides that for the school year of 1919-1920 no children less than 16 years old shall be employed without a permit issued by school authorities. The old law placed the age limit under this provision at 15 years.

It is further provided that after the present school year no illiterate minor or one who has not completed school work equivalent to and including that of the sixth grade may be employed unless provision is made by the employer to provide him or her with at least four hours' schooling, or instruction, for each school day.

This law, it was explained by Mr. Cable, is intended to enforce a certain amount of American education on illiterate foreigners in this state.

The new "pay-day" law provides that when a person is discharged he must be paid at the place of discharge, not by check payable at any other place. If he quits his work he must be paid within the county where he is employed.

It is also provided that there must be at least two pay days each month, and if any employer fails to pay an employe promptly when the latter quits or is discharged, a penalty of a full days' wage or salary is added for each day, up to 30 days, that the payment of wages is deferred.

SCENARIO WRITER FILES PLAY WITH L. A. COUNTY

Here is a thought for the scores of budding scenario writers. Try this on your manuscript to protect it from the grasping public.

The young women who do the transcribing at the county recorder's office were busy today writing into the county records the scenario of a motion picture writer, this being the first time that such a composition has ever been recorded.

The author, S. W. Blankership, made no explanation when he filed his play, but simply paid the recording fees and started the transcribers on the job of making his brain product a part of the county archives.

The recording of a scenario or other literary effort, it was said at the recorder's office, means that it will be available for immediate reference in case of any legal proceedings. When a play is copyrighted the only copies on file for reference are kept at Washington.

Meanwhile the transcribers were busy passing comments on a plot that might possibly engage the future attention of an audience devoted to a Miss Pickford or a Charlie Chaplin.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS NOTES

Forest fires raging throughout the southern counties during the past week and the damage done by them has led officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California to issue another general warning to all motorists to be careful of discarding lighted cigar or cigarette butts from machines to the roadside.

According to some of the forest supervisors, the increase in motoring through the mountains this year is accountable for more forest fires than ever before, as it is claimed that many motoring parties are careless with their "butts."

"It is the most natural thing in the world for an automobilist to toss his half-finished cigarette or cigar from the car while traveling, not thinking that during the summer months, and particularly in September, the brush and grass along the highway is exceedingly inflammable," say Auto Club officials, "and we are taking this opportunity to co-operate with the forest supervisors in preventing recurrences of the costly blazes which have ravished Southern California hills for the last two weeks."

In an attempt to call this warning to the minds of motorists the club has erected hundreds of metal warning signs on all mountain routes, these signs reading "Help Prevent Forest Fires." Auto owners are asked to heed the signs and not only to be careful in extinguishing their camp fires but not to toss lighted "smokes" from tonneaus and driving seats.

COAST ROUTE NORTH

With the exception of a very few short detours around bridges that are under construction—and stretches of dirt road through some of the towns, this route is entirely paved. From Los Angeles north by way of Ventura, Santa Barbara, and Gaviota to Los Cruces—paved; then comes a stretch of graveled road to Zaca Station. From the latter point to San Luis Obispo, the pavement is broken only by a 3½ mile stretch of rough oiled road between Divide and Orcut. Dirt road through the city limits of San Luis Obispo, thence pavement north through Paso Robles and San Ardo to King City, except for dirt road through Paso Robles. 2.2 miles of dirt road through King City, thence pavement north by way of Salinas and San Jose to San Francisco.

PACIFIC HIGHWAY NORTH

Los Angeles to Oregon and Washington points. It is getting to be rather late in the season to use this route. After September 15th, rains are likely to occur in Oregon and Washington—and during wet weather the detours in Oregon, which are numerous and around construction work, will afford difficult driving. To date, no portion of that route has been badly affected by rains. In driving from Los Angeles to Sacramento, it is optional whether the Coast or Inland Route is used. Conditions are good over that portion of the route in northern California from Sacramento to the Oregon state line, although a few rough detours will be encountered near Lamoine. From the state line to Ashland, excellent highway grade, thence pavement to Medford. Fair dirt road from Medford to Gold Hill—then detours around construction work along the north side of the Rogue River—construction under way in numerous places between Grant's Pass and Glendale. Cow Creek Canyon between Glendale and Canyonville is also under construction and due to the heavy work and blasting, the road is apt to be closed a few hours each day. From Canyonville to Roseburg, thence north through Cottage Grove, Eugene and Portland, the road can be classified as good.

SAN JOSE TO SANTA CRUZ

Sunnyvale to Saratoga and Los Gatos, paved, then fair dirt road to Glenwood. A short detour just south of Glenwood—thence highway to Santa Cruz. Santa Cruz to Big Trees, fair. Reported rough between Ben Lomond and Boulder Creek. San Francisco via Coast to Santa Cruz, paved to Half Moon Bay and San Gregonio, thence fair dirt road to Santa Cruz. Big Basin Road: Fair mountain road from Saratoga to Big Basin. Santa Cruz to Monterey, fair dirt road to a point just south of Watsonville then pavement via Castroville to Salinas or Monterey.

SACRAMENTO TO LAKE TAHOE

Both roads are open—the one via Auburn and Truckee, and the Placerville Route. All Tahoe resorts closed for season.

FRESNO TO HUNTINGTON LAKE

Distance 75 miles, road still open and in fair condition. Steep grades between Cascada and Huntington Lake, where a climb of 2,000 feet is made in four miles.

SEQUOIA NATIONAL PARK

Pavement is complete from Porterville to the bridge across the Kaweah River just beyond Three Rivers. From this point to the entrance to the park, a distance of nine miles, the road is narrow, steep and rough. Within the park limits, the road is a boulevard, wide, smooth and well maintained by the government. Entrance fee into Sequoia, $2.50, payable at checking station located at entrance. Good accommodations and camping places in park.

GENERAL GRANT NATIONAL PARK

Roads leading to and through this park are excellent.

NEEDLES-PARKER ROUTE

This route is in excellent condition across the desert between San Bernardino and Needles except for the 26 miles between Ludlow and Amboy; here the road is full of chuck holes, is rough and generally poor. Needles to Parker, distance 64 miles, road in fair condition. Advise motorists to carry water and gasoline on this stretch. Nearing Parker the effect of recent rains is noticeable. Parker Ferry across the Colorado River, charge $2.50 to motorists.

HARBOR BOULEVARD

It is anticipated that this road will be closed on Wednesday of next week at Nigger Slough on account of construction work. This will necessitate a detour to the right by way of Torrance over a good dirt road.

SAN GABRIEL CANYON

The road into this canyon was not affected by the recent forest fire nor were any of the canyon roads off of Foothill Boulevard.

TOPANGO CANYON

Open and in good condition.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

Horsley to Produce in East—David Horsley will start operations on October 1st, at Bayonne, New Jersey. Two-reel comedies will be made, based on the cartoons, "When a Man Marries." The Bayonne laboratories will be re-opened by Mr. Horsley.

MacDonald on Location—Fifty people—actors, directors, cameramen, carpenters, property men, with managers and presidents and lawyers—all attached to the Katherine MacDonald company, started for Del Monte last Sunday on two special cars. The Western scenes from Robert W. Chambers' "The Turning Point" will all be shot here. J. A. Barry will direct; C. M. Watt will assist. Sam E. Rork, manager of the MacDonald Corporation, invited two Eastern celebrities as guests, B. P. Fineman, president of a distributing company, and Henry Herzbrun, the company's lawyer, both of whom arrived recently from New York. A very strong cast supports Miss MacDonald, among the actors being Nigel Barrie, Kenneth Harlan, Leota Lorraine, Hedda Nova and Pat Moore. Miriam MacDonald, the star's sister, will make her debut in pictures, taking the role of a maid.

Mayor Production Delayed—Manager William S. Sistrom, of the Louis B. Mayer productions, now realizes how keenly Uncle Sam felt the ship shortage during the war. This same shortage has now struck the motion picture companies and Sistrom can't go ahead with the filming of "The Inferior Sex," Mildred Harris Chaplin's next starring vehicle, until a suitable ship is secured for some of the more important scenes.

Out at Selig Zoo, where the Mayer studios are going up, Sistrom has a captain and a full crew waiting to man the yacht when it shows up.

Henry Comedy—Gale Henry last week started work on a new fun film, the title of which is "Sweet Cookie."

New Scenario Department—The scenario department recently established at the Model Comedy Company's studio in Hollywood with George Lynn Harrison, formerly a journalist in England, as scenario editor, announces that three two-reel subjects for Bull's Eye release, in which Gale Henry is featured, have been prepared.

Suitable Title—Mark Goldaine, who is directing "Smiling Bill" Parsons, has had a very busy session during the taking of the latest comedy at the National studios. The title of this laugh-provoker, "A Much Needed Rest," would fit his present condition very well indeed. For included in the cast were some twenty kiddies, two canines, one orang-outang and a couple of cats, and, well—life might have been sweeter. He was very ably assisted, however, by Arno Marsh, which fact, coupled with a good disposition on his part, was instrumental in getting the desired results.

Edwards Busy—Director Harry Edwards has just completed the latest comedy featuring Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven, entitled, "Excess Baggage," from the story by Monte B. Rice, and will start upon a new laugh-getter with them in a few days. He will again wield the old megaphone in the interests of the "Hall Room Boys" comedies, starring Flanagan and Edwards.

Casting will soon commence for the forthcoming production starring Billie Rhodes at the National studios. The vehicle, "Hearts and Masks." The continuity has been completed by Mildred Considine and work will be started immediately under the direction of Wm. Seiter. He will be assisted by Scotty Beal.

Sea Wolf—George H. Melford leaves Sunday night for San Francisco, where he will start work on the elaborate production of "The Sea Wolf," for Paramount-Artcraft. With him will go Noah Beery, who is to play "Wolf" Larsen; Mabel Juliene Scott, who plays the part of Maud Brewster, the writer; Tom Forman, Raymond Hatton, Fred Huntley, Eddie Sutherland and other members of the cast. Fred Kley has just returned from the north, where he purchased a ferry boat and chartered a schooner for use in the picture.

Minter Production—Mary Miles Minter arrives in Los Angeles October 5, and arrangements have been made for the Realart star to do a picture at the Morosco studio under the direction of William D. Taylor, who will also come from the East about the same time. The production is to be a film version of "Judy of Rogue's Harbor." On Mr. Taylor's arrival he will complete the cutting of "Huckleberry Finn," the new Paramount-Artcraft special detailing the adventures of Mark Twain's youthful hero, and which he directed prior to leaving for New York. This arrangement will result in Ethel Clayton returning to the Lasky studio upon the conclusion of "The Thirteenth Commandment," which she is now engaged in making under the direction of Robert G. Vignola. Miss Clayton will probably do "Young Mrs. Winthrop." It has not yet been decided who will direct her in this film. Meantime "The Thirteenth Commandment," a Rupert Hughes story, is developing rapidly.

Reid Finishing—Wallace Reid, under the direction of James Cruze, will complete the Paramount-Artcraft picture, "Hawthorne of the U. S. A.", this week, and very soon thereafter will begin work under the direction of Sam Wood on "Speed Carr," by J. S. Woodhouse. Wanda Hawley will again be his leading woman.

Crisp Home—Donald Crisp returns this week from Chicago with Bryant Washburn and will finish up "It Pays to Advertise." The next picture in which Mr. Washburn will star is to be "Too Much Johnson," and again Mr. Crisp will be at the helm.

William C. DeMille has completed 'The Tree of Knowledge," starring Robert Warwick, and will begin work in a few weeks on "Jack Straw," in which Major Warwick will also be the star.

Smith Comedy Finished—The first of a series of 26 one-reel comedies featuring Sid Smith, the soldier-comedian, which Alkire is filming for distribution through Bulls-Eye, has been completed. The selling title has not yet been announced. The Smith comedies will be "polite" and will not contain a single slapstick feature. The Smith productions will be marketed as the "Holly Comedies." Robert P. Kerr is directing.

New Brentwood Cast—Brentwood announces the following as the cast for production No. 5, to which no title has yet been given, but which Claude H. Mitchell has now started direction: ZaSu Pitts, Julanne Johnson, Fannie Madgely, Mrs. Pat Kelly, Edwin Stevens, Henry Woodward, W. H. Bainbridge, Frank Hayes, Hughie Mack and Fred Mack.

Oakley Production—The Oakley Super-Qualiy Productions, Inc., will begin shortly on its initial dramatic production in the Norbig studios at Edendale, California. James W. Early, who was with Pathe and Edison in the early nineties, is vice-president and managing director of the new firm. Mr. Early will personally supervise all production. Billy Oakley is president, while Walter K. Perkins, widely known as a former Ince-Triangle character star, is secretary.

The first story to be filmed will be a six-reel drama, 'The Valley of the Shadow," by Frederick Bennett. The new concern will also produce two-reel satires. All of its products will be marketed on the state rights basis.

Yvonne Gardelle has the stellar role in "The Valley of the Shadow." Miss Gardelle will be supported by Frank Witson, Florence Gray and Frank Perkins. Carlton Gardelle is the technical director.

Three of Kind Needed—Webster Cullison is assisting Ray Smallwood in the direction of the Screen Classic, "The Best of Luck," in addition to John Conley, Smallwood's right-hand bower. The melodrama was written by Henry Hamilton, Arthur Collins and Cecil Raleigh.

VITAGRAPH NEWS

Williams' Progress—Earle Williams, with Margaret Loomis as his leading lady, is well along with the production of an English romance set in Japan, the working title of which is "The Far East." Other members of the cast include Barbara Tennant, John Elliott, Edward McWade, MargaretMcWade, George Hall, William Buckley, Tom Guise, Jean Calhoun and Lillian Langdon. The story is by Mrs. Earle Williams and H. H. Van Loan scenario.

Duncan Busy—William Duncan and his company of serial players have started on the final third of the "Smashing Barriers" serial, and if no unforseen obstacles arise, the continued play will be finished away ahead of schedule.

Third Episode—Antonio Moreno, under the direction of Wm. J. Bauman, is working on the third episode of the "Secret Service" serial.

New Semon Comedy—Larry Semon this week started production of a new super-comedy with Lucille Carlisle again appearing as his leading lady.

Montgomery & Rock finished their "Cave Man" picture this week and immediately started work on a new comedy.

Mann Starting—Harry Mann also started a new two-reel subject on his series of "Simple Harry" comedies.

O. Henry Story—Director David Smith, who has been directing Bessie Love, has started work on an O. Henry story, to be released as a short subject by the Vitagraph.

Aubrey Finished—Jimmy Aubrey is finishing his second comedy set in the New York tenement district and under Noel Smith's direction will start a new laugh-maker within a few days.

Starring Vehicle—Francis McDonald, the latest star signed by the National, will soon be a very busy young man, since his forthcoming vehicle, "The Kentucky Colonel," is nearly ready to shoot, Franklyn Hall, head of the scenario department, having almost completed the working script.

He will be supported by an all-star cast directed by Bertram Bracen. Jack Laver will assist Mr. Bracken as per usual.

Finishing Radium Mystery—"The Radium Mystery," the new serial made by the Pacific Producing Company, is now finishing its fourth episode under the direction of Robert Hill, from Frederick Bennett's story. The fourth episode is bristling with thrills and situations and is laid in a "Barbary Coast" atmosphere. The fifth episode will start next Monday and will cause the story to drift into railroad atmosphere.

Fred Fishback is just finishing his picture, "Lions and Tin Horn Sports," but it is thought the title will be changed to "Lions and Lingerie," because of the bevy of pretty girls employed in the production. Jimmie Adams, Esther Wood and Bud Jaimison are in the story, which deals with the arrival of wild lions at a girls' school.

Century Comedies—Vin Moore is on his first reel directing a rural lion picture for the Centuries Comedies, entitled "Fat Boarders and Lean Lions," with Dot Farley, Lois Neilson and Phil Dunham in the cast. Charles Gay, the European animal trainer, is handling the lions.

Jess Robbins has started a new rural comedy, after finishing his "Charley in Society," a two-reeler featuring Chai, the Chinese comedian, in an odd comedy with a lot of new situations. In the bucolic production Chai will portray the trials and tribulations of an Oriental coolie among strangers. Louise Fortune plays the ingenue.

"A Lucky Dog's Day," featuring "rownie," the clever screen dog, has just been commenced by William Watson for the Centuries Comedies, 6100 Sunset boulevard. It is the story of a dog's love for a miserable, homeless pup and how this story influences the fate of two rural hearts.

Russell Soon to Work—William Russell wires the information that he is the latest purchaser of the screen rights to the book, "The Lincoln Highwayman," and that he will hasten his departure for the Coast in order to begin almost immediate production of his story Mr Russell believes that the middle of October will find. him at the Fox Company's Hollywood studio ready to begin shooting. "The Lincoln Highwayman" is a story which it has long been the ambition of Mr. Russell to produce. It will be the third of the Russell series for the William Fox Company. At present he is working in "Eastward Ho," his second picture. His first Fox production, "Sacred Silence," taken from the stage play, "The Deserter," is ready for release. Another producing company was credited recently with the purchase of the book, "The Lincoln Highwayman,' 'and Mr. Russell was artticularly pleased with his eventually becoming its owner.

Christie Gets New Star—Colleen Moore has been signed by the Christie Company to appear in a two-reel comedy, production of which will be started immediately under Al E. Christie's direction.

Miss Moore is the fourth star to be corralled by Christie for two-reel Special comedies, the others being Fay Tincher, Alice Lake and Edith Roberts.

As in the case of the previous Christie Specials, Colleen Moore will be at the nead of a featured cast including Earl Rodney, Eddie Barry, Eugene Corey, Helen Darling and a large number of the Christie Follies girls.

Teddy Sampson New Strand Star—Teddy Sampson of the Los Angeles film colony has been secured by the Southern California Producing Company to play leads in Strand Comedies, presented by Robertson-Cole through Exhibitors Mutual.

Before joining Strand Comedies, Teddy Sampson was featured in many successful five-reel productions with the Triangle Company, and more recently has been playing leads in comedy dramas, one of the best of which was with Tom Mix in one of his late Fox features. Harry Depp and Miss Sampson are playing together now at the Strand Studio, under the direction of John McDermott.

New Bennett Cast—Thomas H. Ince has surrounded his star, Enid Bennett, with a good supporting cast in her new picture, "The Woman in the Suit Case," from an original story by C. Gardner Sullivan. Prominent among those who will appear with Miss Bennett are William S. Conklin and Dorcas Matthews.

Dalton Picture Progressing in the East—The Thomas H. Ince Special, "Black Is White," written by George Barr McCutcheon, with Dorothy Dalton as star, is progressing in New York without any mishaps. The picture is over half finished.

Ray Film—Charles Ray has commenced work on a story written by Julien Josephson. In this new picture, Mr. Ray will be surrounded by a large cast of well known screen artists, including Ann May, Norris Johnson, Gertrude Claire, William Courtright, Gordon Mullen, Donald MacDonald and Bert Woodruff.

With "Mary's Ankle—Neal Burn has been included in the cast of "Mary's Ankle," in which Douglas MacLean and Dorris May are featured. Others in the cast are Victor Potel, James Gordon, Lizette Thorn and Ida Lewis.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

Dancing Class at Club—Miss Marian Hunter, who arrived recently from New York to take charge of the recreation work at the Studio Club, has organized a dancing class, which will meet every Monday night. Gymnasium classes will be held every Tuesday night, commencing October 7th.

Miss Harris to Chicago—Miss Edna Harris left Tuesday for a month's vacation in Chicago.

Mrs. Cohn Entertains—Friday evening Mrs. Albert Cohn entertained the Studio Club girls with a delightful birthday party at the club.

Entertains at Club.—Miss Magda Lane entertained recently with a most charming dancing party at the Studio Club. Thirty-five guests enjoyed Miss Lane's hospitality.

Jimmy Aubrey Dance—A social event in Hollywood which will be remembered by the film folk and residents was the Jimmy Aubrey dance under the direction of Mitchell von Preissig, which took place last Saturday at the Hollywood Woman's Club.

More than two hundred guests were present at the affair and their happy faces attested to the wonderful time that they were having. The entire crowd seemed to be in perfect harmony, the orchestra played as they never played before, and little "Jimmy Mitchell" was radiating good spirits. The medley dance contest was the most exciting ever held in the city, and Mr. Von Preissig, who has been a judge in innumerable contests in Washington and New York City, said it was the most closely contested he had ever seen. George Burson, who has conducted many big dances in the big Chicago hotels, said the same thing. In the finals, when all the contesting couples except two had been eliminated, after a great deal of difficulty, it was impossible to decide upon the actual winners. The judges couldn't decide. A count of the people present showed them evenly divided—they also could not decide upon a winner. The flipping of a coin seemed too unfair. It was then that Jimmy Aubrey, the Vitagraph comedian, did the thing that will always endear him to the hearts of those who were there. He gave two cups instead of one. So Mr. Von Preissig ordered another cup exactly like the one which Jimmy Aubrey held in his hand—the most beautiful cup ever given at a dancing contest in this city, according to those who were present.

The two couples whose beautiful dancing caused this exciting division and indecision were Frank Bireley and Katheryn Wendell, and Neal Kelly and Esther Smith.

Among those attending the Mitchell dance at the Hollywood Woman's Club last Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Seibley, Mrs. H. H. Christy, Misses Doris Sellars, Elizabeth Avery, Francis Gable, Esther Smith, Katherine Jackson, Margaret Applewhite, Gwendolyn Witherspoon, Katheryn Wendell, Gladys Sprause, and Messrs. Jean Carey, Neal Kelly, Jimmy Aubrey, Carl Seibley, Warner Mullen, Arthur Behm, Frank Bireley, George Krank and Charles Baker.

Charity Fashion Show—Last Tuesday night the Trinity Auditorium was the scene of a very unique Fashion Show, staged for the benefit of the Children's Hospital. Several motion picture people assisted in the affair, though not as the program lead us to believe. As master of ceremonies, George Beban maintained a clever French characterization through the evening. A very smart and complete array of new Fall garments was charmingly displayed. For the garments worn in this show the committee is indebted to Mr. Dyas, owner of the Ville de Paris. The one exception to this was the evening gown worn by Miss Gloria Swanson, which was made at the Lasky Studio and worn by Miss Swanson in the last C. B. de Mille production. The list of beautiful models included several other motion picture actresses. Miss Julia Faye appeared twice, first wearing a tailleur suit and later an evening gown. Miss Bebe Daniels braved the spotlight four times, a rare treat in the various fashions.

The parade of beautiful ladies was interrupted at different intervals and several dancing, musical and comedy acts were presented. Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven contributed an original and novel little musical act. Theodore Kosloff, assisted by Vera Fredowa gave a charming Russian folk dance. An exquisite dance was presented by two little girls, students of Theodore Kosloff. Other special features of amusement were kindly contributed, including local talent and two Orpheum acts.

Mr. Donald Crisp was stage manager for the affair and things went very well. The only flaw in the evening was caused by the front spotlight, an obstinate thing, which went on strike every few minutes, leaving the fair models in the dark.

Vacationing at Santa Monica.—Gale Henry and her husband, Bruno J. Becker, having received but a four-day vacation this summer, owing to urgent work at the studio, this week moved bag and baggage to Santa Monica Beach, where they hope to enjoy a pleasant rest before and after work. They have taken a cottage on the water front, where the comedienne and her husband say the sad sea waves play a much more pleasing tune than the street cars rolling over the Glendale Boulevard.

Balboa Week-end—Mrs. Wm. C. Dowlan and Miss Harriet Dowlan are spending the week-end at Balboa beach, where Mr. Dowlan is on location with his Universal company, now producing "The Peddler."

Last Friday Mrs. Dowlan's mother and niece, Mrs. C. Ainsworth and Miss Archella Ainsworth, arrived in Hollywood from Grand Rapids, Michigan, Mrs. Dowlan's former home.

Birthday Surprise—Last Thursday evening Mr. Walter Wherle was honored with a surprise party, given by Mrs. Gladys Rhodes at her home in Hollywood, in celebration of Mr. Wherle's thirty-second birthday.

Covers were laid for ten. A beautiful decorative effect was gained with a profusion of American Beauty roses and fern, the center of attraction being the large white birthday cake displaying thirty-two candles. Among the guests were Miss Myrtle Cressey, Mr. Walter Wherle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. William Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glen, and Mr. C. D. Brown.

Arrive From Chicago—Saturday noon Herbert Hayes welcomed Mrs. Herbert Hayes and the little daughter to Los Angeles from Chicago. Mr. Hayes had rented the Wilfred Lucas place on the Verdugo road, and every detail was in readiness for the arrivals—even to a chicken dinner.

Gladys Wise, who recently returned from France, where she was engaged in war work, has resumed her work in pictures and is on location with the Universal company.

Up North—Buddy Noles is at present with the Beaver Film Co. at Portland, Oregon.

With Mary—Lucy Donahue is playing the part of a suffragette secretary in the current Mary MacLaren picture.

Guest Returns Home—Thursday Colleen Moore bid good-bye to her little cousin, Lispeth Stone, who is returning to her home in New Orleans. Miss Stone had been visiting Miss Colleen during the summer.

Dugout Dance—Monday night a special dance for members exclusively will be held at the Dugout. The gathering will be also somewhat in the nature of a business meeting, as the intention is to organize affairs for the coming season.

SWIMMING NOTES

Miss Priscilla Dean of the Universal Film Manufacturing Company got away with some real official work Sunday, September 21st, when she acted as starter in three races held at Venice. Miss Dean started the senior mile championship and junior half mile, and girls' half-mile race. After the races Miss Dean presented the eighteen trophies that were up for the winners of the three events. This is the first time in swimming history that a girl has acted as official starter, and Miss Dean started the races just like a veteran at the game.

Miss Karla Schramm is becoming quite a star swimmer and diver. Miss Schramm has now mastered the rawl stroke and swims it in perfect form. Miss Schramm recommends swimming and believes it is the only exercise that will retain for one that youthful look.

The Wallace MacDonald swimming trophy has created more real interest in swimming than any cup so far given for a handicap race at the L. A. A. C. Every Thursday evening the members gather and compete for the Wallace MacDonald trophy. So far it still remains on the shelf with Gerard Vultee with two wins on it, Guy Sylvester one and Arthur Summons one. Any swimmer securing three wins on the Wallace MacDonald trophy will receive the cup.

Eugene Field, who is rated as a champion springboard diver, won the eighth place in the mile championship at Venice Sunday, September 2 st, receiving a very beautiful cup for his swimming Eug.ene is now training for the Southern California A. A. U. high diving championship to be held at Venice, California, Saturday evening, October 11th. He will meet the best divers of Southern California, and we hear that all the Chaplin Studio will be at Venice pulling for Eugene. Billy Williams, international diving champion and Mack Sennett camera man, has arrived in San Francisco from a long journey, all the way from the Rhine. Billy was one of the first doughboys to go over, and he photographed for Uncle Sam on all the American fighting fronts. Billy will be received with open arms here in Los Angeles by his many friends.

Jack Mower was seen several Sundays ago at Venice swimming around the breakers. Whatever happend to Jack to venture out so far. He was once upon a time a regular sea hound, but has slipped up in the last few years on his swimming.

Harry Pollard has here of late been swimming many lengths of the L. A. A. C. plunge, and Harry gives no reason for this outburst of speed in swimming. All one can get out of Harry is, I am going to master the crawl stroke or he will swim himself as skinny as a lead pencil. We are all looking forward to Harry mastering this crawl stroke, or else we will have to pick him out of the plunge in sections.

LOIS ZELLNER

By Mildred Davis

In Santa Barbara there is a graveyard where Lois Zellner frequently sits to write her comedies. Now you are sure that Mrs. Zellner is a freak of nature; but you are mistaken, for we visited the scene of the writer's inspirations, and found that it was not at all "grave-yardy," because she sits beneath a cypress tree on the edge of the cliff overlooking the ocean, her back turned to the cemetery. Such a choice is typical of Lois Zellner's love of beauty, and her susceptibility to material influences.

All her life, Mrs. Zellner tells us, she was easily affected and influenced. This quality in her character probably accounts for the fact that she did not begin her writing seriously when she was extremely young. As a child and a young girl the desire to write was always with her, but lying dormant, and she never wrote except when she was angry or at such rare times as anyone saw fit to encourage her.

Lois Zellner was born in Georgia, and all her childhood was spent in the South. All her schooling was had in private schools, and the remainder of her time she lived with her father, usually traveling up and down the Mississippi river in his boat, on which he had a sawmill installed. It was an odd life for a child, but little Lois absorbed a wealth of knowledge and an understanding of people which is priceless to a writer.

Mrs. Zellner was married very young and for several years her domestic life and a baby son occupied most of her time. Then the Zellner family moved to New York City, where Mr. Zellner organized an advertising agency. Lois helped her husband write ad copy. That was the day when the one-reel comedies flourished, and Mrs. Zellner felt that the writing of stories for picturization would be ideal, so she began with the short comedies. She had no idea whether she would ever be successful or not, but decided to begin her career by writing twenty short comedies. She knew that by the time the last one was finished she would either be progressing or ready to stop.

She did not know what method to follow in order to sell her stories, so she finally submitted the manuscripts to a scenario agency. The third story she wrote was sold for twenty-five dollars—the largest twenty-five dollars she ever earned. Later Mrs. Zellner sold her first and second scenarios, and since then her success as a writer of comedy-dramas has been phenomenal.

Success was her great incentive, and her energy and ability seem to have no bounds. The one and two-reel subjects branched out into five and six-reel stories, and have been used by the biggest stars. An actual average taken shows that Lois Zellner has sold eighty-five per cent of everything she has ever written.

Lois Zellner's current releases include "Bill Henry," produced by Charles Ray, and "Nobody Home," by Dorothy Gish, these pictures being shown at the Rivoli in New York consecutive weeks; "Happy Though Married," which Ince produced with Enid Bennett, was declared by standard critics to be the best screen comedy, everything being considered, that has ever been made.

A list of some of the other recent Zellner successes show "His Bonded Wife," with Emmy Wehlen, by Metro; "Friend Husband," with Madge Kennedy; "Silent Woman," with Edith Story, by Metro; "Money Mad," starring Mae Marsh, and "The Girl From Bohemia," produced by Astra with Irene Castle, her last picture before going to France.

"The Man Catcher," starring Billie Rhodes; "Edge of Chance," "Rose of Hell," both starring Margarita Fisher, and "Meet My Sister" are all being prepared for release.

We could laud and praise, and still not do justice, but the statement of these few facts will show accurately and conclusively what unlimited florescent phrases could never show.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Billy de Vaul worked for Bert Lytell at the Metro in a good part. There's more such jobs looming for William, I'm told.

Bobby Vernon went house hunting the other day. He wore out four tires and his voice trying to get what he wanted without paying a million dollars. He answered all questions on his return with the following: "Impossible."

Al Christie's Studio is adding two stages and making all sorts of improvements, which will soon read, "Bigger, greater and better than ever."

Tom Kennedy, who has faced lions and all sorts of wild beasts, showed that he is a truly game guy when he stepped into the Vernon Arena and refereed the six boxing bouts last Tuesday night.

Nelson McDowell just finished playing a part with Mary Pickford, in which he did a fire chief. On finishing he was immediately cast for the part of Jerry in one of the Zane Grey stories now in the making on the Brunton lot.

Fred Fishbach had his tonsils removed at the Angelus Hospital the other day and is back home and up and doing things for the L. K. O. interests.

Harry Fowler has severed his connections with the National and has joined Park Frame in the capacity of camera man. He will photograph the all-star cast that Director Fame has lined up for his initial effort for the Sargent Production Company.

Betty Compson, rumor has it, is soon to have her own company, in which she is to be starred. She will work on the Robert Brunton lot.

Louise Lamont has just finished working at Christie's Studio, where she was one of the bathing girls who livened up the comedy.

Kathlyn Adams is being directed by Ray Smallwood at the Metro Studio, in which there are some aeroplane scenes for the fair Kathlyn.

Bert Lytell had a large court set the other day at the Metro Studios, in which there was close to three hundred in the gathering.

George Loane Tucker and J. Warren Kerrigan entertained some of the President Wilson's party Sunday at Brunton's Studio.

Kate Morgan just finished an excellent part with the Rex Ingraham Company out at the Universal.

Walter de Courcy was given the thrill of his life the other day when Alfred E. Green, driving his red Stutz car, drove him from Santa Barbara to Los Angeles in two hours and forty-five minutes in a heavy fog. "Never again," chirped Walter, and he can't be blamed for saying it either.

Harry Loraine is working with the King Baggott Company doing a heavy part.

Al St. John has completed his initial picture for the Paramount Corporation, and is busy cutting and titling same. He expects to get going again in about ten days.

George Siegman, James Kirkwood and Henry Walthall have been cast in the Allan Dwan story now in the making at the Brunton Studio. This is the first time that the trio have worked together in a picture in ten years. Their last appearance together was in the old days back in New York City as members of the Biograph Company.

Jack Mathews has been cast to play an important part with the Eric von Strohiem Company at Universal.

J. A. Howe, better known as Kitty, after taking a much needed rest, is once more mack and ready to start shouting, "Camera!"

Albert Parker is directing Clara Kimball Young at the Garson Studio out Edendale Way. He is being assisted by Nat Deveraux. They have about finished their present subject.

E. Mason Hopper and Philip Smalley were seen at Caughenga and Holly Boulevard gazing over a senario. Wonder what they are up to?

Harry Lamont is doing a chef for George Loane Tucker at the Brunton Studio.

Mark Goldaine has just completed his initial picture with Smiling Billy Parsons in the capacity of a director, after working for quite a period as an assistant director with the National.

ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

By Harry Burns

There is one thing that the A. D. A. organization is doing for the studios at large that is very commendable, and this is in the form of a warning that is passed out to every member which sounds something like this: "Do everything that you can for the good of the order," which in brief is: Be honest with the man who employs you; remember that every action and every move that you make is placed to your credit. Don't do anything that will discredit the association.

The Assistant Directors' Association is not a union; they are not trying to tell studio managers what they must do, or what they will or will not do, but they go on, day in and day out, and work and strive to make better pictures, and they feel just as duty bound to do what is fair, right and just to the smallest individual as they would the president of any company.

And, unless you live up to the principles and constitution of the A. D. A., you can't expect to be a member of the club. And to be barred out of the order will turn every one's attention in your direction and wonder what really is the matter with you, for the majority of the leading assistant directors belong to the association, and those that aren't already members have signified their willingness to join and will soon be among those already under the banner.

Co-operation with every one connected with the motion picture profession is their slogan, and their meetings twice a month in the clubrooms located at 5444 Hollywood Boulevard are doing a great deal to enlighten the boys on everything worth while to help them make "better pictures."

Marguerite Sylva, after finishing her engagement here, goes to Salt Lake, then to Denver and then returns to the Southland and is to make a picture for the American Film Company. Her previous efforts along this line brought to the screen her version of "Carmen," which was made in Spain by her company.

Bob McGowan is working hard on the Carter De Haven pictures, so that Carter can get busy on his contract with the Paramount Corporation.

Park Frame is to direct an all-star cast over at the old Otts-Sargent Studio in Boyle Heights. The new company will be known as the P. D. Sargent Productions Company.

Monty Blue has been cast to play with Ethel Clayton in "The Thirteenth Commandment" at Laskey's as his next vehicle.

Neal Burns is slated to help liven matters up in the Fay Tincher Company at Christie's.

Roy Marshall is no longer with the Brentwood Company after King Vidor left the organization. He changed his postoffice address to Thos. H. Ince's Studio, where he is assisting J. Parker Read in the production of Louise Glaum Specials.

Joe McCloskey is writing the continuity for a feature picture which he is to direct for Ollie Sellers.

Frederick Bond will direct some two-reel situation farce comedies at Nile, California, written by some of our leading writers. The pictures will feature the "Tannhouser Kid."

Lynn Reynolds has returned to the Universal, where he made "A Little Brother of the Rich," and is once more to be assisted by Val Paul, who is to be given a company to direct after he aids Director Reynolds in his present picture.

Curley Stecker journeyed over to the National Studio with Joe Martin, the ourang outang, and had him perform in a Smiling Billy Parsons picture the other day. This is the first time Joe has appeared outside of his own studio since he became a star.

W. S. Campbell is about ready to start the ball a rolling in the producing line. He has arranged to make his own pictures, along the lines of the Joe Martin pictures, which he produced for the Universal. The new producing unit is to come to life the first of the week, and Director Campbell will have the same staff with him that he brought out to the Big U to help him make his pictures.

House Peters has been surrounded by a very good cast under the direction of Alfred E. Green, who has engaged Mary Alden, Sam Southern, Vincent Sarno, Ruth St. Clair, Edward Kimball and Mildred Reardon.

Bert Apling completed a very pleasant engagement as heavy man in the Dorothy Gish picture at the Sunset Studios.

Reggie Morris is getting ready to start his second picture for the Mack Sennett interests. His initial effort with Louise Fazenda was well liked by the big chief of the fun factory out in the Edendale District.

Bill Nye, after finishing with the William S. Hart Company, has moved over to the William Fox Company and will be busily engaged there for some time to come.

Hampton Del Ruth has been given instructions to line up four more comedy companies in order to speed up the output of his Fox-Sunshine Comedies.

Bull Montana and Spike Robinson have gone wrong; saw them in Petifil's the other night eating ice cream and drinking soda

Muriel Forbes writes from El Paso, Texas, that she is on her way East and wishes to be remembered to her many friends here.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

To Support Fairbanks—Miss Kathleen Clifford has been engaged as Douglas Fairbanks' leading lady in his current picture on the United Artists' program. Mr. Ted Reed is Miss Clifford's personal director, and Mr. Vic Fleming is Mr. Fairbanks'. It is extremely probable the Fairbanks company will film many of the scenes in this picture in New York.

Miss Clifford will continue to reside at Long Beach, motoring over to the Brunton studios night and morning.

May Allen With Henry—May Allen, formerly a musical comedy player, and who recently has been acting in Universal productions, is now playing ingenue roles in Gale Henry comedies.

Big Barbecue—Bert Cressland, musician at the Goldwyn studios in Culver City, brought in the last buck of the season Monday morning, taking the pretty three-pointer out of the Santa Monica Mountains. One neck shot felled the deer, although Cressland pelted three others after the animal had staggered and fallen.

Celebrating the closing of the season, Crossland barbecued the buck at a downtown eating place where Jack Hawks, Percy Hilburn and a number of stags from the studio enjoyed the feast. Bert said that if he had tried to dish out the steaks there would have been many disappointed household chefs, so he took the whole venison to the cafe and invited the boys down to taste the delicacy.

Miss Kathleen Kirkham has just finished a part with Tom Moore in "Gay Lord Quex."

Al. St. John Has Tall Man—Al. St. John is given the credit for having secured the tallest man in pictures. A friend of Al.'s, while on his way to the coast, saw a young giant at a station in Missouri, and securing his name, gave it to Al., who immediately sent for him. He is Ingram "Cupid" Pickett, and though only twenty years old, he is 7 feet 1 inch tall and weighs 380 pounds.

Miss Tompkins Home—Elinor Tompkins, vice-president of the Alkire Photoplay Co., has just returned from the East, after a hurried visit on business for the company. While away she did a Nazimova with her hair, and the bobbing of her brilliant tresses so altered her apeparance that it was almost necessary to re-introduce her to the office staff.

With Dean—Mr. Wallace Derby has just finished working in Mr. Ince's production, "Behind the Door," and is now playing the heavy lead in a picture with Priscilla Dean.

Sedgwick With Rogers—Miss Josie Sedgwick, who has been playing leads for the Universal and Triangle companies for the last three years, has just been engaged to play opposite Will Rogers in his next Goldwyn production. Miss Sedgwick just finished a lead opposite Fred Stone.

Lewis Resting — While Mitchell Lewis is resting after the seven strenuous weeks spent in producing "The Last of His People," his director, Robert Bradbury, who has completed the cutting and titling of what he claims is Lewis' best picture, is now arranging to hie himself away to his woodland cabin far up in Tejunga canyon (providing the great forest fire now raging has not already devoured it), to write a new play to feature his star in a somewhat different type of character than he has appeared in heretofore.

Tripping East—Cyrus J. Williams, general manager of the Mitchell Lewis productions, leaves this week for New York for a conference with the officials of the Select Pictures Corporation, the distributing agency for Lewis' productions, and to personally present for preview his company's latest finished feature, "The Last of His People."

DORIS EVANS

Little Doris Evans has made a decided hit in her picture work, and it looks as if this clever child will soon rank high in her chosen profession.

Her mother was an Orpheum favorite for years and it seems that Doris has inherited her talents from her.

Wilson Going Strong—M. K. Wilson, director of the Helen Gibson railroad series, is starting on his third picture at the Capitol studio and is doing such good work that veteran Jim McCown will have to look after his laurels.

Harry S. Northrup, who has just finished his engagement in "The Luck of the Irish," under the direction of Allan Dwan, has been re-engaged by Universal to play the second male part in James J. Corbett's next picture, which will be directed by Mr. Jaccard.

Mr. Northrup's last picture with Universal was "The Brute Breaker."

Lead at Brentwood—Henry Woodward, widely known for his support of a large number of female stars, has been engaged by Brentwood to play opposite ZaSu Pitts in a picture which Claude H. Mitchell has now started directing.

Kelley With Dillon—Al E. Kelley is assisting Jack Dillon in the direction of Bert Lytell's latest picture, "The Right of Way." An elaborate courtroom scene in which three hundred extras are used has been keeping them busy for the past week.

Pulley New Foreman—Guy Pulley has been engaged as stage foreman for the Screen Classics (Inc.) Five companies are now at work on the Metro lot and Pulley is always on the go.

Short With Lytell—Antrim Short has the juvenile heavy role in "The Right of Way," Bert Lytell's latest picture. Jack Dillon, who is directing, had the same part in the original stage production of the story.

Abbe in "Willow Tree"—"Jack" Yutaka Abbe, the Japanese actor, is to play an important role in Viola Dana's latest production, "The Willow Tree." For the past week Abbe has been assisting Henry Otto, who is didecting, with many Nipponese children who appear in the early scenes.

Staulcup Designs—M. P. Staulcup has designed some beautiful Japanese settings for "The Willow Tree," Viola Dana's new picture.

Andre Dabbles in Clay—Victor Andre, chief of the modeling shop for the Screen Classics (Inc.), has made twenty miniature statues for "Should a Woman Tell," an all-star production at the Metro studio. These statues are supposed to be made by an untrained genius and Mr. Andre requests that all view them as such.

Gowland at Metro—Gibson Gowland is portraying the part of Jo Portugais in "The Right of Way."

New Aviator—Frank Lawrence, film editor of Universal, is now the proud possessor of his own aeroplane, which he purchased from a manufacturing company in Los Angeles for a tidy sum. Lawrence, like many others in the Los Angeles film industry, has become an aerial enthusiast, and he figured he would be saving money having his own plane instead of spending all his spare change for rentals.

New Assistant—Billy Tummell, who has been with Universal ever since it opened, has been made assistant director to Jacques Jaccard for the forthcoming James J. Corbett features, "The Prince of Avenue A" and "Pals," and a number of pictures yet unannounced.

Daughter of Pianist at "U"—Universal has engaged Miss Dagmar Godowsky for one of the principal roles in "The Peddler," on which Director William C. Dowlan will begin work in a few days. The actress is the daughter of Leopold Godowsky, world-famous pianist.

Mr. John Foster has arrived from New York City. Mr. Foster was in stock with D. W. Griffiths and played juvenile leads in the East.

UNIVERSAL NOTES

Chas. L. Hertzman.

The big event of the past week at Universal City was the start of Priscilla Dean on the first special production on her new Universal contract. "The Virgin of Stamboul" is the title of the eight-reel feature which marks the return of this well-known star to the screen after an absence of six months. The story was written by H. H. Van Loan, and is produced under the direction of Tod Browning.

"The Virgin of Stamboul" will cost over $250,000 to film. The entire action of the picture takes place in Turkey, and the Universal technical department has constructed a number of colossal street sets and mosques for the production.

Miss Dean's supporting cast includes Wheeler Oakman, Wallace Beery, E. A. Warren and Edward Burns.

"The Peddler," the H. C. Rowland story which has just started in the Saturday Evening Post, is being produced. Frank Mayo is seen in the title role with Ora Carew opposite him. Others in the notable cast are Ray Ripley, Dagmar Godowsky, Ora Devereaux, Truman Van Dyke, James Barrow, Bonnie Hill, Flora Hollister, W. Brown and Harold A. Miller.

William C. Dowlan is directing the production.

Monroe Salisbury has started on a new production, "The Phantom Melody," under the direction of Douglas Gerrard. Both the story and scenario were written by F. McGrew Willis.

An exceptional cast is seen in this new subject, and includes Barney Sherry, Ray Gallagher, Charles West, Jean Calhoun, Joe Ray and Milton Markwell.

The film version of "Lasca," by Percy Smith, has been completed under the direction of Norman Dawn. The final scenes were shot at the studio after the Universal company returned from an extended location trip to Calabasas, California.

Frank Mayo and Edith Roberts have the leading roles, while other characters are handled by Veola Harty, Lloyd Whitlock and Arthur Jasmine.

The week also marked the completion of the new Elmo Lincoln feature, "The Beach Comber," under the direction of Rex Ingram. It was written by J. G. Hawks, author of many William S. Hart stories.

The notables in the cast are Mabel Ballin, Harry van Meter, Ethelyn Irving, Frank Brownlee, Paul Weigel, Lilie Leslie, Noble Johnson and Dick La Reno.

Eric von Stroheim's newest production, "The Woman in the Plot," is well under way with an all-star cast, including Sam De Grasse, Clyde Fillmore, Una Thevelyn, Maude George, Leo White and Mae Busch.

The story was adapted by Von Stroheim from the well-known book, "Clothes and the Woman," by Baroness de Meyer.

Dorothy Phillips and her director, Allen Holubar, have been working night and day on their latest feature. Miss Phillips has a splendid cast for her latest vehicle, including Robert Anderson, Rudolf Valentino, Elinor Field, Emily Chichester, Mary Wise, William Ellingford, Mrs. Margaret Mann and William von Hardenburg.

Tsuru Aoki (Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa) is in the middle of her first Universal feature, "The Breath of the Gods," by Randall Parrish. The cast of supporting players includes Arthur Carew, Pat O'Malley, Barney Sherry, Ethel Shannon, Stanhope Wheatcroft, N. Seki, Marion Skinner and Mae Wells. The director is Rollin S. Sturgeon.

Mr. Jack Holt has been re-engaged by Maurice Tourneur, his fourth engagement with this company, for the role of pirate chief in "Treasure Island."

Jack Resting—Jack Gilbert has just finished an eight weeks' engagement as juvenile with George Loane Tucker.

At Lasky's—Mr. Walter Hiers is at present playing a juvenile lead in "It Pays to Advertise," with Lasky company.

....With Hampton—Mr. George L. Swann has just finished a heavy with Jesse Hampton production, "The Prince and Betty."

Good Record—Douglas Bronston's first Neal Hart picture, the direction of which he has just completed at the Capitol studios, was so good that Mr. Owen, studio manager, declared he would break the two-reel precedent of the company and release the first Bronston picture as a three-reel special.

Ferguson Convalescing—Casson Ferguson is reported to be out of danger, after his recent serious operation in a Glendale sanitorium. It will be several weeks before Mr. Ferguson will be able to resume his screen work.

Represent Goldwyn at Stampede—A number of the Goldwyn cowboys have entered for the riding and roping honors in the Stampede, soon to be held at the Ascot speedway in Los Angeles. As some of the best hands at this game are on the Goldwyn roll for Will Rogers pictures and the current Mabel Normand production, that studio expects to be well represented in the distribution of the prizes.

White Sox Star—"Big Boy" Williams, the baseball player who was signed up by the Chicago White Sox last year, is a member of the supporting cast in the new Mabel Normand picture, now in course of production at the Goldwyn studios.

Frederick to Live in L. A.—Pauline Frederick will leave Los Angeles shortly for New York, production being completed on her current picture. Her present plan is to return to the Goldwyn studios in about two weeks. The trip is purely on personal business, Miss Frederick having decided to make her home in California permanently, and while East she will dispose of her farm in Connecticut, letting her horses and kennel go with it.

Christie Off for East—Having resurrected his much-worn commutation ticket, C. H. Christie again leaves Los Angeles this week for New York and way points. The way points include Chicago, Cleveland and other large exchange centers where leading independent exchange men are handling the Christie pictures.

New Scenario Addition—Once again a newspaper man has made good on the "big time" in the scenario game, which should be a hopeful sign to the boys who are writing future screen masterpieces between jobs of "covering" the court house, etc. Paul Schofield, scribe from New York and way points, has been added to the scenario staff of the Ince studios, following in the footsteps of Sullivan, Lynch, Lewis and other Ince star writers who were formerly star reporters. Schofield is now writing screen stories in the original and continuity for Ince stars.

Hobart Bosworth, who has just completed the filmization of the Gouverneur Morris story, "Behind the Door," under the direction of Irvin Willat, will commence next week on a new picture under the same director. This is to be an original story written by Luther E. Reed, one of the well-known writers of original scripts. The title is "The Oath."

The Harry Carey company, under the direction of Jack Ford, returned from Victorville, California, where scenes were taken for "The Gift of the Desert." The story was adapted by H. Tipton Steck from "The Three Godfathers," a Saturday Evening Post feature by Peter B. Kyne.

Winifred Westover plays opposite Carey, with J. Farrell McDonald, Joe Harris, Ted Brook and Charles Le Moyne in the supporting cast.

Several scenes for "The Pointing Finger," Mary MacarLen's newest vehicle, were filmed in the famous Wrigley mansion in Pasadena. David Butler is again seen opposite Miss MacLaren. Other notables in the cast are Johnnie Cooke, Carl Stockdale, Lydia Knott and Charlotte Woods.

Eddie Kull is directing the picture, which was adapted by Violet Clark from "No Experience Required," a magazine story by Frank R. Adams.

"The Lion Man" serial, starring Kathleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin, is now in the fifth episode, under the direction of Al Russell. The cast for this serial includes the principals, being Barney Sherry, Robert Walker, Henry Barrows, Gertrude Astor, James Farley, Phil Gastrock, Leonard Clapham and Slim Pagett.

Randall Parrish is the author of "The Strange Case of Cavendish," the story from which "The Lion Man" was adapted.

Henry McRae and company are now on the Pacific bound for the Orient. The players making the trip are Marie Walcamp, the noted serial star; Harland Tucker, Otto Lederer and Wadsworth Harris and a dozen others.

"The Petals of Lao Tze," by J. Allen Dunn, will be filmed for Universal by the McRae expedition.

Jacques Jaccard is resting before beginning on James J. Corbett's new feature, "The Prince of Avenue A." He recently did strenuous work on the Locklear picture, "Cassidy of the Air Lanes," which has been cut and titled.

Art Acord, the noted rider, has completed "The Kid and the Cowboy," under the direction of Reeves Eason at Universal City. Mildred Moore plays opposite Acord, while George Fields, Andrew Waldron, Reeves Eason, Jr., and Charles Newton are in the supporting cast.

Hoot Gibson and Josephine Hill have finished work on a two-reel Western, "The Lone Hand," the story and scenario of which were done by Arthur Macuarrie and Charles Brindley appeared in the supporting cast.

Major Jack Allen has completed his latest Universal animal story, "The Jaguar Hunt."

Florence Turner has completed "Health Farm," a one-reel comedy by Theodore Joos, and has already commenced work on a new comedy, "Some Girl.' Lester Marsh and Hal Wilson support Miss Turner in her picture.

Lyons and Moran have finished "Small Town Stuff," and are now busy on their next mirth-provoker, "The Book Baby."

Director Al Santell has finished "Hot Tamale," featuring a new comedian to the films, Chris Rub. Beatrice Burnham plays the girl. In the cast appear Howard Knoth, C. G. Briden and Ward Wing.

Baumann Up Again—Fred Baumann, master of properties at the National, is again stepping around with his usual pep, after a rather severe attack of grip.

....Splendid—Johnnie Cooke, the veteran character player, is dazzling Universal City in a long linen duster, an African kelly-hat and a butterfly net. The actor is depicting the role of a bugologist in "The Pointing Finger," Mary MacLaren's latest starring vehicle.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

STATEMENT

Of the Ownership, Management, Circulation, Etc., Required by the Act of Congress of August 24, 1912,

Of Camera! published weekly at Los Angeles, Cal.. for October 1, 1919.
State of California,
County of Los Angeles—ss.

Before me, a Notary Public, in and for the State and County aforesaid, personally appeared Raymond Cannon, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the Business Manager of the Camera! and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to-wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:
Publishers, E. M. Robbins and Raymond Cannon, Los Angeles, Cal.
Editor, E. M. Robbins, Los Angeles, Cal.
Business Manager, Raymond Cannon, Los Angeles, Cal.

2. That the owners are E. M. Robbins and Raymond Cannon.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are—None.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

5. That the average number of copies of each issue of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is not required.

RAYMOND CANNON,
Business Manager.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 26th day of September, 1919.

OTTO A. POLL

Crack all-around athlete from the East, sends challenge to any film actor to an all-around meet, bars none. A. A. 2 rules to govern, inside and outside athletic work. Started his career as an athlete at the age of seventeen in the year 1912, and known throughout the East and hailed as one of the best gymnasts in the country, also the best all-around athlete in picture today, taking into consideration outside and inside athletic work. Poll has won all kinds of prices for boxing, wrestling, running, jumping, climbing for height hand-over-hand without the use of feet, throwing the 56-lb. weight, putting the shot, hurdling and all-around gymnastics. Poll is about the only man in pictures today who can pull up on one hand to his chin, three times with either hand, and holds the cross on the flying rings the longest of any man in the country. He won the physical culture contest in 1917 held at New Jersey as the best developed athlete in the country. In the year of 1917 at the National championships held in New York Poll broke the record for tricks and form, scoring 88½ points out of 90 points on the rings. He was then hailed as the best ring artist in the world. Poll, known in the East as the good-looking gymnast, won five American championships on the flying rings. Poll is one in pictures today who can claim himself as an all-around athlete and strong man, and has prizes to show for them. Previous to entering pictures he has played leads on the legitimate stage. Now with Fox productions. Height 6 ft. Weight 175 lbs. Black hair, brown eyes.

ARROWHEAD TRAIL

In general, conditions over the Arrowhead Trail between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City are excellent. Many Utah motorists who spend their winters in Southern California and who have driven over the Arrowhead Trail in former seasons, and lately, report that conditions over that route now are better than ever before. During the past year, many credible things have been accomplished in the way of road and bridge construction work and the tourist familiar with that route has been agreeably surprised with general road conditions. From Los Angeles, the route is followed by way of San Bernardino, Victorville, Barstow and Goffs to Las Vegas. Fast running time can be made over this desert portion of the route as the road at present is in excellent shape with only one rough stretch—between Ludlow and Amboy, a distance of 26 miles. Here, the road is rough and chucky and calls for slow driving. It is a distance of 383 miles from Los Angeles to Las Vegas, and that portion of the trip can easily be made in a day and a half by the average driver. Points where gasoline, water and supplies may be obtained are located at frequent intervals on the desert. In fact, those commodities can be secured at convenient places along the entire route. From Las Vegas to St. Thomas, the road can be classified as fair, except approaching St. Thomas, there is a stretch of road approximately 8 miles long, which bears evidence of summer rains. This is also true of the road i nthe Virgin River Bottom in the vicinity of Bunkerville, Mosquite and Littlefield. From St. George north for a distance of 47.5 miles, or to the Iron County line, conditions are fair. The balance of the route through Cedar City, Parowan, Beaver, Fillmore and Provo, offers boulevard conditions. The road is wide, smooth and well maintained and has no excessive grades. Pavink work is now under way between Provo and Sandy, but the detour which is provided wil cause no trouble at this season of the year when dry weather prevails. Sandy to Salt Lake City, 12 miles, concrete boulevard. A trip over the Arrowhead Trail during the fall season should be replete with pleasure and interest, minus any element of discomfort. The heat is not intense now on the Mojave Desert and weather conditions are more settled throughout the country traversed by this route. It is approximately 851 miles from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City via this route, and the trip can be comfortably made in four or five days.

CAMP BALDY ROAD

Open and in good condition.

MIDLAND TRAIL-LINCOLN HIGHWAY

Los Angeles to Salt Lake City. Follow the San Fernando Boulevard from Los Angeles to Saugus. From this point to Mojave, there is a choice of two troutes, one by way of Mint Canyon and Lancaster, the other by way of Boquet Canyon, Elizabeth Lake and Willow Springs—optional routes. The poor conditions between Lancaster and the Kern County line are now being improved by county road gangs who are at work filling in the chuck holes, rolling and scraping the road. From Mojave north through the Owens River Valley, conditions are good. Use Red Rock Canyon in preference to Jawbone Canyon in driving from Cinco to Freemans. From Big Pine to Goldfield, a distance of 93 miles across the White Mountains, conditions are fair with the exception of a ten-mile stretch of washed-out road on the small range between Westgard Pass and Lida Summit, and a stretch of disagreeable road approximately two miles in length near the state line. The road from Big Pine to the summit of Westgard Pass, a distance of 12 miles, is good. Grades from 12 to 20 per cent. Toll for machines, 75 cents. Goldfield to Tonopah, exceedingly rough at present owing to the heavy traffic between these two points. Gasoline at Goldfield, 37½ cents; Tonopah, 40 cents. No obvious reason for difference in price as it is only a distance of 26 miles between the two towns and both are on the railroad. Tonopah to Ely, generally good all the way with the exception of some extremely rough stretches of road just east of Tonopah and between Nyala and Butler's Ranch. Most of the travel between Stone Corral and Butler's Ranch favors the Blue Eagle Route. During rainy weather, road conditions are extremely poor near Blue Eagle Ranch and just east of Butler's Ranch, and all motorists are advised to use "rainy weather" roads which are on high ground and indicated by Tuto Club signs. Butler's Ranch to Ely, good. From Ely east to junction of the new cut-off and the Fish Springs Road, conditions are good with the exception of a ten mile stretch just west of Ibapah which is very chucky and dusty, caused by lack of rain and heavy travel in that section. This is also true of the road in stretches between Ibapah and the above junction. The new Lincoln Highway cut-off between Gold Hill and Orr's Ranch is not open to travel, due to construction work; therefore, all motorists have to use the old road—to the right—by way of Callao and Fish Springs to Orr's Ranch. This route has been signposted by the Club and with the exception of some disagreeable dusty and rough stretches, is in fair condition. Gasoline at Fish Springs sells for approximately 60 cents per gallon. Advise all motorists to load up with sufficient water and gasoline to carry them a distance of 60 miles, from Fish Springs to Orr's Ranch, as those commodities cannot be procured along that stretch.

SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

WALTER FARNUM COMPANY, 612 GRANT BUILDING, LOS ANGELES. In the market for one and two-reel comedies. No slapstick.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD., LOS ANGELES. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL, LOS ANGELES. See Lasky Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGLESES. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Fay Tincher, Katherine Lewis, James Libby, Gertrude Selby and Harry Depp. Please submit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN, LOS ANGELES. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE, LOS ANGELES. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD., LOS ANGELES. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST., LOS ANGELES. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY, LOS ANGELES. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY, CALIF. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

MODEL COMEDY COMPANY, 1329 GORDON ST., HOLLYWOOD, is in the market for two-reel comedies featuring Gale Henry. Stories must contain strikingly snappy situations for female boob characters. No slap-stick will be considered. Please remit by mail.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

THE DIGEST OF THE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY

VOL. II. No. 26 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, OCTOBER 4, 1919 PRICE 5 CENTS

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH.

To Photoplayers

AN OPEN LETTER FROM AL W. FILSON TO HIS FRIENDS IN THE PROFESSION.

How many actors save money enough to take care of themselves in their old age? Very few.

How many even of those who draw liberal salaries put by enough to enable them to LIVE IN COMFORT AND SECURITY after they have passed their real usefulness? Comparatively few.

I have been an actor for forty years, and I know all the ups and downs of professional life and see the history of the stage as I have known it repeating itself right here in Los Angeles.

THERE NEVER WAS A TIME WHEN SO MANY ACTORS WERE GETTING BIG MONEY AS RIGHT NOW IN THIS CITY, AND YET THERE NEVER WAS A TIME WHEN SO FEW OF THEM WERE SAVING OR INVESTING A PART OF THEIR EARNINGS AGAINST THE RAINY DAY THAT IS TO COME.

My advice to members of the profession is this: Prepare against the time when, for one reason or another, your services no longer will be required.

I have myself followed the advice I give here. What I preach I've practiced, and on this page I point the moral and adorn the tale.

I am inserting this advertisement because most of my friends read CAMERA! It would take me weeks to call on all of them, and so I want them to consider this a personal communication, and I stand back of every word of it.

As many of you know, I am president of the Midway Northern Oil Company, that has a capital of One Million dollars, that is now producing about 700 barrels of oil a day and carries a net cash surplus of over $260,000.

Lately I organized and became president of the Active Oil Company. The capital is small, only $100,000 and the par value of the shares is One Dollar each. I think the Active will prove at least as good as Midway.

Here are the facts about the Active Oil Company.

It holds a twenty-year lease on 300 acres of ground nearby, in the San Fernando valley, being a part of the famous Sylmar olive grove. The lease requires work to be begun by November 6, 1919.

George Boston Edwards, who has had lifelong experience in practical oil production and who is to be the company's superintendent, reports as follows:

> "Pico anticline, which has been demonstrated by development to be productive of high gravity oil and of wonderful stability, crosses this 300-acre lease in a southeasterly direction near the center of the property.
>
> "Leases on land adjoining ours in the near vicinity are held by General Petroleum, Standard Oil and other important oil interests. Both Union and Standard have a considerable number of productive wells on the Pico anticline, some of which have been yielding steadily for more than twenty years.
>
> "The high gravity oil from this formation is worth from two to three dollars a barrel at the well.
>
> "Stability of production extending over a long term of years is one of the best known characteristics of the structure."

The executive staff of the Active Oil Company is composed of the following officers: President, Al. W. Filson, also President of the Midway Northern Oil Company; Secretary, Monroe Lathrop, late Dramatic Editor of the Los Angeles Express; Treasurer, Malcom Crowe, Cashier Commercial National Bank of Los Angeles; Directors, Albert Miller, director of Midway Northern Oil Company, and F. A. Maestretti, extensive contractor, San Francisco.

THE CAPITALIZATION OF THE COMPANY IS LOW, THE MANAGEMENT COMPETENT AND EXPERIENCED, THE LEASED AREA LARGE, THE CHANCE OF FAILURE SLIGHT, AND THE PROSPECTS OF SUCCESS ALLURING.

Nearly $15,000 of the $25,000 has been subscribed by the directors and their friends, and the chances are that the whole of the present offering will be allotted within a week.

Bids are now being received for machinery and material. The work of drilling will be prosecuted with vigor and unless all signs fail the company will be established on a dividend-paying basis within a few months, there to remain for many years with dividends increasing as new wells are drilled.

It looks good to me—good enough for me to put my money into it and good enough for me to offer to my friends. Think it over, BUT DON'T THINK TOO LONG.

The amount of stock to be sold is limited.

If you're interested, call me up on phone, No. 61278, or, better yet, call on me in person at the company's office and I'll be glad to answer any question or give any information in my possession.

However, the time is so short, the opportunity so unusual, the amount of stock to be sold so small and the prospects of big returns so attractive that I advise against delay.

FINALLY PLEASE BEAR IN MIND THAT THIS ISN'T A STOCK SELLING PROPOSITION, BUT A STRAIGHT, CAREFULLY MANAGED, CLEAN-CUT, BUSINESS ENTERPRISE, WITH JUST ENOUGH RISK TO IT TO MAKE IT INTERESTINGLY SPECULATIVE, AND WITH THE PROMISE OF A PROFIT BIG ENOUGH TO MORE THAN JUSTIFY THE RISK.

Yours truly,

AL. W. FILSON.

THEIR SALARIES

One of the most recent and most emphatic cries made by the producers is the "Fewer and Better" slogan for pictures. Primarily the idea was to make fewer and better pictures, and in attaining this end all relative issues have been affected.

A point which comes to our mind at present is the matter of salaries. The increase in salaries being paid to actors and actresses, ranging from the extra people to leads, is remarkable. We know of innumerable instances in the past few months and weeks where checks have been doubled, tripled, and further even than that. This has happened to men and women who have been in the picture game for many years. These are not cases of infant proteges, "discoveries" or "luck."

We feel that it is the result of natural evolution and that abundant prosperity has nothing to do with it. "Fewer and better" could be applied to the actors in the industry as well as the finished productions.

The war had much to do with weeding out the surplus of so-called "talent." Hundreds of actors went to war or to work and have become more or less useful citizens. They didn't come back to the films, fortunately for the films. By this we do not mean that all those whose picture careers were interrupted by the European disturbance were a useless surplus. Far from that. Many were desirable additions to any studio, and many of these have come back. Many of the other kind have returned also, but they can't stay. They can't "come back."

The producer is awakening. He is beginning to realize that he must have the right kind of talent in order to carry out the fondly cherished "f. and b." stunt. He is also studying intelligently and at last begins to know what is the "right" kind of talent.

Many things have deluded in the past when engaging people. Habit was the chief fault. The demand for large salaries frequently created a false worth, when actual benefit could be gained for less money.

In their honest search and endeavor for better results the directors have come to know this fact, and to appreciate it. Their appreciation is more than words of praise, verbal thanks, and a pat on the back. It comes in the hard old cash, and the checks with lots of figures on them. And it is offered and is given without being asked for. That is why, as in one case of many, an actor portrayed a part for $60 each week less than six months ago, and now returns to the same company to do a similar part for which he is receiving $300 each week. Sounds ridiculous, doesn't it? Positively a fact, and we could cite numerous others.

It was a long time coming but it is here now when real worth is acknowledged and treated as such.

AUTO NEWS

Southern California motorists, bitten with the "fire-engine chasing" bugs, are endangering the lives of firemen in both urban and rural communities, according to a report issued by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Complaints have been received by the big motoring organization from fire departments throughout the southern part of the state saying that almost universally, auto owners fail to comply with the local ordinances compelling automobiles to get out of the way of fire engines and trucks racing to a conflagration, and they also do other and worse things, says the report.

Whenever a fire engine is heard approaching, whether traveling the same street or road on which a motorist is located, that motorist is required by the state and various counties, to draw to one side of the thoroughfare and stop.

But motorists are not doing this in Southern California say the fire department heads, and for that reason the Automobile Club has been called upon for aid. Now, the wily car driver will begin to race as soon as he hears the bells and whistles, in order to beat the engines to the fire if possible.

In the future all motorists who do not stop at the curb when a fire engine approaches will be prosecuted. Other admonitions governing conduct in case of fire include the driving up behind engines at a conflagration and blocking the progress of second and third alarm companies.

Carelessness on the part of auto owners endangers the lives of brave firemen, says the Auto Club, and a general warning throughout this section is issued, to beware of prosecutions.

The little word "or" in a clause of the new Motor Vehicle Act is liable to cause owners of closed automobiles in Southern California thousands of needless dollars unless they watch their step, warns the Automobile Club of Southern California.

This is relative to the installation of mechanical devices on cars to indicate which turn they are going to make, whether to the right or left.

Many owners of closed cars are under the impression that they must equip their machines with such mechanical devices, says the Auto Club, when such is positively not the case. In fact, quite the contrary, for whenever an arm signal, as approved by the state, can be seen from the rear, no patent device is necessary, it is pointed out.

Thousands of inquiries are being received throughout the southern part of the state on the question by the Automobile Club and in each instance the official answer (as confirmed by the State Motor Vehicle Department at Sacramento) is: "You don't have to have any mechanical signalling device on your closed car or truck when the usual arm signal can be seen from the rear."

It is unfortunate, say club officials, that this misapprehension should have arisen in the minds of motorists, but now it should be thoroughly understood, and thousands of dollars will be saved to the motoring public.

ROAD BULLETIN

NATIONAL OLD TRAILS ROAD

The only hindrance to the making of good time over this route now would be the misfortune of encountering rains through Arizona and New Mexico. These are not apt to occur frequently at this season of the year. The fall constitutes the best season of the year in which to make a cross country trip via the N. O. T. Route as at that time weather conditions are more settled. From Los Angeles to the summit of the Cajon Pass, paved; then good desert road through Victorville, Barstow, Ludlow and Amboy to Needles—except for a 26-mile stretch of slow going caused by the rough conditions of the road between Ludlow and Amboy. Between those points there are two roads—one to the north, and one to the south of the railroad—both are rough and chucky, and carry an equal amount of travel. Needles to Kingman, fair—although rough between Topock and Yucca. Kingman to Seligman—this portion of the route shows evidence of severe summer rains and is disagreeably rough in places, especially in Nelsons Canyon. Seligman to Ashfork, fair. Ashfork to Williams and Flagstaff, excellent. Williams to the Grand Canyon, rocky in places; otherwise good. This also applies to the road between the canyon and Flagstaff. Flagstaff to Winslow, good. Winslow to Holbrook—use new road to north of railroad. Holbrook to Los Lunas and Albuquerque; use either Gallup Route or Springerville-Socorro Road. Motorists who have come over Gallup Route recently report no trouble in getting through—bridges are badly needed over some of the washes and arroyos—and there are a few rough and sandy stretches that call for slow driving. The road between Springerville and Magdalena has been affected by recent rains and motorists are complaining about the rough conditions. Both routes are entirely passable and have been signposted by the Club. Albuquerque to Santa Fe and Las Vegas, generally fair. Las Vegas to Raton—very poor in the flats near Wagon Mound and Springer—otherwise that portion of the route is generally fair. Raton to Trinidad—thence east to Kansas City—or north through Colorado—good.

LOS ANGELES TO NEW ORLEANS

Use the Santa Fe Trail from Los Angeles to Socorro; from there a choice of two routes is had—one via El Paso, Van Horn, Pecos and Abeline to Ft. Worth—the other as follows: Go south a distance of about ten miles from Socorro to the small town of San Antonio, thence go east via Carrizozo, Roswell and Tahoka to Fort Worth. Both routes show effects of heavy travel due to oil activities in Texas. Fort Worth to Houston—good. Then excellent road—with many miles of hard surface to New Orleans.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

Chambers' Company—Forty-three of Robert W. Chambers' stories are to be filmed by a new company bearing his name.

For Vitagraph—Frederick Day, author of the famous Nick Carter stories, has been engaged to write thrillers for Vitagraph, in which Harry Morey will be featured.

With Goldwyn—Eugene Walter, the playwright, author of "Paid in Full" and "The Easiest Way," is the newest convert to pictures. He has joined the Goldwyn scenario dept.

"Mary's Ankle" Cast—For the cast of "Mary's Ankle," which Director Lloyd Ingraham is making for Thomas H. Ince, with Douglas MacLean and Dorris May featured, the following players have been engaged: Neal Burns, Victor Potel, James Gordon, Lizette Thorn and Ida Lewis—a galaxy of players that in such able hands ought to turn out a great piece of work.

Winston With Sargent—Laura Winston has signed with the Sargent Production Co. to play "Sis Maloney," under the direction of Park Frame. Miss Winston has just finished the parts of "Mrs. Schomberg" in "Victory" with Maurice Tourneur.

Weather Contest—An exciting match is being played at the Brentwood between director Claude H. Mitchell and manager of construction C. R. Kendall, with the winner in the hands of the weather god. Kendall has had a large force of carpenters and builders increasing the stage space and making an entirely closed stage, 100x100 ft. He promised to have the big nine-ton trusses which have been built to carry the roof out of the way and the stage cleared for Mitchell to work in his studio sets by the time the latter had completed the location work on the picture he is now directing with ZaSu Pitts in the lead. It looked like an even race with fair obstacles on both sides as long as the rain of last week held back both contestants equally. The overcast skies, however, of the last few days prevented Mitchell from shooting but were no hindrance to Kendall's construction, and as a consequence Kendall is crowing and Mitchell preparing to buy the dinners.

Harris Chaplin Feature — Mildred Harris Chaplin's plays are to be released through the First National Exhibitors' Circuit. They are to be made from six successful books. the first of which is "Old Dad" by Eleanor Hallowell Abbott.

Supporting Ham—Harry McCoy is a member of the Lloyd Hamilton cast at Lehrman's, following the completion of a tour of the Pantages circuit. Others engaged by Mr. Lehrman for this picture are Ernie Shields and Charles Dudley.

With Lehrman—Suzanne Avery has just been engaged by Henry Lehrman as a member of the beauty brigade which will form such an important part of the new Lehrman Comedies and is appearing in a role in a picture featuring Billie Ritchie.

Virginia Rappe will be seen in the leading feminine role, with Hugh Fay playing opposite Billie Ritchie, in a supporting comedy role.

Fair Feature—Gale Henry attended the Ventura County Fair, where she and her company filmed scenes to a rural comedy last week. Four days were spent on the grounds. What aroused the enthusiasm of the fair's patrons more perhaps than any other part of the picture was when the company staged a chase through the crowds. Herman C. Raymaker directed and Miss Henry's support included Eddie Baker, Hap H. Ward and Bill Franey.

Beban Starts Work—George Beban has started work at the Katherine MacDonald studios. Helen Eddy has been selected as leading woman and Ralph Fisher, formerly with George Loane Tucker, will turn the crank on the next Beban feature, the scenario for which was completed recently by Mr. Beban.

Produced in Kentucky—Bertram Bracken, who has enjoyed a few weeks' vacation, will soon be hard at work again on a new production, "The Kentucky Colonel," starring Francis MacDonald, adapted, from the book by Opie Reid.

An all-star cast has been assembled by Bertram Bracken for "The Kentucky Colonel." Director Bracken's production roster will include his regular staff, viz., Walter Griffin, cameraman; Jack Laver, assistant director, and Fred Bowman, master of properties. This staff and leads in the cast will accompany him to Kentucky for the shooting of the majority of the scenes. They intend leaving within ten days and will probably be gone for from six weeks to two months.

New Continuity—Everett C. Maxwell, the latest acquisition to the Scenario Department at the National, is bearing down on the continuity of his Thaddeus Phipps stories, which same will be used as vehicles for a new star soon to be signed.

Team Trouping Again—Eddie Flanagan and Neely Edwards have resumed acquaintance with the old grease paint and are hitting the high spots in the interests of a new comedy of the "Hall Room Boys" series. Mark Goldaine is directing them, assisted by Arno Marsh.

Edwards Busy—Director Harry Edwards has nearly completed his latest comedy de luxe, "This Is the Life," starring Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven at the National Studios.

Rhodes Feature—Billie Rhodes, National Film star, has started work on her new feature, "Hearts and Masks," under the direction of William Seiter.

Mr. Seiter has assembled an exceptionally strong supporting cast, which includes in part Mollie McConnell, Lillian Clark, Karla Schramm, Lloyd Bacon, John Cossar, Harry Lindley, Russ Powell and Lewis Natheaux.

Scott Beall is acting in the capacity of assistant director and Walter Griffin officiating at the camera.

Martin Doner is art director.

Hurst Company Returns—Ann Little, Jack Hoxie, Director Paul Hurst and company have returned from Mojave Desert locations, where they have been shooting numerous scenes for the serial "Lightning Bryce."

Harvey Gates, who has been writing the continuity for the above mentioned story, is also back at the National Studios after a short sojourn in Salt Lake City.

Dillon Through With Mob—Jack Dillon finished up with the three hundred extra people who have been working in Bert Lytell's latest picture, "The Right Way," last Saturday. He is at present filming some interior scenes of Lytell's law office.

Kelley at Tahoe—Al E. Kelley, assistant director for "The Right of Way," Bert Lytell's latest picture, left Monday for Lake Tahoe, where he will arrange for a visit of the company at a later date.

DeMille Feature — Mr. deMille is progressing famously with "Why Change Your Wife?" which was written by William C. deMille, with the scenario by Sada Cowan and Olga Printzlau. Thomas Meighan, Gloria Swanson, Theodore Kosloff, Bebe Daniels and others have the leading parts.

Greetings—Donald Crisp has just finished "It Pays to Advertise," starring Bryant Washburn, and next week will begin work on "Too Much Johnson," with the same star and a splendid supporting cast. Mr. Washburn arrived home from Chicago, where the final scenes were taken of the former picture to find a new arrival at his home in the person of Dwight Ludlow Washburn, who was born last week during his father's absence. The new baby is an eleven-pound infant and is declared to be the image of his father.

Warwick Feature—William deMille is preparing to start work on "Jack Straw," with Major Robert Warwick in the starring role, having just completed "The Tree of Knowledge," in which Major Warwick also starred.

For Clayton—Beautiful Ethel Clayton is in the midst of "The Thirteenth Commandment," under the direction of Robert G. Vignola, upon finishing which she will return to the Lasky studio to film "Young Mrs. Winthrop," but the director is as yet unannounced.

P. A. Active—Al. Wilkie, publicity representative for Cecil B. deMille, is expected back from New York next week, whither he went to aid in the exploitation of "Male and Female," the last finished production by the director-general of the company. Adam Hull Shirk, West Coast publicity director, will leave on October 11 for New York for a three-weeks' trip in connection with publicity matters. During his absence, W. A. Reeve, Melvin M. Riddle and Alfred D. Wilkie will care for publicity matters at the Lasky studio.

Melford Location—George H. Melford and his company have departed for San Francisco to film the Paramount-Artcraft special, "The Sea Wolf," and are putting up temporarily at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco.

James Cruze is completing work this week on "Hawthorne of the U. S. A.," in which Wallace Reid is starred, supported by Lila Lee. Mr. Reid will start shortly on "Speed Carr," under the direction of Sam Wood, while Mr. Cruze will take over the Houdini production, as yet unnamed.

Dwan Progress—Allan Dwan is finishing the final scenes of his second independent production, which will be a visualization of Harold MacGrath's story of adventurous romance, "The Luck of the Irish," and will start in the first of the week selecting the cast of his next picture.

Although Mr. Dwan has not made public the name of his next production, he has stated that it will be taken from a widely read and popular novel and that it will require a large cast of principals to interpret the many characters which the story contains.

New Glaum Feature—J. Parker Read, Jr., has in preparation a new story for his star, Louise Glaum's next production. It is an original story by Mr. C. Gardner Sullivan, who is now busy making the screen adaptation.

Independent Production.—Monroe Salisbury is to become an independent star within a few weks and his pictures are to be released by First National.

Saturday Evening Post Story.—The third picture of the famous Billy Fortune stories by William Lighton, which Director Clarence Badger is making for Goldwyn with Will Rogers as the star, is well under way. It is "Jubilo." Mr. Badger says it will be the best of the series to date, and that the millions of readers who laughed over the story in the magazines will be delighted with it in its pictorial form.

Another.—Maude S. Banks, a young woman who has made a large fortune in Wyoming oil fields, has organized a movie company and will endeavor to make a star of herself.

Fox Novel.—Jack Pickford will make his first picture for Goldwyn "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" from John Fox's novel.

Eastern Negotiation.—M. C. Levee, vice-president and business manager of the Brunton studios, has left for New York on an extended business trip. While in the east he will probably secure the film rights of one or two well known novels for J. Warren Kerrigan and complete negotiations with a famous stage star who is shortly to produce under the Brunton brand.

At Hampton.—Production has commenced at the Jesse D. Hampton studio on Fred Myton's story, "A Fugitive from Matrimony," with H. B. Warner in the chief role. Seena Owen is Warner's leading lady and the cast under Henry King's direction, includes Adele Farrington. Christine Mayo, LuluWarrenton, Irene De Voss, Walter Perry and John Gough.

First Finished.—The first comedy of the series of twenty-six one-reelers, which the Holly Comedies are producing for distribution by the Bulls-Eye Film Corporation, has been titled "Don't Scold Your Husband." Sid Smith is the star. Smith's principal supports are Madge Kirby and James Parrott.

New Company.—To fill a gap in the Bull's-Eye Film Corporation's program, production will begin shortly on a series of two-reel situation comedies, the star and director's names are being kept secret.

AT GOLDWYN STUDIOS

In New York.—Samuel Goldwyn, president of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, has returned to New York after several weeks at the West Coast Studio perfecting plans for the increased production by his company.

On Location.—Director Frank Lloyd and a company of twenty Goldwyn players are in San Francisco filming dock scenes for the Rex Beach picture, "The Silver Horde."

Complete Features.—Geraldine Farrar, Pauline Frederick and Tom Moore have just completed productions at the Goldwyn studio. Mis Farrar has started on her concert tour. Both of the others have gone to New York for a short vacation.

VITAGRAPH NEWS

New Production.—All four of the comedy companies started on new productions this week. Montgomery and Rock began a rural story, Jimmy Aubrey started on a burlesque of corrupt city life, Harry Mann commenced the second of his series of "Simple Harry" hookum and Larry Semon launched a new comedy thriller.

Feature Morley. — Director David Smith has cast Jay Morley as the featured player in the O. Henry story, "The Roads We Take." Production of this story is now well under way with Bill Dagwell acting as assistant director and Charlie Seeling officiating at the camera.

Oakley Starts Production.—Production on the first Oakley Super-Quality Productions, Inc., motion pictures will begin Monday, October 6th, at the Norbig Studios in Edendale. Three directors and a large cast of players has already been engaged. The company will film satires, western dramas and society productions.

They will start next week to make a two-reel comedy satire, the title of which is "It's Hell to be Rich." The cast in this two-reeler is Yvonne Gardelle, Walter K. Perkins, Florence Gray, Patsy O'Byrne, Hilton LaBelle, Jack Wetherby, and J. Smiley. The director is Clyde McCoy. The camera man is L. M. Smith, second camera man, Al Henderson. Scenario by James Dayton. J. L. Becker is outside representative and location manager.

Feature Finished.—J. Warren Kerrigan's fourth independent feature, "Live Sparks," a story of the Texas oil fields, has been completed and is ready for titling and cutting.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

SWIMMING NOTES

The Wallace MacDonald 220-yard handicap swimming trophy has been won for the final time by Gerard Vultee who has been competing for this cup in handicap races here at the L. A. A. C. for the past four months. Vultee has been showing great improvement in his swimming, and last Thursday evening Wallace MacDonald presented to Gerard Vultee his beautiful silver cup.

Eugene Field of the Charlie Chaplin studio has left for a ten day vacation to Wallace, Idaho, to visit his wife's family. Field will return to Los Angeles in time to compete for the Southern California high diving championship.

Billy Williams, international diving champion, who has just returned from two years' service overseas, is now back on the Mack Sennett lot cranking pictures for Sennett. Billy, on his return to Los Angeles, took unto himself a wife. Bill married Miss Marie Manley, formerly of West Virginia.

Mack Sennett has developed into quite a star ocean swimmer. Since he has been living at Del Rey, Mack swims several times a day in the ocean; no matter how rough or how calm the ocean may be, he always takes his swim.

Ray Griffith of the Mack Sennett Co. has been swimming here of late with Ralph Davies, Buick salesman, and now Ray is sporting a classy Buick coupe.

Dainty little Elinor Field who swims and dives like a seal, is now working with Dorothy Phillips out at Universal City. Little Elinor Field is making quite a hit at Universal City, where she has been for the past two months.

Little has even been said about Charlie Chaplin's swimming. Out on his lot he has a regular plunge, and most every day Charlie takes a dip, and he can now swim the American crawl stroke, the fastest stroke in swimming. A few days ago Douglas Fairbanks made a trip over to see Charlie Chaplin, and Doug was all dressed in summer clothes, ice cream trousers, sport coat, sport shoes and a new straw hat on. He took one look at Charlie Chaplin's plunge, and said, "Here goes for a swim." In Doug went with all his clothes on, and he swam around that plunge many times. Doug had to send home for dry clothes but he got his swim and gave Charlie Chaplin a real laugh.

Sid Chaplin is some swimmer. He makes use of his brother's plunge almost every day. Eugene Field has been showing Sid how to dive from the high board, and from latest reports Sid is getting to be some classy diver.

Norman Manning has been trying here of late to teach the members around the L. A. A. C. his new dive, he calls the "shell hole dive." It's a scream and he makes great speed getting into the water from the ten foot board.

Yours very truly,
VANCE VIETH.

SHORN

Helen E. Carlisle

After all, Nazimova is to blame. She inaugurated the bobbed-hair fad among film stars, and the girls have been bobbing 'em ever since. Norma Talmadge followed the great Russian, Constance followed Norma, Dorothy Gish, when parental objection prevented her from bobbing her own hair, forthwith donned a bobbed wig, and has worn it ever since.

Lottie Pickford went the other girls one better, last winter, when she shaved her hair off closely, Viola Dana and Shirley Mason discarded their flowing locks—one could go down through the list of stars and name half a score of others who do not agree with Soloman as to a woman's crowning glory.

And now the Studio Girls' Club, never far behind in anything, have officially endorsed the fad. Agnes Johnson, the scenario writer, who came out from New York with Mary Pickford last winter, brought her bobbed hair along with her New York wardrobe, so to speak. The girls of the Club clustered 'round, admired the aforementioned wardrobe, and sharpened their scissors.

One after another they appeared with shorn locks. One after another their comrades came, and saw, and were conquered. The latest converts to the faith are Jean Copeland and Violet Clark, scenario writers, and art-title painter Jean Little. One does not dare venture a guess as to who will be next, for the few remaining unshorn members of the Club are fast weakening, and Margaret Ettinger holds the shears!

Arrives From England—Mrs. Milton Sills, wife of the well known actor, arrived in New York last week from England, bringing her mother with her. She is expected to arrive here next week. Before her marriage Mrs. Sills was the well known English actress, Gladys Wynne.

Can't Buy Czar—Czar, the giant Russian wolfhound that appears in "Should a Woman Tell?" which is being filmed by Screen Classics, Inc., has taken a great fancy to Jack Mulhall. This young actor has also become attached to the dog, and made an attempt to purchase him from his owner, George Hale. Hale declared that no money could tempt him to part with the big dog.

Golfer—Joseph Kilgour, who is playing an important role with May Allison in "The Walk-Offs," is one of the best golfers in the ranks of the motion picture players. If the proposed tournament for actors is staged he will be in on it.

Return From East—Mrs. George Beban, accompanied by her small son, George Beban, Jr., more familiarly known as "Bob White," has returned from New York.

Vacation Rest—Jack Kerrigan, Director Ernest Warde and Cameraman Arthur L. Todd have departed to Coronado for a week at golf and polo before beginning work on a new picture.

Pantages Dinner—Last Saturday Mrs. Alexander Pantages entertained a group of friends at dinner. Among the guests were: Ruth Roland, Antonio Moreno, Charles Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Albright and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Walker. The affair was given in honor of a San Francisco friend of Mrs. Pantages who is visiting here.

Fair Dinner—Miss Elinor Fair was guest of honor at a charming dinner-dance given by Mrs. A. J. Ford at her attractive home in South Pasadena.

The guests included a number of Philadelphians besides the members of the Los Angeles colony.

The house decorations consisted of a profusion of lavender asters and pink carnations.

Horrors—As part of the entertainment for Marie Mosquini, whom Bebe Daniels is entertaining for the week-end, a theatre party to view "Broken Blossoms" was given. After retiring and the lights were out, the two girls discussed the play, which had deeply impressed them. During a momentary lull in the conversation, a footstep was heard stealthily creeping up the stairway. A moment later the flash from a dark lantern shot across the room. Marie was speechless, but Bebe, with assumed bravery, said dramatically: "Who is there?" No answer. "Who is there?" she repeated; "if you do not tell me, I shall have to telephone the police!" With trembling hands she reached for the phone near the bed. This was too much for Marie. "Don't, Bebe," she shouted; "he'll shoot you!" Bebe's hand slid quickly back beneath the bedding. "Put your head under the covers, Marie," she whispered. This was too much for Bebe's young aunt, who had played the joke on them. Marie and Bebe are now wondering what they can do to get even.

New Homes—There would seem to be something in a name after all. First we heard much of the film players of the Brentwood organization starting studio golf matches at the Brentwood Country Club. Now W. H. Bainbridge, an actor who has recently joined this film company, has purchased a home near the Brentwood Country Club, and it is rumored that two others of the studio forces are contemplating similar moves.

Hal E. Roach, president and general manager of the Rolin Film Co., returns from New York City Friday, where he and Mrs. Roach have been on a visit, to talk matters over with the Pathe Corp. regarding the activities of his stars, Harold Lloyd, Mildred Davis and Harry Pollard. It is the intention of President Roach to replace the Harold Lloyd one-reelers with a Harry Pollard comedy, while Lloyd as soon as he is able will once more start producing two-reel comedies. Harold Lloyd went through another minor operation the other day and will return home about Sunday, and from then on he will be well on the way to recovery.

Harry Pollard is being directed by Fred Newmeyer, who has been acting as assistant director, casting director, and from time to time acting in the Harold Lloyd comedies.

Noah Young, who holds the world title for weight lifting, is still with the Rolin, as is Chas. Stevenson, William Gillespie, Max Hamburger, Sammy Brooks and others who have been with the firm for some time. Oscar M. Larson is assisting Director Newmeyer, while Walter Lundine is the cameraman.

Eddie Boland is playing opposite Harry (Snub) Pollard and Mildred Davis at the Rolin, and giving a satisfactory account of himself.

Julian Eltinge is heading towards California and will be among us in a short while, then goes north with his company, finally leaving for Australia, Japan and other far Eastern cities.

Phyllis Gordon writes from Atlanta, Georgia, that she is Julian Eltinge's leading lady, and that she will be one of the company that goes abroad with the organization.

Ray Granger is expecting to start directing one of the comedians signed by the Universal, starting the last of this week.

Harry Schenck has returned from Catalina, where he and his family spent their week-end vacation, after Harry had finished his first picture with Frank Keenan.

Roy Stecker has been cast in the Al Santell comedy out at the Universal. He is the son of Curley Stecker, the wild animal trainer of that studio, and is appearing daily with Joe Martin and Charley the Elephant in an Apache story.

Benjamin H. Cohen, business and studio manager for Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven, who is to look after the funsters' interests when they start their new contract with the Paramount Co., has been circling about the studios of the Southland trying to rent space to produce 16 pictures inside of the next year.

Chas. J. Parrott has been signed to direct the De Havens, and will start shooting scenes the first of next month with the new arrangements.

Jack Connolly writes from Santa Cruz that he is doing a lumber pack story with Edith Sterling, and that he much more prefers to battle with Charley Ray as a prize fighter in the "Egg Crate Walop" than try and juggle Miss Sterling in the Santa Cruz waters. They are being directed by Fred Kelsey.

Guest at Club—Miss Doris May, Ince star, was the dinner guest of Miss Agnes Johnson at the Studio Club, Tuesday evening.

Preview of McCarthy Picture—Tuesday evening, at the California Theatre, a preview of the McCarthy picture, "Out of the Dust," will be given at 11:30. The cast of the picture includes Russell Simpson, Dorcas Matthews, Robert McKim and Pat Moore.

New Bookers—A new motion picture agency was added to the list of the local film colony the other day by Marvin Welt and Rose Mullaney.

They have opened their offices in the Security Bank Building, using room 412 for their down town quarters.

Marvin Welt for 12 years has been one of the leading managers and producers of some of the standard vaudeville acts of the best two-a-day circuits.

Rose Mullaney in New York City was connected with vaudeville acts, and upon coming to Los Angeles, she became the casting director of the Metro studios. After severing her connections with that organization, she took a much-needed rest until her present affiliation.

DAVID WARK GRIFFITH

By Mildred Davis

David Wark Griffith left Los Angeles Wednesday for New York City. He has big plans for Eastern production which you have all probably read about before this goes to press. In this short space we will not attempt a resume of his life or achievements. This is merely a good-bye to the master director, and a public manifestation of what we feel to be the local attitude.

For weeks the rumor of his anticipated departure has been abroad and we have been asked repeatedly when he would leave, and if we knew his plans . All have wondered, and are sorry to lose the presence of so great a man.

In a recent statement Mr. Griffith voiced his views of Eastern production and his future plans in part. He said:

"Los Angeles will never be deserted as a motion picture producing center, especially when it comes to big, spectacular productions.

"But with certain mechanical and lighting improvements, it has become possible to make pictures without the aid of so much sunshine, and naturally production in the East will be greater than ever before. However, I expect to return to Los Angeles occasionally—possibly in the winter—for production on many of my future plays."

Leaving with Mr. Griffith are G. W. Bitzer, S. E. V. Taylor, Robert Harron, Ralph Graves, Adolphe Lestina, Miss Lillian Gish and mother, Miss Clarine Seymour, Carol Dempster, Kate Bruce, Agnes Weiner, Mr. and rMs. Jimmie Smith, Jack Lloyd, H. Carr, Louis Bitzer and others.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Walter Fredericks, manager of the Mack Swain Comedies Company, out at the Big U studios, says that his organization will remain here and that the rest of the Frohman interests will move to the old Lubin studio in Phelladelphia, where they will produce their pictures.

J. P. McGowan has returned to Los Angeles with his stars, Eddie Polo and Peggy Adair (Arrup), coming from across the seas, where they toured the old country and made pictures for the Universal Corp.

Bob Hill is directing Cleo Madison and Babe Sedgwick in a serial on the Universal ranch, with Bob Kortmann doing the villain in the play. Our old side partner Fred Haymer is the assistant director and helps Mr. Kortmann in his villany throughout the serial, which is now in the sixth episode.

James Farley is playing Rat Beaton in the Kathleen O'Connor-Jack Perrin serial.

Al Filson just completed an important part with the Maurice Tourneur Co. in the Treasure Island production now in the making out at the Goldwyn studios.

Chas. Forge has been cast in the Rube Miller comedy out at the U, where the latter is directing Chris Rupp in one-reel subjects.

Hugh McClung is working with the Lynn Reynolds Co. at the Universal, after having produced a number of his own pictures down at Balboa studios.

Erich Von Strohiem is keeping Eddie Sowders hot-footing it in his present production; he photographed some scenes at Balboa the other day, where he used 150 people, then filmed a crowd in the Ville de Paris stores the following day.

Colleen More and Earl Rodney are the latest team to be directed in two-reel Christie Comedies. Their initial efforts comes under the heading of a cotume play, with special settings.

Jack Conway is directing an all-star cast at the Robert Brunton studios in "Desert Wheat," a Zane Grey story. Among those prominent in the cast are Roy Stewart, Marc Robbins, Frank Brownlee, Fred Starr and Nelson McDowell, a leading lady from the East, who is well known, rounds out the line-up.

Mary Pickford and her company have a trip to Pleasanton in their present picture, which means that the troupe will be away from the Brunton lot for about ten days while working on the story.

C. H. Christie, I'm told, took some tests along to New York City of some of the artists who tried out for the leading characters in "Bringing Up Father" to show William Randolph Hearst and George McManus what their ideas will look like on the screen when filmed, and decide upon the making of these features on the Christie lot.

Lucille Ward has been cast for an excellent part in the Ethel Clayton Co. at the Morosco studio.

Vera Steadman is appearing opposite Bobby Vernon in his present one-reel comedy in the making at Al Christie's studio. Bobby, 'tis rumored, will soon move up a peg into the two-reel Christie Specials.

Billy Bevins has signed a contract with the Mack Sennett interests, as has also Pat and Fanny Kelly, which means that the trio must be well liked by the big chief of the Edendale fun factory.

Alice Howell is in Chicago making three pictures for an Eastern corporation, and it is rumored that she will cast her lot with a Texas organization which are right now rounding out their business affairs to make the Lone Star State a motion picture center, producing features, comedies and Western stories.

Hughey Mack slipped over to the Brentwood studio for one picture while waiting for the powers that be to pass judgment on one of the pictures that he made under Mal St. Clair's direction for the Capital Film Co.

Hank Mann is spending his vacation in San Francisco, while his manager, M. R. Schlank, is making final arrangements in New York City for his new contract in which he will appear in a series of twenty-six two-reel comedies. Hank received a wire that everything is arranged and get ready to start.

Al Jennings is once more at work at the Capital Film Co. studios, after a brief rest in between pictures. The further that he goes into the cinema land the better he likes it, so we ought to hear a great deal about Al and his doings hereabouts.

Gordon Mullen is doing his fourth picture for the Thos. H. Ince interests. Three were with Chas. Ray, and the fourth an all-star production. He is doing the villain in the play.

Mary Miles Minter will come to the Southland just about the time that Ethel Clayton finishes her present picture in the making at Morosco studio, and will start a story under the direction of William Desmond Taylor, who is at present handling her directorial affairs in the East.

Lois Lee, an Eastern girl, is making her initial appearance in the present Ethel Clayton pictures, playing the part of the extravagant wife.

Scott Dunlap is directing Madeline Traverse in her present narrative, which is a sea story, and calls for a trip to 'Frisco and Catalina in order the film the boat and water scenes needed for the story. George Schniderman is the man behind the camera, photographing the action.

Frank Beal will direct Albert Ray and Elinoir Fair in their next picture. He just finished a story with Madeline Traverse.

Marshall Neilan is going to do a big Indian feature for his next story, and has sent a scout to Montana to line up locations.

Col. William Selig is going to produce some pictures in San Antonio, Texas, building a studio there, and going to it with all that is in him to re-establish the Selig Features as of yore. He is expected to go to the Lone Star State most any day to complete all details.

Texas Guinan has several her connections with the Frohman Amusement Co. and can be expected to announce her new affliation within the next ten days.

Jimmy Gleason, former local favorite at Morosco's, is a member of the "A Prince There Was" Company, booked for the Mason Opera House.

Harry Williams is sticking close to Roscoe Arbuckle these days at Culver City, where he is giving the chubby comedian some inside pointers on gags and situations.

Frank Griffin several his connections with the Fox-Sunshine interests and, packing his bag and baggage, hurried to the big city, where he has a deal uending with some New York guns in the comedy field.

Harry Rattenberry is once more back at Christie's and is in stock. We caught him the other day make up for "Brutus," which he is doing in "When Rome Fell."

Craig Hutchinson is completing his fifth picture with George Ovey as the star in Gaiety Comedies. Jimmy Clemens is the ruling hand of the company, with Skyball Moreno his right hand man.

William Beaudine has been enjoying a two-weeks' vacation in San Francisco and will get right back on the job at Christie's upon his return from the North.

Paddy McGuire is joining the Christie-lot activities. He is to be featured in a one-reel comedy, with a well-known director doing the shouting of orders through the megaphone.

Jack Henderson is nearing the end of his six-months' engagement with the Christie studio, playing character parts. He has been cast in the story now being directed by Al Christie.

Barney (Chick) Magill is turning the crank for Director Craig Hutchinson on the Christie lot.

Ruth King is playing "The Countess" in the Von Strohiem story, while Jack Mathews is doing the grouchy old "Count."

Jimmie O'Shea has gone and done it. He's bought a Buick car. He is Rollin Sturgeon's right hand bower in the direction of Tsura Aoki (Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa).

Sidney Payne finished with Dusty Farnum at midnight the other evening and at 3 o'clock in the morning started in the William Dowlan Co. at the Universal, which is some record.

Al Latham has been handed over to Rube Miller as his cameraman to film the Chris Rupp comedies that he has been engaged to direct.

Chas. Doherty has cast his lot with the Henry Lehrman Comedies, working with Lloyd Hamilton under the direction of Jack White, who is being aided by Norman Taroug.

Len Powers no more than got through at the Fox studio and he landed a position with the Vitagraph Corp. as cameraman.

Syd Chaplin and his funmakers are working at the Jasper studios with Johnny Meighan as the assistant director.

Frank Keenan shot some scenes in the Florence, Arizona, state prison in his last picture, which brought into camera view lineup of criminals that has made history down that way. Harry Schenck made all the arrangements for the Keenen Co. and handled things in general during the filming of the scenes.

Eddie Laemmle writes from Bangkok, Siam, that he arrived there safely and is going on a tiger and leopard hunt in the jungles for eight days, which is very interesting to yours truly but not so inviting.

Jimmy Parrott is working with Sid Smith and Madge Kirby in what are known as Holly Comedies, under the direction of Robert Kerr. Their initial story is called, "Never Scold a Husband," and will be released on the Bull's Eye program.

Tom Kennedy is still drawing down a fat salary at the Fox-Sunshine studio for acting like a villain.

George Allen was hurt the other day while working in a scene for the William Duncan Co.

Neal Hart is producing two-reel Western stories for the Capital Film Co., and it is said he will soon join the five-reel class.

Al Knight is preparing a story and reaching out for some of our leading lights of cinemaland to produce a six-reel feature story at the Capital Film Co. studios.

Jane Talent has just finished a picture with Neal Hart, and will soon be cast in a feature production.

Beatrice Dominquez is once more working at the Big U..

Glen Cavender is playing the part of o motorman at the Fox-Sunshine studios in a street car picture.

ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

By Harry Burns

What are the duties of an assistant director? Does it call for much inside knowledge of the motion picture game? or can a fellow who used to be a stage director or producer take such a position and be successful? Quite a bit of territory to ask anybody to cover in a brief conversation.

For a starter, the assistant director of today must be a sort of "jack-of-all-trades," capable of handling people, know customs of countries, knowing the value of the camera, which calls for inside knowledge of the photographic values of colors, settings, wardrobe, locations and makeups. In other words, take every worry off of a director's mind outside of the actual direction of a picture.

Any theatrical experience will help one in motion picture work, because the silent stage, and knowing how the actions of your characters will look upon the screen you have to make your actors and actresses govern themselves accordingly. So if one will just balance up their stage doings with the way the director of a screen production "puts his scene over," you will see plainly that there is a little bit of everything injected into the play, tricks of the old trade and angles of the new type of amusement.

The fellow who used to work beside a motion picture director and be termed his assistant, was only a sort of an errand boy, a script bearer, the one who used to be blamed for anything that went wrong. But today he has outlived some of those cognomens that were tacked on to him; he is expected to know the story, situation, scene and people equally as well as the director, and acts as a sort of co-director. He is a sort of a walking encyclopaedia, a real helping hand, and the director's right-hand bower, who is respected and looked to for everything pertaining to the making of the picture, and held responsible for everything that everybody else does from the director on down the line.

EQUITY ELECTION

Thursday evening the Photoplayers Equity Association held its annual meeting for the election of officers. Those who were present maintain that the meeting was far more tense than any held heretofore. Since Camera's recent suggestion for a new policy for the Equity, various cliques have conspired to install the ideas set forth. Also many picture players of very high standing, and even stars, have expressed their intention of becoming senior members of the Equity if the new plan was assumed. As a result of these forces an amendment to the constitution drawn along the lines of Camera's suggestion has been adopted. The new officers of the association are as follows:

Major McGuire,president; Clyde McCoy, vice president; Charles Mack, secretary; Pearl Elmore, treasurer.

New board of directors: Guy Eakins, Jack McCready, Fred Haymer, Jess Fontney, M. J. Donovan, L. S. McKee, Raymond Cannon and Jack Hassett.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

At Brentwood—Mrs. Anna Hernandez has signed with the Brentwood studios, and will be seen in an important role in their next production.

At Fox—George Hernandez has been cast in a prominent role in a forthcoming Fox production, under Frank Beal's direction.

Stephanoff to Remain—Robert Stephanoff has abandoned his plan of going to Chicago to accept the offer of a film company there, and will remain in Los Angeles.

Miss Warrenton with Hampton—Lule Warrenton is now with the H. B. Warner company, at the Hampton studios, under the direction of Henry King.

Engaged by Oakley—Art Staton, a native of Montana, has been engaged by Oakley Productions, to play male leads in a series of western dramas, which the Super-Quality company will produce shortly at the Norbig studios in Edendale.

In Frohman Serial—Ruth Clifford, who was formerly featured by the Universal company, has been lured away from that fold by an offer from the Frohman Amusement company, and has left for the east to star in a new serial picture.

Leading Lady Busy—Mildred Davis is awaiting word from the Rolin Comedy Company to rejoin her stellar partner, Harold Lloyd, for their first joint appearance since Lloyd was injured by a bomb explosion. During Lloyd's recovery Miss Davis has been working with another company at the same studio under the direction of Harry Pollard.

Recovering—Miss Lois Wilson is mending rapidly after her recent operation for appendicitis and hospital sojourn, and will soon be able to rejoin the Paramount forces at the Lasky studio. It is said that production work for which she was scheduled was held up at heavy cost to the company in order to await her recovery.

Change Writers—Rene R. Rivierro, prominent California novelist, scenario writer and playwright, has joined the publicity department of the J. Warren Kerrigan Company to succeed Jay O'Brien Chapman, who has gone over to the Hampton forces.

Fishing—S. E. Jennings and Frank Geharty went fishing last Saturday morning in the rain and came home with more than the limit, which meant in this case nearly 145 lbs. of fish and a 90-lb. shark which took 35 minutes of manual labor for Mr. Jennings to take in.

Allard Given Leading Role—Assuming the role left vacant by Lewis Stone, who has gone to New York, Arthur Allard, well known screen star, has been cast as Richard Templar, district attorney, in the Bayard Veiller play, "Danger," at the Majestic.

Mr. Aallard was previously cast as Jimmy Hartigan, the crook in the play, where his excellent work attracted the attention of Mr. Veiller, and resulted in his being given the leading male role, upon the departure of Mr. Stone.

Good Part—Henry Woodward is rejoicing in a part with the Brentwood in support of ZaSu Pitts, under the direction of Claude H. Mitchell, which calls for a normal, natural, he-man, outdoor character, without heroics.

New Quarters—Sarah Y. Mason, scenarist, is happy in the enjoyment of the newly fitted and admirably furnished private office provided for her by the Brentwood.

Back to "Light"—Bert Wesner has left the films for the time being and will have charge of Trixie Friganza's new road show, "Poor Mamma," a comedy by Elmer Harris.

Russell's Lead—Lucille Lee Stewart, a sister of Anita Stewart, will be William Russell's leading lady in his new Fox picture.

At American—Bertram Grassby will fare forth to Santa Barbara to appear in an American Film Company feature.

Home—California Truman has returned from Long Beach, where she has been on location with the Von Stroheim Company.

New Assistant—Harry E. Weil, who went to France and fought at Chateau Thierry, is back in the film colony as assistant to Director Frank Lloyd. He enlisted shortly after he finished as assistant to Lloyd in making Les Miserables for Fox.

Writer Here—Octavus Roy Cohen, famous for his southern writings, arrived this week in Los Angeles to join the Goldwyn writing staff. Mrs. Cohen and Octavus Roy, Jr., are with him.

Mary Jane Irving played an important part in J. Warren Kerrigan's recently completed feature, "Live Sparks."

Continuity Man—Jack Cunningham, well known local scenariosmith, has been engaged to write continuity for the J. Warren Kerrigan productions.

Long Contract—Beatrice Joy has been placed under a long time contract with Goldwyn.

Busy Girl—Inez Gomez just finished seven weeks at Ince studio with Dustin Farnum when she was called to play the heavy for Neal Hart.

Resting—Elmo Lincoln, Universal feature and serial star, is enjoying a well deserved week's rest at Coronado Beach after his strenuous work in the filming of "The Beach Comber," produced under Rex Ingram's direction.

Long Contract—Magda Lane, who was appearing in two-reel western pictures with Hoot Gibson at Universal City, has been signed for two years at the film capital. She will probably appear in full length features before long.

Resting—Reginald Barker, who has just completed directing the latest Geraldine Farrar picture, is taking a two weeks' vacation. "It's going to be a vacation, too," remarked Barker, "for I haven't had one in two years. I'm going somewhere and tell no one where." When he returns he will commence directing Mary Roberts Rinehart's story, "Dangerous Days," an Eminent Authors production which will be made by Goldwyn with an all star cast. Work will be commenced on this about October 15.

P. A. on Location—Clark Irvine, of the Goldwyn publicity staff, has gone with the Frank Lloyd company which is producing Rex Beach's "The Silver Horde," to San Francisco and to Truckee. At the latter place some snow scenes are to be taken. Mr. Irvine is getting material for special articles.

Supports Kerrigan Again—Again is Fritzi Brunette sceheduled to support Jack Kerrigan. It will be her fourth with this star.

With Bosworth—George Webb started Monday on his third Ince picture, this time with Hobart Bosworth company, playing the heavy opposite Grace Darmond in "The Oath."

Leaving Los Angeles—After a visit of a few weeks with his son, J. Parker Read, Jr., at the Thomas Ince studio, Culver City, Calif., J. Parker Read, Sr., is packing his various bags and trunks prior to leaving for New York and thence to South America. Mr. Read, Sr., is interested in the foreign rights to a number of feature pictures, and speaks with a great deal of enthusiasm at the vastness of the picture field in South America. He expects to remain just long enough in New York, he says, to pick up some real "knock-out productions" for South America, and then he is on his way.

With Enid—Gladys George is playing one of the important roles in Enid Bennett's new production, "The Woman in the Suitcase." Miss George will be remembered as the little girl recently plucked from the legitimate stage by Thomas H. Ince, while she was appearing with DeWolfe Hopper in "The Better 'Ole."

Clair McDowell was selected by Thomas H. Ince to play the role of Enid Bennett's mother in her forthcoming C. Gardner Sullivan photoplay, "The Woman in the Suitcase." Miss McDowell has a vast following of film friends who have been loyal throughout the many years of her career back in the old Biograph days.

More Machines—Three automobile owners were added to the two hundred odd motorists at the Goldwyn studios this week when E. A. Bingham, author, R. B. McIntyre, assistant production manager, and ex-Lieut. G. B. Manly purchased cars. They bought, respectively, Cadillac, National and Kissel machines.

Home from New York—Thompson Buchanan, Goldwyn scenario writer and one of the editorial staff at the studio, returned to Los Angeles this week after a business visit to New York where he saw his play, "Civilian Clothes," given its premiere.

Writer Leaves—Charles Mortimer Peck, writer and president of the Pleasant Days Picture Plays, featuring Prudence Peck as "Peck's bad girl" in "Cupid's Little Sister," left for New York last Saturday, after finishing an original five-part story for Edythe Sterling, upon which Leon Osborne has already started production. Mr. Peck will spend a month hob-nobbing among his friends, the newspaper men.

Return From Location—Mollie McConnell, widow of the late Will McConnell, formerly editor of the New York Morning Telegraph, has just returned to Los Angeles, having been "on location" with the Tom Mix company in their current production. Several weeks were spent in San Francisco and adjacent valley towns.

Eyton Residence—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eyton (Kathlyn Williams) are preparing to build a beautiful new home at the top of Vine street hill, an imposing location and one of the most beautiful in the entire Hollywood district.

Scenarist Ill—Jeanie MacPherson, scenario writer for Cecil B. de Mille, is indisposed and is at the Good Samaritan hospital in Los Angeles, where she is recuperating from her illness.

At Burston—Tom Hayden is working at the Burston studios this week in King Bagot's serial. Hayden has been with William Duncan at Vitagraph for some time.

Casting Directory

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

UNIVERSAL NOTES

L. Hertzman

Priscilla Dean is hard at work on the streets of Constantinople on her new feature, "The Virgin of Stamboul." H. H. Van Loan is author of this story. Tod Browning is directing the spectacle at Universal City.

"The Peddler" is being filmed under the direction of William C. Dowlan. Frank Mayo plays the title role, while Ora Carew is seen in a leading part. Ray Ripley and Dagmar Godowsky have prominent positions in the cast. The company, which at present is shooting some scenes at Balboa, will leave soon for Santa Barbara.

After working every night for a week at one of Los Angeles' leading department stores, Eric von Stroheim and company of Universal players have gone to Long Beach to film the Hotel Virginia. "The Woman in the Plot" is the title of the story and was adapted from "Clothes and Treachery" by Baroness De Meyer. Sam De Grasse, Clyde Fillmore and Una Trevelyn are among the notables in an all-star cast.

Jacques Jaccard is preparing for James J. Corbett's six-reel feature, adapted from "The Prince of Avenue A," by Charles and Frank Dazey. Eve Southern is to be Corbett's new leading woman, and Harry Northrup, Ruth Royce, Arthur Millett and Charles Brindley are cast for the pictures.

The cast includes Barney Sherry, Arthur Carew, Ethel Shannon and Pat O'Malley.

"Lasca," adapted from the poem of the same name by Frank Desprez, has been completed under the direction of Norman Dawn. Frank Mayo and Edith Roberts, are the featured players.

Harry Carey and company have returned from Victorville, where desert scenes were filmed for "The Gift of the Desert," adapted from Peter B. Kyne's Saturday Evening Post story, "The Three Godfathers." Jack Ford again directs the westerner, and Winifred Westover plays opposite Harry Carey. The completion of the picture is expected within the next few days.

Monroe Salisbury and his company are at Santa Barbara filming scenes for "The Phantom Melody." Douglas Gerrard handles the directorial megaphone. Jean Calhoun is Salisbury's new leading woman.

Work is being rushed on the new Universal theatre, which will soon be used in Allen Holubar's big feature, "Ambition," starring Dorothy Phillips. Robert Anderson, Rudolph Valentino, Elinor Field, Emily Chichester, Margaret Mann, William Ellingford and Mary Wise are in the cast.

Mary MacLaren is working on the final scenes of "The Pointing Finger," under the direction of Eddie Hull.

The last scenes were shot for Elmo Lincoln's Universal feature, "The Beach Comber," the past week and Director Rex Ingram is now making preparations for filming a Fannie Hurst story, "Oats for the Woman," the cast of which has not yet been definitely selected.

Lynn Reynolds has returned to Universal to direct Harry Carey, "Overland Red," a story by Henry Herbert Knibbs, is the first photoplay Carey will be seen in, under the new directorship.

A new serial, "The Man Hunter," by William Pigott and Karl Coolidge, is under way. Art Acord and Mildred Moore are the featured players, and Reeves Eason will have charge of the production.

"The Lion Man,' the new serial from "The Strange Case of Cavendish" by Randal Parrish, is now in the sixth episode of production. Kathleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin are featured, under the direction of Al Russell.

The Henry McRae Expedition to the Orient is now riding the waves of the Pacific. Eight months will be spent in the Far East.

Phil Rosen, the man who photographed "The Miracle Man," is now directing a two-reel western for Universal, featuring Hoot Gibson and Josephine Hill. "The Broncho and the Bronx" is the title of the story.

Al Santell is making preparations for the Joe Martin pictures which he is to produce. The educated orang-outang's next comedy will be "Upper 3 and Lower 4."

Smith Assists Blache. — Cameron Smith has been engaged as assistant director for "The Walk-offs," May Allison's new picture now under production at the Metro studio. Herbert Blache is directing.

Emory Johnson Starts. — Emory Johnson, who is May Allison's leading man in "The Walk-offs," now being produced by Screen Classics, Inc., did his first actual work in the production this week.

Florence Turner has begun a new comedy, "Some Girl," with Lester Marsh and Hal Wilson in the cast. Theodore Joos assists in the production.

Milton Moore, the man who photographed "Cassidy of the Air Lanes," with Lieutenant Locklear, will make an educational reel of the scenes about Universal City.

To Produce Independently. — After directing Dorothy Dalton in three pictures for Thomas H. Ince at an eastern studio, Joseph de Grasse has returned to the west coast and is preparing to produce independently.

Says Production Impossible.—Sidney Chaplin, who went to France to remain two years making pictures for Paramount, has returned after two months' absence with the statement that making pictures in Europe under the present disturbed conditions, is impossible.

Hurrah for Eddie.—Edward Peil is playing Chinese in D. W. Griffith's "Broken Blossoms" at Clune's Auditorium. A Japanese with Sessue Hayakawa in "The Dragon Painter" at Clune's Broadway, and is himself appearing at the Majestic Theatre in Bayard Veillers' "Danger," playing Judson Osgood, the multimillionaire profiteer.

Mr. Peil is playing in three theatres at the same time this week in Los Angeles.

Bosworth Cast.—The principals selected by Thomas H. Ince for the second Hobart Bosworth picture, "The Oath," include such artists as Lloyd Hughes, George Webb, Grace Darmond, and Gladys George. The Luther Reed story calls for a number of subsidiary characters of importance, and these are now being selected with careful consideration to the perfecting of a complete and well-rounded artistic ensemble.

Ince at Laguna.—John Ince and his company, who are now filming "Should a Woman Tell?" for Screen Classics, Inc., departed Monday for Laguna Beach, where they will spend ten days on location. Alice Lake, Jack Mulhall and Frank Currier are heading the cast in this all-star production. Eighty extra people went with the company and some elaborate street scenes are to be filmed.

The Sanitary MAKEUP CASE

To meet the needs of the particular artist we have designed a sanitary make-up case containing separate compartments for every article used in your makeup work. These compartments are enameled and may be removed for cleansing—making a thoroughly sanitary case. We carry a line of these cases in stock or make them to order.

SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

WALTER FARNUM COMPANY, 612 GRANT BUILDING, LOS ANGELES. In the market for one and two-reel comedies. No slapstick.

MABEL CONDON EXCHANGE, 6035-37 HOLLYWOOD BLVD., LOS ANGELES. Buying only books, plays and magazine stories, except the work of a few authors on contract.

MOROSCO FILM COMPANY, 201 N. OCCIDENTAL, LOS ANGELES. See Lasky Market.

CHRISTIE COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGLESES. In the market for one and two reel comedies. Breezy, snappy incidents must be present in a marked degree. The Christie Comedies feature Bobby Vernon, Earl Rodney, Dorothy De Vore, Fay Tincher, Katherine Lewis, James Libby, Gertrude Selby and Harry Depp. Please submit by mail.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRODUCING COMPANY, 6101 SUNSET BLVD., LOS ANGELES. Scott Sydney, the producer, wants one reel stories suitable for Elinor Field.

FOX STUDIO, SUNSET AND WESTERN, LOS ANGELES. The company has its own staff writers, but will consider comedy-dramas and straight dramas with a strong love element. Also Western comedy-dramas for Tom Mix. Nothing less than 5 reels.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS COMPANY, SUNSET AND ARGYLE, LOS ANGELES. Prefers considering the original work of screen authors, having always been keen to develop those writers who showed ability.

NATIONAL FILM COMPANY, 6107 SANTA MONICA BLVD., LOS ANGELES. In demand for 5-reel comedy-dramas featuring "Billie" Rhodes. Also 2-reel comedies for "Smiling Bill" Parsons, and 5-reel heavy dramas for Henry Walthall, and 2-reel comedies for the de Havens, with domestic situations.

VITAGRAPH COMPANY, 1708 TALMADGE ST., LOS ANGELES. The company buys no scenarios in the West, the same being taken care of by the Eastern Vitagraph Company at East Fifteenth and Locust avenue, New York.

METRO, 1025 LILLIAN WAY, LOS ANGELES. Maxwell Karger is manager of productions and June Mathis is head of the scenario department. Outside material is also considered. Good live American stories with a melodramatic touch for Bert Lytell. Comedy-romances of a lighter nature for May Allison. Snappy melodramas for Hale Hamilton; comedy-romances and comedy-dramas for Viola Dana, and dramas that are typically Nazimova for Nazimova.

GOLDWYN PICTURE CORPORATION, CULVER CITY, CALIF. Will consider good comedies for Mabel Normand; ingenue roles having a touch of pathos, for May Marsh; ingenue roles that are rather fantastic for Madge Kennedy; strong emotional dramas for Pauline Frederick; 5-reel comedies for Tom Moore; strong emotional dramas for Geraldine Farrar. Nothing under 5 reels.

THE AMERICAN FILM COMPANY. SANTA BARBARA, CAL., is in the market for five-reel photoplays suitable for either male or female leads; also for strong stories requiring balanced casts. Arthur J. Zellner is head of the Scenario Department.

THOMAS H. INCE COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Buys no outside material except from well-known writers on contract. Has own staff writers.

MODEL COMEDY COMPANY, 1329 GORDON ST., HOLLYWOOD, is in the market for two-reel comedies featuring Gale Henry. Stories must contain strikingly snappy situations for female boob characters. No slap-stick will be considered. Please remit by mail.

TOURNEUR FILM COMPANY, CULVER CITY. Interested only inscripts of large calibre, 6 or 7 reels. No society plays and no comedy.

ATTENTION TO EVERY DIRECTOR

Young man of high education; possesses perfect knowledge of nations; speaks several languages; appeared several times in leads in foreign plays. Directed twice with best results. One year in motion pictures. Strong character of a young man.

SILK SHIRTS

New autumn broadcloth silk shirts of a highly individual type. They come in neat but snappy striped patterns that have an unusual appeal to the particular dresser because of their clever departure from the average.

FALL CRAVATS

Nothing finer displayed in the London Shops than our imported line of tailored silk scarfs of soft rich Italian and Swiss silks, moired effects and novelty weaves, colored in all the new autumn shades.

John Gough (Goff) comes from a dramatic family and was brought up in the profession. He is considered by all who know him an artist of make-up and a splendid versatile actor. He resides at 1549 Echo Park Ave. and will be glad to hear from old friends.

Directors in need of an actor who understands his business, phone John Gough, Wilshire 1777.

John Gough (Goff) one of the best and youngest character actors in motion pictures, is just fiinishing a strong crook part (The Cricket) in H. B. Warner's "Fugitive from Matrimony" under the direction of Henry King at the Hampton Studio.

SCENARIO MATERIAL

The following novel way of submitting a scenario is presented by Francis Powers, author of the Stage success, "The First Born." This is also written in regular script form for those interested.

GRINGO MIGIEL

By Francis Powers

Wild were the ways— and wild the days,
Crossing the old Mex line;
From the land of wars to the Stripes and Stars!
In Gringo Migiel's time.

Thru burning sand of God's Last Land
A Bad Man crossed that trail;
And his soul was dead as his heart of lead!
So runs the Border tale.

A ghastly fame enshrined his name,
From Rio Grande down;
When he flared in sight everything closed tight
From camp to mining town!

Wild men went tame when Migiel came,
And sneaked up peaceful ways;
No gunman curbed or law disturbed
His endless perfect days.

A mining town—he twice rode down,
Framed up to get him right;
So they sent on east for the Sheriff's niece;
A Blue-nose beauty bright.

This Yankee girl with school-ma'am curl
Had booked that southwest map;
At a three-days' tramp from his mining camp,
To wed a dry-ranch chap.

The girl arrived—the town survived,
But pulled a prohib jag,
When she made Migiel—all ready to kill,
Carry her traveling bag

To uncle's door—who clared and swore,
And kist her gun in hand;
For bringing her grip she gave him a tip,
Went in and the door was slammed.

In idle hours—she picked wildflowers,
Waiting her coming mate;
When Migiel saw he passed a law;
All flowers at her gate.

Her merest whim was law to him,
Migiel, you should not drink!
Nor anyone touch cussed Rum;
The town went dry, I think.

No Sunday show—the town should go
To Church, my dear Migiel!
Next Sunday bright—this town gets right,
And goes to Church or Hell!

For his wedding joy, came the dry-ranch boy,
But Migiel did not know;
When she told him straight at the Sheriff's gate,
He blew like blizzard snow.

Over the line—the lawless clime,
Where the good and the bad are one;
From chimes of Hell—rode wild Migiel,
In the face of a desert sun.

While the Yankee girl—with the school-ma'am's curl,
Married her dry-ranch man;
And moved to his home—in an arid zone,
Where water never ran.

And her life grew dumb—tho' they prospered some,
Her husband slaved and dried;
As the shifting sand of his desert land,
He worked and lived—yet died.

Appalling—lone! Her desert home;
She dreamed of undead things;
A Vermont hill—of wild Migiel,
The touch of angel's wings.

New England hills—green mountain rills;
A brother who wandered away;
Followed the sun—as wild things run,
In the search of an endless day.
Then came a child who cooed and smiled,
And made the Desert Home;

The cunningest girl—who soon grew a curl
Just like the mother's own.

The smould'ring hates of Border States
Both sides of the Border line,
Blazed into flame—the old Race game,
As a plague swept camp and mine.

This poisoned breath—called "Desert Death,"
Seared Mex and Gringo souls!
The rivers dried! The cattle died!
And choked the water holes.

Like thing accurst—the plague soon burst
Upon the 'dobe towns,
And a victim caught was a victim shot,
Within forbidden bounds.

A plague-cursed man—half-staggered—ran
From out a fear-crazed town;
They aimed to kill—as wild Migiel
Rode in and shot them down.

A dash and swing—and the plague-cursed thing
He placed on his saddle-horn;
Then rode like the damned—for a white man's land!
His back to the Desert morn.

Thru desert and pass—with his loathsome mass,
He rode as wild men can;
Then he saw its face—and by God's Grace,
He shook like the fevered man!

In Mission ground—their prayers resound,
Who fled the Scourge of Hell!
Then wails grew loud—they saw a cloud!
The Desert dust of wild Migiel.

Look! Padre, pray, one rides this way,
And rings Camino Bell!
Must mad-men bring a loathsome thing,
To foul San Gabriel?

The Abbot came—called Migiel's name,
Saying, "Take the plague-man in."
San Gabriel knows wild things wells,
Wild hearts uncleansed of sin.

In weal or woe, where'er you go,
This cross wear near thy heart;
His Grace is won—thru good deeds done,
Christ lives! Migiel, depart!

The Desert Death blew poisoned breath
Upon the dry-ranch home;
The mother fell beneath its spell;
The child watched all alone!

For the father gazed—like a dull thing crazed,
Then rode for the mining town;
A doctor's there—he'll come, I swear!
He'll come or I'll shoot him down!

The mining town—Migiel rode down,
New welcomed him in fear;
At the Dandelion—hung a placard sign,
You drink no water here.

No water drink—that's good, I think,
What's this unless it's boiled?
Now show me the chump, in this plague-struck dump,
Who drinks his liquor soiled.

I'm dry and tight—said old Doc White,
As far as water goes,
I'll say you are—all to the bar,
A reg'lar Doc sure knows.

The laugh and yell—of wild Migiel,
Rang thru the mining town;
Then old Doc White—not dry but tight,
Heard some one call him down.

Come—I know you can—'twas the dry-ranch man;
I've horses at the door;
Do as I say—come right away,
Or I'll kill you as I swore!

Now such threats sound queer, in a Bad-man's ear,
They cloud up the shooting time;
So fired Migiel—the ranch man fell,
And the shot became a crime.

A good man shot—no Bad-man caught,
He's too cold-blooded on the draw!
He's got no right, in any fight;
What good man knows a Bad-man's law?

A posse chase—wrinkles the face
Of any first-class fighting man;
So back they came—a good man's game;
Money reward became their plan.

The ranch man caught a shoulder shot,
Which probably saved his life;
But his brain was blurred—for nobody heard
A word of the plague-struck wife.

Migiel rode alone—then reined near a home,
In wake of his Desert ride;
For a little girl—with a school-ma'am curl
Sat on the porch and cried.

"My papa's away—with mama I stay,
And my name is Sylvia Chaige;
We're here all alone—none visit our home,
For mama is down with the plague."

"Now say, little girl, with your school-ma'am curl,
Take me in to your ma's bedside;
I've cured in a pinch—this plague in a cinch;
We'll soon have her out for a ride!

He entered and saw—now what is God's law?
Or His wondrous way of control?
There gasping for breath—at threshold of death,
Lay the thing that fired his soul!

A like from the wild—aroused her, she smiled;
I can cure you, Yankee girl;
Why, this plague's the bunk—to a Mission monk!
You can bet your school-ma'am curl.

Now silverheart—we'll do our part,
We boils the water every bit;
We lays this cross—now I'm the boss,
This cross-guy works—he'll never quit.

And just as he said—she arose from bed,
Thru belief and a wild-man's care,
Then her thoughts went down to the mining town;
"Migiel, we must go—take us there.

For he may be ill—my husband. Migiel!
His picture is in that drawer;
Why you rode away—on our wedding day,
But we never knew what for.

You've never met? It's fallen, Pet;
Put papa's picture back again.
Why, Mr. Migiel—you're not getting ill;
I'll hold papa tight—he may come then.

7c8mT,o5,ch h,hmbhmcmfwyphmhmh
He sat and thot—and grimly fought
The pull of a wild desire;
A Yankee girl—a child with curl,
He could hold with love of fire.

God's trust never dies—it spoke from their eyes,
To the depths of a Bad'man's soul;
All right, Silverheart—we tackles the part,
The dice are all good—let 'em roll.

To his waithful nag he fastened a drag,
Indian style—the mother lay there;
Put the child and pack on the horse's back,
Then off like Pilgrims to Mecca Prayer.

Thru burning rays of Desert days,
And their quivering waves of fire,
Like a Sacred Band thru some Holy Land,
In the urge of a deep desire.

By the wondrous light of a Desert night
They raced great Orion's crew;
For their drink ran low—and a mirage glow
Was their madd'ning daily view.

Secorro blew! But Migiel knew,
And housed with horse and sand,
And the Desert rang—as he laughed and sang
To cheer his helpless band.

The third day yawned—gray morning dawned,
In the chill of a black despair;
The horse had died—aloud he cried,
"San Gabriel! Your cross I wear!"

Across the skies—to Migiel's eyes
The cross of the Mission shone;
The unconquered fire of a saint's desire
"I get you, Gabe—I'll make your home!"

To shafts of the drag—in place of the nag
He fastened himself secure;
To mother and child—his last drink and smiled,
Calling, "Gabe, I'm coming for sure!"

Now, a few miles down from the mining town
Is the Mission of San Gabriel;
The plague-cured men—from their garden pen,
Saw the drag of Wild Migiel.

One ran to town—claimed 5,000 down,
The dead or alive reward;
The other ran fast—to the drag, and clasp
A sister and brother restored.

"Hey, Gabriel! I'm bad Migiel!
Come out, I'm thru my part!"
Then he sank and fell at Comino Bell,
The cross clutched near his heart.

From mining town—the crowd roared down,
Said the Sheriff, rope in hand,
"Now, dry-ranch, think—ain't this the gink?"
But the question didn't land.

For a wife and child—had the man beguiled,
And he never saw Migiel;
When he found his tongue, "No, that's not the one,"
And the whole crowd muttered. "Hell!"

So they fittered back—each one to his shack,
Cheated of a lynching date;
That Wild-man's a beaut—and the wife's some cute;
But where did she find Bone-Pate?

Mother and child—in silence smiled,
As the ranch-man took them away;
On the Desert air came the Abbot's prayer,
"Thy grace on Wild-men for this day."

The Abbot's horse, a gift, of course,
A gift to Wild Migiel;
I take thy vow! Live sinless thou!
Knight of San Gabriel!

Brave Wild Migiel! The Lord may dwell
The blackest life within;
His judgment scroll—shall claim thy soul,
For this day's work—Amen!

Then over the line—to the wildest clime
Of nature and human kind!
Yes, wild like Migiel—but God's people still!
All children of men you'll find.

In Los Angeles, the capital of the motion picture industry, where no one should lack picture entertainment, comes to our notice a very pitiable condition. In our County Hospital, Children's Hospital, County Poor Farm and various other local charitable institutions there is a painful void so far as amusement is concerned. The motion picture is the ideal form of entertainment for the unfortunate inmates. When this is brought to our notice we all realize in a small degree what a great thing it would mean in the empty lives of these people if they had a good film shown them regularly.

Personally, we had never given this serious thought before, and we assume that the majority of the other so-called useful citizens are equally thoughtless. But this week Mr. A. L. Pelton, who is interested in this work called our attention to this matter. Mr. Pelton is endeavoring to establish a permanent motion picture exhibition in the local institutions, and Camera! suggests that the picture people make an effort to assist him in so worthy a cause.

Mr. Pelton does not ask for personal publicity, he does not ask for money, but he is trying very hard to arrange for projection facilities, and the use of good, healthful, cheering pictures. At several places in the East Mr. Pelton, at his own expense entirely, has installed permanent shows. At the Home for Incurables in Washington, D. C., Mr. Pelton has a show each week. He also expended much time and money in Labrador in establishing shows there among the hopelessly incurables. Mr. Pelton is in a position to appreciate the value of pictures, because it was through an interest in pictures that he regained his normal health after an illness of three years. Doctors, the best in the world, had pronounced his case hopeless, but he finally won back his normality by purchasing a projection machine and devoting his time to picture possibilities. He ordered his film, made, and projected his pictures and finally recovered his health so that he could attend the regular picture shows. He went through for a few years what hundreds of people are doomed to as long as life remains in their bodies. He knows what pictures did for him, how they filled the void in his existence, and gave him happiness and peace. So he is trying to do for others, who are helpless, what he was able to do for himself.

Surely some of you will understand and will help. Camera! desires to give any information and aid possible in this cause. Mr. Pelton can be reached through our office and all further details can be supplied.

Wake up, picture people, you can all help. It will be good for what ails you!

Co-incident with the above comes the following letter:

Florence, Arizona, October Fifth, 1919.

Mr. Raymond Cannon,
Business Manager "Camera!"
Los Angeles, California.

Good Morning, Mr. Cannon:

Will you help me to help my fellow-inmates of this, the Arizona State Prison, to enjoy to the fullest the better pictures of today?

Nope—don't want any money—just a few minutes of your time, occasionally, when you visit around some of the studios or branch managers. Just a minute or two to put in a few words of appeal for these men here.

The Warden has given me permission to have pictures every Sunday, during the Winter, commencing this month—and—we have long had a monthly service from Vitagraph, and now with the larger privilege, I want to get pictures of those artists the boys have never seen. Think of it—most of the men here have never seen Fairbanks, a third of them have never seen Pickford, another third have not seen Chawlie, the same with Bill Hart, Farrar, Farnum or a Griffith classic.

Of course, you'll realize that we're beggars, in a sense, since we cannot pay any rentals, but we can and will pay the express both ways from Los Angeles, and I'll personally assume any financial responsibilities for the safety of the prints. Nor do we ask to be on the list of "first releases" or anything of the kind. We'll be durned glad to get any good screen story, showing the better direction of the last few years, however, I am peculiarly desirous of having some of the First National Exhibitors pictures and F-P-L. My gosh! I want some of these men to grin their grouches away with a Chaplin or Mack Sennett Comedy—I want them to know the sweetness of Pickford, the virility of Hart, the amateurish bashfulness of Ray, the vigorous wholesome humor of Fairbanks, the histrionic heights of Farrar and Nazimova, the fine direction of Griffith, Ince and the like. Will you help?

Will you undertake to appeal to some of the producers or branch managers for the boys? Or. if that takes too much of your time, just pass along to me, the names of the branch managers and addresses for F-P-L, First National Exhibitors, Exhibitors Mutual, Metro, in Los Angeles, and I'll go after them hard. But, I'd vastly prefer that you make the little appeal yourself, because you are closer to these people, in intimate touch with their work and you know how it is—"a friend at court" can do more than the outsider.

Want to know how we'll handle things? Well, just as soon as any of these folks offer us service, I'll make out a list of desirable pictures for this audience, say six or twelve or more, and they can ship that picture which is in stock and most convenient to them, on the Sunday assigned to such a Company. There'll be no bother—no annoyance. I'll not ask for stuff in immediate demand—I'll be content to have any picture on that list of a dozen—and no Company will be asked to supply more than one picture a month, we to pay express both ways.

Will you get into the game for these three hundred men?

—Name Withheld.

Believing that the appeal will meet with the hearty co-operation of Los Angeles producers, CAMERA! takes the liberty of printing in full this communication from an inmate of the Arizona State Prison, withholding only the name of the writer.

Producers desiring to get behind this splendid movement can obtain full information from CAMERA!

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

At Brentwood—Manager of construction, C. R. Kendall, won his bet with Claude H. Mitchell with a wide margin. The big Brentwood stage is roofed and ready for sets. Mitchell, with more fog-clouded days to hinder him is still "on location" with his company.

"Syd" Chaplin Company—Sydney Chaplin, who recently returned from abroad after having spent eight weeks in Paris filming scenes for his first Paramount-Artcraft special, resumed work on his production this week.

The first unit of the Jasper Hollywood studios, Santa Monica boulevard, have been taken over by Mr. Chaplin and this will be the future home of the company.

The task of finding a leading woman of the type called for in his story has been without result, despite the fact that more than two hundred screen actresses have been interviewed by the star during the past ten days.

Gradually an organization is being perfected to be known as the Sydney Chaplin Film Company. The general management comes under the supervision of the producer, with Carlyle R. Robinson, studio manager and personal representative of Mr. Chaplin.

Among the other heads of departments are Henry Clive, art director; John Meighan, purchasing department; Dick Johnson, master of properties, and Danny Hall, technical director.

It is estimated that six to eight weeks will be required to complete the production, it being the first of a series of four five-reel comedy dramas for which one million dollars will be paid by the Famous Players-Lasky corporation.

"FILM CITY"

"Film City," with a hundred acres at her first command, is soon to rise in the very heart of San Francisco. Beyond the average life of fogs, twelve hundred feet above the sea, securely guarded from the raw breath of the Pacific by the walls of Sutro forestry, "Film City" is to stand at the head of San Francisco's greatest thoroughfare, but a brief jaunt from the Ferry building.

With provisional space for future expansion the initial plans will accommodate a twenty-unit and include: administration building, mineral tower, art building, conservatory with propogating complement, dark stages with revolving open air stages, social hall with club house, gymnasium, showers and salt water swimming pool, Hall of Fame (for motion picture celebrities), Greek theatre, directors', offices and stars' dressing rooms, laboratory building, projection building, property building, still camera building, wardrobe building, paint shop, carpenter shop, garage and machinery building, auto parking field, general dressing rooms, commissary, cafeteria, model bakery, animal cages and zoo, Olympic stadium and athletic field and submarine chamber.

At the suggestion of Mr. Eliason, who was requested to appear before the San Francisco Board of Supervisors on June last, Mayor Rolph of that city officially appointed a motion picture welfare committe as follows: Supervisor Joseph Mulvihill, chairman, Supervisor C. J. Deasy, Supervisor Oscar Hocks, Supervisor Richard J. Welch, Supervisor Charles A. Nelson. George W. Gerhard, Secretary Civic League of Imp. Clubs, Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club, Down Town Association, Home Industry League, Building Trades Council, San Francisco Ad Club, San Francisco Labor Council.

This committee stand ready to assist, and legislate in favor of any legitimate producers seeking help and concessions in San Francisco

In the furtherance of this business, Mr. Eliason is at present in Los Angeles, interviewing producers who indicated a desire to work all or a part of the time in San Francisco.

Already associated with the Eliason enterprises are: R. D. Armstrong, for the past fifteen years in the picture industry, who will act as general superintendent of studios. Mr. Liston Robinson, director of Research and Publicity. Mr. George Appel, the San Francisco attorney will be the business manager. Mr. Appel is now in New York handling the interests in the east. The Art Department will be in charge of Louis Janin of San Francisco. Moon Kwan, at present with Metro, will be the Technical Director and Mr. Tom Walthew, for years at the head of the Scenic Department of the Orpheum circuit, will take charge of the Construction Departments.

Mr. Eliason expects to leave for San Francisco the early part of next week to begin work the first of the month on his coming feature, "The Yellow Prince," which will be filmed at temporary studios until Film City is available.

Own Director—After working under various directors for the past five years, Gale Henry will in the future act as her own director. Miss Henry is administering her first efforts as a director in "Ham Ann," her latest two-reeler of mirth.

Lytell Feature—Actual production of "The Right of Way," the Sir Gilbert Parker novel Bert Lytell is starring in, was started at the Metro studio last week. The opening scenes take place in a Canadian courtroom. Jack Dillon is directing this picture.

Ince Home—John E. Ince returned with his company from a week on Santa Cruz Island and after a day's rest set off to Laguna Beach for a ten-day location stay. Mr. Ince is directing Alice Lake, Jack Mulhall and Frank Currier in an all-star production of "Should a Woman Tell?"

Thompson Goes to Laguna—Dave Thompson, Metro studio manager, made a flying trip to Laguna Beach the first of this week to look over the work being done by John Ince and his company on "Should a Woman Tell?" which is an original story by Finis Fox. Ince and his company have been at Laguna for a week filming some elaborate night street scenes.

Mayer Arriving—In order that he may be able to devote his entire time to motion picture productions, Louis B. Mayer has disposed of his theatrical holdings in the east and his various New England film exchanges. He is expected to arrive in Los Angeles next week and will remain here permanently as the head of the new Mayer company.

Mayer precedes his First National star, Anita Stewart, by two weeks. When she arrives here he will announce the selection of her new director and arrangements will be made to immediately film "The Fighting Shepardess," by Carolyn Lockhardt.

Start Soon—The Fred Balshoeffer company will start production in about two weeks. No details have been learned except that Bennie Pierpaole will be cameraman.

UNIVERSAL NOTES

By Chas. L. Hertzman

Director William C. Dowlan is busily engaged on "The Peddler." Frank Mayo and Ora Carew have the leading roles in this feature.

Tod Browning and Priscilla Dean are busy on the "streets of Constantinople," where they are filming the forthcoming eight-reel feature, "The Virgin of Stamboul." The star is supported chiefly by Wallace Beery, Wheeler Oakman, E. A. Warren and Edward Burns.

Director Phil Rosen is engaged on a two-reel Western, "The Broncho and the Bronx." "Hoot" Gibson and Josephine Hill are featured.

Harry Carey has finished "The Gift of the Desert," based on Peter B. Kyne's Saturday Evening Post story, "The Three Godfathers," under the direction of Jack Ford. Mr. Carey's next picture will be "Overland Red," from the book by H. H. Knibbs, which will be produced under the supervision of Lynn Reynolds.

Mary MacLaren's latest feature, "The Pointing Finger," has been finished. Frank R. Adams wrote the story for Munsey's Magazine under the title of "No Experience Required," and Eddie Kull directed the production. Miss MacLaren's next picture will be "Rouge and Riches," by W. Carey Wonderly. Harry Franklin, who has recently joined the Universal staff of directors, will handle the megaphone.

Douglas Gerrard's company, headed by Monroe Salisbury, has returned from Santa Barbara where they have been for ten days filming the opening scenes of "The Phantom Melody," by F. McGrew Willis. In this picture Mr. Salisbury is supported by Barney Sherry, Jean Calhoun, Charles West, Ray Gallagher, Joseph Ray and Milton Markwell.

Allen Holubar's feature, "Ambition," starring Dorothy Phillips, is nearing completion. The star has the support of a cast including Robert Andersen, Rodolpho Valentino, Mrs. Margaret Mann, Frank Elliott and William von Hardenburg. The story is from Mr. Holubar's pen.

Al Santell has begun afive-reel animal comedy starring Universal's manape, Joe Martin, and entitled "Upper Four and Lower Three."

Rex Ingram is preparing to produce "The Day She Paid," based on Fannie Hurst's magazine story, "Oats for the Woman." In the cast will be Francelia Billington, Lillian Rich, Charles Clary, Charles Le Moyne and Harry van Meter.

James J. Corbett arrived at Universal City and is ready to begin work on his first feature, "The Prince of Avenue A." Jack Ford will direct the production, which has for its basis a stage starring vehicle used by the former world's champion, written by Charles and Frank Dazey.

The final scenes of "The Breath of the Gods," starring Tsuru Aoki (Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa), are now being filmed under the guidance of Rollin Sturgeon. Supporting the Japanese star are Stanhope Wheatcroft, Arthur Carew, Barney Sherry, Pat O'Malley, Ethel Shannon, M. Seki, Marion Skinner and Mae Wells.

Reeves Eason is preparing to start on the new serial, "The Man Hunter," starring Art Acord, supported by Mildred Moore.

Erich Von Stroheim reports splendid progress on his forthcoming feature, "The Woman in the Plot," being made with a stellar cast including Una Trevelyn, Sam De Grasse, Clyde Fillmore, Leo White, Maud George and Mae Busch. The story is by Baroness De Meyer, originally done in book form under the title of "Clothes and Treachery."

The sixth episode of "The Lion Man," starring Kathleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin, has been completed under Al Russell's supervision.

Work has started on "Triflers," a story by Joseph Franklin Poland, under the direction of Christy Canabbe. In the cast are Edith Roberts, David Butler and Forrest Stanley.

"Too Many Liars" is the title of the comedy at present being produced by Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran, Universal's team of mirth-makers.

J. P. McGowan has returned from England where he piloted the Eddie Polo company during the first eight episodes of "The Thirteenth Hour," a forthcoming serial. While Eddie Polo remained in New York for a few days, his leading woman, Peggy O'Dare, and the rest of the company and technical staff accompanied Mr. McGowan to Universal City. Polo is expected in a few days to begin work on the concluding episodes of the serial.

Another One—Messrs. Teischman and McGillen, who head the Diamond photoplays, are now in the Majestic Studio and are going to start producing comedies in a very short time.

J. Laurence Derfus will probably sever connections with the studio in a few weeks. Cameraman Meginness, who was associated withthe Derfus' interests, is planning on doing screen magazine work for the Universal Film Co.

VITAGRAPH NEWS

Smith Finished—Director David Smith has finished the O. Henry story, "The Roads We Take," and will start a new production adapted from the same author this week.

Going East—Earle Williams has started work on the final scenes of "The Far East" and after this production is finished he will go east where he will be filmed in "The Fortune Hunter." Mr. Williams will undoubtedly remain at the New York studio of the Vitagraph until several pictures showing him in Eastern atmosphere have been produced.

Semon Comedy—Larry Semon is on the second week of his newest comedy most of the scenes for which are being made on locations in the vicinity of Pasadena. Lucille Carlisle is in the lead opposite Larry.

Mann Support—Harry Mann has added materially to his company for the comedy he is now producing in the "Simple Harry" series. Margaret Rucker is playing opposite Mann with Virginia Nightingale a strong second. Danny Crimmins and Max Ascher are in the principal support and both John Smith and Walter Stevens are assisting Mr. Mann in the direction of the comedy.

Moreno Serial—The Antonio Moreno company with Pauline Curley in the lead opposite the star are now working on the fourth and fifth episodes of the "Secret Service" serial.

Warner's Cast—Seena Owen is leading lady for Henry B. Warner in his new photoplay feature, called "A Fugitive from Matrimony," which is now nearing the final stages under the direction of Henry King. Others in the cast include Adele Farrington, Christine Mayo, Lulu Warrenton, Irene de Voss, Walter Perry and John Gough.

Comedy Progress—Director Mark Goldaine has written finis to his latest "Hall Room Boys" comedy co-starring Flanagan and Edwards at the National Studios. In the future the comedians will again be directed by Harry Edwards, who is now completing the last De Haven comedy, "This is the Life," from the story by Monte B. Rice.

Mr. Goldaine will undoubtedly be selected to direct a new comedian with whom negotiations are now under way. Arno Marsh will assist him.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

At Murphy Home—Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Bowles Murphy entertained at an informal dancing party at their home Saturday evening. Among the guests were Misses Gladys Smith, Sarah Mason, Julianne Johnstone, Magda Lane, Neeley Warrington, Agnes Johnson, and Messrs. Wm. Pearsall, Wm. Clapsaddle, Jack Donovan, Mr. Richmond, Mr. Dale and Mr. Fleming.

From New York—Miss Agnes Johnson, scenario writer at the Ince studios, is looking forward to the arrival of her mother and sisters, from New York early in the week. Mrs. Johnson and her daughters are en route from the East, and will spend the winter in California.

At Studio Club—One of the attractive affairs of the week was the dance at which the girls of the Studio Club entertained their guests Friday evening. The Athletic Club orchestra furnished music for dancing throughout the evening, and Mrs. Johnstone and Miss McIllvaney were hostesses to the guests.

At Studio Club—With Mrs. Johnstone and Miss McIllvaney as hostesses, the girls of the Studio Club entertained at an informal dancing party at the Club, last Friday evening. The Athletic Club orchestra furnished music for dancing throughout the evening.

City Home—Henry Kolker, who will shortly commence the direction of a big photodrama for Brentwood, from his own original story, has moved his family from Santa Monica to his city residence on Rampart biulevard.

Viola Dana's Preview—Many members of the motion picture colony were the invited guests of Maxwell Karger at a private presentation of "Please Get Married," Viola Dana's first picture for Screen Classics, Inc., at the Hollywood Theatre, Wednesday evening.

Among those at the showing were: Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Karger, Colonel and Mrs. Jasper E. Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Connelly, Mrs. Maud Latham, Viola Dana, Shirley Mason, May Allison, Wanda Hawley, Gertrude Short, June Mathis, Bert Lytell, Finis Fox, Henry Otto, Harbert Blache, Dave Thompson, Joseph Strauss, Edward Shulter, Bernard Durning, Antrim, George McGuire and others.

This is a Dove-Tail!—Clark Irvine did a Rip Van Winkle Sunday when he went hunting doves with Director Harry Beaumont, John Bowers, Robert MacIntyre and Lieut. Manly—all Goldwynners.

The brave nimrod shot at a pair of cooing doves, but—bang! his fowling piece struck something and fell to pieces in his hands, and there he perched on the mountain top aiming at the flying doves with the STOCK of the gun in his hands, the barrel having fallen to earth after the first shot.

Latest reports say that Beaumont shot the limit and then had a big feast at his Beverly Hills home, where the boys enjoyed a wonderful pie maked in a brand new granite dishpan.

Some dove tale—wot?

Whitney Supper—Last Wednesday evening Miss Marie Whitney entertained a group of friends at her apartment in the city. Late in the evening a buffet supper was served.

Miss Whitney recently arrived from New York City, where she appeared in ingenue roles with Claw and Erlanger. She will begin motion picture work shortly, and remain in Los Angeles.

Bevan Birthday—Billy Bevan, Sennett comedian, had a birthday last Monday, and Mrs. Bevan gave a dinner party in honor of the occasion. Among the guests were: Edith Roberts, Mrs. Roberts, Neal Burns, Dan Russell and Phil Dunham.

GRAND CELEBRATION

Christopher's is to be the scene of an anniversary celebration the evening of November 11th, when members of the motion picture fraternity who served in the "Photographic Division Overseas" will celebrate the first anniversary of the signing of the armistice. The following members who served overseas in that capacity will be present to participate in the festivities:

Harry Rathburn, W. Bell, George Siegman, George Hill, Duke Zalibar, Bill Nast, Pete Schamarey, Gus Peterson, Harry Thorp, George Marshall, W. McCulley, Gordon Hollingshead, Billy Williams, Johnny Thompson, Ira Morgan, Earl Cadock, Felix Schoedack, Tom Gilligan, Blakey Wagner, and Jack Wagner.

Mr. Jack Wagner, who can be reached through Universal, is in charge of the attendance and anyone who has been overlooked is invited to get in touch with him immediately.

Gymnaisum at Club—A gymnasium class, free to all girls in the Los Angeles picture studios, has been formed at the Hollywood Studio Club, with Miss Love, formerly of Marlborough School for Girls, in charge.

The class meets every Tuesday evening at 7:45, and it is requested that all girls interested in gymnasium work get in touch with Miss Newman or Miss Hunter, at the Club, as early registration is desired.

FILM DIRECTOR WEDS

In the chapel of the picturesque Glenwood Mission Inn at Riverside, California, on the afternoon of October eighth, Miss Aleene Hale ,formerly accompanist to Mme. Marika Aldrich Davis, was married to Louis Wm. Chaudet, well-known Los Angeles film director.

Mme. Aldrich Davis, and a few close personal friends of the young couple witnessed the ceremony, after which a dinner was given at the Inn by the Madame.

After a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Chaudet will be at home to their friends, at 615 Argyle Street.

CLARA HORTON

By Mildred Davis

Rarely do we see a child actress who has gained popularity as a baby and has been able to retain that popularity as it grew older. So often we see "mother's darling," curled and ruffled, being dragged from one studio to another—day after day, picking up a bit of work occasionally, but forever expecting the great opportunity. Sometimes they strike it, but they seldom stay.

Perhaps a faint idea of this hopeless struggle, together with a scorn for the films, accounted for Mrs. Horton's protestations when Baby Clara was requested to try motion picture work.

It was in New York City, when Clara was about four years old that the incident occurred. For a couple of years the little blonde baby had been posing for different photographers, her pictures being used in commercial advertising. One day while Mrs. Horton was waiting for a street car with little Clara, the baby attracted the notice of a representative of the Powers Film Company. He inquired if she had ever worked in motion pictures and tried to persuade the mother to bring her to the studio the next day.

Mrs. Horton was strongly averse to the idea but after consulting Grandmother, who is of a more practical turn of mind, she relented and next day Clara began her work before the motion picture camera.

After the first picture she was put in stock, remaining with the Powers company for two years. At that time the Eclair company was organized to produce kid pictures, and little Clara joined their forces. With this company she came to Arizona, where for several years the company made subjects featuring the sunny haired girl, until she became very well known.

During all those earlier years Clara's salary was very small, so Mrs. Horton added to the family tiller by helping in the wardrobe departments at the various studios.

When the Horton connections with the Eclair company were severed the family came to Los Angeles. Here Clara continued her picture work, her first part being done at Universal City supporting Mary MacLaren in "The Plow Girl." Since then Clara has been a free lancer, appearing in many different pictures. She is probably best remembered for her work with Jack Pickford in "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn."

Clara is now sixteen years old, and since her initial debut at the age of four she has lost only one year's work. She was then at the well known awkward age where she dio not "fit in" anywhere.

That time soon passed, however, and since then her climb has been unusually rapid and successful.

Her most recent work has been done with Goldwyn, where she appeared in three pictures, and with Lasky, where she portrayed the part of Youth in "Everywoman."

Clara feels that without doubt the best opportunity she has had, and her best work was done in "The Girl from Outside," the Rex Beach story produced by Goldwyn. Clara was the only woman in the cast, having a most important part. Quite a responsibility to intrust to a sixteen year old girl, but she produced the results to the satisfaction of all concerned.

She is now cast to play opposite Jack Pickford once more; this time in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

Through all her experience and success Clara has remained singularly sweet and unaffected, an unusual quality in a child of the theatre. She works earnestly and hopefully without conceit. In fact it was from her mother we learned that Clara supported the family, comprising her mother, grandmother, and herself, that she has bought her own little bungalow, her piano, and just this week an automobile. About all of which mother is very proud and Clara is diffident.

Clara Horton is a serious, ambitious worker and we feel that she will attain much greater heights before her career ends.

Will Rogers is erecting a big one-ring circus, outdoor stunt mast and pole, and will entertain his children's little friends every Saturday afternoon. Each child has a horse and every Sunday he takes them out riding. The boys are learning to rope like their daddy, and before long they undoubtedly will be throwing as wicked a lariat as Will Rogers himself.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Plans Changed—Because of the death of William Parsons, president of the ational Film Corp., Billie Rhodes, who in private life is Mrs. Wm. Parsons, will not appear in the feature production, "Hearts and Masks," as planned. She intends leaving shortly for the east and will be gone indefinitely.

The role which was to have been accorded her will be portrayed by Elinor Field, arrangements having been completed with her by General Manager Bernstein of the National Studios. The straight lead opposite her will be played by Lloyd Bacon and the heavy lead by Francis McDonald.

Other members of the cast selected by director Wm. Seiter include, in part, Mollie McConnell, Lillian Clark, Karla Schramm, John Cossar, Harry Lindley, Russ Powell and Lewis Natheaux.

Harvey Gates, who is writing the continuity for the fifteen episode serial, "Lightning Bryce," directed by Paul Hurst, at the National Studios, has nearly completed the final scenes and will probably start work upon another story immediately.

The company are now putting the finishing touches to the eleventh episode and, barring mishaps, will complete the serial within a few weeks' time. Bert Glennon is still cranking the box and Geo. Hunter is assisting Director Hurst.

AT GOLDWYN

William Parke, who just completed directing Pauline Frederick's latest picture, has commenced work on an all star production of Gertrude Atherton's "Tower of Ivory," an Eminent Authors production. Included in the cast will be Barbara Castleton, John Bowers, Sydney Ainsworth, W. Lawson Butt, Doris Pawn and Edythe Chapman. The story calls for exciting action and unusual locations including a London street, San Francisco dance hall, theatre scenes and spectacular shipwreck off the Pacific coast.

Harry Beaumont will commence work in a few days on an elaborate filmization of Rex Beach's story, "Going Some."

Jack Pickford, under the direction of Wallace Worsley, will commence work this week on "The Little Shepard of Kingdom Come," a film version of John Fox Jr.'s story by the same name. In the cast will ppear Clara Horton and Cullin Landis.

Reginald Barker, who directed Geraldine Farrar's latest picture, has taken a week's vacation and is angling at Catalina Islands. On his return he will commence the production of Mary Roberts Rhinehart's story, "Dangerous Days."

Victor Schertzinger is taking the final scenes in Mabel Normand's picture, the story for which was written by the director. On completion of this Miss Normand will go to New York City for a three weeks' vacation.

Clarence Badger expects this week to finish the Will Rogers' picture.

Frank Lloyd is putting the finishing touches to the film version of Rex Beach's "The Silver Horde," and T. Hays Hunter is just completing Rupert Hughes' "The Cup of Fury."

Gladys Brockwell is being directed by Edw. La Saint, who is assisted by Mrs. La Saint, caught them shooting some scenes with Harry Harris on the photography. George Webster is the assistant director.

Fred Fishbach is once more at work at the L-KO studios, directing Jimmy Adams and a small colony of troupers.

Francis Carpenter will be taken East after his contract with the Fox Corp. expires in July, and will look the Eastern field over with his mother, who will visit some of their relatives.

Jack Conway returned the other day from Bakersfield, where he had his company working in wheat fields for the story called "Desert Wheat," in which Claire Adams, an Eastern leading lady, makes her initial bow on the Pacific Coast.

Nelson McDowell is busy these days working in two pictures at the same time, alternating with the Paul Powell Co. and the Jack Conway troupe.

Scott Dunlap will be amongst us soon, having finished his scenes in the Bay City with Madaline Traverse. He will busy himself in the local Fox studio, then go to Catalina for some scenes.

Eddie Cline has just cast the picture that he and the Fox scenario staff have doped out. It will have the following players in the cast: Ethel Teare, Bobby Dunn, Dave Morris and others. A trained monkey, bird and dog will help make some of the fun; with Al Stien as assistant director, helping Director Cline.

Vin Moore is casting around to start his own company, and has lined up some financiers who will back his project. He hopes to get going within a short time on his own producing unit.

R. A. Walsh has severed his connections with the Fox Corp., and has signed to produce for the Louis B. Mayer Co. He will head eastward to make his pictures for that corporation in the Southland.

Irving Ries and George Brandenberg are handling the photography end of the Noel R. Smith-Jimmy Aubry Co. at the Vitagraph studios.

A. W. Coldeway is responsible for the Jimmy Aubry stories that are being directed by Noel R. Smith for the Big V studios, having written the last four that Joimes has done.

Billy Foster had just finished with Frank Lloyd at the Goldwyn studios when he was immediately signed with the Dusty Farnum Co.

Buck Berhardt, who has been working with Tox Mix for some time, is to be featured in Western stories by the Fox Corp. under the cognomen of "Buck Jones," directed by Chas. Swickard.

Marvel Rea is doing a cute boy in the prize fight picture being directed by Roy Del Ruth, in which Big Ed Kennedy shares honors with Jack Cooper, aided by Jim Donley and others. R. J. McLean is co-directing and photographing the scenes, while Ross Lederman is the assistant director.

Mal La Verne is cast with the Eddie Cline Company at the Fox-Sunshine studio.

M. R. Schlank, manager of the Hank Feature Comedies Co., returned Wednesday from New York City, where he closed a contract to produce twenty-six two-reel comedies with his star, and will start working some time next week at the Horsley studios.

Beverly Travers is working at the Morosco studios in the Ethel Clayton picture. Her last screen effort was with Sessue Hayakawa in the "Illustrious Prince."

Pietro Sosso is playing Henry Manners, the father of Edith Johnson, in the William Duncan serial, "Smashing Barriers." He has already been in the employment of the Vitagraph for the past five months, and is still in the cast in the last episodes of the story.

Jack Mower has turned his attention to serials. He has been leading man in all sorts of productions, but it fell to the lot of Jos. W. Horne to entice him into one of those thrilling narratives.

Irene Hunt has decided to take a whirl at the vaudeville game for a while, and is rehearsing and preparing an act that will be a sort of a motion picture vaudeville stunt.

Fred Graham is with Howard Hickman as assistant director to the Bessie Barriscale Co. on the Robert Brunton lot. Graham took Eliot C. Howe's place. The latter joined the Frank Keenan Co., working with Harry Schenck.

Frank Keenan believes in co-operation and appreciation. After finishing his last picture, every member of his staff who aided him to make his picture received a bonus check for efficiency. It came in the form of a two-word acknowledgment stamped on the check as "bonus and efficiency check," besides the regular weekly stipend for services.

George Bertrand Williams, after a very lengthy engagement with the Thos. H. Ince Corp., has cast his lot with the Stuart Payton studio at Santa Monica.

Roy Marshall has joined Joe De Grasse as assistant director at the Robert Brunton studios, after having completed his work with the Thos. H. Ince interests at Culver City.

Cliff Smith and Chas. Swickard, 'tis said, sign checks as directors from now on at the Fox studio.

Winfield Sheehan promises to give Los Angeles a first-run theatre, controlled by the William Fox interests.

Johnny Hayes, who outside of being connected with the J. and B. Film Co. as leading man, has closed a deal with Eastern companies, whereby he can run a film broker office here and buy and sell one and two-reel comedies directed by any well known producer. The J. and B. Film Co. are producing at Glendale and featuring Johnny Hayes and Arby Arly, releasing on the Bull's Eye program.

Edwin Frazee, backed by Riverside capital, has opened a studio in that city and has Chas. Arling, Harry O'Connor, Neal Burns, Caroline Rankin, Harry and Louise Lament and others on the pay roll, with Joe Murphy in the capacity of right-hand bower to Edwin Frazee, who is directing the company in a two-reel comedy.

Monte Banks has been cast for a part with Bryant Washburn at Laskey's studios, doing a jealous husband role.

William Sistrom, general manager for the Louis B. Mayer interests, has left for New York.

Polly Moran, since quitting the Sunshine-Fox studio, has been taking a much-needed rest, and will soon return to vaudeville, in the same act she presented here at the Orpheum Theatre.

Glenn MacWilliams, who was formerly with Douglas Fairbanks Co. as cameraman, is now holding down a similar position with the Allan Dwan-Arthur Rosson companies.

Tom Bates is working with the Chas. Mack Co. out at Edendale.

Jack Cooper is doing a prize fight picture at the Sunshine-Fox studios with Ed. Kennedy, ex-prize-fighter, opposing him in the scene.

Frank Urson, Dame Rumor has it, will soon direct for the Laskey studio. He used to be one of our leading cameramen, but has discontinued in this line and has been assisting Cecil B. deMille, and expects most any day to take charge of a well-known male star in a directorial way.

Bob McKenzie is doing a picture with Noel R. Smith and Jimmy Aubry, before he goes to work for the W. S. Campbell Co. at the E. and R. Jungle studios, which will be used by the latter for his two-reel comedies.

Doubleday Productions—The Doubleday Production Company, situated at the Bronx studio in Edendale, completed its first vehicle last week. This picture is the first of a series of two-reel Western dramas, featuring Vera McGinnis.

Charles Mack is production manager, Lafe McKee is directing, assisted by T. C. Jack, with Armstrong ("Army") at the camera.

New Alkire Play Finished—Yesterday marked the completion of Joseph Bennett's first starring vehicle for the Alkire Company, under the direction of Fred Kohler.

With Ray—Jack Colburn has just finished with Chas. Ray. Jack has the honor of having a thousand-dollar face, has parents having sold his photo in the year of 1915 at that price.

Signs With Class Comedies—Mystery surrounds the Miller-Headley Productions, the cast being notified that producing would discontinue indefinitely. However, Ruth Maurice, the leading woman, worries not, for she immediately signed under the personal direction of Vincent Bryant with the Class Comedies.

Mister Assistant Director of Today, not being the son of a wealthy man, nor being a close relative to some king, is forced to go out and earn his own living, honestly, on his own merits, and on his own feet. Father Time is taking a step forward for the ambitious and hard-working chap, and is now causing the motion picture studios no end of trouble, for a scarcity of established motion picture directors makes it necessary to call on the A. D.

Wherever you go, or turn, you hear of a certain lad who used to be an assistant director, who is now the lord and master of some company with so and so as the star. Every one is willing to give him a lift, and since he seems to appreciate that, he is being given an opportunity in life to do something worth while for himself.

It's getting to be a sort of a free-for-all battle royal that we are in these days, and the cry of the world at large is "Youth must be served." The man who can deliver the goods is very much in demand, and he who can't stand the test of supremacy must stand aside and let the stronger man step forward and face the situation.

So much for the Assistant Director of Today, who tomorrow will wield his own megaphone.

This column is maintained purely as a convenience for the motion picture people.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

"Us Poor Stars"—A solicitor for old clothes recently called at the home of George Beban. It happened that the star himself answered the bell.

"Old clothes? Yes, I have some, but—" his thought turned to the wardrobe needs of the character he is to play in his coming production and he added, "but I really need them."

Whereupon the solicitor rushed on to the next house to give them the choice bit of gossip that their neighbor was forced to wear his old clothes, with the added information that "he'd always known gol' darned well those movie actors didn't git such wonderful salaries as they was advertised to git!"

Kerrigan Home—Warren Kerrigan returned yesterday from his vacation trip to Coronado with a badly sprained arm, which injury will prevent him from beginning work on a new feature this week, per the original schedule. Jack received his damaged wing while he and Director Ernest Warde were beaching a motor launch near the Yacht Club landing at Coronado. A strong in-shore wave lifted the boat while the two were hoisting and pinned Kerrigan's arm to the sand.

Abbe in Willow Tree—"Jack" Yutaka Abbe has been cast as the Japanese servant in Viola Dana's second Screen Classic, "The Willow Tree." Abbe is also assisting Henry Otto, who is directing, with the many Nipponese children who appear in the early scenes of the picture.

Fred Haney at Metro—Fred Haney, former Polytechnic High School all-around athlete and late of the Los Anheles baseball club, is now an employee of the Metro studio. Haney will hold down a position on the Metro nine.

New Cutters at Metro—Leon Bachman, El McDermott and Robert DeLacy have joined the Metro cutting department. Bachman was formerly with Universal, McDermott with Mary Pickford and DeLacy came from Bullseye.

George McGuire, head of the studio laboratories, is personally cutting Mme. Naimzova's latest production.

"Haig" With Beban—De Witt Hagar, so long with the Famous Players-Lasky Company, has joined George Beban's staff. "Haig," as he is popularly known, will be Mr. Beban's right-hand man.

(P. S.—"Haig" is an abbreviation—not a reputation!)

Frankie Lee With Rogers—Little Frankie Lee has been engaged by the Goldwyn Studios to play an important role in the next picture starring Will Rogers.

Poor Tommy—Tom Santschi's giant frame looks as if it would be proof against almost any attack. The big, actor more than met his match however, at Hayden Lake, Idaho, where he was appearing in scenes for the new Cathrine Curtis production. A vicious horse kicked Tom twice, and the last reports were that he was in a Spokane hospital with three broken ribs and a fractured arm. Work of the Curtis company is held up against Santschi's recovery.

Selby-Netcher Marriage—Gertrude Selby, head of the galaxy of Christie comedy girls, has become the bride of Townsend Netcher, whose father was the owner of several large stores in Chicago when he died recently.

Produce in France—Fannie Ward has left England, where she has been visiting, and is to make a photoplay in France written by the poet, Maurice Maeterlinck, author of "The Blue Bird."

Step This Way, Please—Micky Caldwell, stage manager at the National, has completed arrangements for the initiation of General Manager Bernstein into his union. Three sheets of the ceremony will appear shortly. Everybody's doin' it, boys, so you might as well be next!

Beall Feature—Harry Hammond Beall, who for the past two years has been general director for the Universal at Universal City, has reestablished the Beall Service. The scope of the service rendered will be national rather than local, and personal exploitation of well-known stars will be a feature of the organiaztion. The Los Angeles headquarters are in the Superba Theater building. While in the north, Beall established a San Francisco office in the New Call building, and William Parker, who is now in New York, has been authoriezd to arrange for Manhattan affiliations.

New Pen Flinger—The Model Comedy Company has added to its publicity department John J. Sullivan, formerly a city reporter and special story writer for the Providence (R. I.) Journal. Mr. Sullivan is the author of three accepted scenarios and in conjunction with the Model scenario department he is writing a two-reel subject featuring Gale Henry.

Cutting for Gale—Lawrence Creutz, formerly a film cutter at the Ince studio, is now acting as cutting of Gale Henry comedies.

Blythe With Brentwood — Betty Blythe, the Los Angeles girl who first came into screen prominence in Vitagraph pictures and through her support of Guy Empey and who was brought back here by Goldwyn to play the lead in Rex Beach's "The Silver Hoard," has been signed by Brentwood for the role of a leader of New York's "four hundred" in the big photodrama which Henry Kolker will direct for this organiaztion.

Challenger Contract—Percy Challenger has been engaged by the San Antonio Pictures Corporation to support Maclyn Arbuckle in his second picture, "Mr. Bingle," a story by Geo. Barr McCutcheon, scenario by Lee Royal, directed by L. D. Wharton.

Challenger plays "Uncle Joe."

The contract was arranged by Willis & Ingles.

Goldwyn Reunion—James Neill, who has recently joined the Goldwyn Repertory players at the Culver City Studios, started Denver's pioneer stock company some years ago. Blanche Bates and Elsie Janis drew their first salaries in that company. Reginald Barker, who now directs Geraldine Farrar at the Goldwyn Studios, also played under James Neill as well as Bertram Grassby, who has just finished playing a role with Geraldine Farrar in her third production of the summer season.

Northrup With Corbett—Harry S. Northrup, who is playing the leading heavy part in James J. Corbett's next picture, "The Prince of Avenue A," left for San Francisco last Wednesday. The company will be in the Bay City a week or more, under the care of Director Jack Ford, taking exterior scenes on the Barbary Coast.

Jefferis With Zane Grey Company—Will Jefferis has finished a series of comedies with the Frohman Amusement Company, playing opposite Mack Swain, and is now cast in "Desert Wheat," the Zane Grey story in course of production at the Brunton Studios.

Miss Crowell With Fox—Josephine Crowell has been cast in a prominent role in a coming Gladys Grockwell production.

Van Meter With Ingraham—Harry Van Meter is cast as the heavy in the Rex Ingraham picture now in course of production.

Holt Lost—Jack Holt has been engaged to play the leading role in "The Best of Luck," the Drury Lane melodrama being filmed by Screen Classics, Inc., at Metro.

New Script Head—Eugene Mullin, recent acquisition to the Goldwyn editorial forces, leaves for New York next week to confer with Mr. Goldwyn upon the company's coming production activities and assume charge of the script department.

Mr. Mullin was formerly scenario and production editor for Universal and Vitagraph.

—Another—Edna Mae Cooper, the blonde vampire, under contract at the Lasky studio, has suddenly become a brunette. She bobbed her blonde locks close, ordered one of those I-defy-you-to-recognize-me black wigs and blande Edna Mae was no more.

Sweet Location—Director Robert Thornby has taken the Blanche Sweet company to Truckee for several weeks on location work.

Returns East—Samuel Goldwin, president of the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, left Los Angeles Sunday morning for New York City after several weeks at the studio in Culver City.

Steadman With Christie—Al Christie has signed up Vera Stedman to support Bobby Vernon in Christie Comedies. Miss Stedman was known for quite a long time as a Senett comedienne. The first Bobby Vernon picture in which she will play will be filmed immediately, under the direction of William Beaudine.

Bert Apling is again playing a heavy with Dorothy Gish at the Griffith studio.

Signed by Goldwyn—Doris Pawn, leading woman for Tom Moore in his latest Goldwyn picture, has been signed up by Goldwyn for a number of years.

With Fatty—Harry McCoy has been loaned by Mr. Lehrman to Roscoe Arbuckle for the latter's new picture.

Assisting Lehrman—Henry Symonds is now acting as assistant to Henry Lehrman in Billie Ritchie's initial Lehrman Comedy for the First National.

King's Story—Basil King, the author, is a daily visitor at the Goldwyn Culver City studios, where his famous novel, "The Street Called Straight," is being made. Mr. King is in constant touch with the progress of the picture, and has frequent conferences with Director Wallace Worsley. Included in the cast are Milton Sills, Lawson Butt, Naomi Childers, Charles Clary, Irene Rich and Lydia Yeamans Titus. Edward Lowe wrote the scenario.

The first Canadian success in motion picture production, under the title of "Back to God's Country," by James Oliver Curwood, will soon be distributted in the leading theatres of Canada. Nell Shipman, born in Victoria, B. C., plays the leading role.

The accomplishment of the Canadian Photoplays, Ltd., of Calgary, will be distributed throughout Canada by the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc.

In conjunction with the release of "Back to God's Country," a song of the same title, written as the musical interpretation of the feature, will be published by the Waterson, Berlin & Snyder Co., New York City. Words of this song number will be translated in three languages. Arthur Pryor is arranging the song as a theme to interpret the picture when it is shown at the Capitol Theatre, New York. Paul M. Carazan is the author and composer of the song.

The third picture, entitled, "Nomads of the North," will be adapted from the book published by Messrs. Doublejay, Page & Company.

The aim of the company is to make three super-features per year and to give them special exploitation in all countries where the Union Jack flies.

FINIS FOX

CELEBRATED METRO WRITER

Who Adapted "Please Get Married" Now at the California

Original stories now in production: Metro's All-Star Cast Special, "Should A Woman Tell?" and Pathe's Edwin Carewe Production, featuring Dolores Casinelli, "The Web of Lies"

1919 ADAPTIONS

Harold Lockwood in "The Great Romance" (original' and "Shadows of Suspicion"; Bert Lytell in "Blackie's Redemption" and "Easy to Make Money"; Viola Dana in "Please Get Married" and "The Parisian Tigress"; Emmy Wehlen in "Fools and Their Money," etc.

When we speak of an author's inspiration we generally imagine a "sylvan dell" with birds and flowers to match. We don't think of a "prop" room, a studio set or a Fifth avenue bus. But we will mention one author who spurns the rustic verdure for less poetic atmosphere. This unconventional individual is Finis Fox, the Metro scenario writer, who declares that when in New York his favorite place to woo the muses is on the top of a Fifth avenue bus, traveling between Fort George and Washington Square. He always desires to be near humanity, close to the workers, akin to those who make the world go round. At the Metro studio if one desires to see Mr. Fox the proper place to search for him is out on the lot, on a half-finished set, with the smell of fresh paint and the clatter and bang of hammers and saws.

Finis Fox spends much of his time this way while he writes his story in his head. Each detail, each phrase, every little turn and twist of his story is worked out in his brain before ever a word is placed on paper. It is so easy for us to say this, and you read it easily, and unless you have written you do not for a moment realize the tremendous amount of material and energy involved in the development of a series of stories.

An author must have an unlimited store of knowledge in his head. He must be able to portray with accuracy all the tiny technicalities which the average person never thinks of Each local calls for a different set of descriptive details, with innumerable little characteristic touches. And its up to the writer to produce all these. An idea of the versatility required can be given by a resume of the first group of scenarios Finis Fox wrote for Metro. The first story was set in Alaska, and the next leaped to Paris—a wild Apache tale of the underworld. Then came a San Francisco Chinatown feature, and immediately after an elaborate New York society story. Back to California—a romance of the Redwoods. And so it goes.

For a scenario writer, working as Mr. Fox does, the demands are even greater. Not only must he develop his original story, but he must also work out the scenario in the minutest detail. Each bit of business, all subtitles, close-ups, and sets are visualized and prepared in the working scenario. Usually several versions of each scene are made and photographed, later a choice being made in the projection room.

At Metro the director follows the script at every point, so an unusual responsibility rests with the scenario writer.

Finis Fox's life has fitted him ideally for his chosen art, which he expects to follow permanently.

He began his career in his father's law office, but his legal ambitions were interrupted by the Spanish-American war. The soldier life lured him from an office and when the war was over he became a cow-puncher, and soon possessed a stock ranch of his own. Forever active and restless, Mr. Fox gave up his ranching and became editor and owner of a newspaper. His next venture was a political spree and Mr. Fox served the state of Oklahoma as a member of its Legislature. On to other fields—life insurance, real estate, salesman and sales-manager. Next a dive into a western irrigation project, and then a dabbling in Alaskan mining. Back to the States he came and entered manufacturing, associated with the White Crown Jar Manufacturers of Louisville, Kentucky. While engaged in this business Finis Fox made a trip to New York City to see his brother, Edwin Carewe, who was then a Metro director.

During his visit, Mr. Fox overheard Mr. Carewe and Maxwell Karger discussing the scarcity of good stories for picture production.

Mr. Fox listened, said nothing, but continued to think it over. Even then, he had no intention of writing a story. But the idea grew and a story developed into his head. He went to his office and within an hour he had dictated and dispatched his first story to the studio. Promptly he received a $500 check, and his first story, "The Jury of Fate," was produced, featuring Mabel Taliaferro.

"The Voice of Conscience," his next story to be produced, was used by Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne.

Thereafter Mr. Fox devoted all his time to scenario writing. At the time of Harold Lockwood's death, Finis Fox held a contract to write all of Mr. Lockwood's stories. "The Great Romance" and "Shadows of Suspicions" were the only ones produced.

"Please Get Married," showing at the California Theatre this week, was adapted by Mr. Fox for Viola Dana. At the present time two of his original stories are being produced, "Should a Woman Tell?" with an all-star Metro cast, and Pathe's Edwin Carewe production, featuring Dolores Cassinelli, "The Web of Lies."

During 1919 a few of Mr. Fox's screen adaptations include Bert Lytell's "Blackie's Redemption" and "Easy to Make Money"; Viola Dana in "The Parisian Tigress," and Emmy Whelen in "Fools and Their Money."

Mr. Fox has been remarkably successful, one of the very, very few in his profession who have gained so high a position. You can readily see how his life has helped him attain the degree of success which is his. He has lived in the heart of things and has learned to understand people. Perhaps his ancestry is partly responsible for his keen perception of pictorial and narrative values. He has Indian blood in his veins, from the Chicksaw race, Chula, meaning "The Fox," being his real name.

And now the Finis—yes, also his own name. Three girls had been born to the Fox family and the great desire was for a boy baby. So, when along came our eminent author, father Fox said "This will be all," and he called the child Finis.

A well-filled, useful life for one who began with end, don't you think?

CASTING DIRECTORY

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months.

UNIT SERVICE AVAILABLE

Producers will welcome the news of the building of a 20-unit service studio in San Francisco by the Joseph A. Eliason enterprise. Companies "on location" from now on in the Bay Cities can secure any service pertaining to motion picture production. That has been a long-felt want in that part of the state.

Contracts for laboratory work, lighting, camera, building of sets, etc., can now be made with the Joseph A. Eliason enterprise in temporary studios until the completion of "Film City."

AT LASKY

Very Busy—Cecil B. deMille, his company of players, including Thomas Meighan, Gloria Swanson, Bebe Daniels and others, and about one hundred extra people, all gowned and dressed in lavish new style creations, worked practically all night Wednesday in a big set at the Lasky studio, representing the patio and swimming pool of a fashionable hotel. This is only one of the many really big scenes in the new C. B. deMille production, "Why Change Your Wife?"

Washburn Story—Under the direction of Donald Crisp, Bryant Washburn started last Monday on "Too Much Johnson," based on the stage farce by William Gillette. The company will work the rest of this week at the studio and will leave Sunday night for an extended ocean voyage between Los Angeles and Portland. Lois Wilson is leading woman.

Shooting Again—Houdini started work Friday, directed by James Cruze. The story is by Arthur B. Reeve and John Grey. Walter Woods is scenarist. The picture has been temporarily titled "The Isle of Hate." The cast has not yet been completed. The company will first work at the studio.

Sea Location—George H. Melford and his company, filming "The Sea Wolf," from the novel by Jack London, are still making their headquarters at San Francisco and are making scenes on board the schooner, which was chartered, and the ferryboat, which was purchased by the company for use in the picture. The scenes are being taken in San Francisco Bay and just outside of Golden Gate, which is part of the locale of the original story. Noah Beery is playing the title role and Mabel Juliene Scott is leading woman.

Warwick Vehicle—William C. deMille will begin work next Monday on a picturization of "Jack Straw," in which Robert Warwick will star.

Returns to Lasky's—"The Thirteenth Commandment," founded on Rupert Hughe's story, is taking shape at the Morosco studio, with Ethel Clayton as the star and Robert G. Vignola as director. After the completion of this picture, Miss Clayton will return to the Lasky studio to make "Young Mrs. Winthrop." The director, cast and other details will be announced later.

Minter Arrives—Mary Miles Minter, the Realart star, is expected to arrive in Los Angeles some time next week, and soon after her arrival will begin work at the Morosco studio on a production for Realart of Grace Miller White's story, "Judy of Rogue's Harbor." William D. Taylor, who will direct Miss Minter, will arrive about Sunday, and prior to starting his work on that production, will spend his time cutting "Huckleberry Finn," which he directed before leaving for New York.

Mix in Prescott—Tom Mix is on location at Prescott, Arizona, with a large company, to remain about two weeks. Among those accompanying Mix are Colleen Moore, H. J. Hibert, Harry de Vere, Kay Harrison and Florence Terry. Cliff Smith is directing, assisted by Gene Lowery, with Frank B. Good at the comera.

Actors' Association Notes—Calvert Carter is with the William Dowlan company at Universal, having been cast in the forthcoming production, "The Peddler."

Dwight Crittenden is with the Mabel Normand company at Goldwin, under the direction of Victor Schertzinger.

Charles Arling is supporting Edith Roberts in the Universal feature now in course of production.

Mr. Wm. Carroll wishes to thank Mr. Guy Price for the very fine notice he gave him for the part of the pawnbroker in "Blue Bonnett," but is very sorry indeed that Mr. Price could not recall his name.

After an absence of a year and a half from the Lasky fold, George Hackathorne has been engaged for the juvenile part in Bryant Washburn's new picture. "Too Much Johnson," under Donald Crisp's direction.

Nelson McDowell is working with two companies at present, having been cast as "Jerry" in the Benjamin Hampton production, "Desert Wheat," by

New members of the Association are: Jack Holt, Florence Turner, Carlton Weatherby, Pell Trenton, Ed Brady, Albert Austin, Bert Grassby, Juan de la Cruz, Roy Laidlaw, Jos. Girarde, Jack Leonard, Fred Herzon, Donald Stuart, Maxfield Stanlye, Gertrude Claire, Myrtle Stedman and Boris Kerloff.

Re-enters Films—Rumor has it that Capt. Wilbert Melville, one time producer for Lubin and one of the first to build a studio in Southern California, will soon take a vacation from his recent stock and bond operations and reenter the film business again. He will leave for San Francisco next week to look over the proposed Twenty-Unit Studio, which is to be erected in the city of the north, with a view of producing his features in a new field.

Signs With Lasky—Frances Craven Parks, who has been with the David Wark Griffith picture company for the past three years, has signed with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation to play in the forthcoming production, "Jack Straw," in which Major Robert Warrick will be featured. It is understood that Miss Parks has a splendid part in this production. Other well-known people are in the cast. Carroll McComas is the leading woman. Miss Parks received a flattering offer from D. W. Griffith to go with his company to New York, but, owing to her mother's health, she decided to remain in California.

Going South—Donald B. Keyes, former lieutenant in the photographic department of the U. S. air service, and at present on the picture staff at the Goldwyn studios, has applied for passports in order to go to South Africa on a picture-taking expedition of two years' duration. He leaves Los Angeles in about three weeks for New York, where he will embark for Liverpool and then for Cape Town. He goes with Frank Wilton and Curator H. A. Snow of the Oakland Public Museum. They will secure pictures of animal and vegetable life on the dark continent.

Mr. H. P. Carver is the man behind the bankroll of Canadian Photoplays Ltd., and is due to arrive in Los Angeles this week. He is there for the purpose of selecting the cast for the second James Oliver Curwood story, entitled "The Yellowback," which ran in Hearst's Magazine for May.

Ford's New Serial—Director Francis Ford started last week on his new serial, the working title of which is "The Gates of Doom." It is a Principality story. The sets, furnishings and costumes will be the most elaborate that Director Ford has ever attempted. The leading lady will be Ella Hall, formerly in Jewel Productions at Universal City.

Mildred Harris Chaplin Starts—Primary photographic tests of Mildred Harris Chaplin, who this week returns to the studio after five months absence, have brought gratifying results, according to Tonio Gaudio, her cameraman.

Mildred's tests were made at Mary Pickford's studio, as the Mayer studios have not been completed. Work on "The Inferior Sex," Frank Stayton's celebrated legitimate drama, will probably start at an outside studio. This is to be Mildred's first starring vehicle under her own contract with Louis B. Mayer for exclusive First National releases.

SCENARIO MARKET

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

HOLLYWOOD

Will Herford

Oh Sunny, Shady Hollywood!
There you may live if you are good,
And if you are not quite so good—
  Still you may live in Hollywood.

The cars go in to town and back;
You can go in and take a snack,
Or buy something you think you lack;
  Then back again to Hollywood.

And if you feel you need a dip,
Or of the salt sea air a nip,
It's only just a little trip
  And back again to Hollywood.

Directors live in Hollywood;
Stars twinkle, and the Extra brood
Contends for scraps of Movie food,
  In Funny, Sunny Hollywood.

Old thoughts are swapped and renamed New;
They're not, but still we make them do,
A sort of scientific flu
  We catch who live in Hollywood.

Few people die in Hollywood;
Like ships or chips, they're said to pass,
It comes to much the same, alas!
  They don't return to Hollywood.

Good Lord, remember Hollywood!
If you have never been there yet,
Come once, you never will forget
  The Angel suburb, Hollywood.

The Moving Picture Industry in Germany

In a recent edition of Variety Hayden Talbot gives us an interesting story on condtions of the new republc.

The film business in Germany today is by all means the biggest thing and in the best shape of all Germany's commercial organizations.

All told there are about 360 separate outfits making pictures in Germany at the present time. Painstaking investigations forced me to the conclusion that 357 of these concerns ought not to be in business. In the same class as some of the American so-called "independent" producers they are actually doing their best to kill the industry in the shortest possible time. Meanwhile, however, they are reaping a golden harvest—virtually every one of them—by making and exhibiting pictures of the filthiest imaginable kind.

Every one of these 357 producing concerns must go out of business as soon as the censorship is re-established—probably not until next January after the general elections, there being nothing to indicate a change of mental attitude on the part of the present government towards their policy of keeping the people "amused" at all costs. Big profits have been so easy to make—in spite of their ignorance of the first rudiments of good picture making—that they can not hope to compete with first class producers the moment they are prohibited from making use of salaciousness.

There are three producing concerns in Germany today which are altogether reputable and whose product is primarily clean.

There are 4,800 motion picture houses (called Kinos) in Germany, and 85 of the biggest and highest class of these are rented and run by the three big producing firms. Out of these 85 houses alone the cost of the average release is got back—without any runforcing methods being invoked. Profits are derived from showings in the remaining 4,715 Kinos. Austria and Hungary, Rumania and Turkey—during the war and since the armistice—offered Germany's only outside market, but all told 20 prints still continue to satisfy the demands for the average release.

At this time, it is said, there are 650 separate films made in America stored in vaults in Copenhagen. Heads of the big three German concerns have seen most of these pictures run off for them. In their opinion 75 per cent of the total number are worthless—from a German exhibitor's point of view and, if shown, would do damage to any Kino's established business. The remaining 25 per cent—these representative German producers have told me—are as good (but no better than) as their own average releases. But with the rate of exchange what it is and with what they consider the ridiculously high prices being asked by the Americans for these best films, there is little likelihood of any of these pictures ever being seen by German audiences.

And in this connection it must be remembered—in Germany—names the rest of the world knows by heart are absolutely meaningless, and without a cent's box office value. Not only has no German film fan ever heard of Griffith or Famous Players or Fox or any of the other big American film producing concerns. Our stars are equally unknown. In other words there are 200,000,000 people in central Europe who never heard of Chaplin, Fairbanks, Hart, Pickford or Clarke.

Which is one way of proving with a bang how very young our film industry is—and how new our stars! But how many Americans knew any of these names prior to July, 1914?

However,(this is not all the story. Not only do German audiences know nothing about our producers or stars—they do know all about their own. Whatever the Griffith name or the trademark of Famous Players may mean to American film fans—to Germans any one of the big three concerns' name means as much. Incidentally they have their own "Bill Hart" and other stars as firmly fixed in their affections as film fans in America. Wherefore it is not difficult to understand that American producers can not expect to have it all their own way in entering this market.

I questioned many of the principals of the Munich concern and of Decla as to their personal opinion of American pictures and American stars. The answers I got were surprisingly similar in almost every case. Since it is these men who largely determine the attitude of the German exhibitor, it may be interesting to know their opinion. Briefly it is as follows:

1. The "best" male star in America is not an American at all! It is Sessue Hayakawa.

2. A Fairbanks' release would never go for a minute with German audiences, because of the star's inability to act, and because of the wild improbabilities of the stories he screens.

3. Chaplin would be a flat failure in Germany because of the improbability of his stories and because German film fans could never appreciate his style of comedy.

4. Mary Pickford and Clara Kimball Young are the two female stars in America who could win a following in Germany—the former because the ingenue type is almost unknown in the German film world, and the latter because she more nearly resembles the usual type of German leading woman, in appearance and method, than any of the other American women stars.

5. Generally speaking, however, American films can never obtain a footing in Germany so long as the existing rule of subordinating everything to an exploitation of the star continues—because German film audiences demand first of all logical, interesting, well-constructed dramas, and so long as they are adequately cast and directed it doesn't matter at all to them who the actors or who the director may be.

When I heard the heads of these German concerns repeating over and over again names of individuals I had never heard of I took it for granted at first that they were boasting about their own stars and directors. But presently I discovered that the only names they think worth mentioning are the authors they have under contract!

Ganghofer gets 28,000 marks for every picture of his that is filmed. At the old rate of exchange this is about $6,500. Under his contract the Munich concern must accept not less than six of his photodramas within a year—and as many more as he may write in this period. The idea that he might write a story that would not be worth filming invited indignant protest. A Ganghofer drama was spoken of reverently as a Wagnerian opera! To suggest that anything Ganghofer would turn out could not be worth filming produced about the same result as telling Lasky that Mary Pickford might not be able to act!

Any of the score of authors writing for the pictures in Germany today receive a guaranteed annual income of anywhere between $40,000 and $100,000 a year. The highest paid film star in Germany today gets exactly $80,500. Most of the film stars receive less than one-third of that amount.

The highest class director gets from $1,300 to $2,300 for each film he makes—but as he is always engaged by the picture and never under a yearly contract his annual income seldom exceeds $8,000 a year. Cameramen receive just as big salaries as their directors. A cameraman's assistant gets as much as $1,150 for one picture!

The average five-reel picture costs about $30,000 to produce. The average first-run kino seats about 1,500 and plays to about $600 a day. The Kammer Lichtspiele Theatre in Munich, for example, one of the most popular kinos in Bavaria, has averaged better than $600 a day all through the war. Five performances a day are given, beginning t 2 o'clock in the afternoon and including Sundays. Prices range from 27 cents to 97 cents—with the bulk of the house at 50 cents.

American exhibitors are going to

EAST VS. WEST

Much has been said lately in a prophetic way concerning the future location of the motion picture supply, which is now centered in Southern California. The fact that some of the large producing concerns are erecting studios in the neighborhood of New York has led some of the prophets to assert that a hegira has set in eastward. This prediction is based on the fact that improvements in the methods of artificial lighting have made it possible to produce technical effects indoors that heretofore needed the peculiar sunlight of California.

But according to William Desmond Taylor, the Paramount director, who has just arrived in the west to produce a second picture with Mary Miles Minter as star, there does not seem to be any prospect of overcoming handicaps that tend to make movies costly when put together in the east.

Mr. Taylor said: "I was almost three months making one picture in the East this summer and autumn. It was a film which would ordinarily have taken from five to six weeks, and the delay was caused by the excessive amount of rain. Exteriors which were absolutely essential just couldn't be obtained, and while I enjoy the East and have a most happy time there when I can loaf, give me California if I am working.

"The contrast to a director who has had the advantages of California's brilliant sunshine and stable weather is almost impossible to imagine, and for me there is absolutely no comparison as to the desirability of the West. In the East, too, it is very difficult to get players. Most of the good actors are tied up with the theatres and can only work on certain days, or some mornings, and altogether production there is so delayed and uncertain that for real downright work I am most happy to be back on the Coast again."

INTERESTING IF TRUE

From October 18 until October 31 is the period set aside for the diminution of automobile accidents so far as the railroads are accomplices, and during that time it is expected that there will be no auto-railroad accidents.

At least that is what the Railway Administration at Washington is hoping, and the Automobile Club of Southern California, as the most powerful body of motorists in America, has been asked to co-operate.

So motorists throughout Southern California are asked by club representatives and officials to refrain from running into any railroads or railway trains, whether stationary or moving, and to avoid having any trains running into them.

Motorists are likewise asked to use unusual caution in crossing railroad tracks so as not to be hit by an engine or train of cars, and if hit, they are asked to be hit as gently as possible so that little or no damage shall be done either to the car or its occupants.

It is believed by the railways operating throughout the southern part of the state, that if motorists will get the habit of not being run into so much, this habit will become permanent, and the "no accident" period will have become a success.

MOTION PICTURE MEETING

On October 26, at 8 p. m., at Moose Hall, next to the Pacific Electric Railway station on Hill street, a meeting of picture people will be held. Frank Keenan and Fred Niblo will be the chief speakers of the evening. All people interested in the motion picture profession are invited, with admission free.

AMUSEMENT FEDERATION FORMED

The Amusement Federation of Los Angeles was organized on September 24. The locals affiliated are: The Motion Picture Players Union, Motion Picture Operators and Projectors, Theatrical Stage Employees, Bill Posters and Billers, and Musicians. The delegates from the Motion Picture Players Union are Gus Laville, Lieut. L. V. Murray, Bobbie Robertson, Seymour Hastings and Major McGuire.

The secretary and treasurer of this federation is H. P. Moore of the Musicians, and a member of the executive board of the Los Angeles Central Labor Council.

The object of this federation shall be to foster a feeling of friendship and to bring into closer relationship the various organizations engaged in the amusement profession in their various branches, to devise ways and means for bettering the conditions and advancing the interests of all allied bodies; and to assist in the settlement of any differences that may arise where allied bodies are involved.

WINTER INJURED

George Winter, a member of Henry Lehrman Comedies, was painfully injured Tuesday in making a scene on the pier at Ocean Park. The action required an automobile to crash into the railing on the pier, precipitating parts of the machine and its occupants into the water below. Just after striking the water, Winter was struck on the head by the tonneau of the car and was rendered unconscious.

Henry Lehrman ordered the scenes stopped and shouted to the other three men to rescue the injured actor, who was finally lifted to the pier by means of a rope. He was later treated at the studio in Culver City by Dr. Mace and sent to his home.

SECOND ALKIRE PRODUCTION

An Ace in the Hole," the first starring vehicle of Joseph Bennett, has been shipped East by the Alkire Company and casting has been completed for the second five-reeler, an auto-racing story, entitled "Excuse My Dust." Production starts Monday with Bennett in the leading role, supported by Dorothy Dane, Cecil C. Holland and a strong cast, under the direction of Fred Kohler, and supervision of Philip H. White.

WILLIAMS RETURNS

Cyrus J. Williams, general manger of Mitchell Lewis productions, has returned from New York with new contracts and plans for a general expansion of production activities. It is quite probable that two additional well-known stars will be added to the production forces, in the very near future.

APLING WITH DOUBLEDAY

Bert Apling has been engaged to play a series of heavies with the Doubleday Production company, featuring Vera McGinnis, under the direction of Lafe McKee.

WITH INGRAHAM

Lucy Donahue is playing the part of a housekeeper at Universal, in the company directed by Rex Ingraham.

WITH FARNUM

C. S. Widom, costumer and wardrobe man, has been in charge of Dustin Farnum Company in Glendale for L. J. Gasnier. The amount spent on costumes, which are very elaborate and picturesque, is at least $10,000.00.

Mr. Widom is not only costuming the mob scene and the extra people, but the principals in the cast. Mr. Farnum alone has 18 changes to make, as he is playing a dual role and "widdy" has been helping Dusty keep track of each of them. Mr. Farnum has changed costumes an average of six times a day and Widdy is always on hand ready to help Dusty make each change.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

ON THE LASKY LOT

To Go East Soon—Cecil B. deMille is nearing completion of "Why Change Your Wife?" with Gloria Swanson, Thomas Meighan and Bebe Daniels in the leading roles. Upon the completion of the picture, Mr. deMille plans a brief Eastern trip, accompanied by his production manager, Howard Higgin, director of photography, Alvin Wyckoff and his costume designers, Mrs. Clare West and Mitchell Leison. Thomas Meighan and Gloria Swanson may also accompany Mr. deMille for the opening of the recently completed "Male and Female."

Second Houdini Serial—Houdini is well under way on his second thriller for Famous Players-Lasky, under the direction of James Cruze. "Salvage" is the working title.

Warwick Started—Major Robert Warwick has started work on a picturization of "Jack Straw," with Carroll McComas as his leading woman.

Ethel Clayton will finish her latest picture, "The Thirteenth Commandment," this week and will then move from the Moresco to the Lasky studio to do "Young Mrs. Winthrop." She probably will be directed by Walter Edwards, who is now in New York directing Marguerite Clark. The Morosco studio will then be used for the production of Mary Miles Minter's first Realart picture to be made on the Pacific Coast. William D. Taylor will direct. The Realart star has just arrived from New York.

New Director—Wallace Reid has reached the halfway mark in the filming of his latest picture, "Speed Carr," an original story by J. Stuart Woodhouse. Sam Wood, formerly Cecil B. deMille's right hand man, is directing.

Washburn Company on Location—Bryant Washburn and his company have spent the past week on the ocean taking steamboat scenes for a picturization of William Gillette's farce, "Too Much Johnson." This picture is directed by Donald Crisp with Lois Wilson as the leading woman. Miss Wilson has entirely recovered from the effects of her recent appendicitis operation.

In 'Frisco—George H. Melford and his "Sea Wolf" company are making their headquarters in San Francisco for four weeks while filming scenes in the bay and in the open sea. Tom Forman plays the part of Humphrey Van Weyden. Noah Beery has the title role and Mabel Julien Scott is his leading woman. This will be a Paramount-Artcraft special.

Rowland on Way—Richard A. Rowland, president of Metro Pictures Corporation, is on his way to Los Angeles. He left New York Tuesday, wiring Maxwell Karger to expect him Sunday afternoon.

This is Mr. Rowland's second visit to the coast studio this year, but his first visit since his return from Europe. While abroad Mr. Rowland completed negotiations by which Francesca Bortini, the Italian actress, becomes a Metro star; placed the output of Screen Classics, Inc., and of Nazimova productions with Jury, Ltd., for distribution in Great Britain; and purchased five Drury Lane melodramas for all-star production by Screen Classics.

Second Feature—The second release of the new Holly Comedies will be released on the Bulls-Eye Film Corporation program about October 15. The comedy features Sid Smith, who is being directed by Fred P. Kerr. The Alkire Photoplay Corporation is producing the Holly Comedies in Edendale, Calif.

Sid Smith's principal supports are Madge Kirby, James Parrott, and Vernon Dent. Paul Garnett is cameraman. Smith's first picture was titled "Don't Scold Your Husband," while the second comedy is "You Auto Be Careful." Both are one-reel offerings.

New Cody Vehicle—L. J. Gasnier has engaged Louise Lovely as Lew Cody's premiere leading woman for "The Butterfly Man," the George Barr McCutcheon $25,000 story, with the screen adaptation of which Ida May Park is currently occupied.

Curt Rehfeld will assist Miss Park in the filming of "The Butterfly Man," while Joseph A. Dubray will be chief cinematographer. Actual production will commence within the week.

Cathrine Curtis, president and executive manager of the Cathrine Curtis Corporation, accompanied by an all-star cast, is now engaged in filming the first part of her new Western picture in the wilds of north Idaho. Miss Curtis and company, including Tom Sautschi, Alfred Allen and Lester Cuneo, recently left Spokane and expect to spend the next month in the Idaho panhandle.

Mountain Location—Jack Pickford, Director Wallace Worsley and some forty others have hied to a mountain camp in the general direction of Riverside. Exceptional scenic effects will be caught for Jack Pickford's first starring vehicle at Goldwyn, which is "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," adapted from the John Fox Junior story of the same title.

Ruby Leaves for New York—Captain Harry M. Rubey, president of the National Film Corporation, has left on a business trip to New York City in the interests of the company. General Manager Bernstein will have entire charge of the studio activities during his absence, which will probably cover a period of several weeks.

UNIVERSAL NOTES

By Chas. L. Hertzman

Harry Carey has begun work on his new production, "Overland Red," under the direction of Lynn Reynolds. The scenario is an adaption of the book of the same title by Henry H. Knibbs. In his supporting cast are Viola Vale, Charles Le Moyne, Harold Goodwyn, David B. Gally, Charles Anderson and Joe Harris.

Rex Ingram, who recently finished "The Beach Comber" at Universal City, is already at work on his new location, "The Day She Paid," founded on Fannie Hurst's magazine story, "Oats for the Woman." The cast appearing in this feature includes Francelia Billington, Charles Clary, Lillian Rich, Harry Van Meter, Charles Le Moyne, Arthur Hoyt and little Nancy Caswell.

Harry Franklin has started his first Universal feature, "Rouge and Riches," starring Mary MacLaren. The scenario is from the pen of W. Carey Wonderly. The cost will include Wallace MacDonald, Alberta Lee, Robert Walker, Dorothy Abril, Fritzie Ridgeway, Syn de Conde, Lloyd Whitlock, Harry Dunkinson and Helen Sullivan.

Christie Cabanne's production is called "Triflers," a story by Joseph Franklin Poland. Work on this feature started this week with a cast including Edith Roberts, David Butler, Forrest Stanley, Frederick Vroom, Lillian Langdon, Katherine Kirkham and Emmet King.

Priscilla Dean's production, "The Virgin of Stamboul," is progressing satisfactorily, the supporting cost including Wallace Beery, Wheeler Oakman, E. A. Warren, Edward Burns. Tod Browning is directing the story.

William C. Dowlan is expected to return to Universal City from Santa Barbara, where he has been for several days taking scenes for "The Peddler." In the cast engaged on this feature are Frank Mayo, Ora Carewe, Dagnar Godowsky, Ray Ripley and Truman Van Dyke.

Jack Ford and James J. Corbett have left for San Francisco to film the opening scenes for "The Prince of Avenue A," Gentleman Jim's initial production under his new U contract. A new cast has been secured, in which are Harry Northrup, Richard Cummings, Cora Drew, Frederick Vroom, Mary Warren, George Fisher, Johnnie Cooke and Lydia Yeamans Titus. "The Prince of Avenue A" was formerly used by Corbett as a stage starring vehicle.

Douglas Gerrard has the next Monroe Salisbury feature, "The Phantom Melody," well under way. In this story, which is from the pen of F. McGrew Willis, Mr. Salisbury has the support of Barney Sherry, Ray Gallagher, Jean Calhoun, Charles West, Joe Ray and Milton Markwell.

At Santell is well started on his next comedy feature, "Lower Four and Upper Three," which will star Joe Martin, the ape, and other animal actors.

Allen Holubar5s forthcoming feature, "Ambition," starring Dorothy Phillips, is nearing completion. Mr. Holubar wrote the story, and in Miss Phillips' company are Robert Andersen, Rodolph Valentino, Emily Chichester, Elinor Field, William Ellingford, Mrs. Margaret Mann, Mary Wise, Dan Crimmins, Rosa Gore, Frank Elliott, Katherine Griffith and Emma Gerdes.

Hoot Gibson, Universal's cowboy star, has finished "The Broncho Kid" and is now at work on "The Sheriff's Oath," under the direction of Phil Rosen. The star is supported by Josephine Hill, Arthur Mackley, Martha Mattox, Jim O'Neal, Bert Frank and William Harrison.

Eddie Kull has finished Mary MacLaren's latest picture, "The Pointing Finger," and is enoying a few days' rest before starting on his next Universal production.

Norman Dawn, who has recently finished the filming of "Lasca" at Universal City, is taking a vacation while awaiting his next assignment.

Von Stroheim reports splendid progress on his forthcoming feature, "The Woman in the Plot," based on the story by Baroness de Meyer entitled "Clothes and Treachery."

Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran have finished "Too Many Liars" and are busy preparing another of their one-reelers.

"The Breath of the Gods," starring Tsuru Aoki, is nearing its final scenes under Rollin Sturgeon's supervision. This story of the Orient by Sydney McCall is enacted, aside from the star, by Stanhope Wheatcroft, Arthur Carew, Pat O'Malley, Ethel Shannon, Barney Sherry and M. Seki.

Director Al Russell has begun the seventh episode of the serial, "The Lion Man," featuring Kathleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin, and engaging the services of Barney Sherry, Robert Walker, Henry Barrows, Gertrude Astor and Phil Gastrock.

Jacques Jaccard, who recently finished work on the Lieutenant Locklear feature, "Cassidy of the Air Lanes," is preparing to assume supervision of the Eddie Polo serial, "The Thirteenth Hour," the first eight episodes of which were made in England and the continent under the direction of J. P. McGowan.

Art Acord's serial, "The Man Hunter," is now on its second episode, with Director Reeves Eason in charge. The star's leading woman is Mildred Moore, and others in his support are Charles Newton, George Field, Beatrice Dominguez and Tote Du Crow.

Chris Rub, Universal's new comedian,, has started on his third comedy, "Little Green Devils," under the guidance of Ray Grainger. Assisting Mr. Rob are Lottie McPherson, Charles Force and Ruth Royce.

VITAGRAPH NEWS

Williams East—Earl Williams left last week for the Eastern studio, where he will be starred in several big features before he returns to the West Coast. The first picture that Mr. Williams will do in the Brooklyn studio will be "The Fortune Hunter." This will be followed by "Captain Swift" and one or two others.

Smith Vacation—Director David Smith, who has been directing Bessie Love, has gone off for a vacation. He will be absent not more than a week and then will take up the production of a number of O'Henry stories.

Swift Serial Work—Antonio Moreno, under the direction of Wm. J. Bauman, is speeding up work on the "Secret Service" serial and before the end of the week the first four episodes will be completed and shipped to the Eastern offices.

Nearing Completion—William Duncan is getting into the homestretch on "Smashing Barriers"; only four more episodes remain to be produced on this serial.

Semon Location—Larry Semon has found so much material for his new comedy out at the big stone quarry in Monrovia that most of the hilarity in his current production will be made at this one location.

Half Finished—Montgomery & Rock have their present subject, a "rural" comedy, about half completed.

Beauty Burlesque—Jimmy Aubrey and Babe Hardy, under Noel Smith's direction, are making their present fanciful comedy mostly at the studio. This subject is about beauty and the things that make beauty.

Second Mann Feature—Harry Mann, with Margaret Rucker and Virginia Nightingale, are busy on the second of the "Simple Harry" series of comedies.

Hunting Locations—Henry Kolker, having, with his assistant, A. D. Ripley and a stenographer, completed the careful building of the continuity from his own original story, which he is about to picturize for Brentwood, has spent the greater part of the past week at the nearby mountain resorts and at San Pedro carefully selecting each outside location for the production upon which he expects to commence shooting within a few days.

Ince at Laguna Again—John Ince and his company, who are now filming "Should a Woman Tell?" are back at Laguna Beach again. They returned to the studio last Saturday after a ten-day location trip, and left Wednesday to be done for five more days. The cast is headed by Alice Lake, Jack Mulhall and Frank Currier, fifty extra people, a squad of electricians and carpenters, made the trip.

Mitchell Progressing—Claude H. Mitchell has put to practical test the new Brentwood stage with its extensive lighting and other equipment and has made big progress in the production which he is directing with a company comprising ZaSu Pitts, Julanne Johnston, Fannie Midkely, Anna Hernandez, Edwin Etevens, Henry Woodward, W. H. Bainbridge, Frank Hayes and Hughie Mack.

"Hall Room Boys" Series—Bob McGowan and Mark Goldaine, who are co-directing Eddie Flanagan and Neely Edwards in their latest "Hall Room Boys" farce, have nearly finished shooting the final scenes and will probably start upon another story shortly, the same to be written in collaboration. Arno Marsh is assisting them, both on the stage and at the typewriter. Walter Bell is turning the crank.

Returns to Screen—Dorothy Davenport (Mrs. Wallace Reid), who has been absent from the screen for a brief period, expects to come back soon.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

Visitors From N. Y.—Mrs. Joseph Uhrie and Miss Rose Dougherty, mother and aunt of Joe and "Mickey" Walen of the Metro studio, were visitors at the studio the first tof the week. They are recent arrivals from New York City and expect to spend about six months in Hollywood. Miss Dougherty was a member of the Bellvue hospital unit, and has just recently returned from France.

Kilgour Challenged—Joseph Kilgour has been talking so much golf around the Metro Studio that he finds himself with his honors of studio champion disputed by James J. Dunne. Both club weilders are enthusiasts of the first magnitude and are regulars out Griffith Park way. They are planning on having a social game at the first possible opportunity.

Beachwood Home—Harry Haskin, co-directing with Miss Roland, has purchased a villa site on Beachwood Drive, Hollywood. It is Mr. Haskin's intention to build the artistic bungalow for which he has for some time had the plans.

Stenglar Guest—Allen Thompson, assisting cameraman Depew, was the guest of honor at a stag dinner given by Mack Stenglar of the Ince forces, Tuesday night. Covers were laid for twelve.

Birthday Gift—Helen Case, playing Countess Zitka in support of Ruth Roland, is a widow "pro tempore", her husband, Bob Tornby being in Truckee where he is directing some scenes in a forthcoming Jesse Hampton production, starring Blanche Sweet.

As a birthday gift Mr. Tornby presented his wife with a beautiful blue Kissel Sedan.

At Catalina—Reginald Barker, who directed the last three Farrar features and Charles Kenyon, the Goldwyn writer have gone to Catalina on a short rest. They will discuss points of the forthcoming Barker production between springs from the diving board.

Returns From Hot Springs—Lucille Carlisle returned early in the week from Wheeler's Hot Springs, where she enjoyed a brief vacation, between pictures. Miss Carlisle and Mr. Semon are completing their tenth picture, together, since the first of the year.

Prepare, Friends—Lloyd Bacon, now playing the straight lead opposite Elinor Field in the production, "Hearts and Masks" at the National Studios, is building a beautiful bungalow, located on Benton Way, Hollywood. A real house warming will be in order in the course of a few weeks at which time Mr. Bacon promises to make known a new innovation in the way of refreshments. All friends take note!

Work For McDonald—Francis McDonald, who has been enjoying a rather lengthy vacation, will have to cease his social activities very soon since he is cast in two productions at the National Studios, one of which is well under way now, that one being "Hearts and Masks," directed by William Seiter. The other, "The Kentucky Colonel," will be in the making in the very near future, director Bertram Bracken stating that the script has nearly been completed. Mr. McDonald will be one of an all-star cast in this feature.

Eighteenth Henry Comedy — Gale Henry this week shot the final scenes to "Ham Ann," her eighteenth two-reeler for Bulls-Eye release, and after a short rest started work on her next picture under the general supervision of Bruno J. Becker. Miss Henry is supported by Eddie Baker, Hap H. Ward and Bill Franey. Lee Garmes is handling the photography.

At Pasadena—Bobby Vernon and Vera Stedman are being directed by Bill Beaudine in a Christie Comedy. Their first scenes are in the estate of a Pasadena millionaire.

Moranti Company—Backed by Eastern capital, Milburn Moranti, formerly leading man to Gale Henry, has organized his own company under the name of the Mercury Company, and this week started production on a two-reel fun fest at the Bulls-Eye studio in Hollywood. According to Mr. Moranti, his company will release a two-reeler every other week on the Bulls-Eye program. Pauline Becker is leading lady and Joe Bonner is playing a character part. The direction of the company's pictures is being handled by Grover Jones with Miles Burns as the cameraman.

Cutting—Director Henry King is now in charge of the cutting of the film, "A Fugitive From Matrimony," which King directed with H. B. Warner in the star part. It is an original story by Fred Myton. At the conclusion of this picture, Mr. King was immediately re-engaged to direct Warner in his next.

—Fair Story—William Fox has purchased the story "Tin Pan Alley" for the use of his young star, Elinor Fair.

New Tucker Feature—The subject of George Loane Tucker's next picture is now known. It will be almost a direct antithesis of his "Miracle Man," for it is a light novel by Alice Miller, "Ladies Must Live."

Virginia Lee With Fox—Virginia Lee Corbin is working at the Fox studios, having been cast in the present Peggy Hyland production, under the direction of Howard Mitchell. Little Miss Corbin plans to go out on the Orpheum circuit early in the year. Her sister, Ruth, who is studying violin at Notre Dame College, will accompany her. The older sister is a clever toe dancer.

With Fox—Ernie Shield signed with the Fox company to play a juvenile supporting "Buck" Jones, directed by Charles Swickard.

Supporting Houdini—Jack Brammal has been engaged by Lasky to support Houdini, with James Cruze directing.

Finished at "U"—Jim O'Neill has completed the part of the Crabbed Miner in "The Sheriff's Oath," with Hoot Gibson.

REX BEACH

By Mildred Davis

To write of adventure, one must know it first and Rex Beach had a softly cushioned future in a Chicago law office waiting for him, but instead he chose to dash off with the gold hunters who went to Alaska in 1897. A college education did not prevent him from cutting wood for the steamboats and going to Nome with a dredge when the jobs offered. He was always stalwart and husky and they need men like that in the big north.

Rex Beach who is now adapting his stories for use on the Goldwyn screen, says he broke into playwrighting in Nome. It took him four days to write a comedy of local line and he had an agreement with the Swedish dance hall owner that if the first act went off with success he was to receive his pay before the rest of the show was pulled off. Some business man was Beach, even then, or perhaps he understood the psychology of northern dance hall owners, capable of juggling the box office funds and starving the poor author.

"I brought some friends to root for the play," says Beach. "They were men of the Arctic Brotherhood, still a strong secret organization of mining men. They hooted and clapped all right, but the very noise they created incited two of our dogs out in the keno room to fight. Those northern dogs are worth from seventy-five to one hundred dollars apiece so when a fight occurs, the owners rush out and by battering them over the heads, prevent them biting and injuring each other. The fight broke up my show in the middle of the second act and we never did finish it."

Beach organized an orchestra in the northern mining camps and a quartet with a deaf baritone and an awful tenor, he says. He tells of the fights and bold gun play of the north, of the Alaskan name fr squaw, and how they sheltered and fed many down and out Alaskans with visionary dreams of wealth and creeks that failed to pan gold.

Rex Beach made a sensation with his first book, "The Spoilers," for he developed this story to let the American public know the corruption existing in Alaskan law courts. His "Barrier" was more compelling and stirring than the first and superior in technique and power. When he had finished this tale of primitive passions his publishers asked him to do stories in some other locale than that of Alaska. Beach replied that he thought an author could easily make a fool of himself by trying to be too versatile, so for a time he preferred to keep right on doing Alaskan stories. Later, he became intensely interested in fishing and the canneries of the north. That interest brought forth "The Silver Horde" which has just been filmed at the Goldwyn Studios with a splendid cast. The company went to Puget Sound to take location scenes at real canneries. His first play, written with Paul Armstrong was "Going Some." This comedy of college life is now being filmed at the Goldwyn Studios as well.

Not all authors find fortunes in writing books but Rex Beach has made them bring in great royalties. "When one has a book published, tne author gets all the credit," says Mr. Beach. "So many times when an author has written a clever play, the manager wants to advertise himself as well as the author. Most people in the writing game have a weakness for getting some credit for what they have done. I suppose there is some sort of credit in it. Don't you?"

Rex Beach, as president of the Authors League of America has been a staunch fighter for the rights of the scribblers. His contention that well known books adapted for photoplays should more closely adhere to the author's original ideas and theme, has resulted in his association with Samuel Goldwyn and the formation of the organization known as the Eminent Authors Pictures Incorporated. Besides the novels of Rex Beach, those of Mary Roberts Rinehart, Gertrude Atherton, Basil King, Rupert Hughes, Gouverneur Morris, and Leroy Scott will be filmed at the Goldwyn Studios, virtually starring splendid stories intead of an actor film favorite.

It is but seldom a man puts in actual practice his own preachings. Rex Beach is one of the very few exceptions. For example, he is quoted as saying: "The star system has long delayed the development of motion pictures. There will always be stars on the screen, but from now on a star's level will be the level of his or her artistic qualifications, never above it."

That Mr. Beach means what he says is exemplified in the Rex Beach-Goldwyn production, "The Girl From Outside," conceded to be the most pretentious picturization of a Beach story. There are no names listed in the cast in capital letters, each player having been picked from a long list of screen actors for their artistic qualifications alone.

Fighter at Goldwyn—Kid Thomas, a hard-hitting figure in the Vernon Tuesday night parties, plays a part in Gertrude Atherton's "The Tower of Ivory" production now being made at the Goldwyn studios.

Tincher Feature—Scott Sidney is starting in to direct Fay Tincher, Earl Rodney, Neal Burns and Eddie Barry in a new rip-roaring Western comedy. Mr. Burns will remain with Christie, contrary to a previous report.

French Busy—George French is the busiest actor on the Christie stage at present. He is playing parts in three pictures at once, being directed by Al Christie, Bill Beaudine and Scott Sidney.

Mayflower Man Arrives—Mr. B. A. Prager, treasurer of the Mayflower Photoplay Corporation, arrived in Los Angeles from Boston on Friday to confer with J. W. McKay, Western manager in reference to the future plans and developments of that organization.

Dog Entry—C. H. Christie, general manager of the Christie Film Company, will present his prize-winning bull terrier, "White Heather," at the Los Angeles dog show, October 25-26. In the summer show held recently at Santa Barbara, out of a large field of entries, White Heather was nosed out of first place by a few points by a New ork dog.

Fay Lemport With Henry—Fay Lemport, who played second lead with Mary Pickford in "Daddy Long-Legs" and in Henry Miller's stage presentation of that play, has been engaged as the ingenue in Gale Henry's latest fun film.

Selecting Story—Director Frank Borzage, recently signed by Cosmopolitan Films, is reading scripts to select a story for his first star, Marion Davies. Borzage took with him from the Pacific Coast Gilbert Warrenton, cameraman; Roy Sanford, art title expert, and O. O. Dull, assistant director. Mrs. Borzage is with her husband in the East.

Chaplin Casting—Mr. Robinson is now casting at the Hollywood studio of Sid Chaplin, for the new picture.

Hop Head—Jack Wallan has just completed a part as a hop head with Ed Le Saint at the Fox studio.

With Lehrman—Arthur Roberts, former film cutter for Sunshine Comedies, has joined the staff of the Henry Lehrman Comedies at Culver City as film editor.

Musician Actor—Nicola Donatelli, whose contract has just expired as musical director at the California Theatre, has been induced by Goldwyn to play the part of a professor, Barbara Castleton's music teacher, in Gertrude Atherton's "The Tower of Ivory," an Eminent Authers production.

With Rogers—Willard Louis has again won the Los Angeles Athletic Club championship in billiards. He has just completed roles in "Letty" and "The Paliser Case," starring Pauline Frederick. He is now playing a part in a Goldwyn picture starring Will Rogers.

Home Deposits—Southern California is to furnish white silica for the finish of buildings and road surfacing for "Film City," the new Unit-Studio home of the Motion Picture Producers, working from time to time in San Francisco. "Film City" was introduced to the readers of Camera in its last issue. L. S. Robinson, head of the research department, has indicated this particular silica deposit, located near Saugus, California, as the best available, to give the pure white glazed adornment for the buildings under contemplation. This unusual deposit of white "quartz" shows an outcrop of approximately twenty thousand tons, which will have to be trammed and trucked from the mountains in Bouquet Canyon to the siding at Saugus station. Joseph A. Eliason, heading the "Film City" movement, leaves again for San Francisco Monday.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Herma Cordova (Mrs. William Ely) has just completed an excellent part with Eric Von Strohiem at the Big U studio.

Nazimova is to have a three-weeks' rest prior to starting her next picture.

Hank Mann is working hard on the initial two-reel subject that he is making at the Horsley studio under the direction of H. F. Raymaker, who will alternate with Fred Windamere. In the cast is Randy Roth, who has cast his lot with Hank Mann to play character roles.

Raymond Wells returned from New York City pockets loaded with contracts to start making his Bible stories, about the first of next month. He says he will have his own studio and will produce some of the greatest and largest productions ever attempted with such a subject.

Rose Mullaney is now a full fledged screen booking agent, having formed a partnership with Marvin Welt.

Fontine la Rue reports that she is now nearing the end of her second month in the Stuart Payton serial at the Santa Monica studio, and that she will be kept busy on it for another thirty days.

Harry Booker, one of the Fox-Sunshine funsters, is busy getting one of his old sketches in shape for Chester Conklin, Slim Summerville, Bobby Dunn, Tom Kennedy, Ed Kennedy, Marvel Rea, Jack Cooper, Ethel Teare, Mae La Varnie and a number of others besides himself, as they are to entertain the Elks Club Wednesday evening.

Allan Holubar had about three hundred artists in a Dorothy Phillips set at the Universal, causing a scarcity of full dress performers around the other studios.

Art Flaven is assisting Director Rosen at the "U."

Ross Lederman, who aids Roy Del Ruth in producing his two-reel fun films at the Fox-Sunshine studios, had his troubles last week trying to find a baby who could act in comedies. He traveled the town over asking the kiddies, "Who's Baby Are You?" until he finally located a clever child artist.

Harry McCoy says that the Lehrman studio is commencing to look like the old Keystone days once more. He has been loaned to Roscoe Arbuckle for a picture, replacing the vacancy left by Al St. John.

At St John is doing a race track story as his second subject for the Paramount Corporation, with the same staff that helped him put over his initial subject for that company.

Rube Miller has joined the Edwin Frazee Company at Riverside, appearing in a two-reel comedy subject.

George Nichols has just finished an engagement at the Goldwyn studios, and will now have an opportunity to accept one of the inviting offers that have fallen to his lot while working at that studio.

Jack Holt is playing the pirate chief in "Treasure Island," under Maurice Torneur's direction, at the Goldwyn studios.

Bryant Washburn is having a great time of it in his present picture at the Lasky studios. A trip to San Diego and San Francisco is scheduled.

Dorothy Vernon is visiting her sister in Oakland and will be gone about two weeks. She then intends to return and get back into the cinema game.

Ernest Traxler, former production manager of the Universal studios, has cast his lot with the Oakley-Super Productions Company.

Chas. J. Parrott, who starts directing Mr. and Mrs. Carter de Haven the first of next month for the Paramount Corporation, has agreed, it is said, to make one picture for the Stern brothers prior to that date, and he is hustling to finish the picture.

Howard Gaye has been engaged as leading man for Edith Storey by the Haworth Production Company at the Robert Brunton studios.

Josie Sedgewick, who married Bill Gettinger, was the leading lady for will Rogers, Goldwyn star, recently signed to appear for the Fox company, while her husband appears with Helen Gibson in a serial for the Capital Film Company. They celebrated their wedding by holding a family reunion at a dinner Sunday night at Levy's cafe.

Harry (Snub) Pollard reports that he has just signed a new contract with Hal E. Roach, president of the Rolin Film Co., placing him as a star in his own right. New York has passed judgment on his first three pictures, classing them as good as Harold Lloyd's one-reelers, which Pollard used to appear in.

Freddie White, well known in the theatrical world, has joined the Hank Mann Comedy Company at the Horsley studios.

Ross Fisher is going to be held responsible for the photography in the George Beban picture, for he is the man turning the crank. They are doing the exterior scenes while the studio where Mr. Beban is to work is being completed.

Otto Hemp is photographing the features of Elmo Lincoln at the Big U in a serial that is being directed by J. P. McGowan.

Eddie Polo celebrated his return to Los Angeles by taking in the Tuesday night scraps at Jack Doyle's temple of fisticuffs, sharing the rooting honors with Henry Bergman.

Johnny Gray and Frank Griffin, the former a title writer, the latter a comedy director, since resigning from the Fox-Sunshine Company seem to have a deal of their own on tap to get into the comedy producing line.

Joe Martin, the ourang-outang being directed by Al Santell at the Big U, got temperamental last week and reported sick and refused to work, preferring to take a complete rest; so Al is going ahead with the other scenes in the story, 'till Joe feels better.

George Stanley once more joins the Vitagraph fold. This time he is cast in the Antonio Moreno serial, which is being directed by William Bauman.

Harry Todd is back in the comedy field. He has joined the Henry Lehrman productions, after doing a number of dramatic subjects out at the Big U.

Milla Davenport has been cast in Director Mitchell's picture at the Fox studio. She has just finished a good part with the Nazimova Company.

Cameron Smith is assisting Director Herbert Blache at the Metro studios in the direction of May Allison, which finds Claire Du Brey doing the heav Richard Morris the Judge. Emery Johnson has the lead opposite May Allison.

Margaret De La Motte, it is said, has just signed a contract with the Jesse Hamuton studios for a period of one year as leading lady, and will make her initial picture at the Robert Brunton studios.

Viola Dana has Pell Trenton in her lineup of artists under the direction of Henry Otto.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven areplanning to take the old Griffith Studio as soon as it is vacated by the Dorothy Gish Co. Dorothy and her company are going to New York in about three weeks.

ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASSOCIATION

By Harry Burns

Did it ever occur to you that the assistant director of a motion picture company holds one of the most trying positions in the profession? That, in order to hold his job, he must be a thorough diplomat, and that he is held responsible for everything that happens during a day's work?

And some of the fool questions that are hurled at this individual would cause a man in any other walk of life to commit almost unbelievable things. Still he must just grind his teeth, and keep smiling.

It is up to the assistant director to be polite and courteous to everybody, keep away all annoyances to the director, remove every worry and care of his "boss," so that he can have a clear mind to think of what is before him. But who is it that lends the former a hand, to be allowed a moment to himself, so that he might get a breathing spell? NOBODY!

There is a time and place for everything, and a man's place of business is where he labors; his home is supposed to be his resting place. But some people figure an assistant director is public property, and take it upon themselves to handle him as such, and if he happens to have had a world of worries thrust upon him, and doesn't stand and hold a social conversation during business hours, they figure him a cad, a selfish, good-for-nothing fellow, who assumes that the studio should be named after him, that he is the lord and master of the plant. Place yourself in his position for just twenty-four hours, and travel the path he does, and you will become a wild lion at large.

Be human, and remember that he is

Gentle Hint—Josie Sedgwick, who plays the lead opposite Will Rogers in the star's latest Goldwyn picture, had the embarrassing experience recently of being asked to vacate her own set Miss Sedgwick was engaged by Casting Director Robertson after the Will Rogers company had started work on the new production, so Director Badger and the other members of the cast saw her only in rustic make-up during most of the picture. One day when she had no scenes she went out to the studio all dolled up in her slick city clothes to watch Rogers work. The assistant director saw the stranger standing around the set, and grew anxious for fear the visitor might get tangled up in the light cords or wander into a scene. He hesitated about saying anything that might offend such a fair damsel, but finally duty won out, and he subtly breezed over the suggestion that she might be interested in seeing the beautiful flowers out in the studio conservatory. Then light dawned on Miss Sedgwick. She had been wondering why no one had appeared glad to see her or interested in her presence, but it hadn't occurred to her that she was disguised in her grand attire. "It's me—I. Don't you know me?" she exclaimed. "I'm in this picture. Honest!"

Filming Sunset—Ray Smallwood, who is directing the Drury Lane melodrama, "The Best of Luck," spent Sunday evening on top of a hill near Beverly Hills filming a gorgeous sunset. Smallwood saw a chance for some beautiful photography Sunday afternoon, so he called Jack Holt, Kathryn Adams, Frederic Malatesta and the company together and photographed several scenes.

Martinelli Goes East—Arthur Martinelli, who has been photographing May Allison's new picture, "The Walk-offs," departed Sunday for New Jersey. Mr. Martinelli's brother is seriously ill and he is going back to take charge of his business. Robert Bergquist, who photographed Mme. Nazimova's last picture, is now working on "The Walk-offs."

Charles Clary as Barry Sullivan at Clune's Broadway.

Frank Currier is sharing honors with Alice Lake and Jack Mullhall in a sea story, directed by John Ince.

At Oakley—Ernest Traxler, formerly production manager at Universal City, has been engaged as studio manager for the Oakley Super-Quality Productions. Inc. L. Milton Smith will be director of photography for the same concern.

Seinn Feiners—James J. Corbett, Jack Ford, Lydia Yeamans Titus, Johnny Cook, Dick Cummings, Bobby Mack, Mark Fenton, Ed Feeney. Kind readers, this is not a Sinn Fein committee, delegated to blow up the House of Parliament, but the names of members of Jack Ford's company, with Mr. Corbett in "Prince of AvenueA" at Universal City.

Playing at Metro—Jack Gilbert has just started with Jack Dillon's Metro production, "The Right-of-Way."

Water Stunt—W. Moore, better known in the swimming world as T. W. Sheffield, while on location recently with the Maurice Tourneur Co. at Balboa, walked the plank, dressed in with arms tied behind, taking a thirty-foot fall into the water. He was a victim of the pirates, in the dramatized ersion of Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasurer Island."

In 'Frisco—Mary Warren is in San Francisco playing opposite Jim Corbett in his new picture, "The Prince of Avenue A," under the direction of Jack Ford. She will be gone about two weeks.

With Jack—Lee Phelps finished his Carter de Haven engagement Tuesday night, and left for the mountains Wednesday morning with the Jack Pickford Company.

Benefit Farce—Thompson Buchanan, author of "Civilian Clothes," is writing a farce playett for Pauline Frederick and Willard Louis, who are to appear this fall in a benefit for the F. B. Silverwood boys' fund, which is a well known institution in California.

It is expected that the playet will be full of fun and is to be one of the headliners on the charity program in Los Angeles soon. The Silverwood annual benefit is always attended by the fashionables of the film capitol.

A Sticker—Little seven-year-old Dolores Steelman comes of genuine cowboy stock, her father, Jose Steelman, and her mother and for that matter her six brothers and sisters, each and every one of them being expert horsemen. To this qualification Dolores particularly owes her selection by Claude H. Mitchell for a "bit" in the Brentwood production now under way. And her "bit" requires very real ability and no little pluck for she has to ride a pig, trained to cnarge through shrubbery and to "throw" her at the feet of the camera.

Dolores says that there's lots less to hold on to a pig than on a horse! However she over-proved her ability to "stick" in one scene and hung on until the porker knocked her off as he tried to pass between the legs of the camera tripod and succeeded in reducing Joe Morgan, his camera and little Dolores to one grand mix-up.

McCullough With Rosson—Philo McCullough is now appearing in Aruthur Rosson's big production, "A Splendid Hazard."

Sad Old Life—"This life is not the thing we thought nor not the thing we planned," quothed Neely Edwards of the team of Flanagan and Edwards at the National. "Here we are working night and day again and just when I was beginning to believe that the picture game was about the proper thing. It's all wrong—all wrong."

The cause of Mr. Edwards' grievance may be attributed to the fact that both he and his partner have agreed to make personal appearances during the week of the nineteenth at theCalifornia Theatre; in connection with the showing of one of their "Hall Room Boys" comedies. This will, of course, make it necessary for them to work days at the studio and nights at the theatre and all that's left is glory. But there will be a lot of that for they are going to present their original act which they played over the Orpheum for the past eight years and it is needless to say that they will be received with large gobs of enthusiasm.

Old Stuff—"A Roman Scandal" is announced as the title of the New Christie Special, in which Colleen Moore is to be featured, with Earl Rodney, Helen Darling, Eddie Barry, Gene Croey and others making up a large featured cast.

CAN YOU?

By Scott McKee

One day when I was feeling blue,
I was glum as glum could be.
Others seemed to get the cream,
The skim milk came to me.
My missus got quite fretful,
My kids they frowned at play,
So I went to a physiologist,
To hear what he would say.

The wise old man, he said to me:
"My son, you are a fool,
You depend too much on talent,
But what really counts is BULL.
Ability, Honor, Truthfulness,
These days are useless junk,
If you really want to get the cream,
My youthful friend, USE BUNK.

"Just try it on a director,
Say his car is looking fine,
And that every time you see him,
He looks better all the time.
Tell him you admire his taste,
And how well he looks in tweeds.
You will find that very soon, my son,
He'll have you playing leads."

I paid the wise old man his fee,
And did just what he said,
But every time I tried it
My face would turn quite red.
I'd stutter, and I'd stammer,
And feel just like a fool.
I'm afraid I'll never get the cream,
For I'm d——d if I can BULL.

LARRY WAS A CHAMP

"Larry" Steers, who is supporting Bert Lytell in "The Right of Way," is one actor who has a physique and something to back it up. For a number of years Steers was the middleweight boxing champion of the Missouri Athletic Club. He is still in good condition and trains regularly at the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Henry Lonsdale will arrive soon. He has been in San Antonio, Texas, with Macklyn Arbuckle. We will get the dope on Texas next week.

Tom Hayden, who is at present playing with Allen Holubar at Universal City in "Ambition," is contemplating going back to the legitimate stage in a vaudeville act of his own origination

Show for Orphans—Roger ("Army") Armstrong last Wednesday night gave his regular weekly motion picture show for the orphan kiddies at the Secred Heart and Dominican Sisters' School. Five years ago "Army" installed a projection machine at the orphanage, and since then not a week has passed without the regular show on Wednesday night.

Edward Middleton will direct the first production starring Art Staton, Texas Guinan and Florence Gray. The production will be a Western six-reel drama, titled "Souls of Men."

With Brockwell—Louis Fitz Roy has been engaged by Manager Wurtzel at Fox's for Gladys Brockwell's next picture, under the direction of Ed. J. Le Saint.

THIS THROUGH THE MAIL

Here's something mysterious. A beautiful bungalow at No. 400 Ozone avenue, in Ocean Park, has been taken by Miss Lucille Humbert's mother as a wedding gift, as she has been keeping steady company with Alva Blake, well known for his work in "Where Are My Children?" and several large productions, and as they have been missing nearly a week and no word received from her by her girl chum, it is supposed the couple are now a happy bride and groom.

We don't know what it is all about, but it must be that Miss Humbert is the bride.

Actors' Equity of New York are to hold their meetings monthly. Before the strike it was the custom to hold their meetings once a year.

Cecil Holland starts Monday with the Alkire Productions.

In Gertrude Atherton's "The Tower of Ivory," now being produced at the Goldwyn studios, Barbara Castleton appears in four distinct characterizations. In the early part of the story she is seen as a half-starved, ragged-looking factory girl. She next plays a dance-hall girl in a rough cafe on the Barbary Coast in San Francisco. She graduates from these "delicate" holes into the luxurious lot of the pet of a wealthy rake, finally emerging in full regeneration as a famous opera singer and the wife of an ardent admirer.

Another Burr—Hal Cooley, who has been playing in Goldwyn Pictures and has just completed work as heavy in Mabel Normand's most recent picture, has an heir. He arrived at the Cooley home Saturday, October 11 at 3.07 p. m. and will be christened George Aaron Burr.. This little eight and one-half pounds bunch of smiles is a descendant of the famous Aaron Burr, for Hal Cooley's real name is Burr, the name "Cooley" having been adopted by him when he took up his theatrical career.

Mr. Cooley has a prominent part in the cast of "The Girl from the Outside," by Rex Beach, a Goldwyn Picture which will be seen in Los Angeles next week.

Large Party—Hughie Mack has been cast by Claude H. Mnchell for an I-Won't-Work Irish character in the picture which he is now making for Brentwood with ZaSu Pitts playing leading role. Before shooting one rural scene Mitchell turned to Joe Morgan, his cameraman, and asked if everything was all clear. "Not yet," answered Joe, "if you want me to get Hughie Mack and the cow, you will have to put the cow in the foreground and Mack back of it. The way they are standing now, Mack is hiding the cow."

Dear Mr. Director:

I want you to meet Dainty Doris Evans, that's me. I am six years old but I am growing with the pictures. And dear Mr. Director, I can deliver the goods. Kindly remember me when you cast your next picture.

Sincerely, DORIS EVANS.

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one; some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

Pictures in Germany

have an opportunity in the near future of seeing for themselves just what German producers have been accomplishing in the past five years when Milton Douglas Heilbronner, one of the heads of the Munchner Montspielkunst, and Erich Pommer, head of Decla, arrive in New York. Heilbronner is well known in New York, where for twenty years he was in the wholesale business, and where he was born. Becoming ill in Germany a few years before the year, he fell in love with his nurse, a German girl, and married her. When her father refused to permit her to go to America, Heilbronner became a German subject. Pommer is the D. W. Griffith of the German motion picture industry—still a young man just turned 30—who has forced his way to the very top of the game by a remarkable combination of brains and nerve. In the days corresponding with America's old Biograph halcyon period, Pommer was bluffing German capital into backing him as a film producer, although he was then hardly out of his 'teens. But after all, Pommer and Heilbonner are only two of many superlatively clever men engaged in the German film industry.

And in that fact lies much food for thought for Americans who care anything about keeping the fifth industry of the United States not only in its present place of importance, but making it rise to an even higher plane in the face of the first intelligent competition it has ever had to fight.

Australasian Boom in the Motion Picture Industry

The gains made by Paramount-Artcraft pictures in the popularity stakes for the world are strikingly illustrated in the case of Australia and surrounding territory. Two years ago, according to a Sydney newspaper, Paramount transacted 8 per cent of the film business of Australasia. Today, says this same authority, the percentage has been increased to more than 60 per cent and advices received from Australia indicate that there is no intention of a letup in the Paramount-Artcraft drive until an even higher percentage is reached.

The last vestiges of the trying influenza epidemic have been removed and the film industry in Australia is enjoying the greatest prosperity in its history, according to advices received from Alec Lorimore, managing direcintor of Feature Films, Ltd., the distributors in Australasia of Paramount-Artcraft pictures. New theatres are being built, old theatres are being improved, and other improvements are being planned by Australian showmen, who are finding it a difficult matter to cater to all of those desiring entertainment these days.

The film business suffered a hard blow during the epidemic, but the business troubles caused by the influenza are rapidly disappearing, as showmen everywhere are turning away would-be patrons of their theatres. This situation is causing an unprecedented building boom in theatrical circles.

In discussing the improved theatrical conditions in Australia, Mr. Lorimore says:

"Fortunately, we have now passed through the 'flu' period—a trying one for picture showmen throughout Australia. All restrictions placed upon theatres have been lifted, and there has developed a boom in entertainment of all kinds. Showmen everywhere are eagerly relating how they have had to turn flocks of people away. Especially is this so with exhibitors of Paramount-Artcraft pictures.

"We have before us at this writing a report from Melbourne, stating that last Saturday a Paramount suburban showman turned away sufficient people to fill another theatre and actually allowed his disappointed patrons the use of his telephone to phone his opposition! Such are the experiences of showmanship.

"Increasing numbers of Paramount showmen around Sydney and other cities are announcing their intention of adding to the size of their theatres, to be able to handle the crowds who wish for seats. One Paramount showman has decided to spend £18,000 on a new and up-to-date theatre—a sum of money unusually large considering that the theatre is to be suburban only.

Publishes House Organ

"One feature of the picture boom is the publication by Feature Films, Ltd., in Australia of Pep as a house organ and magazine of service to exhibitors. The first issue quoted from a Sydney newspaper, announcing that Paramount, as controlling 8 per cent of the film trade in Australasia in 1917, now controls over 60 per cent."

Australian showmen are keenly alive to the demands of their business and are using the most up-to-date methods in exploiting pictures. Added stimulus will be given to the worldwide demand for the proper presentation of motion pictures, and the motion picture theatre of the future, insofar as Australia and New Zealand are concerned, will be a prototype of the most modern and palatial theatres to be found in the United States.

Newspapers and magazines in the Australian territory are devoting more and more attention to motion pictures, and are proving valuable allies of the exhibitors in stimulating even greater interest in motion pictures on the part of the public. Editors have found that their readers are becoming keenly interested in the news of the motion picture industry, and one by one the principal publications are falling into line as purveyers of motion picture news. Monthly and weekly publications are beginning to show an unusual interest in stories about motion picture stars ad productions, due no doubt to the increase in the number of persons who are turning to motion pictures for their amusement.

Dan Crimmons has been engaged to appear in the Roscoe Arbuckle comedy now being produced by the chubby comedian at Culver City. Crimmons is doing an old rube character, with chin whiskers.

Jeannie McPherson, 'tis said, is on the sick list at Lasky's studio, having undergone an operation, and is getting on fine and dandy, much to the satisfaction of her many friends in the profession.

Tom Mix and his company returned Thursday from Prescott, Arizona, where he filmed scenes around the fair that was being staged. In his company besides himself were Colleen Moore, Earle Lynn and a number of other well known artits, with Cliff Smith directing and Eugene Lowery assistant and Frank B. Goode, cameraman. The Mix company will now shoot their interior scenes at the William Fox Western avenue studios.

Mack Sennett has gone and done it! Yep, built himself a hunting lodge up in the hills, where he can while away his spare moments. and think all to his own self, getting away from the studio atmosphere and everybody in general, that he comes into daily contact with.

LOUISE GLAUM

Louise Glaum, who recently signed with the Ince forces, her first starring vehicle being "Sex."

Earle Lynn is playing the part of a tenderfoot in the present picture now ing the making featuring Tom Mix.

Vernon Dent, who deserted the cabaret entertaining life for the cinema field, is working with Hank Mann, having been signed to appear in twenty-six two-reel comedies with the fun-making star, which will keep Vernon busy for a solid year.

H. B. Warner Vehicle—"Phantom Smith," a story by Baron Morgan, published in the Saturday Evening Post, will be the next picture which Henry King will direct for H. B. Warner. Mr. Warner declined two flattering offers from two New York producers, who wanted him to return to the stage. Warner appears to have been weaned away from his former love, according to Mr. King.

Phil Gastrock is happily cast in the Bryant Washburn story at the Lasky studio.

Pat Harman is doing dare-devil stunts for the L-KO studio. His latest efforts are with Director Fishbach.

J. A. (Kittie) Howe has just finished a two-reel comedy for the Stern Brothers at the L-KO in which Dot Farley and Phil Dunham are the stars of a theatrical troupe. Rudolph Bylek is assisting Director Howe. They start another story immediately.

Eddie Hass, who was technical director for the Fox-Sunshine comedies, then joined the Bull's Eye aggregation, is now on the L-KO lot.

Jimmy Harrison is being directed by Al Christie in some cute stories and to say that "Joimes" looks the part or is getting away with it, is putting it mildly.

Billy Hale is now on his twelfth picture at the Al Christie studio. A Christie one week then a Strand Comedy the next, playing juvenile roles.

Howard Mitchell is directing Peggy Hyland at the William Fox studios and has Walter Williams as photographer.

WATCH THY STEP, LITTLE WILD FLOWERS

Motorists, watch your step and your throttle when crossing highway intersections in the southern part of the state!

As Kiplin says in his poem, "And be warned by my lot, which I know you will not, and learn about women from me" Auto club touring bureaus are taking occasion to issue a warning based upon several calls at club headquarters by various traffic officers from the southern counties.

It is better, says the club, to be warned now by the lot of others than to get caught in the same hole, for motorists who exceed the limit of fifteen miles per hour over state and county road intersections are going to be "pinched."

Motorcycle officers are aware that fifteen miles per is the state law, and they are going to enforce it, so don't rush pell-mell over these intersections unless you want to run up against the new Motor Vehicle Act nose first.

GOLDWWN TO GO ABROAD TO START ENGLISH COMPANY

As announced last week, Samuel Goldwyn, president of Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, is completing plans for producing Goldwyn pictures in England, in addition to increasng the scope of the company's activities in this country by erecting a large studio near New York to relieve the pressure on the Culver City studios, which are heavily taxed by the production work on Goldwyn star pictures and the novels of the eminent authors.

Although Mr. Goldwyn is not ready to state a definite time for the beginning of producing activities in London, it is reasonably certain that the foreign organization will be in working order within the next six or eight months. It is probable that Mr. Goldwyn will go to England soon to supervise the launching of his company in that country.

In the vast supply of A. H. Woods, Shubert and Selwyn plays, the photoplay rights to which are controlled by Goldwyn, a number now being considered for production contain scenes that may be filmed to advantage on the other side of the water, and the same holds true in the case of the novels of Rupert Hughes, Gertrude Atherton, Mary Roberts Rinehart and the other eminent authors. These are not necessarily stories of English life, but frequently it happens that an American story contains incidents that take the characters abroad. When the enlarged organization is in full operation it will be possible to secure such scenes in the correct setting, even if the larger part of the picture is made in this country.

Billy Watson is directing Mert Sterling, Bud Jamison, Cliff Bowles and others at the L-KO studio in a two reel comedy, which brings into the play some dumb animals.

Joe Moore has been engaged to play a juvenile lead with the Chas. J. Parrott Company at the L-KO in which Frank Coleman does the comedy aided by Pace, another funster. Evelyn Nelson is the girl in the story, with Troy Brown handling the camera.

Next Please—Lee Garmes, cameraman, and Bill Franey, leading man with Gale Henry, have been raving all week about a fishing trip they took last Sunday at Redondo Beach. With four others in the party, including Nat H. Spitzer, they caught more than 80 deep sea bass. Well, that's worth raving about.

Lambert Hilleyer is writing a new story for Bill Hart, and will soon be ready to start directing the Western star in another of his typical stories at the William S. Hart studios.

Kid McCoy has returned to our midst from New York City and will no doubt get back into the picture game.

George Siegman has gone to Denver to shoot some coal mining scenes for Director Dwan. In his party were Mrs. Siegman, Carl Brown, cameraman and others.

BUSHMAN HOME TO BE SOLD

Baltimore, Oct. 23.—Francis X. Bushman has agreed to sell Bush Manor, his handsome estate in the Green Spring Valley, near Baltimore, for $71,250. The property consists of a large mansion house and 149 acres of fertile land. A number of suits have been filed against Mr. Bushman, and recently his household furniture and effects were sold by the sheriff.

MUSICIANS STILL FIGHTING

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 23.—The Musicians' Union strike scheduled for Tuesday resulted in several picture houses being placed on the unfair list because of refusal to employ orchestras of at least four pieces. During the internal strife the president and vice-president of the union were forced to resign, it is said. This is a continuation of the fight started in Portland several weeks ago against the Jensen & Von Herberg string of theaters.

ROAD BULLETIN

Quail and Duck Locations.—Excellent quail hunting will be found in the Coachella Valley in the vicinity of Thermal, Arabia, Indian Wells, and in the vicinity of Indio. Excellent quail hunting may be had in the vicinity of Winchester and Murietta and between Elsinore and Perris. From reports received, there are very few quail in the vicinity of Elizabeth Lake, although a few limits have been taken out of Pine Canyon north of Elizabeth Lake. Good duck shooting may be had on Baldwin Lake, also at the east end of Big Bear. A great many ducks will be found on Lake Elsinore but they are flying hard. The marsh land south of the Salton Sea also affords excellent opportunity for duck hunting.

Riverside County.—Paved from Corona to within a short distance of Glen Ivy Hot Springs, then excellent dirt road to Elsinore via Temescal Canyon. Riverside, via Box Springs Grade to the junction of the Moreno Canyon road, paved, thence good dirt road to San Jacinto. Pavement from there to the junction of the Hemet-Florida road, thence excellent road to Florida. Dirt road from that point to foot of Idyllwild Grade. Although this grade is a trifle steep in places, no difficulty will be had by the average motorist. The road from Idyllwild out by way of Banning is at the present time in very fair shape. Redlands junction to San Timoteo Canyon to Beaumont, fair—a trifle rough in places. The majority of travel from Los Angeles to the Coachella Valley is using the Moreno Grade, which is in excellent shape.

Forest Home.—Paved road is had from Los Angeles by way of Redlands to the first bridge over Mountain Home Creek at the entrance to the Canyon. From here excellent dirt road is had to the resort. Total mileage, 86 miles.

San Francisco Coast Route.—Leaving Los Angeles from Club Headquarters, continue north on Figueroa street to Second, thence west two blocks to Beaudry avenue, thence right to Sunset boulevard and west on Sunset Boulevard to Cahuenga Avenue, Hollywood. Turn right at this point and continue over Cahuenga Pass to the junction of the Calabasas-Universal City roads. Here, take the left hand road and continue out the Ventura State Highway through Calabasas to Newberry Park and the summit of the Conejo Grade. Pavement is complete this far. The oiled surface of the Conejo Grade, proper, is rapidly going to pieces and will be found at the present time exceedingly rough, but upon reaching the foot, paved highway is again encountered and will be had the remaining distance through Camarillo, Ventura, and Santa Barbara to Refugio Pass brige. Here the approaches on both sides of the birdge are of dirt formation and a trifle rough. Pavement is again had after crossing this bridge to Tajiguas bridge. Here a 2.10-ths mile stretch of dirt road is had upon approaching said structure then state highway will be found to a short distance beyond the Las Cruses store in Gaviota Pass. The next 14 miles consists of very fair dirt road, after which concrete road will be had to a short distance beyond Los Alamos. Here temporary signs will be encountered advising the use of the right hand road, which is of dirt formation, for the next 12.6 miles, to Orcutt. This detour is due to he construction work between Divide and Orcutt, although it is entirely possible to continue through Harris to Divide over paved roads and then use a detour which crosses and recrosses highway construction for the next 3.5 miles to Orcutt. North of Orcutt through Santa Maria to the city limits of Arroyo Grande, pavement is complete. Through town, 1.5 miles of dirt road will be found then pavement again to the city limits of San Luis Obispo, with the exception of a short stretch of rough oiled road approaching Pizmo. Dirt road through San Luis Obispo then at the northern city limits pavement again will be had through Atascadero to Paso Robles. Graveled road through the city of Paso Robles, then paved highway through San Miguel and Bradley to San Ardo, with the exception of a 1.5 mile of rough road along the river south of San Ardo. Pavement has been completed and is had between San Ardo and King City, with the exception of through the small town of San Lucas. From the southern limits of King City to the western side of the river, dirt road will be had, which is a trifle rough in places. The remaining distance north through Salinas and San Jose to San Francisco will be found paved.

GABY DESLYS IN N. Y.

New York, Oct. 19.—Gaby Deslys arrived here Thursday from France. She has come to this country to appear in moving picture productions, for which, she said, she believed she was better suited than dancing.

COBB STORY FOR MOREY

"The Adventures of Bill," a story by Irvin S. Cobb, is being put into picture form for Vitagraph by Lucien Hubbard, who has just returned from a vacation. It will be filmed during the Winter, with Harry T. Morey in the leading role.

MARGUERITA SYLVIA DUE

Marguerita Sylvia is due here in a week and will go immediately to Santa Barbara, where she will begin work on her first production to be started by American, about November 10.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

Mitchell Lewis Producing Company Expanding—After a flying visit to New York, Cyrus J. Williams, general manager of the Mitchell Lewis Producing Company, has returned with new contracts and plans for the extensive expansion of his company's producing activities. He announces that in addition to the organization he dispatched Sunday to locations at the old Indian village of Temecula to start filming the first of the new Bradbury productions, "Hollyhocks," an original play written by Robert North Bradbury, he is planning to send out two other new producing units to film screen adaptations of popular books, the titles of which are withheld for the present.

Mayer Productions—The first exteriors of "The Inferior Sex," Mildred Harris Chaplin's new starring vehicle under her Louis B. Mayer contract, will be shot this week along 'Seventeen-Mile drive," near Del Monte, Cal.

Millard Webb, casting director, has signed up Milton Sills as Mildred Harris Chaplin's leading man.

Mary Alden, who has just finished in "Love, Honor and Obey" for the Garson studios, where she played opposite House Peters, is to support Mrs. Chaplin in "The Inferior Sex."

Second Alkire Production—With the official O. K. of approval by President Walter H. Alkire on his organization's first production, "An Ace in the Hole," featuring Joseph Bennett, under the direction of Fred Kohler, Production Manager Philip H. White has started the company on the second play of the series of eight to be made on their new contract and has titled it "Excuse My Dust." Dorothy Dane has been engaged as principal feminine suport in the cast.

Pasadena Location—Director William Seiter and his entire company, including Elinor Field, Lloyd Bacon, Francis McDonald and John Cossar, have been shooting numerous scenes on the beautiful estate of Mr. H. Jevne at Pasadena for the production, "Hearts and Masks," the latest National Film feature. The production roster includes Scott Beal, assistant director, and Walter Griffin, camera man.

Brentwood Location—Henry Kolker has left for a few days' location work at Idylwild with his assistant, A. D. Ripley, his camerman, property man, carpenters, helpers and several members of the Brentwood company which he is directing, including Mahlon Hamilton, Edward Cecil, Herbert Jones and Miss Betty Blythe. Mr. Willard Barrows, treasurer of the Brentwood, accompanied the party.

Mills Directing Moore—Tom Mills is the latest director to join the big Goldwyn staff at Culver City. He has just started work on "Dud," in which Tom Moore is to be featured. The continuity is by Harvey Thew.

After getting his cast and other details complete, he will leave for New York, to take the exterior scenes.

At National—A new company will start work early in the week, at the National studios, under the direction of Franklyn Hall. The featured players will be Neal Burns, well known screen comedian, and Marie Elaine, famed a few years ago as the "Thanhauser Kid." The team will make two-reel comedies.

New Director—Reports from New York Goldwyn offices state that Paul Scardon, the well known director, has been engaged to make "Partners of the Night," the LeRoy Scott Eminent Authors production. This picture will be made in the east. Work will commence shortly on this story.

Continues N. Y. Production—Thomas H. Ince has chosen a Louis Joseph Vance story, "The Dark Mirror," for Dorothy Dalton's next picture, which will be produced at the Famous Players studio in New York.

New Story—Screen rights to "Alias Jimmy Valentine" have been purchased by Metro, and Paul Armstrong's drama will be Bert Lytell's next production.

ON THE LASKY LOT

New Director—Charles Maigne will arrive at the Lasky studio soon to direct two special productions for Paramount-Artcraft, one of which will be "The Fighting Chance," based on the celebrated novel by Robert W. Chambers. Mr. Maigne has of late been directing at the New York studio of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Clayton Starts—Ethel Clayton has finished "The Thirteenth Commandment" and will start work November 10 at the Lasky studio on her next picture, "Young Mrs. Winthrop."

Melford Returns—George H. Melford and his "Sea Wolf" company are working in the waters up the coast from San Francisco. They will return to the Lasky studio in another week to take interior scenes and then will go north again. Noah Beery is playing the title role of "Wolf Larsen" and Mabel Juliene Scott is leading woman.

Minter Begins—Mary Miles Minter, under the direction of William D. Taylor, started work Wednesday at the Morasco studio on "Judy of Rogue's Harbor," her first Realart production to be made in southern California.

Director's Debut—Wallace Reid will finish his latest picture, "Speed Carr," the early part of next week. Sam Wood, formerly Cecil B. deMille's right hand man, made his debut as a director in this production.

Lytell Going to Tahoe—Bert Lytell and members of his company who are now filming 'The Right of Way" for Screen Classics, Inc., will depart the first of next week for Lake Tahoe, where many exterior scenes for the production will be filmed.

Warwick Busy—Robert Warwick is well under way on "Jack Straw." Carroll McComas makes her film debut in this picture.

Washburn Returns—Bryant Washburn and his company welcomed their return to the Lasky studio during the past week, following eight days spent on the high seas taking scenes for "Too Much Johnson." Donald Crisp is director and Lois Wilson is again leading woman for Mr. Washburn in this production.

Mayor Visits—Mayor Meredith P. Snyder of Los Angeles visited the Lasky studio recently and saw Houdini in a particularly hazardous fire scene.

Bracken to Leave for Kentucky—Bertram Bracken is now casting for the all star feature, "The "Kentucky Colonel." Many of the members have been selected to date and immediately upon signing the remainder he plans leaving for Kentucky, where the majority of scenes will be taken. Jack Laver is assisting him and Walter Griffin will probably preside at the camera.

New Stories—Everett C. Maxwell, scenario writer at the National studios, is now doing stories and continuity for the "Hall Room Boys" comedies, starring Flanagan and Edwards. They will be directed by Harry Edwards after the completion of the one now in the making, which is under the supervision of Messrs. McGowan and Goldaine. It is titled "Go West Young Man" and was written by them in collaboration. Arno Marsh is holding the script and Walter Bell is still shooting.

Priscilla Dean's ensuing feature, "The Virgin of Stamboul," is well advanced under Tod Browning's direction. Most of the exterior scenes have been filmed and the company is now engaged in the interiors. In Miss Dean's support are Wallace Beery, Wheeler Oakman, E. A. Warren, Edward Burns and Yvette Mitchell. The story is by H. H. VanLoan.

Norman Dawn, who finished "Lasca" recently, will begin work on "The Line Runners" within the next few days. This is a western two-reeler featuring Arnold Gregg, Helen Howard and Art Lee.

After spending a week at San Francisco, taking scenes for "The Prince of Avenue A," James J. Corbett and his company are expected back. Jack Ford is directing the star, who is supported by Harry Northrup, Mary Warren, Cora Drew, Frederick Vroom, Johnnie Cooke George Fisher and Lydia Yeamans Titus.

Jacques Jaccard is expected back on the job at Universal City after an allness of two weeks' duration, when he will take up the concluding episodes of "The Thirteenth Hour," starring Eddie Polo, supported by Peggy O'Dare, the first eight chapters of which were filmed abroad under the direction of J. P. McGowan.

Eddie Kull is at work on a two-reel western called "The Counterfeit Trail." This picture is played by Robert Burns, Magda Lane, Allan Garcia and Eddie Brown.

Al Russell has started on the eighth episode of "The Lion Man," the serial featuring Kathleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin, supported by Henry Barrows, Gertrude Astor, Slim Pagett, Leonard Clapham and William Carroll.

Phil Rosen is filming "The Sheriff's Oath," featuring Hoot Gibson, supported by Josephine Hill, Arthur Mackley, Martha Mattox, James O'Neil, Bert Frank and William Harrison.

The delay on Al Santell's comedy feature, "Upper Three and Lower Four," occasioned by the illness of Universal's nearly-human ape, Joe Martin, has given the director an opportunity to devise a few more mirth-provoking situations for use in the production. Work will be resumed in a few days on this feature, which engages the services of Howard Knoth. Beatrice Burnham, Waldo Waldron, Al Ault and Baby Stecker.

Chris Rub, featured comedian, is at work on a new comedy, "In the Soup," under the supervision of Ray Grainger. Rub is supported by Gladys Tennyson and Al McKennon.

Eighteen hundred men and women in evening dress were employed at Universal City for a scene in the massive replica of the Metropolitan Opera House being used in Allen Holubar's Universal spectacle, "Ambition," starring Dorothy Phillips. The correctly garbed men and the gorgeous costumes of the women gave the world's film capital the aspect of a fashionable lawn fete. No greater number of extra players in evening dress are believed to have been used in any other production.

Goes East—Cecil B. deMille will complete "Why Change Your Wife?" in New York. With members of his cast he will leave for the metropolis in about a week. The scenes there will consist principally of typical New York street scenes which it was deemed inadvisable to attempt to duplicate at the studio. Thomas Meighan and Gloria Swanson will be members of the New York party who plan to see the opening of "Male and Female" in that city.

With Mayer—Soon after Arthur H. Rossen completes the staging of Harold McGrath's novel, "The Splendid Hazard," for the Mayflower company, he will join the directorial forces of Louis B. Mayer's studios, where he will alternate with Joseph Henaberry in the future productions of Mildred Harris Chaplin for release through First National exchanges.

UNIVERSAL NOTES

By Chas. L. Hertzman

Erich Von Stroheim has returned from several days spent at Exposition Park, where some huge scenes were filmed for his forthcoming Universal feature, "The Women in the Plot," among them a reproduction of the Paris Grand Prix, the racing classic of France. The story is based on the novel by Baroness DeMeyer, "Clothes and Treachery," and has for its principal players Una Trevelyn, Sam De Grasse, Clyde Fillmore, Maude George, Mae Busch and Leo White.

"The Breath of the Gods," the initial Tsuru Aoki production, is nearing completion under the direction of Rollin Sturgeon. The Japanese star is supported in this special by Stanhope Wheatcroft, Barney Sherry, Arthur Carew, Ethel Shannon, M. Seki, Pat O'Malley and Marion Skinner.

Lynn Reynolds and his company, starring Harry Carey, have been on the desert east of Victorville for the past week, filming scenes for "Overland Red." The scenario is founded on the popular novel of the same name by H. H. Knibbs, and the star is surrounded by Vola Vale, Charles Le Moyne, J. Morris Foster, Harold Goodwin, Charles Anderson and Joe Harris.

Work on "The Day She Paid," the photoplay based on the Fannie Hurst story, "Oats for the Woman," is well advanced. Rex Ingram is directing this story of New York life, with a cast including Francelia Billington, Charles Clary, Lillian Rich, Harry Van Meter and little Nancy Caswell.

Monroe Salisbury's forthcoming feature, "The Phantom Melody," is progressing satisfactorily where the company, under Douglas Gerrard's guidance, is now engaged after two weeks spent at Santa Barbara. This story is by F. McGrew Willis. Mr. Salisbury has the support of a splendid cast, in which are Barney Sherry, Jean Calhoun, Charles West, Ray Gallagher, Joe Ray and Milton Markwell.

The Metropolitan Opera House scenes in Dorothy Phillips' feature, "Ambition," directed by Allen Holubar, are being filmed this week. The most pretentious set ever constructed for a motion picture interior, a replica of New York's famous temple of music, and nearly two thousand people are being used in these scenes. The scenario of the piece was written by Holubar, and in Miss Phillips' support will be seen Robert Anderson, Rudolph Valentine, William Von Hardenburg, Frank Elliott, Emily Chichester, Elinor Field and others of note.

Harry Franklin is progressing on the new Mary MacLaren feature, "Rouge and Riches," by W. Carey Wonderly. Supporting the star are Alberta Lee, Dorothy Abril, Syn de Conde, Wallace McDonald, Fritzie Ridgeway, Lloyd Whitlock and Helen Sullivan.

William C. Dowlan and his notable cast, filming 'The Peddler," has been at Santa Barbara for a week, taking scenes for this photoplay based on the current Saturday Evening Post story by Henry C. Rowland. The company that will appear in the production includes Frank Mayo, Ora Carew, Dagmar Godowsky, Harold Miller, Truman Van Dyke, Ora Devermaux, Flora Hollister, James Barrow, Bonnie Hill, Ray Ripley and William Brown.

Christy Cabanne has surrounded himself with a notable galaxy of players for his forthcoming Universal production, "The Triflers," chief among whom are Edith Roberts, David Butler, Forrest Stanley, Katherine Kirkham and Charles Arling. The story is by Joseph Franklin Poland.

"The Man Hunter," the Universal serial starring Art Acord, supported by Mildred Moore, Charles Newton, Beatrice Dominguez, George Field and Tote Du Crow, is now in its second chapter, under the direction of Reeves Eason.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

Entertain Miss Chase—Nancy Chase, the English actress who arrived recently in Los Angeles to take up work in motion pictures, was tendered a banquet of welcome this week at the Brentwood Country Club by Directors Warde and Elliot of the Brunton studios. Warde was stage director of a London legitimate play in which Miss Chase made her first bow to the public.

Among the prominent picture folk attending the affair were: Bessie Bird, Tsura Aoki, Sessue Hayakawa, Norman Kerry, Fritzi Brunette, Jack Holt, Bert Lytell, Rosemary Theby, W. J. Walraven and Bessie Barriscale.

Miss Bennett Resting—Enid Bennett, who was ordered to take a rest, by her doctor a few days ago, is already improving rapidly. Miss Bennett has been placed on a strict diet of milk and grapes, and is showing a marked improvement, and it is thought that her retirement will be only for a couple of weeks. Rest was principally what she needed, her last picture, "The Woman in the Suitcase," being a decided strain on her nerves.

Love ..Vacation — Before entering upon her work under the corporate title of Bessie Love Productions, Inc., in which she will be the partner of Chicago capitalists, Miss Love will take her first real vacation in three years. In the past she used up her spare time on studies that recently earned for her a graduation diploma from the Los Angeles High School, entitling her to entry on a college course.

Honor Curtis Company—The Chamber of Commerce at Spokane, Washington, gave a dinner the other day in honor of Cathrine Curtis, Tom Santschi and their company, who have been making scenes in the northwestern country for the initial Curtis production. Over three hundred persons sat down at the tables and the event was one of the year's important civic affairs in Spokane. Speeches by Miss Curtis and Mr. Santschi were features of the occasion.

Working With Oakley—Rudd Lowry, formerly an amusement director for the A. E. F. in France, will have an important role in the premier Western drama to be produced by Oakley Super-Quality.

Walter K. Perkins, formerly with Ince, is the "hen-pecked" husband in the satire series, written by James W. Early, and directed by Clyde McCoy.

Ernest Traxler, formerly production manager at Universal City, has been engaged as studio manager, while L. Milton Smith will be director of photography.

Hamilton at Brentwood—Mahlon Hamilton, the Daddy Long-Legs of picture fame, goes to Brentwood for the male lead in the American society drama upon which Henry Kolker starts direction this week.

Perhaps Another Star—Miss Nancy Chase, the young English stage beauty who made a success last spring in Daniel Frohman's London revival of "Everywoman," arrived in Los Angeles yesterday to begin work on her initial motion picture contract. The details of Miss Chase's film affiliation are being withheld at present, but it is known that her backer is one of the foremost producers in the industry.

Niblo Guest Returns Home—Mrs. Vesta Stevens, sister of Fred Niblo, the Thomas H. Ince director, who has been the household guest of Mr. Niblo and his wife, Enid Bennett, for the past few months, left for her home in New York this week.

Miss Park's Guest—Miss Sara Frances Craven, of Montgomery, Alabama, arrived in Los Angeles last week, and will be the house-guest of her cousin, Miss Frances Parks, for the winter.

Pitts-Mason Party—ZaSu Pitts and Sarah Y. Mason entertained a merry party of friends at the attractive home of Mr. Earl Hodge, 1442 Morningside Court, on Tuesday evening.

Among the guests were: Margaret Ettinger, Violet Clark, Melba Melsing, Agnes and Isabel Johnston, Joan Boisen, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Duffy, Chas. Condon, Clarke Irvine, Chas. Meredith, Ted F. Smith, W. Clapsadle, Al Wilkie, and Mr. Weddock.

The entertainment features largely centered around interpretative dancing in which the Chinese note dominated, charmingly done by Julanne Johnston. The delightful studio home and grounds of Mr. Hodge were most artistically decorated, the lighting effects by Chinese lanterns and many oriental touches supporting the spirit of the evening's entertainment.

Studio Improvements — A double-deck film vault of steel and concrete was recently completed in the auxiliary studios of the Bulls-Eye Film Corporation, adjacent to the principal studios in Hollywood. The vault will have a capacity of three million feet of film.

Realart Notes—Constance Binney, who recently toured the country in the stage triumph, "39 East," will soon be seen in a photoplay based on Mrs. Fiske's success, "Erstwhile Susan," which will be released by Realart Pictures Corporation.

The play is from Helen R. Martin's famous novel, "Barnabetta," adapted for pictures by Kathryne Stuart and made under the direction of John S. Robertson.

Ray's New Feature—Charles Ray and his company, who have just finished shooting the final scenes for "Paris Green," will start to work immediately on the next Ray picture, which is to be known as "Watch Out, William," written by Agnes Christine Johnston.

Dorothy and her company leave us for New York.
But we will see her for one week anyway at Clunes.

Lucile Carlisle

By Mildred Davis

Can you tell us why it is that genuine talent, ability and beauty are so often possessed by one of so reticent a nature as to ignore all public plaudits and opportunities? Such is the case with Lucille Carlisle, and in exasperation at her unconcern we can only say, "She should be spanked."

During 1916 the Photoplay Magazine in conjunction with the World Film Corporation held a contest for the most beautiful girl in America. All contestants competed by photograph only, and the likenesses of fair damsels came from Washington, Florida, New York, California, and all intervening points where Uncle Sam's mail-bags were emptied.

It was nearing Christmas when this contest began. In Spokane, Washington, Lucille was having some pictures of herself made as holiday gifts for her friends. Being, of course, of the drooping-violet disposition, it did not occur to Miss Carlisle that perhaps her picture would be well placed in the contest. No, it was up to sister Helen to make this discovery and to persuade Lucille that her opportunity for "discovery" had come. Lucille's crust of indifference was broken and at the conclusion of the contest she was one of the eleven aspirants to be selected from hundreds.

The magazine immediately transported her to New York City where special articles appeared in the daily papers and theatrical publications exploiting "the most beautiful girl in America." This last title was conferred upon Lucille in a feature write-up by Lillian Russell.

From the group of eleven girls Miss Carlisle was the only one to be offered a motion picture contract. The World Film Corporation asked her to sign with them for a term of three years, with a sliding salary scale. Having just begun so promising a career, Lucille felt that it was rather too soon to contract for so long a time, so she declined the offer.

For a year and a half she appeared in films. Her first work was done under the direction of Herbert Brennon in "War Brides," Nazimova's first picture. With Brennon she went to Florida, where "Catherine de Medici,,' starring Florence Reed was made. This film was never released. On returning to New York she appeared in the supporting cast with such stars as Clara Kimball Young in "The Easiest Way', Constance Talmadge in "The Lesson", and Norma Talmadge in "The Ghosts of Yesterday."

At various intervals Miss Carlisle's motion picture work was interrupted by her appearance in musical comedy.

Rogers at Benefit—Will Rogers will make his first appearance on the stage for many months on November 10. The special occasion is a benefit to raise funds with which to build a home in Hollywood for the American Legion, an organization of returned soldiers. As Mr. Rogers has already written a book on the Peace Conference, his monologue on this occasion will deal with the League of Nations.

Annual Ball at "Alex"—The Fourth Annual Ball of the Motion Picture Directors' Association will be held on Thanksgiving eve, which is November 26, Wednesday. This announcement comes from the trustees at their latest meeting, held this week. The affair is to take place at the Hotel Alexandria.

For three seasons this organization, composed of the foremost producers of motion pictures, has held an annual ball, and each year has seen former owner outclassed many times over. The directors promise even greater things for the coming event. It will be attended by the elite of the film industry, including stars, directofs, managers and well known figures in the screen world.

Many plans have been laid for the enjoyment of the gathering. A number of surprises are in store for those who will attend this ultra function. It is expected that full details will be announced after the next meeting. For the past three weeks the directors have been working out plans for this big affair, and the date was finally decided upon only this week. Formerly the dance has taken place on Thanksgiving night, but this year it will preceed the holiday so that the people can enjoy the day off without having to get up so early on account of work.

Rest at Catalina—After the completion of their latest picture, "Mary's Ankle," Douglas MacLeau and Doris May, accompanied by their director, Lloyd Ingraham, and Miss May's chaperon enjoyed several days of leisure at Catalina Island. There they indulged daily in the three principal diversions the island affords—fishing, golfing and watching the boat come in.

Trip to New York—Miss Lucille Carlisle will leave the early part of the week for a visit to New York city. Miss Carlisle will visit her mother, whose home is in Boston, and will return to Los Angeles to renew her picture work in about six weeks.

Miss Gish Leaves—Last Thursday Miss Dorothy Gish said her last goodbye to Los Angeles for a long while, leaving to join her mother and sister in New York city.

Dalton Returns to Stage—Dorothy Dalton, the Ince star, has been signed by Comstock & Gest to play the role of Chrysis in "Aphrodite," soon to be produced at the Century Theatre.

Miss Dalton is rehearsing the role of Chrysis under the English director, Edyell Swete, who staged "Chu Chin Chow."

Her opening at the Century Theatre will be her first venture on the legitimate stage since she entered the motion picture field.

Leo McCarey, son of Uncle Tom McCarey, erstwhile boxing impressario, has joined movie row. He is working for Ted Browning at the Universal studio, helping Fred Tyler the assistant director, thereby obtaining an opportunity to learn every angle of the game.

Ralph Lewis believes in doing anything that he can towards uplifting his art. He has even gone so far as to grow a real cute mustache for his present picture.

Esther Wood is sharing honors with Jimmy Adams at the L-KO studio where the pair are being directed in a comedy subject in two acts. The story was written and is being directed by Fred Fishbach with George Richter as cameraman.

Billie Bennett has returned to the Al Christie fold and is playing a beggar woman in one of the Christie Comedies.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Henry Clive, who directs Syd Chaplin, is holding down the position of cartoonist for the William Randolph Hearst interests, his masterpieces adorn the front page of the Sunday Examiner from time to time.

Julius Tannen, who has been entertaining Orpheum theatre-goers with his chatter of the topics of today, has his eye cast towards filmland. He had a test made the other day at the Universal studio, by Al Santell, which was said to be very interesting and amusing.

Johnny Ray of the team of Johnny and Emma Ray, who have been appearing in the leading theatres throughout the land, will soon join the film colony if present plans don't go amiss. It is said he will do "Jiggs" in Bring Up Father series for the Hearst-McManus interests produced here by Al Christie. A test of the vaudevillian was made back East and the powers that be claim that it was very acceptable. Chas. Christie is now in New York City making final arrangements which will possibly bring Johnny to the Pacific Coast for a series of such comedies.

Dusty Farnum had a couple of hundred performers work the other night in a masquarade set at the Astra studio, under the direction of Colin Compbell.

Vin Moore has started taking scenes for his own company at Culver City using the Judge Brown studio. He is making a two-reel comedy with a cast that is headed by Dot Farley.

Hank Mann has engaged Len Powers for his cameraman. The latter got his start with the former a number of years ago at the Fox studio.

Nelson McDowell expects to finish with the Jack Conway Company in about a week.

John P. McCarthy, who produced "Out of the Dust" has been figuring on another story and expects to get in shape to start activities shortly.

Beatrice Dominguez is working in the Art Acord-Mildred Moore serial that Reaves Eason is directing at the Universal.

Paul Hurst, directing Jack Hoxie and Anna Little, has lined up several cowboys for his present production at the National studio and they are registering some real thrilling scenes.

George Periolat, since closing his engagement with the American Film Company, has cast his lot with the Bessie Barriscale Company at Robert Brunton's studio and upon finishing this subject will be placed with another aggregation by his personal representative.

William Merrill McCormick is working at the Vitagraph studio at present and expects to be at liberty the first of the month.

Joe Bordeaux is assisting Jack Blystone in putting on his two-reel comedies on the Fox-Sunshine lot.

Chas. Murray, Chas. Conklin and others of the Sennett forces missed the George-Schade scrap Tuesday night because they had to make a personal appearance at Grauman's Theatre, much to their displeasure.

Jay Belasco and Mildred Moore have a classy car and a chauffeur and everything since each is being featured by two different companies. Mildred is sharing honors with Art Acord in a serial out at the big U.

Hampton Del Ruth has just signed a new contract with the William Fox Corporation for a salary that is far above what his original salary. He is now writing a five-reel comedy which he will personally direct and supervise.

Edwin Frazee has a crew of carpenters working hard to build his studio in Riverside located at Jurupa and New Magnolia Avenue, while the company are doing the exterior scenes. Earl Neville has joined the troupe to aid in the cutting of the picture, and things are moving along in good shape.

Johnny Gray is going to cast his lot with W. S. Campbell in the capacity of writer, chief of title-coiners and supervisor of the cutting of the Campbell Comedies, which will be produced at the E and R Jungle studios out Lincoln Park way. Director Campbell has $100,000 backing to make his own pictures and has arranged for a release of his subjects with one of the leading companies.

Louise Lamont is playing the banker's daughter, which she is putting over in good shape, while Harry Lamont and Howard Milcrest are doing a pair of hobos who get into all sorts of complications. Rube Miller is holding up the comedy end of the production.

Noel M. Smith and Jimmy Aubrey went duck hunting the other day and all they got was an idea for a new fun-film which they expect to produce shortly at the Vitagraph studio. Babe Hardy, Helen Lynch and Dick Smith will share honors with the star, Jimmy Aubrey.

Earle Montgomery and Joe Rock became ticket speculators Tuesday night at the fistic tilts out Vernon way, they scouted and traded tickets so fast for their friends that a stranger standing by asked, "Do they allow ticket speculators to sell duckets out here?

Ollie Sellers Producing Company are working at the Universal with Joe H. McCloskey, very much on the job. The cast announced at present in making "The Gift Supreme" is as follows: Burney Durning, Seena Owen, Melbourne McDowell, Lillian Langdon, Jack Curtis, Wm. Mong, Harry Springler, Anna Dodge and Claire McDowell.

George Monberg played five different characters in a L-KO comedy now in the making for Director Billy Watson, which is a fair example of what some people expect out of a actor.

Pat Moore is doing a crippled child part with Katherine McDonald that is said to be a gem of a piece of acting.

MAE ALLISON

Mae Allison is appearing in "Fair and Warmer" at the California Theatre this week.

M. R. Schlank, manager for Hank Mann, has arranged to move his company from the Horsley's to the Francis Ford studio, Monday, where they will make their headquarters for all future Hank Mann Feature Comedies.

Billy Bevins has gone and bought a real classy car.

Betty Peterson is working for Director Jesse Robbins at the L-KO studio helping to liven up the girl charmers.

Harry De Roy, character artist ,is at Christie's studio, where he is appearing in a picture for Director William Beaudine who at present is handling Teddy Sampson and Harry Depp in a society comedy.

Elliot C. Howe, who is directing Frank Keenan, states that the present story now in the making has the veteran actor in the role of a tramp, and that he is sure that this vehicle affords Mr. Keenan better opportunities than anything that he has done up to date.

Harry Schenck 'tis said has at last changed his post office address and is no longer connected with the Robert Brunton studios. He is working for Thos. H. Ince at Culver City.

Mary Pickford is a very busy personage these days. She has been called to New York City to attend a lawsuit and Director Paul M. Powell is shooting all her scenes in order to be able to complete that part of the picture with the rest of the cast.

Walter Stevens is directing some chase scenes in which the lions play an important part. He says he loves to play around with the cats. Maybe so, Walter.

ASSISTANT DIRECTORS ASS'N.

Courtesy is the keynote of all that is good towards all mankind and means greater success to any business that one calls his profession in his every-day walk of life for a livelihood.

The man who disregards this important thing, in dealing with the people of today, soon finds himself on the sidewalk talking to himself and wondering how it all happened.

It is just as easy to be kind, considerate, obliging, smpathetic and thoughtful of others welfare as to be the opposite and make life miserable for those that you come in contact with.

The man who figures that his position as assistant director permits him to insult the three-dollar-a-day extra girl or man, or the star of a company, is the chap who can't expect to get any place, and will soon join the list of the unemployed. While the lad who is always teling all that he comes in contact with the absolute truth as to what he has for them to do will gain for himself an everlasting vote of thanks and will when he finally employs an artist, hold that artist's respect to the last letter. The trouble with a lot of assistant directors is that in order to dismiss some one from their mind, they make a lot of high binding promises, telling those that they deal with that there is something that is in their story for them to do when right down in the bottom of their heart they know well enough that they are telling a lie of the biggest kind. It is just as easy to tell the truth and they won't be interfering with the chances of that individual to go to some other studio and possibly get a position that would be better than what the assistant director they think they are dealing with could ever offer them.

The Assistant Directors Association are trying to do away with such abuses, they want actors and assistant directors to be honest with one another, make their dealings one of the honest business principals for courtesy is a business asset, a gain, and never a loss. The extra man or girl are just as important a factor in the makink of a motion picture story as is it's greatest star, for neither one can get along without the other, even the discourteous like to be shown courtesy.

This column is maintained purely as a convenience for the motion picture people.

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

WITH THE GOLDWYNERS

Pickford Line-up—Jack Pickford has commenced work on his first Goldwyn Picture, which is to be a filmization of John Fox, Jr.,'s famous novel, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come." He has been surrounded by a strong cast of picture players, which includes Ethel Grey Terry, Helen Ferguson, Lillian Hall, Lillian Langdon, Kenneth Harlan, Cullen Landis, Willard Louis, Walter Hiers, M. B. Flynn, Frank Braidwood, Snitz Edwards and Hayward Mack.

Comedian Arrives—Madge Kennedy arrived in Los Angeles Friday afternoon from New York City and will commence work very shortly on a new production at the Goldwyn studio in Culver City.

Mabel Leaves—Mabel Norman, who has just completed a picture at the Goldwyn studio, which was written and directed by Victor L. Schertzinger, left Sunday morning for New York City for a three weeks' vacation.

Remains With Rogers — Director Clarence Badger, who has been making the Will Rogers pictures at the Goldwyn studio, has been assigned to make the next photoplay featuring he rope-twirling comedian.

Crown City Players—Richard Brinsley Sheridan's "The Rivals," will be revived by the Pasadena Community Players Monday night.

Managing Director Gilmor Brown has picked a strong cast for "The Rivals." It includes Mrs. A. H. Palmer, Miss Sloise Sterling, Mrs. M. Steinberger, Miss Alberta Jones, Edward Murphey, William Reis, Harold Perkins, Fisher Joy, Raymond Jerecki and Paul Orban, all well known in Pasadena dramatic circles. H. O Stechhan has joined the Community Players in the capacity of business manager. The organization has scheduled nine productions for the 1919-20 season.

Travels Fast—Sydney Ainsworth recently appeared on a San Francisco street and in a London mansion within a period of two hours. Mr. Ainsworth was working in a night scene at Goldwyn for Rupert Hughes' "The Cup of Fury," when he got a call to hurry out to the back lot to play a roue role in an exterior set, representing Pacific street in the infamous Barbary Coast section of Frisco.

With "Doug"—Tom Ashton has just completed a bit in the latest Fairbanks production.

Eastern Showing—Elmer L. Rice, who is writing for Goldwyn, has a play which is scheduled to open in Chicago in a short time. It is called "For the Defense," and has for its leading man, Richard Bennett, and the supporting cast includes Adrienne Morrison, John Sanpolis, Winifred Lennihan, and others.

This is the first important production of this young author since "On Trial."

With Katterjohn—W. E. Keefe has taken over the publicity for the Monte Katterjohn productions.

Long Engagement—Walter Heirs is just starting his seventh picture with Goldwyn, having been assigned the part of "Berkeley Fresno" in Rex Beach's "Going Some."

Simpson Home—Russell Simpson returned from Truckee this week, where he has been on location for the past ten days with the Blanche Sweet company. This is Simpson's second engagement with Miss Sweet in the past few months.

To Texas—Dorothy Joe Hughes, who has been working in the current Brentwood, left this week for Texas. Little Miss Hughes, who was accompanied by her mother, will remain in the South for several weeks, returning to Los Angeles early in December.

Alice Lake Returns — Alice Lake, Jack Mulhall, Frank Currier and Jack Gilbert, who are heading the all-star cast of "Should a Woman Tell?" an original story by Frank Fox, returned to the Metro studio Tuesday with the rest of the company, after a seven-day location trip to Laguna Beach.

McGuire Directs Festival—George McGuire was selected by Maxwell Karger to direct the big scenes of a Scotch festival for "The Best of Luck," the Drury Lane melodrama now being filmed for Screen Classics. Three hundred extra people, five ponies, four donkeys, three sheep, four goats, eight dogs, two horses and numerous other animals took part in the festival scenes under Mr. McGuire's direction.

Owing to, etc.—Owing to the fact that Bert Glennon, the man on the box for the Paul Hurst company now filming "Lightning Bryce," the serial starring Ann Little and Jack Hoxie at the National studios, decided to take the writer for a ride in his new "Stude"; also to drop the latch from his pocket and buy a very delectable lunch—owing, as before said, to these things, it would seem only right to give him a few works of praise. Said works will probably appear in the next issue. Friends please note.

Changing Location—After acting as heavy man with Gale Henry in more than fifteen of her fun films, Eddie Baker, character comedian, this week severed connections with the Model Comedy Company and transferred his belongings to the L-Ko studio. George Jeske is Mr. Baker's successor.

Poor Romeo—Bill Franey, Gale Henry's leading funster, plays the part of Romeo in Miss Henry's latest comedy, a satire on "Romeo and Juliet," and one day last week Bill failed to report for work. The reason was because he had trotted around the studio lot and on location the day before wearing a costume adorned with various kinds of metal, which weighed exactly 32 pounds. Bill said he had to take a day off to iron the wrinkles out of his back.

New Position—Byron Shelton, formerly connected with the Metro laboratories, has been placed in charge of the "still" department at the Bulls'Eye studio.

In Santa Barbara—Karl Herlinger is working with Margarita Fisher at the American Film Studio in Santa Barbara.

African Expedition—Donald B. Keyes, former lieutenant in the phographic department of the U. S. air service, and at present on the picture staff at the Goldwyn studios, has applied for passports in order to go to South Africa on a picture-taking expedition of two years' duration. He goes with Frank Wilton and Curator H. A. Snow of the Oakland Public Museum.

Latest Sullivan Story—G. Cardner Sullivan has just completed the most sensational story of his career, "Sex," in which J. Parker Reed, Jr., will star Louise Glaum.

Hughes Supports Bosworth—Lloyd Hughes is to appear in support of Hobart Bosworth in his forthcoming Ince production, under the direction of Irvin Willat. Jock Richardson is also in the cast.

Miss Bennett Ill—Enid Bennett, who for the past month has been wavering on the edge of a nervous breakdown, has been ordered by her doctor to rest for about six weeks. So her director husband, Fred Niblo, has been loaned by Ince to J. Parker Read, Jr., to direct Louise Glaum's new picture.

METRO PICK-UPS

Clyifford P. Butler, who, as general manager of the Metro studio, is responsible for its present expansion, has been appointed general superintendent. He has chosen Joseph Strauss, studio manager, and David H. Thompson, casting manager.

A Follies show girl, Virginia Caldwell, plays a leading role with Bert Lytell in "The Right of Way," the Sir Gilbert Parker novel, now being picturized for Screen Classics.

June Mathis, head of the Screen Classics scenario staff, will have a month's vacation when she completes the film adaptation of "Old Lady 31," from the stage play by Rachel Crothers.

Kathleen Kerrigan, Shakespearean actress and former leading lady for Robert Mantell, is making her third appearance before the motion camera, playing the part of Mary Carter in "The Walk-Offs," with May Allison.

Pell Trenton Sleeps—Pell Trenton has been spending much time during the past few days in bed on one of the Metro studio stages for scenes of Viola Dana's latest picture, "The Willow Tree." A Japanese bed, so Trenton declares he is not getting an abundance of rest out of it.

With Charlie—Little Marion Feducha has finished work with Charlie Chaplin. This is the fourth comedy in which Master Feducha has worked with the famous comedian.

Designer Attends Meeting—Clare West, costume designer of the Lasky studio, will leave Friday for New York City, where she will attend a meeting of the National Designers' Association. Mrs. West will be absent from the Lasky studio for two months. While there, she will also superintend the purchasing of materials for costumes to be used in the next Cecil B. deMille production.

With Davidson—John Reidy has been engaged to play in a series of one-reel comedies with Max Davidson. Others in the cast are Dot Bernard, Mary Foster and Jess Herring.

Marion Fairfax Engaged for Marshall Neilan Productions—At what is reputed to be one of the largest salaries ever paid a scenario editor, Miss Marion Fairfax, authoress, playwright and for the past four years writer of many of the photoplays produced by the Famous Players-Lasky Company, has been engaged by Marshall Ueilan to write the scripts for all the ofrthcoming Neilan productions.

Sarah Y. Mason Story—Sarah Y. Mason is preparing continuity from her own original story recently submitted to Brentwood as a suitable pathetically humorous vehicle for ZaSu Pitts, and which it is understood the Brentwood will produce in the near future.

Athletics in Beach Films—Rex Beach's pictures are always portrayed by players who are of the best physique and character, and in "The Silver Horde" will be found a few huskies. To begin with, "Lefty" Flynn, who plays a prominent part in this Goldwyn picture, is a famous athlete and Yale football star. Another sturdy member of the cast is "Big Bill" West, former football star of the University of California, and Olympic Club member.

Seeling Leaves Vitagraph—Charlie Seeling has gone from Vitagraph to Brentwood as cameraman for Henry Kolker. Mr. Seeling has established a high reputation through his photography of Nell Shipman in James Oliver Curwood stories and of the Bessie Love pictures under Mr. Smith's direction

Mayer Scenario Men—A. G. Kenyon, who started his career as a scenario writer with Universal, has joined the Louis B. Mayer staff and is now working on the scenario for Mildred Harris Chaplin's second First National picture, a story by Grace Miller White, author of the "Storm Country" stories.

George Hull will handle continuity for the Louis B. Bayer interests.

SIXTEEN TO THE SECOND

By C. J. Barber

Beginning with this issue we will run a column devoted to the cameraman's end of the game. C. J. Barber will conduct this department, which believe will be of interest and benefit to the men at the crank. Mr. Barber has had many years of experience and study, gaining a knowledge of photography and camera work which will doubtless be useful in solving various technical perplexities. Questions will be discussed, answered, and asked through this column. We ask everyone interested to feel at liberty to take advantage of this, and to offer suggestions and criticisms.

This column is devoted exclusively to the photographic part of the Motion Picture Industry.

Cameramen, assistants and laboratory workers are cordially invited to make this department their own personal part of Camera! Let us know how we can help you with your difficult problems, formulas, etc. Send in the dope on those short-cuts you have worked out that will lighten the work of your fellow-workers.

All questions will be fully and practically answered.

C. L. R. asks for information on the action of the various reducers.

ANS.—Ammonium Persudphate reduces contrast, acting principally on the deuse deposits. Potan Ferricyamide increases contrast, acting first on the shadows. Iodine-cyanide and ceric-sulphate are practically uniform in action both on high lights and shadows.

R. C. C. asks for formula for dead black varnish for wood, brass and aluminum.

ANS.—Forwood: Alcohol, 8 oz.; Lamp Black, ½ oz.; Liquid Shellac, 1 oz.

For Brass: Copper Nitrate, 200 gr.; Water, 1 oz. Clean Brass thoroughly, immerse a few moments. Heat on removal.

For Aluminum: Ferrous Sulphate, ¼ oz.; White Arsenic, ¼ oz.; Hydrochloric Acid, 3 oz, Dissolve and add water. Thoroughly clean aluminum with fine emery powder and immerse in above for a few moments.

L. A. A. C. PLUNGE NOTES

By Vance Veith

Wallace MacDonald has again come across with a very beautiful swimming trophy, and this time it is for a girls' 100 yard handicap race, and Wallace will be right on hand at the L. A. A. C. to see that the handicaps are all O. K. Mr. MacDonald will present the cup to the winner of this race. The race will be held Thursday evening, November the 13th, in the L. A. A. C. plunge.

Donald Crisp is a great swimmer. He uses a fast American crawl stroke, his body shows training, and Mr. Crisp gives swimming much credit for the wonderful chest expansion he has.

Victor Heerman, crack swimmer and diver of the L. A. A. C., who is now assisting Marshall Neilan, is another real water expert. Neilan and Heerman are often seen together in the L. A. A. C. plunge swimming and diving.

Norman Manning, who swims like a seal, is now directing for Pathe. Norman never fails to execute his shell hole dive when he swims at the L. A. A. C. It is performed from the ten-foot springboard.

Mack Sennet keeps away the oversize waist line that many directors have by doing much swimming and diving, in which he is quite expert.

FIRST NATIONAL HOLD IMPORTANT MEETING

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The First National Circuit of Exhibitors has held a two-days' meeting at the Astor Hotel, at which many questions of importance were discussed. It is said that the question of the New York Strand continuing as a franchise holder of the circuit was taken up, but no information was given out. In fact inquries at the headquarters, 6 West 48th street, elicited the answer that General Manager J. D. Williams had decided that there was nothing to give out. Rumors that certain prominent members of the circuit were getting ready to get out were denied emphatically.

When the business meetings were over, Louis B. Mayer entertained the visiting members of the board of directors at a luncheon, after which there was a showing of Anita Stewart's latest picture, "In Old Kentucky."

HOUDINI SUES FOR PROFITS

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Harry Houdini has brought suit in the Supreme Court to recover a $40,000 claim against the Octagon Film Corporation, for which company he appeared in the leading role in a film serial entitled "The Master Mystery." He states in a complaint filed in the County Court House, that in June, 1918, he contracted with Benjamin Rolfe and Harry Grossman to appear in the film, his compensation to be $1,500 a week and half the profits. He states on information and belief that his contract was assigned to the Octagon Film Corporation, which assumed all responsibility for it. The company has received $225,000 from exhibition of the serial, he states, and of this amount $80,000 represents profit from the venture. Houdini lives at 278 West 113th street.

At present Mr. Houdini is located at Los Angeles, where he is working for a well-known film company. It may be a year or more before the case can come to trial.

MACLYN ARBUCKLE TO BE MR. POTTER IN TEXAS

Announcement has been made that "Mr. Potter of Texas," the story from the pen of Archibald Clavering Bunter, has been purchased by the San Antonio Pictures Corporation as a screen vehicle for Maclyn Arbuckle.

The locale of the story takes in three continents, and Director Wharton state that he will do all the filming in the vicinity of San Antonio, where he has found locations that might well be bits of Egypt, Africa and London. Work on the picture will begin next week.

CARD OF THANKS

Capt. M. R. Tyron well and favorably known at local studios, had a severe accident the other day during one of the scenes at the Brunton which necessitated a painful operation. Same was performed successfully at the California Hospital where he is resting easily now in anticipation of a full and speedy recovery.

The Captain herewith wishes to convey his sincere thanks to the Mayflower Company, the M. P. P. U., Roosevelt Camp No. 9, U. S. W. V., Lodge 386 L. O. O. M., and to the numerous friends for their many tokens of friendship, gifts of flowers, etc., with which they surprised him during his illness.

CASTING DIRECTORY

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); Ingenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $1.00 for two months

FIGHTING THE TAX LAW

A number of Rotary clubs have sent in petitions favoring the immediate repeal of the admissions and theater taxes. One of the most numerously signed of the petitions came from the Rotary Club of Grand Junction, Colorado, and was submitted to the House by Representative Edward T. Taylor of Colorado.

A petition for the repeal of the tax on concert and admission tickets was also received from citizens of Los Angeles, Cal., containing over 3,000 signatures. In presenting this petition in the House Representative Henry Z. Osborne, of California, made the statement that practically the entire State of California favors the repeal of the admissions tax without delay. All of the petitions are being referred to the Committee on Ways and Means.

A young man dropped into a state of coma, and it was several days before he fully recovered. Later he spoke of his experiences to a party of friends.

"Oh, yes," the young man said in response to a question, "I knew all the time what was going on, and I also knew that I wasn't dead, because my feet were cold and I was hungry."

"I see," said one of his friends, thoughtfully; "but how did that make you think that you were still alive?"

"Well," answered the young man, "I knew that if I were in Heaven I would not be hungry, and that if I was anywhere else my feet wouldnt' be cold."

Dissatisfied Householder: Do you mean to say that this meter measures the amount of gas we burn?

Gas Collector: I will enter into no controversy, sir; but I may say that the meter measures the amount of gas you will have to pay for.

VITAGRAPH NEWS

Completing Serial—With parts of the twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth episodes completed, indications point to William Duncan completing the "Smashing Barriers" serial evry early in November.

Moreno Speeding Up—Antonio Moreno is now working on the sixth episode of the new "Secret Service" serial and every effort is being made to keep well ahead of the producing schedule.

Snappy Work—Montgomery & Rock finished a comedy subject last Wednesday at noon and immediately after lunch on that day started work on a new subject. As in the last several comedies, Louise Granville is cast as leading lady and Max Ascher as principal support.

Smith Also—Noel Smith, director of Jimmy Aubrey, also turned in a finished two-reel comedy this week and is now engaged in working out several new "gags" to be used in the next picture.

Second "Simple Harry" — Harry Mann expects to finish the second of his "Simple Harry" comedies this week. At the conclusion of this comedy the comedian will leave Vitagraph to produce independently. Margarita Lucker will be Mr. Mann's leading lady.

Dalton Feature Under Way—Work has begun in New York on "The Dark Mirror," the Dorothy Dalton story by Louis Joseph Vance. E. Magnus Ingleton made the screen adaptation.

Opposite Glaum—Myrtle Stedman, has been engaged by J. Parker Read, Jr., to appear opposite Louise Glaum.

Miss Clifford Visits Relatives—Ruth Clifford is enjoying the first visit in five years with her sister and brother in New York while filling a starring engagement with the Frohman company.

New Barriscale Film—The next photoplay to be made by Bessie Barriscale will be a picturization of "Beckoning Roads," the novel by Jean Judson, to be made under the guidance of Howard Hickman.

Diver Resting—Pearl Hutchinson, a fancy diver, injured her ankle while playing in a Century comedy and is now resting.

Jacobs at Metro—Tusky Jacobs is playing the part of a tramp at the Metro studio this week.

Eastern Man Here—Mr. Edward Eckles, general manager of the Capital Film Corporation, Inc., of Chicago office, is at the Capital studio in Hollywood on important business matters.

Dual Thrill—For the first time in their young lives, Douglas MacLean and Doris May had the pleasure of appearing before both royalty and the moving picture camera at the same time on the occasion of the recent visit of the King and Queen of the Belgians to the Ince studio. Doug and Doris were the center of attraction for several minutes while they went through some scenes from their latest picture, "Mary's Ankles."

Ida May Park Casting—In her effort to secure only the most suitable talent for roles in the Lew Cody supporting cast of "The Butterfly Man," Ida May Park, adaptor of the George Barr McCutcheon story and its producer at the L. J. Gasnier studios, has been making careful progress in the choice of players.

Louise Lovely, Lilie Leslie, Alec B. Francis, who was loaned to the Cody company through the courtesy of the Goldwyn corporation; Christina Pereda, a Castilian beauty, and Andrew Robson, have been cast to play important parts.

Glaum Starts — "Sex," the story written for Louise Glaum by C. Gardner Sullivan, has already been started at the Ince studio.

With Ray—Winifred Westover is now acting as leading lady to Charles Ray in his latest production for Ince, "Watch Out William."

With Aoki—Marian Skinner is just finishing a long engagement with Tsuro Aoki as "Mrs. Lodd," the wife of the American ambassador.

LEW CODY
Now producing George Barr McCutcheon's "The Butterfly Man."

M. G. Daniels, a play of society intrigue. Fritzi Brunette is the leading lady and Ernest C. Warde will direct.

Joseph J. Dowling has been engaged to play an important part in this feature. Nancy Chase, who arrived recently in Los Angeles from London, has also been signed to support Mr. Kerrigan in his next production.

New Cast—The actors association have this week cast Carol Holloway, Jack Mulhall, and Ernest Shield in a forthcoming production of the American Lifeograph Company at Portland, Oregon. They will leave about November 1st.

Orphan Arrives—Stephen Myronoff, the little six-year-old Polander adopted recently by J. Warren Kerrigan and his mother, arrived in Los Angeles this week after a continuous trip west from New York. He was met at the train by Jack and Mrs. Kerrigan, and taken immediately to the Kerrigan residence in Hollywood, which will be his home in the future.

Stephen lost both parents during the Polish internal uprisings which followed the signing of the armistice and was adopted by Kerrigan through the French Reconstruction Bureau in Paris. Although the boy can speak no word of English he made the entire trip across the continent alone, his only guidance being a destination tag on his coat lapel from Wells-Fargo officials in New York.

Crittenden at Goldwyn — Dwight Crittenden is working in his third picture at Goldwyn studio, having been cast for the school teacher in "The Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

New Kerrigan Film — J. Warren Kerrigan begins work this week on his new Brunton feature by H. B. and

FIGHT FOR SUNDAY FILMS BEGINS AGAIN IN OHIO

The fight for Sunday motion pictures is on again in Ohio. This smouldering volcano of the motion picture industry broke out anew last week in Piqua, Ohio, when H. W. Kress, president of the Piqua Amusement Company, was arrested on complaint of the Rev. John S. Altman and the Rev. W. F. Caldwell. The ministerial association is opposed to having pictures shown on Sunday. On the other hand, the Central Trades Council passed a resolution requesting the local theater owners to keep open on Sunday. So between the two the exhibitors of Piqua are getting plenty of excitement. Mr. Kress was released on his own recognizance following his arrest, and he has said that he will take the case to the highest court. In fact, he is willing to have the question of Sunday shows put up to the people and have it settled by referendum vote. The attack on Piqua by the ministerial association is said to be a forerunner of a general movement all over the state.—N. Y. Morning Telegram.

ARE POSTAL CLERKS FANS?

A letter sent by a fan in St. Louis bore only a small picture of Alice Brady and the generalization "Somewhere in America," for an address. Delivery of the letter was made and plainly shows how well the star is known through the Middle West.

On the upper left hand corner of the envelope was a small picture of Alice Brady clipped from a newspaper and under it the name "A. Brady" and the address was covered with "Somewhere in America," a small arrow pointed toward the picture of the star.

Smithson: Do you know that Noah was the greatest financier that ever lived?

Dibbs: How do you make that out?

Smithson: Well, he was able to float a company when the whole world was in liquidation.

LUCILLE CARLISLE

She graced with her scintilating self such New York productions as the Palias Royal musical comedies, and also Carter de Haven's "His Little Widow."

Since her arrival in New York city three years ago Lucille has been busy constantly. Her only vacation was a forced one, because of illness, when she first came to Los Angeles, a year and a half ago.

Since the first of the year she has been with Vitagraph as leading woman in the Larry Semon comedies. Her work in comedies has attracted a great deal of attention from both critics and producers, and she has received several excellent offers to appear in "straight" photoplays. We knew of these offers and we knew that she refused them, and we were distressed to think that one with such a wealth of talent and beauty should lack that precious spark of ambition. After a more intimate talk with the apparently careless young person we are inclined to change our opinion. We feel that it is her high regard for her art, that has made her hold back for so long.

"My ultimate desire," Miss Carlisle tells us, "is to do straight dramatic work. But first I want to feel that I have learned all that comedy work can teach me. The schooling an actress gains through working in short comedies is invaluable for more advanced work. Practicaly all of the most successful motion picture actresses began their picture careers in the comedy field. Here we are forced to think for ourselves, accurately and quickly. Contrary to the practice in serious dramatic direction of rehearsing each scene dozens of times, we rehearse perhaps twice and then the cameraman "takes" it. So, if we expect to show up well in the film, we must know what it's all about, as nearly as possible, and act accordingly. For when the camera catches it, every thing is finished and we can't go back and do it over again. Aside from the acting there are countless little details of costume and make-up upon which so much depends. Realizing all this, I want to learn all I can before entering a broader field."

Miss Carlisle is a worshiper of D. W. Griffith. Perhaps her most intense desire is to work with the great director some day.

"There are times when everyone has said to himself, "Oh, what's the use?" It is at such a time that to me a Griffith production is a panacea for all hopelessness, things are worth while, and I feel that so gifted a master should be an eternal inspiration."

We found that the shelter created by Lucille's freedom from conceit hid another treasure. Her voice—a rich, deep, contralto which alone would gain for her fame if she would only blow the proverbial horn.

But, wait, we are sure to hear from her soon in a big way and the heights she will climb will show us that there was method in her seeming madness.

Maiden Aunt: Archie, dear, I've been thinking things over, and have decided that I shall be cremated.

Archie: Right-o, Auntie! If you'll pop your things on I'll take you ronud at once.

Fortune Teller: You will suffer much by being very poor until you are 35 years of age.

Impecunious Poet (eagerly): And then?

Fortune Teller: You will get used to it.

Lady: Why don't you go to work? Don't you know that a rolling stone gathers no moss?

Tramp: Madam, not to evade your question at all, but merely to obtain information, may I ask what practical utility moss is to a man in my condition?

Secnario Market

This feature is for the guidance of scenario writers who have something to sell, but who do not know just where to take it. CAMERA! keeps this column for announcements by the various studios. Some of the matter stands from week to week as a reference guide. It will be noted that many of the studios do not wish scenarios submitted by any one, some want synopses only; others wisn the continuity written.

As the difficulties of the past years in regard to the submissions of scenarios no longer exist, it is safe for any one with a good idea to send scenarios to any company mentioned in this column. While this paper is not responsible for the use or misuse of scenarios by the companies listed, it believes that any scenario sent to any of the companies will receive honest and prompt treatment. Any action to the contrary will receive full publicity if reported to this office.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

Another Turkish street—the square in Constantinople faced by the Mosque of St. Sophia—has been erected at Universal City for use in Priscilla Dean's next feature, "The Virgin of Stamboul," work on which is progressing under Tod Browning's direction. Twelve hundred extra people have been engaged for the mosque scenes, and 300 coal black horses have been secured for the desert episodes in this production.

"The Virgin of Stamboul" is from the pen of H. H. Van Loan, and chief in Miss Dean's support are Wallace Beery, Wheeler Oakman, E. A. Wallace, Clyde Benson, Eugenie Forde, Edward Burns and Yvette Mitchell.

A fine cast at Universal City is working on "The Trifiers," Joseph Franklin Poland's comedy-drama of modern life, under the supervision of William Christy Cabanne. In the company are Edith Roberts, David Butler, Forrest Stanley, Katherine Kirkham, Arthur Shirley, Arthur Hoyt, Nell Craig, Benny Alexander, Colin Kenny, Charles Arling and many others.

William C. Dowlan and his company have returned to Universal City from ten days at Santa Barbara where some beautiful scenes were shot for "The Peddler."

Al Russell has begun work on the ninth episode of "The Lion Man," the serial featuring Kathleen O'Connor and Jack Perrin, supported by Gertrude Astor, Leonard Clapham, Henry Barrows, William Carroll and Slim Pagett.

The fourth episode of "The Man Hunter," the serial featuring Art Acord, is now in course of production under the guidance of Reeves Eason. The story is by William Pigott and Karl Coolidge, and Mr. Acord is supported in the current chapter by Mildred Moore, Charles Newton, Beatrice Dominguez, George Field and Tote Du Crow.

Mary MacLaren and her company, appearing in "Rouge and Riches," under Harry Franklin's direction, have returned from the cotton fields of Southern California, and are now making interior scenes. In this story of Bohemian life in New York the beautiful star is supported by Marguerite Snow, Wallace MacDonald, Alberta Lee, Dorothy Abril, Syn de Conde, Robert Walker, Lloyd Whitlock and Helen Sullivan.

James J. Corbett is at work on the East Side streets of New York, reproduced at Universal City, producing "The Prince of Avenue A," under the direction of Jack Ford. For the exchampion's first feature has been secured this play by Frank and Charles T. Dazey, formerly used by Corbett as a starring vehicle on the stage. In his support will be seen Mary Warren, Harry Northrup, Richard Cummings, Frederick Vroom, Cora Drew, Johnnie Cooke, George Fisher and Lydia Yeamans Titus.

"The Phantom Melody," starring Monroe Salisbury, is well on its way toward completion, with Douglas Gerrard at the helm. This is a story by F. McGrew Willis, and engages the services, in addition to Mr. Salisbury, of Barney Sherry, Jean Calhoun, Charles West, Ray Gallagher, Joe Ray and Milton Markwell.

Jacques Jaccard has recovered from his recent illness and is about to begin work on the remaining episodes of "The Thirteenth Hour," the first half of which was filmed in England and the Continent. Eddie Polo is the star of this continued story, with Peggy O'Dare as his chief support.

After working for two weeks in the replica of the Metropolitan Opera House constructed for scenes in "Ambition," the next Dorothy Phillips feature, Director Allen Holubar is now well on his way towards the concluding scenes of this special. In the concluding scenes of "Ambition," which was written by Holubar, will appear Robert Anderson, Rodolph Valentino, Frank Elliott, William Von Hardenburg, Juan de la Cruz and Nick de Ruiz.

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

Harry Carey and his company are still on the desert south of Victorville, taking outdoor scenes for "Overland Red," the story based on H. H. Knibbs' popular novel. Lynn Reynolds is directing the star, who is suported in this feature by Vola Vale, Charles Le Moyne, Harold Goodwin, Charles Anderson, J. Morris Foster and Joe Harris.

Phil Rosen has finished the two-reel western, "The Sheriff's Oath," featuring Hoot Gibson and Josephine Hill.

The final scenes of "The Breath of the Gods," the Universal feature starring Tsuru Aoki (Mrs. Sessue Hayakawa), will probably be shot this week. The picture has been in course of production for the past ten weeks under the guidance of Rollin Sturgeon.

Minter Busy—Realart Pictures Corporation fired their first gun in California Wednesday morning of last week. Mary Miles Minter, the young star of this organization started on location work in Pasadena under the direction of Realart famous director, William Desmond Taylor. "Judy of Rogue's Harbor," from the Grace Miller White book, was the first vehicle selected for the dainty Miss.

Signs for Release—With less than a dozen scenes shot, George Beban is about to take his little pen in hand to sign a contract for the release of his second, and future, productions. He declares that his pictures are to be handled only on a State Rights basis; and outside of this statement, regarding his release negotiations he says little, but looks a lot.

ETHEL SHANNON

Ethel Shannon is now playing leads with Universal. Miss Shannon has recently arrived from the East where she appeared with Maude Adams and E. H. Sothern. In Denver she won the distinction of being that city's most beautiful red-haired girl.

Rex Ingram has returned from several days at Pasadena where some unusual scenes were made for "The Day She Paid," the feature based on the Fannie Hurst magazine story, "Oats for the Woman." This story is enacted, chiefly, by Francelia Billington, Charles Clary, Lillian Rich, Harry Van Meter and little Nancy Caswell.

Eddie Kull has finished the two-reel western, "The Counterfeit Trail." This picture engages the acting services of Robert Burns, Magda Lane, Allan Garcia and Edward Burns.

Norman Dawn took a company headed by Arnold Gregg, Helen Howard and Art Lee to the Grand Canyon for the purpose of filming a western photoplay. The story will be called "The Line Runners."

Houdini and his big company will spend the next four weeks on location, filming the second thriller in which she is starred. James Cruze is directing.

Al Santell expects laughing results from his comedy feature, "Lower Four and Upper Three," which will feature ape, Joe Martin. Work was delayed on this feature by the illness of the jungle star, but Director Santell expects to have thecomedy ready on schedule time.

"The Woman in the Plot," Erich von Stroheim's forthcoming special, is well on towards its final scenes. The story is based on the novel by Baroness De Meyer, "Clothes and Treachery," and in its picturization will be found Una Trevelyn, Sam de Grasse, Clyde Fillmore, Maude George, Mae Busch, Leo White and Ruth King in the principal roles.

At Universal—Mai Wells has completed work at the Universal studios, where she was cast in the role of the mother in the Tsurn Aoki feature, "Breath of the Gods."

Lyons and Moran have finished "Their First Quarrel" and are ready to start work on their next.

ON THE LASKY LOT

New de Mille Production—Although Cecil B. de Mille will not start on his next production for several weeks to come, plans are already going forward on the new picture. Two special costume designers have been detailed to purchase costume materials in New York, a world famous artist is expected to join the de Mille staff within a few weeks and the production manager, Howard Higgin, is busily engaged in planning the elaborate sets which will be a feature of the production.

Auto Series—Wallace Reid has practically finished his latest Paramount-Artcraft picture, "Speed Carr," under the direction of Sam Wood. Preparations are already under way for the production of his next starring vehicle, "The Bear Trap." This will be an adaptation of another series of the automobile stories by Byron Morgan which appeared in the Saturday Evening Past. The character, "The Bear," which was played by Theodore Roberts in a former Paramount picture based on several of the Morgan stories and which was entitled "The Roaring Road," and in which Mr. Reid also was starred, will be preserved in this picture.

Starts on Director's Arrival—Ethel Clayton will start work on her next picture, "Young Mrs. Winthrop," immediately after the return of her new director, Walter Edwards, from New York City, where he has been directing Marguerite Clark.

On Location—Bryant Washburn and his company are again on the high seas taking yacht scenes for "Too Much Johnson." Lois Wilson is once again Washburn's leading woman and Donald Crisp is directing.

"Jack Straw" Under Way—William C. de Mille is well under way with "Jack Straw," starring Major Robert Warwick, with Carroll McComas in the leading feminine role. This is a picturization of Somerset Maughm's comedy-drama.

Brentwood Title—"Where There's a Will" has been chosen for the title of the picture which Claude H. Mitchell is now completing for the Brentwood with a cast comprising ZaSu Pitts, Edwin Stevens, Henry Woodward, Hughie Mack, Frank Hayes, Anna Hernandez, Fannie Midgely, Julanne Johnston, eight youngsters of ages ranging from three to twelve years and last but not least, no less than sixteen different types of animals!

Mayer Production—With the arrival of Louis B. Mayer in Los Angeles, construction of the new $200,000 studio at 3800 Mission Road, is being pushed to the limit. In order to devote his entire attention to "Mayer-First National productions," Mayer disposed of his theatrical holdings and exhibitors' exchanges in New England and moved his family to the Pacific coast.

Two months will witness the completion of the administration building. The three stages, large enough to accommodate more than a dozen producing companies, are already practically completed and work has started on the individual dressing bungalows for Mayer's two First National stars, Anita Stewart and Mildred Harris Chaplin.

The Anita Stewart unit is ready to move west and all of Miss Stewart's productions are to be filled here. Her next picture is to be "The Fighting Shepherdess," by Carolyn Lockhardt.

Mildred Harris Chaplin has already begun the production of her first First National attraction. It is a film adaptation of "The Inferior Sex," by Frank Stayton.

Many weeks have been spent in scenario preparation by Waldemar Young and Director Joseph Henaberry.

Frazee Finishing—The Edwin Frazee Film Company, at Riverside, started work on the new stage Wednesday. The dressing rooms and stage are all finished and the first picture, a two-reeler, "All In The Air," is nearly completed.

"THEM'S OUR SENTIMENTS"

In a recent article published in the Los Angeles Daily Times a New York visitor criticises the Los Angeles institutions. (?) We feel that the reference to the average Ageleno's attitude toward the motion picture industry and its people, is particularly apt and expository. Below the article is printed in part. You of the profession will undoubtedly appreciate it.

Your city should be called "Rubeville on the Santa Fe." The only really metropolitan people and institutions you have are the despised motion-picture plants and people, and you drive them away as you drove Dave Griffith away. You refuse to rent your houses to mere "actors," because you say they throw lighted cigarettes into the piano and onto the rugs. Too bad! I suppose Sadie Jones of Keokuk, Iowa, leaves the house in apple-pie order when she goes back to Iow-ay. She does n-o-t. Maybe you will drive Bill Wrigley back to Chicago by legislating against chewing gum. You drove a teacher out of the schools because her children were born with blond hair. Village stuff, Los Angeles; village stuff!

Los Angeles "society" is very amusing. Women from "Dakoty" sit about in the lobbies of your tourist hotels, upholstered in terrible clothes, and shout at each other through their noses; or they go to the live-stock show. Those in your upper "society" strata—that is, people who have been here more than six months—join a State society, wear a purple and green silk badge and swap sandwiches at a Sycamore Grove picnic. Ye Gods! No wonder the King of Belgium preferred to stay at a motion-picture studio rather than ride about to be stared at, as only Los Angeles people can stare. No wonder your real metropolitan folk, including the motion-picture stars, visit quietly with their friends at Hollywood, Beverly Hills and Pasadena, and carry their wines and liquors from house to house in thermos bottles!

They refuse to try to navigate in your streets with their automobiles, and I do not blame them. Streets! You use them as they did in the flourishing days of old North Main street, when the old gray mare was hitched in front of the Plaza general grocery store, with a feed bag over her nose. You use the streets as garages, salesrooms and storage houses for your tooting, snoting, mufflerless, pink automobiles. As for traffic cops—! You do not seem to be aware of the fact that you have any traffic. The loudest noise-making automobile has the right of way. * * * *

Los Angeles is not a city. It is a conspiracy. And the puller-in for the confidence game is the poor, old, helpless climate. Oh, sunshine of Southern California, what crimes are committed in thy name!

LAUGHTER IS KING, SAYS INGRAHAM

Lloyd Ingraham Gives His Views.

A sense of humor, assuming, of course, that the technical ability is not lacking. Perhaps I should not say a sense of humor, but rather the ability to impart it to one's work. There are certain situations that, among play-makers, are proverbially successful in gaining audiences' favor. They are called hoakum in stage patter. But these cannot always be called into use; they will be too obvious. Among them are the mortgage on the old home, the lamp in the window for the erring son, etc.

The instinct to laugh is what distinguishes the human animal from all others. Not only is man alone in his capacity to laugh, but it is his strongest impulse. Therefore it is an easy road to his favor if you can play upon this mental pleasure. Surprise is the main element in humor; you don't laugh at a joke if you see it coming—only if it overtakes you unawares, and surprise being obviously a strong factor in gripping drama, it is logical to expect humor-surprise to give a double strength and appeal to a play.

It has come to be a maxim of playmaking that you must have "comedy relief." That's only another way of saying that audiences will only take so much of the serious as the comical will make palatable.

It is only trite to observe that comedy is the hardest thing to impart. It's the most difficult form of drama to write and the hardest to act. Therefore the slothful actor or director will avoid effort along that line; he will follow the line of least resistance and try to make up for a deficiency in humor with slam-bang melodrama, as if he were trying to throw up a smoke screen to hide him from the disfavor of audiences.

The great war, with its load of tragic thoughts on the mind of humanity, brought these truths to the front as never before. A distraught world craved the relief of fun, and soon exhibitors found that drama with humor in it, or out-an-out comedy, had greater pulling power than anything else. So now we are trying to meet this demand, and my advice to directors and producers who are young in the game is to cultivate their sense of humor and the ability to weave it into the fabric of their work for the screen.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF PHOTO-PLAY PRODUCTION

By Wm. Oakley

It is a fact that readers of an interesting story become so absorbed that for the time being they are unconscious of their surroundings. Their thoughts are so concentrated on the theme portrayed by the author that they mentally visualize the characters and the locale. For the time being the characters become real people and the situations realities.

As the reader mentally sees or visualizes the incidents thus portrayed, so the theater-goer sees with his mortal eyes the "picturized story" on the screen. The producer who will most nearly picturize the mental concept produced by the work of the author, and most nearly visualize the dominant characters thus portrayed, is the genius who will give the theatre-going public what it has long been awaiting in the progress of the industry. Featuring the story regardless of the star or leading character, is the key that opens the way to progress in future productions.

A story with a strong plot is the nucleus of a great production. To successfully picturize a story for the screen is to visualize the characters in the same manner that the mind of the reader sees them. To curtail vital incidents or suppress dominant characters in a production for the sake of featuring a single character, star, or lead is losing the value of the story. Many promising productions have been ruined by the star who sacrificed the story and the support of the other characters for selfish reasons. This all screen fans know.

To build a production on the personality of a star is unwise, for if the star fails the whole production fails, there being no other support for the structure. At best featuring a star is only exploiting one character, while by featuring the story itself all characters are given a chance to give full value to their parts. This enhances the strength of the lead by good support as well as portrays the story as the author intended.

The Oakley Super-Quality Production Corporation is now producing a series of satires, with these ideas of production forever in mind.

Henry Murdock has returned from Siberia, where he served Uncle Sam and did his work well.

Bob McKenzie is playing one of the character leading roles in the O Henry story now being made at the Vitagraph studio in which Vic Petel and Kate Price share honors with him. Dave Smith is directing the picture with William Dagwell his right hand man.

Billy Watson gathered his troupe together and journeyed down near Capastrano where he will film some water scenes with a bevy of pretty girls for his forthcoming release on the Universal program for the L KO studio.

W. S. Campbell is casting for the first picture that he is about to start on his new contract, which means the birth of the W. S. Campbell Comedies which will bring to light another independent producer. He is releasing them on a program that is best fitted to handle his wares. Those already engaged are Frak Hayes, Bob McKenzie, Lillian Webster, Ida May McKenzie, Ella McKenzie, Fay McKenzie, Mrs. McKenzie and others. Johnny Gray will write the titles, help keep Director Campbell supplied with stories and supervise in the cutting of the pictures.

Florence Lawson, after finishing an excellent part with the Goldwyn studio, was engaged by Director William Christy Cabanne to appear in the picture that he is directing Dave Butler and Edith Roberts in out at the Universal.

Linberger Returns—C. W. Linberger, photographer and cameraman, has just returned from overseas where he served for two years as official photographer for the Fourth Division. Mr. Linberger has a vast collection of photographs which he made in all parts of Europe and is publishing a photographic history of the Fourth Division.

Lost or "Lifted"—Cameramen at all local studios are requested by Joe Morgan at the Brentwood to watch for the front half of an exceptionally fine still camera lense which has been lifted from his camera while standing in his darkroom at the Brentwood studios.

The complete lense cost Morgan $200. The part "lifted" of which Morgan has the number, is useless by itself, but its loss makes the remaining parts useless also.

With Moreno—Gordon Sackville, on returning from a four weeks' sojourn at Santa Cruz, was called to the bedside of Mary Pickford as a doctor in "Pollyanna". Mr. Sackville is now playing a millionaire cattle king in support of Antonio Moreno at the Vitagraph studios.

With Goldwyn—Margerie Wilson, who has been starred in numerous photoplays, has signed a contract to support Madge Kennedy in her next Goldwyn picture, "The Blooming Angel," which will be directed by Victor L. Schertzinger. Arthur Hausman will also be in the cast.

Stedman Arrives—Lincoln Stedman has just arrived from New York City and has been given a part in the Goldwyn picture, "The Tower of Ivory," a Gertrude Atherton story being produced under the direction of William Parke.

Entertain Sailors—Bob Hunter, Mary Land, M. Amporito and A. Nardonni were guests of Lt. Dr. Roy Atkinson and Chf. Parm. M. Farlan of the U. S. S. Vestal, the big floating machine shop which trails the Idaho and Mississippi. When "their ship comes in" again next week, the compliment will be returned and the wonders of making moving pictures will be revealed to the sailor boys.

Resting at Catalina—Bebe Daniels, who has just completed work on the Cecil de Mille special, "Why Change Your Wife," is taking a few days' rest at Catalina Island before resuming duties at the Lasky Studio. Accompanying Miss Daniels are Mrs. Eugene Morris, wife of the Pacific Electric attorney, and Miss Lenabell Morris. Mrs. Daniels will poin the party in a day or two, having been unable on account of business to accompany them on leaving.

Barriscale Record—What is believed to be a record for program pictures and their stars is the simultaneous appearance of eleven Bessie Barriscale films in the theatres of Chicago. This has probably been exceeded by only Chaplin.

Famous Play for Lytell—Metro has secured the stage play, "Alias Jimmy Valentine," for Bert Lytell.

Chambers Story for Paramount—Robert W. Chambers' story, "The Fighting Chance," is to be filmed by Paramount.

Completes Neilan Cast—J. Barney Sherry has been engaged by Marshall Neilan for an important part in the first Neilan feature. The acquisition of Mr. Sherry completes an all-star cast for the Neilan picture which also includes Lewis Stone, Marjorie Daw, Jane Novak, Wesley Barry and Guy Nichols.

Cast of Humanity Company—Members of the cast of the Humanity Film Company, working at Universal City, include Bernard Durning, Seena Owen, Melbourne MacDowell, Eugenie Besserer, Lon Chaney, Tully Marshall, Clare MacDowell, Jack Curtis, Frank Thompson, Mrs. Anna Hernandez and John Wallace.

With Fox—Lenore Lynard has been engaged by Fox to support Madaline Traverse in her next production, which will be filmed under the direction of Edmund Laurence.

To New York—Violet Radcliffe, accompanied by her mother, leaves early in the week for New York City, to visit with relatives.

Army Man With Lloyd—Harry E. Weil, who was Frank Lloyd's assistant in the making of "Les Miserables," has rejoined that director at the Goldwyn studio. Weil fought at Chateau Thierry and in other engagements, and has only now received his discharge from the army.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Gene Pellette is doing the heavy in the present picture that Houdini is appearing in at the Lasky Studio under the direction of James Cruze.

Pago, that odd funster, has just finished a picture at the L K O and is resting this week while his trick dog is working at the Vitagraph in the Noel M. Smith-Jimmy Aubrey funfilm.

Harry Depp has bought his own home, has a cute car, and says he never was happier than he is right now, working for Al Christie.

Jimmy Clemmons and Craig Hutchinson are busy writing a new story for George Ovey, which they will have ready as soon as he completes his present one. Craig Hutchinson will hold down the directorial job.

George French is still on the job at the Christie studio.

Earle Rodney no more than finished his last two-reel comedy for Al Christie than he was slated for a one-reel subject with Dorothy De Vere as his leading lady, and J. McDermott looking after the direction.

Gus Leonard, well known vaudevilian, who deserted the theatre for the silent stage when he joined the Rolin studio, is now with Al Christie doing a Jewish character.

Ray Granger has just completed his African comedy, "In The Soup," at the Big U.

Coleen Moore 'tis said made such a hit in the Tom Mix picture that is now being produced at the Fox studio that the powers that be already intend to sign the young actress up to appear in their productions.

Roscoe Arbuckle will shortly hike to New York to make a picture or two and then return to the Southland. Fatty feels like he is a sort of a native son, and anyone that can even attempt to break away from Los Angeles even for one picture is surely doing wonders.

Franklin Farnum is going to join the serial row, and appear in such a picture that will carry him through about fifteen episodes. The Selig Co. is behind the project and it will be made at their studio.

William Worthington is going to direct Edith Storey in her next picture, allowing some other director to take charge of Sessue Hayakawa, alternating in the handling of the Hawarth stars from picture to picture.

Mrs. Hank Mann recovered from her operation which was performed at the Clara Barton Hospital. She is well enough to be removed to her home.

Dorothy Vernon returned from San Francisco where she has been visiting her sister, and will now start working again.

Walter Long is in the "Sea Wolf" cast, under George Melford's direction, at the Lasky studio.

Jimmy Adams had a narrow escape from being very badly injured when an actor in discharging a gun in a scene shot straight for Joimes face and some of the powder left its marks on Jimmy's face and head.

H. S. Griffith finished an excellent part with Douglas Fairbanks which ran close to two months.

Nelson McDowell no more than finished his engagement at the Brunton studio than he was grabbed for the part of "Still Bill" in the Goldwyn production of "Going Some."

K. G. McLean left the Fox-Sunshine studio to join Fred Fishbach at the L KO as cameraman, filming the two-reel comedy subjects that the latter is making in which Jimmy Adams and Esther Wood appear in, aided in the fun-making by "Snooky" the marvelous chip-monk.

Bobby Vernon from all reports will soon be appearing in two-reel comedies at the Christie studio. This will serve as his initial effort in that direction since he and Gloria Swanson were separated by Mack Sennett in the old days when they appeared in Keystone-Sennett comedies.

Ray Adams is cranking the camera for Billy Watson at the L KO. The latter is directing two-reel comedies in which human and dumb actors play.

Al Santell is nursing a badly lacerated hand and foot, after having a none too friendly set-to with Joe Martin, the ourangoutang, out at the Universal studio, where Al is directing the animal.

Dora Wade is now in her second picture at the L KO studio, playing a cute maid part.

Fontine La Rue expects to finish at the Stuart Paton studio within the next seven days in the serial that she has been working in for some time past.

Bump Adams is sharing honors with Dot Farley in the Vin Moore comedy that is being directed by the latter at the Culver City studio.

Madge Kirby has once more cast her lot with the Hank Mann Feature Comedies, playing opposite the funster at the Louis Burstein studio, sharing the plant with Francis Ford and his company.

Jimmy Luddy and Katherine Lewis are being directed by William Beaudine at the Christie studio in a one-reel comedy. They are aided and abetted in the fun-making by Fay Lemport and Billy Bletcher.

Harry Gribbon has resigned from the Sennett forces and joined the L KO, where he expects to start action in a five-reel with Eva Novak comedy drama backed by the Stern brothers.

Francis Ford and Ella Hall are losing no time in their present serial now in the making at the Sunset and Gower studio. Pete Gerald is now celebrating his fifth year as assistant director to Francis Ford.

Ivor McFadden was selected from a long list of names as the man to play the heavy in the Syd Chaplin comedy now in the making at the Jasper-Hollywood studios.

Phil Dunham is being directed by J. A. Howe at the L KO with Bartine Burkette the girl in the story opposite Phil. The title of the picture is "A Modest Modiste."

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

At Home—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Biby have moved into their charming chalet home at 4174 N. Highland avenue, where they are at home to their friends, in their usual hospitable manner.

Vacation at Riverside—Irene Rich spent last week-end with some Buffalo friends at Mission Inn, Riverside. For the first time in three months, the film actress had seven whole days' vacation between pictures. This week she is again on the Goldwyn lot.

Miss MacPherson Very Ill—Jeanie MacPherson, Cecil B. de Mille's scenario writer, is still seriously ill in a Los Angeles hospital. Miss MacPherson was operated on several weeks ago and partially recovered only to suffer a relapse which necessitated a second operation. Latest word from the doctors in charge report a slow but steady improvement.

To Stay Put—It looks as though Nancy Chase, last year of the London stage and now supporting J. Warren Kerrigan at the Brunton studios, is in Hollywood to stay. She has leased a beautiful Swiss chalet in Cahuenga Pass, applied for membership in the local auto club, hung out an ice card, advertised for a cook and adopted a cat. Another triumph for California sunshine, eh, wot?

Miss Darnell Guest of Honor—Ruth Roland entertained in her home in the Wilshire district in honor of Jean Darnell of the Ince Company's Publicity Department. The hostess arranged a charming dinner party. Beside the guest of honor, others present were Mr. Gilson Willets, Mr. and Mrs. Henry King, Mr. Leo Kent, Mrs. Edith Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Roach, Mrs. Gertrude Douglass. The principal topic of conversation was the visit of the King and Queen and the unique feature of the evenin was the refreshments served. The ices were miniature figures of the King for the ladies and the Queen for the gentlemen guests.

For Miss Clark—An informal dancing party was given Thursday evening, by Mr. Richmond, Mr. Ted Smith and Mr. Baker, at their Hollywood home, in honor of Miss Violet Clark, who left Friday for New York City. Miss Clark, who is one of the most popular members of the Studio Club, will remain in the east for several weeks.

Club Dance—The Studio Club dances are proving immensely popular with Hollywod film folk this fall. Last Friday evening a very charming affair was given at the Club, various film celebrities being among the guests.

Proud Papa—D. H. Thompson, casting manager at the Metro Studio, appeared last Thursday morning with a smile on his face that would not come off. Upon inquiry it was discovered that a new baby girl had arrived at the Thompson home Wednesday evening. Mrs. Thompson and the baby girl are getting along nicely.

For Miss Ettinger—One of the attractive affairs of the week was the birthday dinner, given Monday evening in honor of Miss Margaret Ettinger, at the Hollywood Studio Club.

A centerpiece of Cecil Brunner roses and violets graced the table, and a real old-fashioned birthday cake, with blazing candles, proved a delightful surprise to the honor guest.

Among those present were: Misses ZaSu Pitts, Sarah Mason, Violet Clark, Julanne Johnston, Agnes Christine Johnston, Helen Carlisle, Jean Copelan, Jean Little, Magda Lane, Nell Newman, Miss MacIlvaney, Mrs. Ettinger and Mrs. Johnston.

Dug Out Dance—An old-fashioned Halloween dance was given Friday evening at the Dug-Out, 1848 Morgan Place. Hosteses for the evening were Mrs. Meredith Woodward, assisted by Marjorie Ford Lindsay and Mrs. Oliphant Coe. The young hostesses among the motion picture people were Misses Edith Roberts, Yvette Mitchell, Violet Schram, Helene and Agnes Lynch, Evelyn Adamson, Margaret Coe, Miriam Meredith and Isabel Percival.

Heyes Heir—Herbert H. Heyes, leading man for Ruth Roland, is the proud father of a nine-pound baby boy, born at Thornycroft hospital, Glendale, Monday morning. Mrs. Heyes (who in professional life is Mildred Von Holland) and the young heir, are doing splendidly. Numerous congratulatory telegrams, flowers and gifts for the baby have been received. The fond parents have lost no time in naming their offspring; their first child is Herbert, Jr., and the new baby is Douglas.

Ferguson Visiting Relatives—Casson Ferguson has gone to Denver to spend a month with his mother and sisters while convalescing after the appendicitis operation he underwent recently.

Simpson Cooks 'Em—Just before the J. B. Hampton company returned from Truckee the whole party went trout fishing. After capturing a slew of the speckled beauties it was discovered that they had no one to cook them until Russell Simpson volunteered. The finished trout go with Simpson's long list of notable successes. Blanche Sweet said they were immense.

MARSHALL NEILAN

By Mildred Davis

Marshall Neilan, although one of the youngest, is also one of the foremost producers and directors of motion pictures. His rise to the top of the profession has been meteoric and the distinction and fame he now possesses were gained strictly upon his merits.

He was born in California in 1891 and educated in the public schools of Los Angeles. While he was not yet twenty years of age he joined a San Francisco stock company as "extra man" but did not remain in that capacity very long. His talents and intelligence soon attracted the attention of the director and he was made the juvenile lead. He then went on the road with the famous comedian, Barney Bernard, but when D. W. Griffith's old Biograph studio began operation in Los Angeles, young Neilan foresaw the big future of the silent drama and joined the Griffith forces as an actor. He played leads for Biograph for some time and then in turn was a member of Kalem, Universal, Selifg, American and Famous Players. He began his directorial career at the helm of the Ruth Roland pictures and a little later he became the guiding hand of the W. K. Ham and Bud comedies for Kalem. By this time Mr. Neilan had gained an enviable reputation as an actor as well as a director and his services were always in demand. In those days, playing opposite a prominent star was sometimes more remunerative than handling the reins of a lesser light and the inducements offered him to go back to acting were too attractive to turn down. He consequently made his reappearance before the camera with such celebrities as Mary Pickford, Marguerite Clark, Blanche Sweet and many others in their best known photoplays.

When the worth of the director became recognized by the producers as the primary cause of the success of a picture and the figures in a director's contract were quoted in proportion to his relative value to the company's earnings, Mr. Neilan retired permanently as a player and devoted his entire time to directing.

Some of his best known productions are "Mice and Men," in which he also played the lead, "The Silent Partner," "The Country Boy," "Freckles," "Amarilly of Clothesline Alley," "Hit-the-Trail-Holliday"—and "Hearts of the Wild."

In the past year Mr. Neilan has directed four great successes, "The Unpardonable Sin," with Blanche Sweet,

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

To New York—Violet Clark, continuity writer for the Universal studios, left for New York late this week. Miss Clark will remain in the east for about a month.

Formerly on Stage—Christina Pereda, leading lady for Lew Cody, is a Castilian senorita who formerly appeared upon the New York stage in "The Line of Joy," a musical extravaganza, for which she was brought to this country as a solo dancer.

Midgets to Film—Singer's Midgets, famous vaudeville Lilliputians, and their dwarf elephants and ponies are to make film plays for Fox.

Famous Combination—"Dr. Jeckyll and Mr. Hyde" is to reach the screen, and John Barrymore has been picked for Mansfield's famous role.

Parker Book Filmed—Another of Sir Gilbert Parker's books has been translated to the screen. "You Never Know Your Luck," made by the Sunset Company of San Antonio, Texas, with House Peters in the principal role.

With Pickford—Margaret Allen is doing a character in Mary Pickford's vpresent production, "Polyana." This is her eighth week with Mary and there is yet a location trip to come.

Two New Writers—The Model Comedy Company has added two writers to its scenario department. They are George Kendrick, formerly scenarist with the old Kalem Film Company, and Harry Clinton, who until recently was on the editorial staff of the New York Telegraph. They will write two-reel subjects featuring Gale Henry.

With Houdini—Yukio Aoyama and Goro Kino, two Japanese actors, are playing parts in cast in Houdini's new production, "The Salvage," directed by James Cruze, at Lasky Studio.

Leatrice Joy's Father Ill—Leatrice Joy, Bert Lytell's leading woman, received a wire from El Paso, Texas, Saturday, saying that her father was critically ill and was not expected to live. Miss Joy and her mother have gone to his side. Capt. John Grimen Joy, her brother, is also on the way to his father.

Mr. Lytell and the remainder of the company filming the Parker novel, "The Right of Way," for Screen Classics, Inc., left Saturday night for Lake Tahoe, where Miss Joy expects to join them Thursday.

New Star—Another star has just just been signed by Goldwyn. This time it is Jimmy Rogers, small son of the gum-chewing cowboy who is starring in the films. Jimmy plays a sympathetic part with his daddy in a story being directed by Clarence G. Badger. The kiddie is just like his old man, camera shy and fighting the still man, but an excellent young actor.

Going North—Director Reginald Barker is preparing to leave shortly for San Francisco where he is to film outside scenes for the Mary Roberts Rinehart story, "Dangerous Days," to be filmed by Goldwyn as an Eminent Authors production. A company of twenty will go north with Mr. Barker.

Baker Lead—Doris Baker has just finished the lead with The Alkire Company, in which Joe Bennett is being featured. Miss Baker is now preparing for her next picture.

Berquist Building Home—Rudolph Berquist, who is photographing May Allison's latest Screen Classic production "The Walk-offs," has purchased a lot in Hollywood and is building a modern California bungalow on it.

Gilbert at Metro—Jack Gilbert has been cast for an important role in "Should a Woman Tell?" an original story by Finis Fox, now being filmed at the Metro studio.

Finis Fox's Car—After several weeks of patient waiting Finis Fox, of the Screen Classics scenario department, has received his new automobile, which is a "sporty" roadster painted horizon blue.

Casting Department Moves—The Metro studio casting department has moved into its new building, which faces on Cahuenga avenue.

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

Model Cameraman—George Richter, who filmed many fine scenes of the Carranza-Villa conflict on the Mexican border some time ago, has been engaged by the Model Comedy Company to act as cameraman for Gale Henry. He succeeds Lee Garmes, who is now working with the Frazee Film Company in Riverside.

"Prop" Man—Ervin Van Osdoll, well known on the Fox lot, is now master of properties at the Gale Henry fun factory in Hollywood.

Completes Chaplin Engagement—Laddie Earle just finished a four weeks' engagement with Sidney Chaplin at the Hollywood studio.

Polo's New Serial—Eddie Polo, who has just returned from an extended trip through Europe, will start work within the next few days on a new serial at Universal under the direction of Jaques Jaccard. The title has not been selected. This is Polo's first serial since "The Lure of the Circus."

McClosky Called East—J. B. McClosky, of the Humanity Film Company, has been called east by the death of his mother. Mr. McClosky was to have co-directed with the Humanity company.

Thompson Off for Truckee—D. H. Thompson, casting director at the Metro studio, departed Wednesday evening for Truckee to look over the work being done by Bert Lytell and his company who are in the high Sierras. Mr. Thompson will return Saturday.

Metro Nine to Play Sunday—Maxwell Karger and Nick DeMaggio have lined up a star baseball team to represent the Metro studio during the winter months. They will play San Diego Sunday at the Southern City stadium. About thirty members of the studio force will accompany the team south.

Davis Arranged Canadian Set—Al Davis, of the Metro property department, had charge of the decorating and furnishin gof the Canadian bar room and trappers' cabin for Bert Lytell's latest picture, "The Right of Way." Davis spent some time working with the Hudson Bay Trading Company, and had the settings perfect in every detail.

Northrup vs. Corbett—"That may sound funny, but it isn't; at least, it isn't funny to me," says Harry S. Northrup. "I have a fight to the finish with James J .in "The Prince of Avenue A" next Wednesday in which I am 'finished.'

"Now, any one that wants my job that particular day, can have it and welcome. But when they get through with 'Gentleman Jim' they won't think this caption is so darned funny. Good-bye."

Steck Engaged by Garson—Having completed the continuity of the Priscilla Dean feature, "The Incorrigible," H. Tipton Steck has been engaged by Harry I. Garson to adapt and put into continuity a new Clara Kimball Young production.

Apling Leaves With Company—Bert Apling, the well known character heavy who has been seen in the recent Dorothy Gish pictures, left Friday for Spokane, Washington, with the Carver Curwood Production Company. Mr. Apling, who has been cast in one of the leading roles in the picture to be filmed in the northwest, will return in about two months' time.

Playing at Burbank—Janet M. Sully has taken a rest from motion picture work to appear as the mother, Mrs. Kennedy, in the new Burbank theatre production.

Nerve-racking—Mrs. Flori saw "The Girl From Outside" at the Kinema and heard a sportsman behind her remark, when Clara Horton and her lover were frying trout and making love, "Why don't they hurry up and take the fish out of the fire—it'll all be burned up," and he gripped the back of her chair and went on raving!

Russell Arriving—William Russell is on his way to the coast and is scheduled to arrive the early part of the week. His director, Emmett Flynn, is cutting the second Russell feature for the Fox Company and will follow Mr. Russell to California.

Dearholt at Goldwyn—Ashton Dearholt is a new name added to the Goldwyn roster. He is playing a juvenile role of the semi-comic variety in the Gertrude Atherton story, "The Tower of Ivory."

Following Father's Footsteps—Little "Bob White" Beban has indulged in his first fit of temperament! Told his dad the other day he had to have more money on this production, shorter hours and a car always at his command. The increase asked was staggering—but they finally compromised on fifty cents ,spot cash, to buy kite materials!

With "Mickey"—Jane Novak has been engaged to play one of the leading feminine roles in "The River's end," the first of the Marshall Neilan productions, which is now in the making at the Neilan studio in Hollywood.

At Brentwood—Little Arthur Ridden has been signed by Brentwood to appear throughout the society drama being directed by Henry Tolker.

With Hayakawa—Beatrice La Plante has just finished a very good part with Sessue Hayakawa.

Mayer Art Director—George Hopkins, who is art director for Louis Mayer, is very busy on sets for the Mildred Harris-Chaplin feature

Supporting Fay—Little Billy Toadwine has been on location with Fay Tincher, at Pasadena, during the past week.

Dual Role—Clyde Fillmore continues to divide his time between the Morosco theatre and Universal City. At the former he is the "Civilian Clothes" hero, and at the picture city he is hero-ing around in a special production.

Sullivan Returns to L. A.—Director Fred Sullivan has arrived in Los Angeles from the east where for the past two years he has been engaged in the production of stock plays. He is well known in the eastern picture colony, where he directed features for several of the standard producing companies. Mr. Sullivan, by the way, is "almost" a native son, having lived in Los Angeles when a boy and played ball on the ground where one of the city's largest department stores now stands.

Eastern Visitor Here—Martin Quigley, owner of The Exhibitor's Herald of Chicago, is in town and is being escorted around the studios by Pete Smith, publicity director of Marshall Neilan Productions.

Zeidman Vice-President — Bennie Zeidman, who has been acting as Louis Mayer's personal representative, has been elected vice-president of the Mayer-Chaplin organization.

Karloff With Sweet—Boris Karloff has just returned from Truckee where he has been for three weeks playing the heavy in the current Blanche Sweet production. This is Mr. Karloff's second engagement with the Jesse D. Hampton forces in the last three months. "The Prince and Betty," in which he appeared with William Desmond, is due for release this month.

Second Mason Scenario—Sarah Y. Mason is preparing continuity from another of her original stories recently submitted to Brentwood and offering a particularly suitable and richly humorous vehicle for ZaSu Pitts.

Signs With Fairbanks — Herbert Grimwood, the English actor, received a cable from Morris Gest, who is in London, to come to New York at once and start rehearsal for a leading role in "Aphrodite," opening at the Century theatre soon. The cable was received five hours after Grimwood signed with Douglas Fairbanks.

A Pickford Mother—Aggie Herring, the well-known character actress, is now mother to Jack Pickford, having completed her maternal duties as mother to Mary Pickford only very recently. In "The Hoodlum," starring Mary, Aggie Herring was the star's mother. Now at the Goldwyn studios she has been cast as the foster protectoress of Jack Pickford in "The Little Shepard of the Hills."

Returns From Riverside—Robert Stephanoff has returned from Riverside, California, where he has been visiting with friends. It is rumored that Mr. Stephanoff may sign with the Frazee Film Company, at Riverside.

VITAGRAPH ITEMS

David Smith started work this week on a series of O. Henry stories each of which will be produced in two reels.

Jay Morley, who was featured in "The Roads We Take," has been cast for the current O. Henry production and Kate Price will again come under the Vitagraph banner in this picture.

William Duncan is working on the thirteenth episode of "Smashing Barriers" and sets for the fourteenth and fifteenth episodes are now being constructed to facilitate the early completion of this serial.

The Moreno serial, "The Invisible Hand," will be half completed this week. Work on the seventh episode was finished this week and part of the eighth episode has already gone to the cutting room.

Larry Semon is still staging big thrills in and around the giant rock crushed at Monrovia for his current two-reel special comedy. Bill Hauber and the Mezette brothers, Larry's principal acrobats, are reported to have done the best work of their careers in this subject.

Montgomery and Rock are away to a flying start on a new comedy without stopping to give the subject a working title.

Jimmy Aubrey, aided and abetted by "Babe" Hardy and Helen Lynch, are well along on a two-reeler that will picturize the funny side of a dental office.

Six Cameramen Film Wreck—Harold Wenston, John Arnold, Robert Bergquest, Robert Phelan, Al Wheeler and "Mickey" Whalen, all had their camera set up at the Devil's Gate bridge last Friday night and took "shots" of an automobile wreck scene for "The Best of Luck," a Drury Lane melodrama now being filmed for Screen Classics, Inc.

Cohen Arrives—Milton L. Cohen, president of the Bull's-Eye Film Corporation, will arrive in Los Angeles next week on business in connection with the company of which he is the chief.

Mercury Release—Starring Milburn ("Skinny") Moranti, the Mercury Comedies first release will be ready for Bulls-Eye release about November first. Grover Jones, formerly with Vitagraph, is Moranti's director. The Mercury comedies will be marketed in two-reels.

Oakley Starts "Shooting"—Work on the Oakley Super-Quality Productions, Inc., six-reel western drama will commence next Monday under the personal direction of James W. Early. The title of the drama will be "Teddy." The story is by Mr. Early and the continuity by James Dayton. Art Staton will be the male star.

Story for Tournier—Maurice Tournier, whose productions are released on the Paramount-Artcraft program, contracted with H. H. Van Loan this week for a story which he feels will be a real feature. Van Loan developed the theme and related the story to Tournier who immediately saw its dramatic possibilities. He thereupon signed a contract for the story, the title of which is "The Great Redeemer," and in the production of which Jack Holt will probably play the leading role.

GOLDWYN SCORE BOARD

Naomi Childers has been selected to play opposite Tom Moore in "Duds." She and Christine Mayo have left for New York where they will join Mr. Moore for the opening scenes of the picture.

Harry Beaumont, who is directing "Going Some," the Rex Beach story, will leave for Victorville the first of the week with the entire company. They will be on the desert for four weeks.

Jack Pickford, Director Wallace Worsley and company returned last week from mountain location and will make the remainder of the scenes for "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" at the studio.

Reginald Barker is now arranging to commence work on Mary Roberts Rhinehart's story, "Dangerous Days." Some of the munition plant scenes will be taken in San Francisco. The only members of the cast so far selected are Lawson Butt, Clarissa Selwynne and Rowland Lee.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was maugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); ngenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $2.00 per month.

Surprise Marriage — Sunday will mark an affair which will be of unusual interest to the motion picture people. This is the marriage of Edna Mae Cooper and Karl Brown. The ceremony will be performed at the home of Miss Cooper's mother, in Hollywood.

For several years Mr. Brown has been a cameraman with the D. W. Griffith forces. Miss Cooper, in Cecil de Mille productions, at Lasky's will be remembered for her work.

New MacDonald Feature—Sam E. Rork announces that the Katherine MacDonald production to follow "The Turning Point" will be "The Guests of Hercules," written by those two indefatigable globe-trotters and novelists, C. M. and A. M. Williamson. Lois Zellner is doing the screen version. This production will be started within two weeks at the Georgia Street Studio. "The Turning Point," by Robert W. Chambers is just finishing.

To Produce Color Films—W. K. Thalhammer, inventor of a new color film process, will leave for New York next week. Capitalists with whom he has been negotiating for several months have wired for him to leave immediately for New York and confer on the final details of the deal to market the process.

The Los Angeles inventor, who developed the color films in his laboratory, Sixth and Figueroa streets, plans to erect a studio here upon his return from the east. He will devote his entire time to the production of color films.

At "U"—Harold Miller is still with Dowlan at Universal City playing Ora Carewe's oldest brother.

In Japan—Extract from the Japan Advertiser, published in Tokyo, Japan: Mr. Wadsworth Harris, who is in Tokyo with the Universal Film Company, is a second cousin of the late Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, the great American poet. Mr. Harris is also a stepson of the late General Benjamin Murray. He has given a number of dramatic and poetic recitals, and on the voyage to Japan, gave two recitals for the captain, officers and passengers of the ship. It is quite possible that Mr. Harris will give an exhibition of his talen while in Tokyo.

"Toby's Bow"—The next Tom Moore production will be "Toby's Bow," a picturization of the play by John Tainter Foote, as produced by Al. H. Woods, and ran for five months at the Comedy Theatre, in New York. Harry Beaumont, who has directed all of Tom Moore's pictures, is in charge of the production.

John Tainter Foote, the author of "Toby's Bow," is well known to Saturday Evening Post readers, for his race track stories and tales of southern life.

Milton Sills will play opposite Mrs. Chaplin and Mary Alden will be a member of the cast. Among others are Bertram Grasby, John Steppling and James O. Barrows.

The first interiors were shot in Los Angeles and the company has now gone out on location. Exteriors are being taken in Del Monte, Monterey and San Francisco. Director Henaberry, Assistant Director Millard Webb and Scenario Writer Waldemar Young left last week for San Francisco where good locations were selected.

Sunday night they returned to Monterey where they were met by Mildred Harris Chaplin, her entire company, and "Billie" Shea, assembling editor. Scenes are being shot along the famous "Seventeen-Mile Drive" and in the vicinity of Del Monte.

Frohman Serial—"The Invisible Ray" will be the title of the serial to be produced by the Frohman company with Ruth Clifford in the star part.

New Producing Unit—General Manager Cyrus J. Williams of the Lewis Company has put a new producing unit in the field making five-reel features of original plays written by Director Robert North Bradbury. The first of these is called "Hollyhocks" and is being filmed by Bradbury's players on location in the historic valley of Temecula, between Los Angeles and San Diego.

Again our friend, the old film player, "Cherokee," is out with an entirely new and just completed story for the screen. It embodies an original treatment of a glaring present-day fault of society which is to be found, almost without exception, in every home, among rich and poor alike. The treatment of the theme conveys a real lesson without the least pretense of lecturing, and pathos and humor are used in just the right proportions to dissipate depression and enliven the public to an intense interest in the story presented.

This latest product of our old friend "Cherokee' bids fair to rival the most successful productions in photoplay history. The lead merits the ability of the greatest woman star who is qualified to play double in society and plebian parts.

"Cherokee," at his new location, 210 Byrne Bldg., phone 65252, announced that arrangements are soon to be made to secure the best talent for the character parts and a deal will be made with one of the best producers. Nothing will be spared to put this great idea over which the promoters are willing to guarantee will make a profit of a million and a half the first year.

MARSHALL NEILAN

"Daddy Long Legs" starring Mary Pickford, "Her Kingdom of Dreams" with Anita Stewart and "In Old Kentucky," also with Miss Stewart. Each of these productions was pronounced by the exhibitors and the public alike as the last thing in motion pictures and the greater part of their success was attributed to the genius of the young director.

Besides being responsible for the success of a great many screen dramas, a number of the present day film stars are indebted to Mr. Neilan for the high places they have attained. Among his discoveries are Wesley Barry, the twelve-year-old "freckled faced kid" who is the brightest "diamond in the rough" that has appeared on the surface of the ocean of screen players in years. Mr. Neilan's efforts in guiding young Barry through a course of training after he had first noticed his qualifications were rewarded when the boy made an instantaneous hit the first time he was given a role of prominence.

At the completion of In Old Kentucky" Mr. Neilan organized his own company, built a studio in Los Angeles and is now producing and directing his own pictures under the name of Marshall Neilan Productions.

His first picture as an independent director and producer was "The River's End," an adaptation of James Oliver Curwood's famous novel of the same name.

Marshall Neilan is on the topmost rung of the ladder of success and there are none who will deny that his goal has been deservedly reached. Among the vast colony of film folk in New York and California Mr. Neilan is popular in the extreme. To his associates, from the office boy to whatever prominent star he may be directing, he is known as "Mickey" and it is this democracy and his humaneness which has contributed so much to his great success and which i the reason he is loved and admired by all who come in contact with him.

Commodore Louis D. Beaumont, president of the special commission to arrange the 'round-the-world aerial derby, and sixteen of his distinguished guests were all-day visitors at the Goldwyn Studios in Culver City Tuesday, being the guests of Vice President Lehr of the film company.

The party arrived early in the forenoon, were driven through the field of settings and were taken through the six huge stages, all the while a motion picture was being made of them. They were entertained at lunch with Madge Kennedy, Pauline Frederick and Jack Pickford. In the afternoon they saw the movies that had been made the day before at the balloon school in Arcadia, and in addition witnessed the latest Geraldine Farrar production in the little studio theatre.

After watching the pictures being made, the party motored to the beach and through the surrounding country as guests of the Goldwyn Studios. Commodore Beaumont is taking, as his guests, J. C. Woodhouse, director of Goldwyn publicity; Clarke Irvine, writer, and director of the films being made of the commission and its guests, and two cameramen. The party leaves for San Diego Wednesday midnight, and will return Thursday night, going on to San Francisco where the commission embarks on the Siberia November 3rd, for the Orient, to complete arrangements for the world flying trip.

Those who enjoyed the studio luncheon and sightseeing trip, in addition to the Commodore, were Sidney B. Veit, Ann M. Satterlee, Capt. Mark Ovenden, Major Chas. J. Glidden, A. S. Aronson, Col. William Thaw, Col. Ira F. Flavel, Benjamin Hillman, Dr. S. D. Barnes, Mrs. Archer Gibson, Henry Woodhouse, Alan R. Hawley, Ruth Stevens Norris and others.

Hazel Dean has been working for Hank Mann in a cafe set that the latter has in his initial two-reel comedy that he is making on his new contract that he recently signed for twenty-six pictures, which will keep him busy for a solid year.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

Jacobs Wins Suit. Verdict in favor of Louis Jacobs, producer, to the amount of $400 was returned by a Los Angeles jury in the case of William Everest, who was found guilty of fraud to that amount through representing to Jacobs that he was Harry K. Thaw, and starting the production of a picture based on Thaw's life. It is stated that the case will be appealed.

Ida May Park, producer. Recent reports are to the effect that Ida May Park, now directing Lew Cody features, will become an independent producer. No announcement of releasing or selling plans has been made.

Bessie Love, independent. It is expected that Bessie Love will soon be making her own pictures, backed by a group of Chicago capitalists.

Bessie Barriscale and Howard Hickman are starting on the first of eight pictures, which must be delivered to Robertson-Cole on or before Jan. 1, 1919. At the close of the series Mr. and Mrs. Hickman will start on their trip around the world.

Acton Train Wreck Filmed. Goldwyn will use the Acton train wreck in a feature being written by Harvey Thew. Mr. Thew and Larry Roberts of the scenario department, with John Mescal, cameraman, spent several hours at the scene of the accident and filmed the rescue and reconstruction work.

"Smoke Bellew" Stories for Films. Rene Rivierre has gone East to complete arrangements if possible for the production of Jack London's famous series of Alaskan stories. Warren Kerrigan will star if the purchase is completed.

Eddie Polo starts work Monday on a new serial at Universal entitled, "The Vanishing Dagger." Jacques Jaccard will direct. This is Polo's first serial since "The Lure of the Circus.

The Romayne Film Company now occupies the former Bay City studio at Culver City. It is purposed to make it a somewhat pretentious establishment by Manager Ulrich. Two-reel slapstick predominates.

Purchasing for Neilan—Levy Ruggles has been appointed purchasing agent of Marshall Neilan Productions, to succeed William Carr, who goes to the Lois Weber company in the same capacity.

The New Address of the D. W. Griffith and Dorothy Gish companies is Orienta Point, Mamaroneck, New York.

Haworth Companies Moving—The next week will probably mark the beginning of production by the Hayakawa and Edith Storey companies at the Sunset studios, formerly occupied by D. W. Griffith. The studio space, with the exception of the laboratories, has been leased by the Haworth Pictures corporation for the use of its two companies, and sufficient space has been sublet to allow Carter De Haven to make his future comedies under the same roof. The work of moving in is now in progress.

Aller Retains Laboratory—The D. W. Griffith laboratory at the Sunset studio has been retained for the making of final prints of the Griffith and Dorothy Gish pictures. It will also be used by Joseph Aller as a commercial laboratory.

Gale Henry has started a two-reel comedy, location work being done at the shipbuilding docks at San Pedro.

Eastern Men Here—President Milton L. Cohen and Representative James L. Mendelson of the Bulls Eye Film corporation have arrived in Los Angeles for a conference with Nat Spitzer, relative to enlarging the scope of Bulls Eye activities.

Frazee Shooting—The Fragee Film company of Riverside appears to be broadening out. They are now using three cameramen on each scene and two aeroplanes are being used. Edwin Frazee is working in some comedy trick photography in which he is very apt.

Mayer Locations—A number of New York City exteriors have just been shot in Washington street and Broadway, San Francisco, by the Mayer Chaplin company, starring Mildred Harris Chaplin in "The Inferior Sex." Use of the Flood and Spreckels homes was extended by the owners and the San Francisco police department detailed special officers to facilitate the taking of the pictures.

The Mayer-Chaplin company, which has just returned from location, took a large number of "The Inferior Sex" exteriors at the fashionable Hotel Del Monte, Del Monte, California, and along the Seventeen Mile Drive. Other exteriors were taken at "The Lodge" and at Pebble beach.

Milton Sills is now leading man for Mildred Harris Chaplin. Mrs. Chaplin's cast also includes Bertram Grasby, who played in Maxine Elliott's original stage production of "The Inferior Sex;" Mary Alden and James O. Barrows.

The yachting scenes of the picture are to be taken off the Southern California coast.

Building Studio—The work of rebuilding the portions of the Alkire studios in Edendale, Calif., recently destroyed by fire, has started under the supervision of Robert P. Kerr. Although the flames caused considerable damage to the administration buildings the stages and dressing rooms were left intact, making it possible for Sid Smith to complete three one-reel productions, which will be distributed by the Bulls Eye Film corporation.

Milburn Moranti, star in the Mercury comedies, released by Bulls Eye, has rented a portion of the former Balboa studios at Long Beach, where he will produce two-reelers.

New Cast—The cast for "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," in which Jack Pickford is being featured, was completed this week by the enrollment of J. Park Jones, Clark Marshall, R. D. McLean, Milt Brown and Nick Cogley. The latter who created the title part in Tom Moore's recent picture, "Toby's Bow," has another negro part in this. The picture is being directed by Wallace Worsley. The company left again this week for the San Jacinto mountains for additional forest realism.

C. B. De Mille has left for New York to complete "Why Change Your Wife?" Thomas Meighan and Gloria Swanson left several days ago.

The Norman Dawn Universal Company is still in the Grand Canyon.

Vidor Returns—King Vidor, who was formerly with Brentwood, has returned from his recent trip from New York City.

Finish Contract—Lyons and Moran, the Universal comedy team, complete their contract this week, at the conclusion of which they will immediately leave for New York.

Directing Midgets—Eddie Kline will direct the Singer Midgets in their film productions at Fox.

Representative Here—Harry Rapf, the Selznick representative, is in Los Angeles on business matters.

Lloyd Goes East—Harold Lloyd, accompanied by Hal Roach, has left for New York.

Cummins Leaving—Irving Cummins has sold his beautiful Hollywood home and is preparing to leave Los Angeles for the Big Town.

This structure, approximately ten acres under glass roof, consists of display rooms, ball room and numerous executive offices.

San Franciscans attending this splendid exhibit will have the opportunity of witnessing the "making of movies" under the new artincial lighting system. This form of modern Motion Picture Photography is a novelty to the people living in the city of the Golden Gate.

In 'Frisco—Kathleen Clifford was in 'Frisco where some important scenes were being filmed last week, in the Douglas Fairbank's current production "When the Clouds Roll By."

With Sargent Productions—Roy Coulson has just completed work with the P. D. Sargent productions, under Park Frame's direction. Mr. Coulson was east as Joe Maloney, a juvenile heavy, playing opposite Pauline Starke.

With National—Burton Law has been cast as the pawnbroker, Jacoby, in the Paul Hurst production now being filmed at National. Jack Hoxey and Ann Little are starred in the production.

Ely in New Quarters—William Ely, casting director at the Metro studio, is now located in the new casting department building, which opens on Cauhenga Avenue.

Thompson Returns from Tahoe—D. H. Thompson, production manager at the Metro studio, returned Tuesday from a hurried trip to Lake Tahoe, where he looked over the work being done by Bert Lytell and his company, who are filming scenes for Sir Gilbert Parker's novel, "The Right of Way," in the high Sierras.

Frisco Company, Shooting Soon—Mr. Joseph A. Eliason, San Francisco producer, has installed temporary studio quarters in the California building, one of the few remaining structures of the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Companies coming to San Francisco can now find housing here until such time as the unit studio known as FLM CITY is built.

The California building, now owned by the State of California, is to be torn down and salvaged in the near future. On this site the new State Normal School will be erected.

Mr. Eliason will start the filming of the "Yellow Prince," a six-reel feature with an all-star cast, soon.

New Comedy Producer—Sam Rock has signed Otis Harlan, the vaudeville comedian, to appear in two-reel comedies, written by Roy McCard and directed by Mat St. Clair.

Nan Blair, who is now at the Burston studio, whote the story for "The Hawk's Trail," now being produced. She just finished the scenario for the "Mystery of 13," a Francis Ford serial.

Big Sale on Novel—If the popularity of James Oliver Curwood's latest novel, "The River's End," can be taken as a criterion, Marshall Neilan's first independent production, which is an adaptation of the book and which will bear the same title, promises to be one of the greatest successes in the history of the screen. Recently at a single store, Marshall Fields', in Chicago, over 35,000 copies of this powerful story of the Canadian northwest, were sold in nine days.

Moranti Leads—With Milburn Moranti in the leading role, Mercury Comedies, directed by Grover Jones, will be released by the Bulls-Eye Film Corporation.

Wallace MacDonald, Mary MacLaren's leading man in her current Universal production, "Rouge and Riches," will be her de combat for a few days owing to an automobile accident in which he figured as the less fortunate principal. He was coming to Universal City the other morning when a heavy truck jammed his car on the hill at Cahuenga Pass. MacDonald was thrown from his machine and suffered injuries which will keep him at home for several days.

Cohn Leaves Photoplay—Randolph Bartlett arrived Wednesday from Chicago, to fill the position left vacant by the resignation of Al Cohn from the staff of Photoplay Magazine. Mr. Cohn has not announced his plans, but it is thought that he will remain in Hollywood.

Gene Copeland, who assisted Mr. Cohn, will continue her work with Photoplay, under Mr. Bartlett.

With Cody—Lilie Leslie is in Lew Cody's support at the L. J. Gasnier studios, where "The Butterfly Man" is being filmed under Ida May Park's direction.

Cliff Hess, song writer of the Leo Feist Music Publishing Company, who wrote "Huckelberry Finn," the song hit of a few years ago, now comes out with a similar melody which he names Freckles," and which is dedicated to Wesley Barry, the twelve-year-old boy star of Marshall Neilan Productions.

Finis Fox, of the Screen Classics scenario department, celebrated a birthday recently. He was the recipient of many handsome presents, among them a bust of Napoleon and a bronze elephant with honest-to-goodness ivory tusks.

Frank Lloyd is casting "The Woman in Room Thirteen," the next picture to be made with Pauline Frederick as the star.

Madge Kennedy arrived at the studio this week and is scheduled to start work in "The Blooming Angel." Victor Schertzinger will be the director.

William Parke is entering the third week on Gertrude Atherton's "Tower of Ivory." T. Hays Hunter has just completed "The Cup of Fury," and is resting a few days before starting on a new production. Clarence Badger is to direct Will Rogers' next picture.

Tucker Story—"Ladies Must Live" will be the title of the next George Loane Tucker production. It will be a composite of two books and a play, its chief basis is a story by Alice Duer Miller.

Cast for Zane Grey Novel—Roy Stewart, Claire Adams, Robert McKim, Joseph J. Dowling, Marc Robbins, Fredrick Starr, Violet Schram, Marie Messenger and Frank Brownlee, Los Angeles film stars, are now in the cast of the latest Benjamin B. Hampton production, a screen edition of one of Zane Grey's novels. The picture will be completed within two or three weeks. Jack Conway is directing, assisted by Nick Grinde, and E. J. Vallejo is photographer.

With National Board of Review—A new development in the problem of censorship of motion pictures is indicated by the action of the National Board of Review. Through the secretary, William D. McGuire, a request has been sent to Rex Beach, president of the Authors League of America. The letter asks for the appointment of a committee of prominent authors and dramatists of the Authors League to co-operate with the National Board. The most distinguished writers in the country will be members with Rex Beach as chairman.

At a meeting of the League on Thursday, the offer of co-operation was accepted, and the committee will be announced as soon as the number of members and the function of the body is determined. It is a significant recognition of the power and responsibility of authors and dramatists in the welfare of motion picture production.

Film Baseball Game—"Mickey" Whalen and Earl Rolfes traveled to San Diego Sunday and filmed the baseball game between the Metro studio and San Diego teams.

Darrell Foss' Father Dead—Members of the Metro studio personnel were deeply grieved Wednesday to learn of the death of John Foss, father of Darrell Foss. Mr. Foss passed away Tuesday night at his home in Santa Mnoica after a prolonged illness.

A Trifling Gift—Madge Kennedy, who was present at the luncheon tendered the "Around the World Aerial Derby Commission," at the Goldwyn studios last week, was made the recipient of a decidedly novel gift while Commodore Beaumont talked with her about pictures and aviation. The gift was an airplane—an a real flyer, too, and now Miss Kennedy expects to do some great flying around the studio. It is a small machine, and is one of several million the commission is giving away on its trip around the globe.

PROPHESYING PROFITS

There is a little ceremony attached to the completion of almost every picture. It consists first of all in the gathering of a group in the center of which stand the director and the star. Around them in various attitudes are collected the studio manager, the business manager, several members of the cast and various talent brought in from the outside.

The place is usually just outside the projection room, the picture or the sample print in its finished condition has just been run. The ceremony usually lasts from half an hour to half a day, and the general topic is how much money the picture will make.

The optimistic members of the group can tell you the terms of profit in $10,000 jumps, while there may be two or three pessimists who might hint at a possible loss. At any rate when the ceremony is over, everything has been decided and no one has any better idea of how much money will be actually made from the picture than they had before they entered the projection room.

It has been the privilege of the writer during the past two years to listen to a great many of these conferences, also to express in terms quite audible his own opinion, and never yet, although men who are supposed to be experts have voiced their belief, has the writer seen anything like an accurate guess made in regard to the real value of a motion picture.

Studio people in making their criticisms of a picture do so from a standpoint which is so very different from that of the public that the calling in of expert testimony is merely a waste of time.

One picture in particular was condemned as being absolutely without merit, without good acting, with no appeal to any particular class and being a sample of about as poor direction and camera work as could be presented in five reels. No one in the group present could find a single little bit of consolation, until one of the most optimistic ventured to remark that he didn't think the picture was any worse than a certain noted flivver that had appeared some months previous.

It was somewhat of a shock then, a few months later, when the box office reports from the different exchanges showed that this picture was gathering more real cash than any of its predecessors made by the same company.

A great many people have spent the best part of a lifetime in trying to figure out what the public wants. So far we have no statues erected to any of them. It may be due to the fact that the majority of the public wants to be shown before they pass judgment. You may not have any respect for a certain producer. You may laugh loud and long at the pictures he turns out, and you may enter a theater the following night and see that picture received as a howling success.

The citizens of Walla Walla have a totally different idea of pictures than the mobs of Manhattan, and when any wise old head steps up to you and tells you how your picture is going to go over, just ask him where he hails from. He may know his own home town, but even that is doubtful. E. M. R.

LASKY COMPILES IMPORTANT DATA

In connection with its new issue of $10,000,000 in convertible preferred stock, the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has issued a circular which contains important data collected by the company's executives.

A few of the interesting statements are:

Americans spend $750,000,000 a year on motion pictures.

There are 15,000 motion picture theaters in the United States, with a seating capacity of 8,000,000.

There are 1,200 new houses under construction at an approximate cost of $72,000,000.

ROTH AND PARTINGTON PLANNING THEATER?

Despite stories to the contrary, rumor has it that Eugene H. Roth, manager of the California, and Jack Partington, manager of the Imperial, are planning to build a 3000 seat picture palace at Market and Jones streets, San Francisco, on the site of the Prager department store. When this announcement was first made three months ago, the Prager people and Messrs. Roth and Partington attempted to suppress the story. It is said plans have been prepared, the lease completed, and that work of razing the present building in preparation for the construction of the theater will be begun in about two months.

NEW ORGANIZATION OF PRODUCERS RUMORED

Current gossip, with no official sanction, has it that a new organization has been formed and financed with the following named people as the members:

Marshall Neilan, at present producing for the First National Exhibitors' Circuit, Inc.

Thomas H. Ince, at present producing for the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Mack Sennett, producer of the Sennett comedies being distributed through Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

George Loane Tucker, at present producing for the Mayflower Film Corporation.

Allan Dwan, at present producing for the Mayflower Film Corporation for distribution through Realart Pictures Corporation.

Maurice Tourneur, independent producer, many of whose latest productions have been distributed by Famous Players-Lasky Corporation.

Inquiry at the various studios brings the invariable answer that "We know nothing about it," so it must be true.

Vitagraph Expands—The Vitagraph Company made arrangements this week for the purchase of ten acres of land adjoining the nine acres now occupied by the Western Studio. The new property embraces the hills to the east of the present studio and will give the company many interesting locations right within the confines of the studio lot.

Work is expected to start at once on the construction of many big permanent sets, and already a mammoth pool has been constructed on the side of one of the hills. This pool is big enough for the accommodation of good sized boats, and with the hill sloping upward on one side, a natural bank and landing place is available for all stories requiring that sort of setting. On the opposite side of the pool the land drops away at a stiff angle and permits of the construction of artificial streams supplied with water from the tank when it is emptied.

This novel piece of equipment will be followed with other novelties in the way of permanent props and when completed the company expects to have one of the most thorough working plants on the Coast.

RESOLUTION

Adopted without a Dissenting Voice at an Open Meeting of people interested in the Picture industry, in the Moose Club Hall on Sunday, October 6th, 1919, and ratified at the Regular meeting of the Motion Picture Players' Union, October 27th, 1919.

WHEREAS, Certain motion picture interests are maintaining an institution in the City of Los Angeles known as the Motion Picture Producers' Service Bureau, and an agency known as Screen Talent, and

WHEREAS, the said institution and agency charge 7% for giving employment to the men, women and children working or seeking work in the picture industry, and

WHEREAS, these institutions with their methods we consider detrimental to the manhood and womanhood of all those employed in the Motion Picture industry, and

WHEREAS, believing that by the elimination of the said Service Bureau and agency and their methods, the standard and morale of all men, women and children would be greatly enhanced, therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, that we, the Motion Players of the City of Los Angeles, in open meeting assembled, request that the producers or producer, pay to each man, woman and child when employed in the motion picture industry, dollar for dollar for each and every day's work, without compelling them to submit to paying tribute in order to earn their daily bread and butter, and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to each of the producers, to the secretary of the Motion Picture Producers' Association, to Fish and Allen conducting the Agency known as Screen Talent and a copy to the public press.

"UNCLE BILL" HAAS HAS INTRODUCED 63 SCREEN STARS TO HIS AUDIENCES

J. M. Root's Strand Theater Beautiful of Pasadena lays claim to having presented and introduced to its audiences more screen stars than any other theater in America. Since its opening over three years ago, "Uncle Bill" Haas, Mr. Root's efficient manager and publicity man, has had the honor of introducing to Strand audiences (with an impromptu speech) practically every Western star and many from Eastern studios.

This house should make a very good house for a pre-view tryout, as the audience would undoubtedly be a representative gathering—the individuals ranging in financial and social standing from millionaires to factory workers.

Spotlight Hunch—An interesting story in connection with the use of spot lights in motion pictures is told by Howard M. Ewing, electrical expert of Marshall Neilan Productions and the man who discovered that spot lights are essential to perfect lighting effects.

"Several years ago," said Mr. Ewing, "when the stage production of "Omar The Tentmaker" was somewhere in the middle west, the light man had three spot lights which had seen better service and which were about to be shipped back to New York. But Wilfred Buckland, the stage manager, with whom I had been associated in previous years, suggested that they be sent to me at the Famous Players Lasky studio in California, where I was at the time head electrician. When they arrived I tried to think of some way that I could use them and after a little study I could see no reason why they would not serve the same purpose for lighting effects on the screen as they did on the stage. A few tests bore out my contention and we immediately sent an order to Kliegl Brothers of New York for sixteen spotlights for use at the studio. The manufacturers of course thought I was crazy but sent us the lights. When our productions began to appear with this added lighting feature, other producers noticed the marked difference in the photoplay. They gradually acquired the secret and today there is hardly a studio that is not using spot lights on their sets."

"It only goes to show," continued Mr. Ewing, "that sometimes a hunch will develop into a reality that may mark a universal change in an entire industry."

We note in passing that a man named Bock has been elected mayor of Salt Lake City. We thought that family had moved out of the country.

YOU NEVER KNOW

By Scott McKee

An extra man loved an extra girl
  At a well-known studio,
He bought her little presents
  And was just an ideal beau;
In every manly manner
  He tried his love to prove,
And us old timers thought for once,
  True love was running smooth.
But little Mary fooled us,
  She was cast to play a part
It swelled her silly little head
  And shriveled up her heart;
Round a well-known star she fluttered,
  To catch him if she could,
And said her other sweetheart
  Was a sentimental boob.
And the extra man he fooled us
  For about six months ago,
He got a job directing
  At another studio;
The little girl he married
  Is now featured on the screen;
Mary is back on the extra bench
  And mourns "What might have been."
Is there any lesson in the tale?
  Of course there is, my dear,
Some extra man you know may be
  Directing you next year.
It is true that mighty oak trees
  From little acorns grow,
And ANYTHING can happen
  At an M. P. studio.

CHIT, CHAT AND CHATTER OF INTEREST

BY HARRY BURNS

Violet Rose is working at the Universal, and it's hard to tell her apart from Priscilla Dean when both are standing about holding a conversation.

George Chesboro has recovered from his accident when his car ran into something it shouldn't. After getting out of the hospital he took a job in a serial with Juanita Hanson at the Selig studio. Can you imagine anything like that? Why leave the hospital at all, George?

Tod Browning, rumor has it, has just signed a new contract with the Universal that places him in figures alongside some of the leading directors. It was given Mr. Browning on the strength of the picture he turned out recently with Mary MacLaren.

Duke Lee has quit at the Big U and signed to play a heavy part in the serial over at the Selig studio.

Harold Lloyd and Hal E. Roach are now in New York City, talking with the Pathe Corporation officials about their future plans, and the Culver City studio that is being erected for the Rolin-Pathe Comedy productions. As soon as Harold gets back he will complete the picture that was left unfinished by the accident of the bomb explosion that caused him to lay off for the time.

Charles Mack, manager of the Doubleday Company, located on Allesandro street, Edendale, comes forth with the information that they have just started on the tenth one-reel comedy subject, while the two-reel Western Company is going at top speed, and that with Harry Moody making the one-reelers and L. S. McKee the two-reelers, everything is satisfactory to all concerned. The studio line-up is as follows: Harry Moody, director; Jack De Witt, assistant; Doc Cook, cameraman. In the cast: Pearl Elmore, Billy Evans, Bobby Furer and Irene Eldridge. Director, L. S. McKee; assistant, T. C. Jack. In the cast, Vera McGinnis, Fred Burns. R. D. Armstrong is the cameraman.

Cecil Holland took a trip in one of the Chaplin flying machines, accompanied by Misses Louise Loring and Helen Mordante. They flew over the city and got many a thrill out of the journey. Mr. Holland's brother, Harold L. Holland, has arrived from New York. He is a stage actor of years experience, who did much to help in the Equity fight in New York, and he is now helping Cecil in handling his pupils out at the studio at the end of the Edendale car line.

Mack Sennett is the only comedy producer who rehearses his entire cast until he is perfectly satisfied that every one has a thorough understanding of the subject at hand and they can get the best out of the situations, as they present themselves. Only in dramas by the leading producers has such a method been in order.

Irving Cummings, I'm told, is trying to sell his home and is figuring on moving his earthly belongings to New York City, where he is being drawn by business contracts. You can bet he will return soon if he has anything to say about it.

Tom Kennedy paid $500 for that single punch that he took at Umpire Murray at Washington Park; this was settled outside of the court. Now the boys around the Fox lot are all begging Tom to hand them a few wallops. But he refuses to listen, much to the displeasure of the easy money seekers.

Glen Cavender spent the week-end driving over some desert country around Inyo County, Lone Pine and other points, looking over some oil wells that he wanted to get interested in. He lost his way on the home stretch, which meant a new outdoor sport for Glen, for he's roughed it in all sorts of weather and countries.

Lyons and Moran are finishing up at the Universal studio. In about a week they will pack their belongings, bid that plant good-bye and hike to New York City, where they will talk big things to the leading corporations to produce their comedies for them. Their contract with the Universal expires with the making of one more subject.

Jack Rollens just finished an excellent part with J. W. Kerrigan at the Robert Brunton studios. He says he has three jobs lined up equally as good, and is at loss which to take. Grab 'em all, Jack; times are hard, and you know one's family ties must be considered.

Chester Conklin just finished a laughfest street car picture under J. G. Blystone's direction, with Joe Bordeaux assistant director. It is called "The Great Nickel Robbery," which listens like he played the conductor on the job and very modern in his antics.

Lou Seiler has been assigned to the position of casting director for all of the William Fox companies at the Western Avenue studio, which means that he will be a very busy man, for there are six feature companies and three comedy units working.

Hampton Del Ruth, who supervises the making of all Sunshine-Fox comedies, has three companies working at the present time, and he manages to have a two-reel subject finished every two weeks to send to New York. It is said he is way ahead of the desired amount of pictures, which shows that his royal highness, the chief of the plant, has had 'em hopping along.

Lillian Webster is working with Montgomery and Rock, playing their leads for the present, replacing Louise Granville, who retired from the company so that she might take a complete rest, prior to going into a new parts.

Finis Fox turned out the continuity of "Alias Jimmy Valentine" in eight days. This record for such a production is unequalled. Bert Lytell will do this as his next story for the Metro, starting about the first of the week.

Sol Wurtzel, general manager of the Fox studio, is a fiend for golf. The other morning he and Tom Kennedy landed at Griffith Park links at 6 o'clock and started playing, and they didn't stop till sundown. Luckily for them that it was Sunday or Mr. Fox might have sent them a bill for services not rendered the company.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

ARMISTICE NIGHT AT THE DUG-OUT

"Mother" Meredith Woodward announces that the evening of Armistice Day will be given over to a dance and program of unusual interest. Mrs. Bertha Lincoln Heustis, well known club woman, locally, and of national repute due to her work in Washington, D. C., will give a talk to the young people present.

Langdon Prager, a returned soldier, formerly connected with the Universal Film Company, will sing, and Frank Ware, another Universal man who went across early in the war, will describe the last few hours of the fight, at the front, just prior to the signing of the armistice.

It might be mentioned here that the Dug-Out is in no way connected with any organization or publication of a similar name. Mrs. Woodward has labored for nearly two years to enlighten the dreary moments of men who are wearing the service uniform of Uncle Sam. Her work merits the commendation of every true blooded American citizen, and her use of the name Dug-Out, which in her case, applies solely to the little residence that has been the scene of so many entertainments, began long before any I. W. W. or Bolshevik propoganda magazine found its way to the reading public. The Dug-Out as supervised by Mother Woodward, is 100% American.

Acker-Valentino. The marriage of Miss Jean Acker to Rodolph Valentino on Tuesday evening, marked the end of a two months courtship. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James I. Myers, of the Broadway Christian Church. The newly weds are stopping temporarily at a hotel in Hollywood. Both will continue in pictures.

Metro Officials Attend Game—Richard A. Rowland, president of the Metro Pictures Corporation, and Maxwell Karger, screen classics director general, attended the baseball game Sunday between the Metro studio and San Diego nines at the Southern City stadium.

Malatesta Furnishing Home—Frederic Malastesta, who is a member of the all-star cast of "The Best of Luck," a Drury Lane melodrama now being filmed at the Metro studio, is spending all his spare time arranging the interior of his new home which he recently purchased in Hollywood. Mr. Malatesta is decorating the house to suit his own personal tastes, and a bedrom decorated in black will be one of the features.

Eddie Cline, 'tis said, will be handed the Singer Midgets to direct, which means that he will have a circus at his command.

Vernon Walker's introduction to the Buck Jones Company was a thrilling affair. Buck and the boys just wanted to make him feel at home, so they threw him down and chapped him, and the way he kicked and struggled delighted all hands, but he was voted a regular feller, and he now stands good with the entire Chas. Swickard-Buck Jones Company.

Beatrice Burnham, who is being featured in a wild and wooly animal story, hasn't been feeling very good of late and missed facing the camera a few days. But is back on the job once more.

PAULINE FREDERICK

By Mildred Davis

When we met Pauline Frederick at the Goldwyn Culver City studio we were delighted, but not surprised, for we had felt at all times that she would be as charming, genuine and sincere in reality as her screen personalities make her appear.

First comes her smile—a broad smile which could fittingly be called dazzling if it lacked a degree of the warmth and interest it now displays. Then, just as we were stupidly ogling at the Frederick smile, came her handshake—and that was a surprise. Though of course it shouldn't have been, as it was in perfect harmony. No limpid, insipid, clinging of fingers here, but a grip firm and strong as steel from long white fingers.

We had not consulted any one about Miss Fredericks' executive ability, but the neatness with which she dispatched her various personal affairs demanded attention.

We were seated on a drawing room set for "The Woman in Room 13," Miss Frederick's present starring vehicle in which she is directed by Lloyd Ingram.

Miss Frederick recently returned from a month's visit in New York and thoughts of the big town seem to be in her mind most of the time.

"I like the motion picture work. There is so much to learn. It is always changing, and the characters are forever new. At least as different as they can be when human beings are all limited to a certain set of emotions. This work is all fine, but I believe that I will never be able to break the hold that the theatre has upon me. No, I can't break away, and I'm not going to try much longer. Oh! when I get back," with another Frederick special smile and almost a squeal of delight.

In 1914 the Famous Players company were preparing to produce "The Eternal City," by Hall Caine, as a special feature. They wanted Pauline Frederick for this picture, and after much debating the star signed with them.

"At that time I was appearing in "Potiphar's Wife," a very successful play, and the critics had declared me as having definitely "arrived." However, the motion picture offer was very alluring—not only would I appear in

Miss Daniels Entertains with Farewell Party—Complimenting Miss Lenabel Morris, who is leaving Saturday for an extended trip through the East and South, Bebe Daniels entertained with a delightful dinner party in her West Adams home. Mrs. Phyllis Daniels assisted her daughter in entertaining.

Besides the guest of honor, Miss Daniels' guests were: Miss Alma Griffin, Marie Mosquini, Estelle Harrison, Helen de Laine. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Casey, Messrs. George Hall, Ward Crane, Herbert Browne, Wallace Macdonald, Mack Stenglar and Paul Getty. Violets and Cecil Bruner roses were used effectively in the table decorations, the same color scheme being carried out in the favors.

Secret Wedding—How Hedwiga Leonie Kuszewski, widely known as Hedda Nova, eloped from Los Angeles with Paul C. Hurst, of the National Film Corporation, and how they were secretly married in Santa Ana, become known today.

The producer made an appointment by telephone to meet J. M. (Cupid) Backs, county clerk, at the courthouse yesterday afternoon at 3:30. Somehow, Hurst and his bride were unable to be here at the appointed hour, and it was not until 9:30 last night that the couple arrived at Santa Ana, accompanied by a number of professional friends.

Backs obligingly accompanied the party to the courthouse, where the marriage license was issued. The couple was married by Justice of the Peace John B. Cox.

The bride gave her age as 24, and the groom his as 31.

In applying for the license, the actress gave her birthplace as Odessa, Russia.—Santa Ana Bulletin.

Johnnie Arnold Travels—John Arnold, accompanied by "Irish" Meusel, made a flying trip from San Diego to Los Angeles last Sunday evening. They made the run in four hours, despite an eight-mile detour. Arnold suffered no ill effects, however, and was turning the crank Monday, filming scenes for "The Willow Tree," Viola Dana's latest screen classic.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

Anderson Leaves Universal—Robert Anderson, whose splendid characterizations in "Hearts of the World" and "The Heart of Humanity" have placed him in stellar ranks, has completed work with the Universal Film company, with whom he has been under contract.

Anna Truxa has been keeping busy at the Universal, flitting from one company to the other, and giving satisfaction to all concerned.

Ann Forrest is at Goldwyn's under the direction of Reginald Barker.

Adam Hull Shirk, west coast publicity director for Paramount Artcraft, was expected to return from New York today. He has been east since early in October.

Arnold Gregg is with the Norman Dawn Universal company in the Grand Canyon.

Alfred P. Hamburg is in Seattle, handling the presentation of Broken Blossoms for D. W. Griffith.

Bryant Washburn starts Monday on a Holworthy Hall story at Lasky's.

Boris Karloff left Sunday for Spokane to join the Curwood Carber productions. He finished with Blanche Sweete at the Hampton studios Saturday.

Betty Burbank, formerly with the D. W. Griffith office force, is now with the Marshall Neilan publicity staff.

Bill Franey, Gale Henry's leading man, is back at work after suffering several severe bruises and strains caused by a fall from a balcony during a scene.

Bennie Alexander is at Universal.

Beatrice Joy is with George Loane Tucker.

Charles Mack, formerly manager of the Photoplayers' Equity Association is now managing the Bronx Studio in Elendale, for the Doubleday Productions Company.

Charles Gerrard is with Griffith in New York.

Claire DuBrey is with Metro.

Charlie Ray, contrary to common reports, is still with Thomas H. Ince, and has three more pictures to complete before he begins his contract with First National.

Cliff Eldfelt, they say, has cast his lot with Syd Chaplin. He recently was with Carlyle Blackwell at the same studio, hence his new affiliation as assistant director.

Chap Ward is with the Gale Henry company.

Edna Mae Cooper, who has been with the Lasky film productions for the last two years, has left that studio and will devote her time to the study of dancing, under Theodore Kosloff.

Ethel Ritchie is back at Universal after several weeks nursing a badly sprained ankle.

Florence Deshon is at the Goldwyn studio with Reginald Barker.

Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne are appearing on the legitimate stage in "The Master Thief." Headquarters New York.

Fred Patterson, who, for the past eighteen months has been first assistant to Bill Bitzer, has finished his work for Griffith and after a week's rest, states he will be ready to go to work for someone. Patterson was unable to accompany the Griffith forces to New York on account of family matters.

Frances Parks is with the Lasky company.

Franklyn Farnum has the male lead in a new Selig serial.

George Jeske is cast in the current Gale Henry comedy.

Goldie Maddern is with Pauline Frederick at Goldwyn's.

Gibson Gowland of the Bert Lytell company has returned from Lake Tahoe.

Herbert Grimwood has returned to the Fairbanks studio, after completing location work at San Francisco.

Harry Moody is writing and directing one reel comedies at the Bronx studio in Elendale.

H Milton Ross is cast in "Dangerous Days" now being filmed at the Goldwyn studio.

Hugh Saxon has finished a Hawkshaw with Charles Ray, and now is doing a portly millionaire for Emmet Flynn at Fox's.

Harry S. Northrup is at Universal with the James J. Corbett company.

James L. Mendelson, special representative for the Bulls Eye Film corporation, is paying his first visit to the west coast.

Jack Harron, brother of the famous Bobby, is cast with Monroe Salisbury at Universal.

James Parrot is editing the Holly Comedies at the Bull's Eye studio.

Jefferies at Fox. Will Jefferies has just finished in "Desert Wheat" and is now with Howard Mitchell at Fox.

J. Warren Kerrigan and his director, Ernest C. Warde are expected to be on their way through Death Valley and the Grand Canyon at this time, selecting location scenes for the coming pictures. They expect to be gone several weeks.

Juanita Hansen is starring in a fifteen episode serial, "The Lost City," at Selig's.

Kate Lester has just arrived from New York and will be found on the Pauline Frederick set at Goldwyn's.

Lew Cody is at the Gasnier (formerly Pathe) studios in Glendale, being directed by Ida May Park in his own features for the Robertson-Cole program.

Lila Lee is playing opposite Houdini in his current serial for Lasky's.

Lewis Stone will return to the legitimate stage upon the completion of "The River's End," now in course of production by Marshall Neilan.

L. L. Gasnier was due to arrive yesterday from New York, and will probably be found at the Glendale studio for some time.

L. S. McKee is directing two reel westerns at the Bronx studio.

Little Pat With MacDonald—Little Pat Moore is playing the part of a crippled child in "The Turning Point," Katherine MacDonald production.

M. J. Burns is with the Milburn Moranti comedies at the Balboa studios, in Long Beach.

Milton H. Cohen of the Bulls Eye Comedy Company is in Los Angeles, arranging for new productions.

Mack Swain has six more pictures to make for the Frohman interests, then he will more than likely go back to the farm and hide out till some one else invites him out to be funny in comedies.

Marguerite Snow, popular film actress, who has been absent from the screen since her marriage to Director James Cruze, a few years ago, will make her return to the silent drama in "Rouge and Riches," with Mary MacLaren.

Moon Kwan, authority on Chinese art, will be technical adviser on the Universal production of Tsuru Aoki's next feature, "The Yellow Orchid," based on the story by A. H. Fitch, "The Breath of the Dragon." Kwan is one of the artists who acted as technical adviser to D. W. Griffith in the filming of "Broken Blossoms," and is considered the leading authority on the manners, customs, costumes and art of China now in America.

Maym Kelso With Pitts—Maym Kelso has left the Lasky studio just long enough to do an important part in the Brentwood picture, "Where There's a Will——," with Zasu Pitts.

Mary Anderson is to be featured in a new serial to be produced by Col. Selig.

Mayer Buys Lost City. Louis B. Mayer, it is said has bought the Selig serial "The Lost City" now in production at the Selig studio.

Mildred Harris Chaplin is completing "The Inferior Sex" at the Louis B. Mayer studios.

Mae Marsh is expected in Los Angeles about the first of the year to begin work on her contract with L. L. Gasnier. It is expected that the picture will be made in the Glendale studio.

Nat Deverich leaves his position as film editor and negative cutter for the Marshall Neilan this week, to become the director of Gene Gauntier in her first picture at the head of her own company.

Nelson McDowell, who is cast in the role of "Still Bill" in the Goldwyn Production, "Going Some," is at present on location with the company at Victorville, California, at the edge of the desert.

Peggy Highland is being directed by Howard M. Mitchell at the Fox studio in "The Official Chaperon," a five-reel feature.

Pearl Elmore is playing leads with the Doubleday Productions at the Bronx studio.

Ruth Clifford is starring in a serial being produced by Frohman in New York City.

Rene R. Rivierre, personal representative for Warren Kerrigan, has gone to New York on business.

Saunders, formerly in charge of the Griffith still laboratories, has taken the position of night superintendent with Joseph Aller.

Truman Van Dyke has finished at Universal City, where for the last seven weeks he has been working in "The Peddler." Mr. Van Dyke played the part of William in the production, opposite Ora Carewe.

The Wallace Reid Company starts Monday on "The Bear Trap," a sequel to "The Roaring Road." Sam Woods will direct.

Violet Clark, a scenario writer at Universal City, is leaving for a four weeks' trip to Chicago and New York, where she expects to pick up material for a number of stories. Miss Clark wrote the scenario of "The Pointing Finger," starring Mary MacLaren.

William Mong is writing western stories for the Doubleday company, now located at the Bronx studio.

William Russell arrived from New York this week and will be found on the Fox lot from now on. The picture now beginning is "The Lincoln Highwayman."

Wallace Beery is with Priscilla Deane, making the first of her four special features for Universal.

Waldemar V. Waldron is doing heavies with Al Santell out at the Big U.

Wilbur Jones is at Long Beach, directing Milburn Moranti.

Walter Edwards is expected to arrive from New York Tuesday to begin "The Young Mrs. Winthrop," starring Ethel Clayton. The picture will be made at Lasky's.

William H. Bomb, formerly manager of the Famous Players-Lasky studio in New York, has been appointed by Marshall Neilan to act in the same capacity for Marshall Neilan productions.

Yami Mati, now cast with Marshall Neilan, will remain on the Neilan pay roll until such time as the hair on the top of his Oriental head has once more regained its normal length, said hair having been shaved off said head to make room for a Chinaman's wig and que.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); ngenues (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $2.00 per month.

"SURE SHE'S GOODLOOKING BUT—"

She hasn't had any experience. Yes! he's handsome, but looks don't make the actor. I'm sorry too, for they Might have been winners had they . . . . . ." Oh well! why tell the old story over again. You know what the Director was going to say. The point is this: They tried and failed from lack of proper training. Ask us how to acquire it. We KNOW!

PAULINE FREDERICK

a successful play by a well known author, but I would also have a trip to Europe, where most of the production was to be made. So I sailed for Rome with a small company—there was only one other actor." Miss Frederick tells us of her first picture experience. Hugh Ford directed the feature.

It was all so strange to her. The painful anticipation of her public reception in the new work, and her struggles and qualms have all gone to make each new effort better. We feel that Pauline Frederick deserves more approbation than she realizes for her venture into motion pictures at that time, leaving, as she did, a successful stage career. She has earned her positions through hard work—both in films and legitimate productions.

Miss Frederick was in theatrical work ten years, and though she received an excellent education in private schools of Boston, her native city, she began her career in the chorus. Her most notable stage vehicles were "Innocent" and "When Knights Were Bold."

Now the star lives in a beautiful home in Beverly Hills, and she plans to buy a home here, where she can play and live. She likes the California sunshine, and she enjoys it at every opportunity in her low open Mercer.

When we had left the set, after another of those firm hand-clasps, we confessed quietly the traitorous desire that Pauline Fredericks would try the stage again, for perhaps, if we were fortunate we would have the rare treat of her art displayed in person.

OAKLEY PRODUCTION

This company is now producing a series of two-reel satires, embracing twenty-six distinct and independent but correlated episodes entitled: "The O'Toole Social Ladder." The first of this series is under the title of "The Poor Rich." The first release will be on or before November the fifteenth.

This series of stories have been thoroughly studied from a critical observation. Their trueness to detail is thus assured with the promise of a tremendous success.

Mr. Clyde McCoy is the director of this series.

Further announcement of the immediate casting of a five-reel production entitled: "Red," has been made. This production will prove unique, original and entertaining.

Sues Fairbanks for 100,000: Injured Actor Blames Star and Asks Fortune for "Unprovoked" Act—Suit for $100,000 damages was filed against Douglas Fairbanks by Ernest Butterworth Friday for injuries the latter declares he received when Mr. Fairbanks staged an impromptu "stunt" for the benefit of visitors at his moving-picture studio October 1, last. Butterworth asserts he received permanent injuries and that his face is disfigured, which will impair his work for the films.

In the language of the complaint, filed through Attorneys John F. Imel and E. M. Swartz, Mr. Fairbanks is a trained and powerful athlete. While demonstrating his ability as an athlete to his visitors, Mr. Butterworth says, Mr. Fairbanks grabbed the complainant with a strangle-hold, raised him from his feet and threw him over Mr. Fairbank's head. Mr. Butterworth says his mouth and lips were damaged and he was permanently disfigured and injured.

Mr. Fairbank's act, the complainant states, was "wanton, oppressive and unprovoked, and done by the said defendant for his own glorification and for the plaudits of his auditors and in reckless disregard of plaintiff's rights and feelings."

Mr. Fairbanks stated that he knew nothing about the occurrence, his life being one succession of athletic "stunts."

ON LOCATION

The Houdini Company, under the direction of James Cruze, has returned from Riverside and will leave Monday to start the ocean scenes. This will require about two weeks.

Send in your questions and let's get together for the betterment of our part of the motion picture work. All questions will be fully and practically answered.

S. T. L. asks for a snappy developer for stills.

Ans.—Presuming you are using a contrast paper on the usual soft plate with plenty of detail these two formulas are recommended:

Metol (Hauff) and Hydrochinon: Water, 128 oz. (1 ga.l); Metol (Hauff), 2 dr. 1 sc.; Hydrochinon, 1 oz. 2 dr. 1 sc.; Sodium Sulphite (dry), 4 oz. 3 dr.; Sodium Carbonate (dry), 6 oz. 1 dr.; Potassium Bromide, 2 sc..

To use: Stock, 1 oz.; water, 2 oz.

Serchol and Hydrochinon: Water, 128 oz. (1 gal.); Serchol, 4 dr.; Hydrochinon, 1 oz. 2 dr.; Sodium Sulphite (dry), 4 oz. 4 dr.; Sodium Carbonate (dry), 6 oz.; Potassium Bromide, 26 gr.

To use: Stock, 1 oz.; water, 2 oz.

F 3.5 asks for information on the action of the various cnemfcals in a developer.

Ans.—The action of a greater or less quantity of the factors of a developer is as follows:

Reducer—More: Clogs up whites; too much contrast.

Less: Slows development; lack of brilliancy.

Alkali—More: Quick development; dense flat negatives, fog, etc.

Less: Slow development; contrast.

Sulphite—More: Colder tone.

Less: Warmer tone; stain.

Water—More: Thin in high lights; detail.

Less: Contrast.

Temperature—Higher: Quick development; flat or fog.

Lower: Slow development; blank shadows; almost same as underexposure.

What They Say About

"23½ HOUR'S LEAVE"

Directed by

HENRY KING for Thomas H. Ince

Now Showing at Clune's Broadway Theater

WID'S:

"Best comedy of the season—better than that; of the year. Sure fire handling registered maximum of laughs. You can say without qualification that it's the best comedy of the season. If you get another comedy in six months as good, go down on your knees. This is a sure-fire knockout."

AGNES SMITH IN N. Y. TELEGRAPH, 11/2/19:

"There are no 'ifs' and 'buts' about it. 'Twenty-three and a Half Hours Leave' is one of the most entertaining pictures of the year. It was played at the Rialto last week and scored an emphatic success. The audience laughed continuously and applauded generously at the end. The director is not given credit but the work of the unknown is thoroughly commendable. It's a real hit."

FRED IN VARIETY, 10/31/19:

"The picture is one that will pull laughs from the most hard-boiled audience in the world. The director of the production is not given credit on either the program or the screen, but whoever it was deserves it."

GEORGE T. PARDY in EXHIBITOR'S TRADE REVIEW, 11/8/19:

"The picture hits a mirth-making stride right from the start and gallops along through a medely of funny incidents up to a triumphantly comic climax. It's entertaining qualities never pall. There is little doubt of its earning widespread popularity. With its fast action, keen humor, and capable direction, it registers as a screen attraction of unusual value to exhibitors."

THE BILLBOARD, 11/8/19:

"This is the topnotch khaki story of the screen. The laughs come with the regularity of a Hotchkiss gun; prolonged applause rewarded the premier at the Rialto."

LOUELLA O. PARSONS IN N. Y. TELEGRAPH, 11/2/19:

"Miss New York, unconvinced that there lived such a thing as real comedy, sat through the picture twice. Miss New York clapped. Not from a sense of duty but because she was seeing a comedy, which besides being really funny, didn't have a forced, unnatural scene. Please, Mr. Ince, give us more comedies like this one."

CO-OPERATION IN REALITY

If there is one subject on which more hot air has been used up than on any other it is undoubtedly the talk of co-operation in different studios. In actual work it is about as scarce as booze in the editor's buffet. But there is one place where it must have once existed. The discovery was made following the announcement that Manager Kline is leaving Universal City for New York.

The writer was on the Universal lot this week and could hear no conversation among the directors and assistants that did not eventually lead to the subject of Kline's departure.

Groups will be found talking of it and frowns will be found in generous numbers. It is evident that one man at least was found who knew how to get along in a place that has always known trouble.

It was hard to believe this thing was true. Too many years of stories of had been heard. But there was one piece of evidence that fairly howled the sentiment of the studio. It was a list, to which was signed the name of nearly every director on the lot, and which had not been in circulation three hours. Opposite those names were amounts as large as $25.00. A parting gift was to be bought for the man they loved—who co-operated with them.

Have you ever heard of directors digging down in their pockets to the tune of $25.00 to buy a present for a studio manager? It is our first experience.

Inquiry shows that Manager Kline filled his position from the company standpoint. More than one director had his carpet sessions. But when they were over there was no bad taste. It seemed that the manager was willing to see both sides, in other words, to co-operate.

Probably the successor will not be welcomed with too glad a hand, for there is sincere sorrow in Universal City, and a tone of anger as well.

And a few more examples of this spirit might result in "Better Pictures" everywhere.

E. M. R.

"MUTT & JEFF" SUIT IS DECIDED AGAINST HEARST

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court has handed down a decision which prohibits Hearst publications from using the words "Mutt & Jeff" in connection with any cartoons.

The attorneys for the Hearst publications argued that the order of the court granting the injunction nullified the copyright laws, and that the rights of the author after publication could be protected by law for only a limited time—on the expiration of which the work belonged to the public, and therefore could be used by Hearst publications. The court refused to accept this view of the case. It held that any imitation of Mutt & Jeff Animated Cartoons would constitute unfair competition. The injunction against the Hearst papers was made permanent.

SOUNDS LIKE DICK WILLIS

The dirty villain ceased his nasty, cruel, daily grind
(He had ruined one fair maiden, under hero put the skids;
Had murdered several people, had been biffed and jailed and fined)
Then sailed home and kissed his wife and cuddled up his kids.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Some one has asked why the Motion Picture Peoples' Church has been named the Church of St. Mary of the Angels. When Los Angeles was founded the town was officially named "The Pueblo of Our Lady Queen of the Angels," to which was added in deference to St. Francis, "Of the Little Portion" which was St. Francis' way of speaking of his church in Asissi. Then a tremlor coming along to shake up the inhabitants of the new city, they added "of the Earthquake" which taking it all in all resulted in the rather large title for a small town of "The Pueblo of Our Lady Queen of the Angeles, of the Little Portion of the Earthquake." They took the matter into their own hands and called what is now known as Los Angeles "The City of St. Mary of the Angels," which, by the way was the official name of St. Francis' church and it is the name of the Motion Picture Peoples' Church.

Moton Picture Weekly in New Dress—The November issue of the Motion Picture Weekly comes to us in a new and decidedly attractive form, both editorially and typographically. Instead of the newspaper style in which it has been issued in the past, the paper is now printed on good quality book paper in a three column size with an attractively designed cover page and with some well set ads, and good illustrations. Editorially the policy seems now to be more toward an exhibtior's organ than the general field covered by the first issues. Correspondence from outside cities has been introduced and the reading matter seems live and of real interest. It is with pleasure that we note the change and congratulate the editor, Mr. Cecil A. James.

It is with a bitterness akin to vengeance that we sit at this typewriter and curse the entire being of one Eddie Polo. And it is not without cause. Not a half week has gone since this machine was running smoothly, under the guidance of a young lady named Carlisle, who seemed to know its touch and to be able to anticipate its jumps, its strikeovers and other eccentricities. All was serene and happy. We had but to mum ble slowly and softly the words which were to be printed and in but a few moments the pages of neatly typewritten copy began to pour forth. Furthermore, when the telephone rang, we cocked our feet up on the desk and waited while she answered it, which she did in a manner satisfying to behold. Added still shall be the fact that it was her key that opened this place in the morning while we dozed peacefully in the last hour of our beauty sleep. And we might go on here indefinitely,—BUT, there came this Polo person, informed of the fact that such an individual labored here, and he did covet such a prize for his own office, and so much did he covet that he held forth inducement in the form of such cash per week that we could do naught but stagger. Now our whole system is changed. We have to work. We speed Miss Helen on her way with best wishes, but Eddie—You look out for us, we're sore at you, and if the chance ever comes to get back, you're going to lose your private secretary.

We wish to call the attention of the Herald cartoonist to the fact that he should be a little more thorough in his work. This is due to the fact that he made us run to the Neilan studio this week on an absolutely wild goose chase. This chase was caused by his leaving out the face and bodily characteristics of one Wellington Wales from the picture delineating the Neilan staff. When the copy of the paper reached this office and was being perused by the copy stealer, it was suddenly noted that no Wales appeared in the Neilan staff. A story. Where is Wales? Chase to Neilan's—rush into publicity department—short snappy question—answer to the effect that he was doing his work as usual. Now, Mr. Cartoonist, see what you went and done.

WHO CAN BETTER THIS RECORD?

Al Cawood, who has just finished five years as cameraman with the Lyons and Moran company, has made over 250 complete pictures in that time. It seems to us that this almost setting the high mark for individual output of cameramen of an average of one week, for five successive years. Who has a better record? Let us hear about it.

LUCK AND A TITLE

It is called "The Best of Luck."

There are thirteen letters in the title.

There are thirteen letters in the director's name.

There are thirteen letters in the director-general's name.

There are thirteen letters in the name of the technical director and of the screen adapter, and in the names of the two collaboraters with Cecil Raleigh in writing the original.

"The Best of Luck" is directed by Ray C. Smallwood under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger. The technical direction is by Edward Shulter. The story was adapted by A. Shelby LeVino from the melodrama by Henry Hamilton, Arthur Collins, and Mr. Raleigh. Yet all concerned retain faith in the title of this first Drury Lane melo' made by Screen Classics, Inc. Here's why:

The day before the fox hunt, the man who owned the dogs died, and the fox ran away. But they got dogs and another fox.

The day before the pirate scenes were filmed on an ancient vessel moored at Balboa, the boat sunk. But they got another boat.

The day they filmed aerial scenes, the camera tore loose from its fastening high in the air. But Harold Wenstrom, the cameraman, clung to the instrument until the pilot landed.

The night (last Friday) they filmed a rain storm, a real wind storm came up and spoiled the movie rain. But the wind died down.

It is still called "The Best of Luck." And why not?

A FISH STORY

This is about the ugly duckling and the glitter that wasn't gold. It is not a fairy story; ask Viola Dana—she told it.

In the yard of the Metro studio a wondrous garden spot has been planted for "The Willow Tree" fantasy Miss Dana is filming. It is a willow-pattern garden from the isle of Nippon.

In it is an unmethodical lake, in whose green-blue waters ripple the reflections of semi-circular footbridges, and where, darting below the lily pads, once were hundreds of Japanese golden carp.

The day's work completed, Miss Dana leaned on the rail of the dressing room tier watching twilight soften the garden.

Under the bridges, about the lily pads, over the golden fish glided a white flotilla—twelve beautiful ducklings, and one not quite so beautiful. This paddled disconsolately behind. Suddenly (so Miss Dana swears) his listless eye brightened.

THAT METRO PARROT.

June Mathis has taught her adopted parrot to say "Metro." The head of Metro's scenario department will next teach the bird to say "Screen Classics, Incorporated," she states, and after he has perfected that, "fewer, bigger and better pictures."

Two old Scotchmen sat by the roadside talking and puffing away merrily at their pipes.

"There's no muckle pleasure in smokin', Sandy," said Donald.

'Hoo dae ye mak' that oot?" questioned Sandy.

"Weel," said Donald, "ye see, if ye're smokin' yer ain 'bacca ye're thinkin' o' the awfu' expense, an' if ye're smokin' some ither body's, yer pipe's ramm't sae tight it winna draw."
—Ladies' Home Journal.

PRODUCTION NOTES AMONG STUDIOS

WEEK BEGINNING TODAY

Dwan Casts—William Allen White's story "In the Heart of a Fool" has been selected by Allan Dwan for his next photoplay vehicle. Work on films ing the production will start next week. The cast will include James Kirkwood, Mary Thurman, Anna Q. Nilsson, Philo McCullough, Ward Crane, Maryland Horne, James P. Hogan, Fred Turner, Arthur Hoyt and John W. Burton.

New Casts—J. Parker Read Jr. has surrounded his star, Louise Glaum, with an excellent supporting cast in her forthcoming production "Sex," underthe direction of Fred Niblo. Others are Myrtle Stedman, Peggie Pearce, William Conklin and Irving Cummings.

Calvert at "U"—Calvert Carter is with the Phil Rosen company at U, having finished a four weeks' engagement with the Wm. Dowlan company.

Wet Town — Gilbert Warrenton writes from New York that his mother advised the purchase of a good heavy overcoat when he went east. He now sends the information to all prospective travelers to add a couple of raincoats.

At Seligs—W. A. (Fritz) Orlamond is with the Franklyn Farnum company at Seligs.

The Capital Theater, New York's newest photoplay house, will show all Allen Dwan's productions at their New York premiere.

Allan Dwan's next story will be "In the Heart of a Fool," by Wm. Allen White.

Selznick Pictures to be Made at Brunton's—The Selznick Picture corporation has leased a space at the Brunton studio, to make special feature attractions. Mr. Harry Rapf is general manager and Mr. V. R. Scott, assistant. Casting will be done individually. Howard Hickman will direct the first western production, "Just a Wife" by Eugene Walters.

The Sessue Hayakawa company begins production, Monday, at the Haworth (formerly Griffith) studios, at 4500 Sunset boulevard.

Anita Stewart to Start Soon—Announcement from the Mayer studios gives the information that Anita Stewart is expected to arrive this week and that production will start in the near future, under the direction of Edward Jose. Miss Stewart says that the balance of her picture life will be spent in the west, as she is through with the east as a production location. Rudolph Cameron, Miss Stewart's husband, has arrived at the studio, and is making preparation for the production of "The Fighting Shepherdess" by Carolyn Lockhardt. This is the picture Miss Stewart originally planned to produce in the east.

Robinson with Fairbanks—Douglas Fairbanks has engaged Carlyle R. Robinson as manager of the publicity and advertising departments of the Fairbanks organization. Mr. Robinson is one of the best known publicity writers in the country, having been exploiting stars and productions for more than seven years. During the past three years Robinson has been personal representative of Charlie Chaplin, besides attending to the publicity in connection with the Sydney Chaplin enterprises.

Remodel Still Rooms—The still camera department at the Thomas H. Ince studio is being remodeled and greatly enlarged. It now has a weekly output of over 15,000 production stills. This is said to be the best equipped "Still department" in Los Angeles.

Mitchell Lewis will star in three, possibly four, Jack London stories for Metro. He signed a contract with Maxwell Karger yesterday (Tuesday) afternoon. Mr. Karger has chosen "A Daughter of the Snows," "Burning Daylight," and "Smoke Bellew" as the first three London stories to be made into Metro Screen Classics. "The Adventure" may be added as the fourth in the list.

Albert E. Smith—president of the Vitagraph Company is expected to arrive in Los Angeles on Monday, November the 17th to personally supervise the starting of new plans that will materially increase the output of the Hollywood studio.

Ethel Clayton is scheduled to start probably next week on "Young Mrs. Winthrop" under the direction of Walter Edwards, who will come to the coast from New York where he has been directing Marguerite Clark in "Easy to Get." Mis Clayton will now work at the Lasky studio.

Joseph Burgins of New York, a newcomer in the motion picture industry, has purchased one-half interest in the Holly Comedies, released by the Bulls-Eye Film corporation.

MABEL NORMAND

The saucy little star is now in New York City and has announced her renewal of contract with Goldwyn.

Still a "Grip"—Mitchell Lewis, who will star in Jack London stories for Metro, is still a member of Stagehands Local No. 9, Syracuse, N. Y. He visited his home town last summer and greeted his old firiends.

Did You Know that Shirley Mason, youngest of the three Mason girls—known as Edna Flugarth, Viola Dana and Shirley Mason—made her debut at the age of two as a dancer in the old Schwaben Hall in Brooklyn. The little star, recently signed by William Fox, was not on the program, as were her two sisters, but she forced herself into the act.

New Art Chief at Metro—M. P. Staulcup, eighteen months a Metro art director, has been appointed supervisor of art interiors by Clifford P. Butler, general superintendent of the studio. Mr. Staulcup was Prizma's first art director, and did the same work for the Department of Public Information's propaganda pictures before coming to Metro. Designers now working with Mr. Staulcup at Metro are Amos Myers, John Holden and George Melford Carpenter. This corps will be doubled in order to allow one art director for each of the six Screen Classic producing units.

Making Educationals—Dyer and Moore of the Universal staff have been traveling over Southern California for some weeks photographing a series of educationals. Moore is director and assistant director, while Dyer, as assistant cameraman, takes orders from himself a chief. One series has been finished and no announcement made as to future activities.

To Feature Joe Ryan—Vitagraph is to feature Joe Ryan, whose work with William Duncan in the past is well known to players everywhere. The production outlined is a serial and will begin as soon as the current Duncan play is finished. Duncan is now on the last episode of his picture, "Smashing Barriers," in which Ryan plays the heavy.

Producers—Are you a member of the United States Honor Legion for Employers? Have you the "Citation?" The "Citation" is an official certificate issued by the War and Navy Departments to any employer who assures the Government that he has or will employ everybody who formerly worked for him and left to serve in the Army or Navy during the great war. It is signed by the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy and the assistant to the Secretary of War; it is handsomely engraved and engrossed with the name of the recipient and carries with it permission for the holder to display on his firm's service flag and shield of the United States. It is your patriotic duty as well as good business to re-employ your men. It signifies that you have fulfilled a silent pledge to aid these men when they came back after fighting for you and the ideals of the United States.

Al Greene Directing Miss Young—Anouncement is made that Albert Greene will handle the megaphone for the next Clara Kimball Young feature at the Garson studio. It is expected that work will begin Monday. Greene finished his picture with House Peters last week.

Mitchell Picture Finished—Claude H. Mitchell has finished his current feature for the Brentwood people and is busy cutting. His next story has not yet been decided and it is not likely that any start will be made before the 20th.

Neilan Interiors Complete—All interior scenes for the first Marshall Neilan independent feature wil have been completed at the time this is printed, and the company will immediately vacate the studio for Lois Weber. Victor Heerman is taking Lewis Stone and several other members of the company to Canada this coming week to make exteriors, while Mr. Neilan will begin work on the interiors of his next picture, using the studio at 1723 Allesandro street opposite the Mack Sennet company. The company has already moved a part of its offices and all future business will be done at that location. Mr. Neilan's next picture has not yet been announced by name, but will feature Marjorie Daw. Thomas Held is casting.

Miss Pickford Expected — Mary Pickford is expected back from New York at any time now and on her arrival will probably resume work at once on her current picture. The Pickford company will probably be back from location at Independence early in the week with the location scenes finished. There will be at least three weeks of shooting with Miss Pickford and another two weeks of cutting and titling before the picture will be finished. The endeavor is being made to finish and print the picture for the holidays.

Jack Ford to go East—Having finished his current picture at Universal, Jack Ford is to pack up his carpet bag and leave for the East on a short vacation. It is expected, however, that he will be looking over scripts on his way over and back, and there are those who hint that he may do something else. Anyway there is no announcement as to his next picture.

Washburn Feature Started—Donald Crisp is in his second week with Bryant Washburn at Lasky's, shooting on "The Six Best Cellars," by Holworthy Hall. The scenario credit goes to Elmer Harris.

Start McLaren Picture — H. L. Franklin will begin shooting the "Sins of the Fathers" with Mary McLaren at Universal Monday. There will be no changes in the staff.

Eakins and Cook Cutting — Guy Eakins and "Doc" Cook are putting the final touches to Eakins first independent comedy production which will be given a preview sometime this week locally for the benefit of certain program people now in the West. It is expected that picture will be taken East for sale in the near future. Mr. Eakins has not yet announced his plans.

Davidson Starts Production—Max Davidson has started work, it is reported, on a series of 26 comedies to be produced during the ensuing year for an eastern company whose name has not been made public. He is working at the old Essanay studio.

The New Glass Stage at the Morosco studio is practically ready and will first accommodate Mary Miles Minter, who is just completing a Realart picture under the direction of William D. Taylor, who, at the conclusion of the production will proceed with the final cutting of "Huckleberry Finn," a Paramount-Artcraft Special and will then start with Miss Minter on Israel Zangwill's famous play, "Nurse Marjorie," for Realart.

Duncan to do Feature—With the completion of his current serial with Vitagraph, William Duncan will begin work on what will probably be the first of a series of feature productions. It has not yet been announced whether Duncan will do more than one feature or not, but it is thought likely that he will not return to the serial field.

SOCIAL FRICASSEE AND CAPER SAUCE

BY MILDRED DAVIS

And we thought this was a dry town—Can a rat sit on its haunches and munch an apple as a squirrel eats a nut? Otto Fries with his assistant, Jack McChesney, who were of the Brentwood company under Henry Kolker's direction on a week's location work at Idyllwild, insists that the rats in a certain barn at the foot of the big grade equal the ordinary domestic cat in size and can sit on the rim of an apple box and munch an apple with exactly as much ease as a squirrel eats a nut.

Vacation — Edna Purviance spent last week in San Francisco, filling in the gap between Chaplin pictures.

Miss Wiener Returns — Agnes Wiener returned Friday from New York City, where she had accompanied D. W. Griffith. Miss Wiener escorted the latest Griffith film back to the Griffith laboratories.

With Weber—Hallam Cooley and George Hachathorn are depicting the two principal youths in Lois Weber's forthcoming production, now underway at the Brunton studio.

Last Reunion—Various farewell dinners, dances and parties have been given by and for the different members of the D. W. Griffith forces. Mr. A. H. Beach was the host at one of the affairs, which he gave at his home on West 28th street, Thursday evening. The party was made up of those people, formerly working at the Sunset studio, who remained in Los Angeles when the majority of the Griffith employes went east.

Semnacker Dinner — Last Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Al Semnacker entertained a group of friends with a dinner party at their home on South Ardmore. Covers were laid for William Duncan, Edith Johnson, Al Reithe, Beverly Traverse, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Rothwell, Phillip Whelan, Myrtle Stedman, Mr. and Mrs. E. Roberts, Fritzi Remont, Rex McCallum, Richard Spier and D. S. Karr.

Scenarist's Marriage Confirmed—Frances Marion's marriage has finally been definitely confirmed. The affair was solemnized on November 3, 1919, at a little Greenwich village church. Miss Marion is now in New York City but she expects to return to Los Angeles at an early date with Mary Pickford. A release from her Hearst contract was granted the writer and henceforth she will write Pickford stories exclusively.

Stopping at Algonquin — "Millie" Ritcher, film cutter on the Dorothy Gish pictures, wires her friends here that her very delightful trip across the continent terminated pleasantly at the Algonquin hotel in the big town. Miss Ritcher did not mention the welfare of the 50 pounds of candy which her Los Angeles friends bestowed upon her as farewell gifts.

Motor from East—Miss Nell Newman entertained at dinner at the Studio Club, Friday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Coe of Kansas City, Missouri. Mr. and Mrs. Coe motored across the continent and plan to spend several weeks in Southern California.

Miss Harris Returns—Miss Edna Harris has returned from Chicago after an extended vacation, and again presides over the affairs ofthe Studio Club.

For Miss Crayden—One of the very attractive affairs of the week was the dancing party given by Miss Frances Parks, at her Hollywood home, in honor of her cousin, Miss Fair Crayden of Montgomery, Alabama.

The house decorations carried out the Thanksgiving idea, and McQuaid's orchestra furnished music for dancing, throughout the evening.

Miss Parks' guests included Misses Fair Crayden, Mary Harron, Agnes Harron, Rhea Haines, Yerda Appleby, Nancy Fitz Bee Glass, Miss Palmer of Chicago, Messrs. Jack Harron, Raymond Cannon, Truman Van Dyke, Francis Gable, Peb Manley, Jack Donovan, Lee Deppin, Merril Pye, R. Norberg, Raymond Andrews, Mr. Stanlye, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Al Cohn.

To New York—Miss Lucille Carlisle was the guest of her sister, Miss Helen Carlisle, at dinner at the Studio Club Sunday. Miss Lucille left early in the week for New York on a six weeks' vacation trip.

At Club—Miss Palmer, formerly with Photoplay Magazine, in Chicago, is now happily settled at the Studio Club, where she will make her home for the winter.

Prepares Florida Trip—A New York wire informs us that D. W. Griffith is completing arrangements for a trip to Miami, Florida, accompanied by the Griffith Players, for production of a part of his current feature.

Pathe Man Here—Lewis Innernarity, the eastern secretary and attorney of the Pathe, is in Los Angeles on a ten days business trip. He is accompanied by Mrs. Innernarity.

GEORGE WEBB

By Mildred Davis

This week we have with us George Webb, one of our most congenial villians. He admits that he is convinced that he will always remain a villian, both from necessity and preference. All arguments to the contrary George Webb believes that each person is a type and that anyone is foolish who tries to depart from his type in screen portrayals. It can be done, but never successfully, for there is always one thing that each of us does better than any other one thing, and when we beak away from that our product is below par. All relative circumstances change the clothes, actions and surface ideas, but the basic motives are always the same. Although Mr. Webb feels that the depicting of so-called "heavies" is his forte, he does not like the all bad melodramer villian. He tries to avoid those roles because they are unnatural, none of us are all wrong.

George Webb began his Thespian career in Los Angeles, his first professional appearance being made under Oliver Morosco's supervision.

Mr. Webb finished high school in Los Angeles and immediately obtained a job with the Los Angeles Times. He plugged away in every department of the newspaper except the composing room. His longest stretch of Times work was done as a cub reporter. With due respect and interest in the pay envelope the youthful Georgie investigated the various departments of the paper to find that the largest salary received by any department manager did not exceed $33.33 1-3 per week. And right then he decided that $33.33 1-3 was not sufficient remuneration for a hard spent youth. So he kept the Webb orbs open for a new job.

The epidemic of theatrical schools had begun in Los Angeles as early as 1904. One of these was directed by Leo Cooper, who made an offer to instruct and pay Mr. Webb for all public performances if friend George would do the leads in the school's plays.

Mr. Webb underwent the tutoring and undertook the youthful leads. After a few amateur showings at Long Beach, Mr. Cooper, the instructor, escorted his pupil to see Oliver Mo-

Trueworthy Honored—Edward Trueworthy, D. S. C., who is now at Brunton's, was particularly honored on Armistice day by the Los Angeles people. Mr. Trueworthy was selected to represent the Los Angeles contingent of overseas boys at the Exposition Park ceremonies. Although Trueworthy did his soldiering as a private, he received the D. S. C. in France and at the recent celebration his bodyguard was composed of officers of the highest rank.

Expects Aunt—Colleen Moore is preparing to entertain her aunt, Mrs. Krakow Morris, from the East. Although Miss Moore's mother is now in Chicago she will return to the Los Angeles home in about three months.

Entertain in Santa Barbara—Friday morning Babe Daniels, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Phyllis Daniels, left for Santa Barbara for the week-end. Miss Daniels was the guest of honor of the Rotary club Friday evening at its annual banquet. She entertained her hosts with a number of popular songs, accompanied by Herbert Brown, who appeared with her recently at the Orpheum. Wallace MacDonald was also a member of the party. Mr. MacDonald contributed his bit to the program by presenting several ballads. Saturday evening the trio of artists will entertain the kiddies of the Santa Barbara orphanage.

Duncan Mansfield, who for four years was head cutter at the Ince studios, is now with the Selznick productions in New York.

Meredith Dance — Miss Miriam Meredith of the Ince studio, entertained a large number of friends with a charming dancing party at her home "The Dug-Out," 1848 Morgan Place, Hollywood last Saturday night. The large hall was attractively decorated with chrysanthemums and poinsettsa, and a charming musical program added to the enjoyment of the evening.

Among those present were: Misses Isabel Percival, Mary Simpkins, Fanny Dow, Lucile Bey, Florence Prager, Violet Schram, Mary and Ursula Fitzgerald, Evelyn Adamson, Leone and Leoneta Parker, Yvette Mitchell, Mary Margaret, Aileen, Madeline Mooney, Annabelle Wishart, Edith Roberts, Ethel Gillett, Beulah Booker, Paula Hillyer, Cecile Percival, Pearl Maclean, Peggy Prevost.

Messrs. Neal Burns, Gene Garey, James Cunningham, Carl Stahl, Robert Freeman, Jay Smith, George Hackathorne, Frank Bartholomeu, Edward Lewis, George and Arthur Simpkins, Russell Smith, Jack Barry, Langton Prager, George Boeck, Harold Hurley, Jack Mingus, James Whitehorn, Herbert Brown, Cliff Vigus, Doran Cox, George Barnes, Newton Potter, Bob Lee.

Outdoor Sport—A new sport has been discovered by the Cathrine Curtis company, now engaged on the production of a drama of the new west in the wilds of the Idaho panhandle. It is called "sneaking up on location," and Edward S. Curtis, who is looking after several hundred Indians who will be used in the drama, is credited with the discovery of the new sport.

Mr. Curtis, who has spent the last 25 years of his life among the Indian tribes of North America, is wise in the ways of woodcraft, and actually stalks a location to its lair as if it were a wily redskin. The habit is catching, and even George Foster Platt, director of the production, has contracted the habit.

Fred Tyler, out at U admitted to us casually the other day that he was undoubtedly the best assistant director on the lot and the only denial we heard was from Ray Meeker. There were only three of us present.

Three Major League baseball players have been signed by Maxwell Karger to act before the motion picture camera and to play on the Metro studio team. Fred McMullen, third baseman of the Chicago White Sox, Carl Sawyer, "comedian of baseball," formerly of the Washington Nationals; and "Irish" Meusel of the Philadelphia Nationals are the star diamond trio.

WHERE TO FIND PEOPLE YOU KNOW

Pat Moore is with the Allen Dwan company at the Brunton.

Frances Raymond is with the Mitchell company at Brentwood.

Percy Challenger is with Allen Dwan.

Knox Munson is cast with Madge Kennedy.

Byron Munson is with Lew Cody.

Charlotte Woods is with Charles Ray at Ince's.

Barbara Castleton is with the "Tower of Ivory" company at Goldwyn's.

Eddie Baker has just finished with Larry Semon at Vitagraph.

Harry Mann has completed his contract with Vitagraph and is preparing stories for his new contract with another firm. Miss Rucker will accompany him as leading lady.

Elizabeth Rhodes is with the Lois Weber company at the Brunton studio.

Marie Baudet has just finished with Metro.

Truman Van Dyke has bought a half acre tract at Culver City and expects to enlarge on that chicken ranch he has been talking about.

Viola Dana has orders to be in bed every night at nine o'clock. So says herdoctor, who just attended her during an attack of measles.

Valero Olivo Blanquet is doing the juvenile heavy with the Francis Ford company.

Myrtle Steadman is with Louise Glaum at Ince's.

Irving Cummins has been loaned to Thos. H. Ince by Lasky to support Louise Glaum in her current picture.

Harry Northrup is doing a heavy in the Corbett serial at Universal.

Pauline Curley is leading opposite Tony Moreno in "The Invisible Hand," a Vitagraph serial.

Joseph Strauss, Metro studio manager, has been deserted by his wife and daughter, he reports. At least they went to New York for a visit and left him behind in California.

Lloyd Hughes is the latest graduate of the Ince school to be promoted to the star class. A contract has been signed covering a period of five years, during which Hughes will appear in a number of stories by leading screen writers.

Hobart Bosworth has been chosen by the directors of the Fjorgian Institute of Denmark, as a model for a bronze statue to be called "The Spirit of the Sea," which is to be made by Clyde Ulmquist, noted Danish sculptor.

Mrs. Percy Hilburn, wife of Goldwyn's cameraman, is recovering from a successful operation for appendicitis.

Russell Simpson said "Good morning judge" last Monday after he had unwittingly (you know how it is) exceeded the speed lmit. He did not even wear a leather coat, but they knew he was an actor and was soaked accordingly.

John F. Leavy, who had an injury while working in a western picture at Universal City two months ago, is all right again and back at work.

Emma Dunn, who created on the stage the role of Aggie in "Old Lady 31" has been engaged for the Screen Classics all-star production of Rachel Crother's comedy.

"Steve" Grant is being kept on the jump; working with Gale Henry days and over at Goldwyn nights. He has a good part in the latest Gale Henry feature.

Gale Henry and her husband, Bruno J. Becker, have purchased a large plot of land in the San Fernando valley, near Saugus, which they say will be developed into a large chicken ranch. An eight-room house, garage and string of chicken coops are now under construction there.

Archer McMackin has been engaged to direct comedies starring Gale Henry. Director McMackin formerly handled the megaphone for Flanagan and Edwards, Bushman-Bayne, Bryant Washburn and Essanay productions.

PICK-UPS BY THE STAFF

Little Micky Moore is no more a golden haired cupid. He has had his curls shorn and is cast with Pat in Allen Dwan's producton in a part which will show him as an actor in his own right.

Warren With Blache—Fred Warren is now assisting Herbert Blache in the direction of May Allison's latest Screen Classic "The Walk-Offs."

Find Hospitable Host—Bert Lytell and members of "The Right of Ways" company returned Saturday from a ten-day location stay at Lake Tahoe. They reported a most enjoyable time as the guests of W. L. Maynard of the S. P. hotel at Truckee.

Mable Normand, who has been ill for some time, is showing remarkable improvement, according to reports.

Metro Subscribes Early—It took the Metro studio only two days to subscribe its allotment for the Red Cross fund.

Arthur H. Stuart, who was assistant director to Ollie Sellars during the filming of "The Gift Supreme" by the Humanity Film corporation, has completed work with that company.

Harris Has Wolf—Sherrie Harris was the official custodian of a real wolf, which was used Thursday for scenes of "Should a Woman Tell?" Mr. Harris is assisting John E. Ince in the direction of thi picture at the Metro studio.

Phelan Has New Assistant—Sam Mata is assistant cameraman to Robert Phelan, who is photographing May Allison's latest picture "The Walk-Offs" at the Metro studio.

Johnson and Foss Play Banjos—Emory Johnson and Darrell Foss can be justly termed "The syncopated twins." Both are experts at playing the banjo and have their instruments at the studio, where they practice popular airs between scenes, much to the entertainment of the other members of May Allison's company for "The Walk-Offs."

Arnold Sets Fad—John Arnold, who is photographing Viola Dana's latest Screen Classic "The Willow Tree," has started a new style for cameramen by donning moleskin trousers. Mr. Arnold declares they are the only thing as they keep him warm in winter and cool in summer—what more could be asked.

C. Gardner Sullivan, it is announced, will leave New York City on January 15, for a two-year tour of the world. He has been commissioned by Thos. H. Ince to browse wherever fancy dictates, and as the spirit moves him, to write a script now and then. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Sullivan and the first step will be London.

Mary Thurman is with the Allan Dwan company at Brunton's.

Ward Crane is with the Allan Dwan company at Brunton's.

Anna Q. Nilsson is with the Allan Dwan company at Brunton's.

James Kirkwood is cast in the current Allan Dwan picture at Brunton's.

Allan Dwan has closed his beach home for the winter and has taken a large estate at Third and New Hampshire.

Mayme Kelso is with the Brentwood with the Claude H. Mitchell company.

Julanne Johnston is with the Brentwood company.

Edwin Stevens is with the Claude H. Mitchell company at Brentwood.

Allen Ruoff, formerly assistant to Buckram at Lasky's is now art director with Nazimova.

Winifred Westover is playing the lady lead with Charles Ray.

Myrtle Stedman is with the Louise Glaum company at the Ince studios.

Sidney Payne has been cast as the heavy in the forthcoming Hayakawa production.

Al Cawood, having finished with Lyons and Moran, is now photographing the current Ruth Roland serial.

Don Short, formerly second camera man with the Reginald Barker company, is now turning first crank with Jack Pickford.

Says the Studio Skeleton—Jack Gault has changed names. He is now Jack Curtis. And that is not all. He brought out his old pipe, lit up, and his associates had to make a mad rush for the prop rom to get gas masks.

Captain Bruce Bairnsfather—celebrated cartoonist and humorist and editor of a periodical known as "Fragments" published in England, says Douglas Fairbanks is the most popular of any screen star in the United Kingdom. Captain Bairnsfather's findings are the result of an essay contest which has just been decided, the winner of which used the athletic star as his subject.

NOTICE TO KIDDIES

The contest manager, Miss Mildred Davis, will lend her assistance to ambitious candidates and will supply them with blanks and other helps.

Interviews from 4 p. m. until 7 p. m. at Camera! office, 4513 Sunset Blvd.

NO MORE PROGRAM PICTURES FOR AMERICAN

From now on the American Film company will devote its activities to "specials" exclusively. Program pictures, as the term is usually applied, is forever tabooed. The future release will be irregular, in so far as specific dates of distribution are concerned, and the management's decision is to confine its energies to not more than a dozen productions per annum. To perfect these plans, R. R. Nehls, general manager of the concern, left his Chicago office for the Santa Barbara (Cal.) studio to remain there until about the first of the year, or longer if necessary.

In keeping with its new policy, the "Flying A" management signed Marguerita Sylva for a series of big productions. Mme. Sylva's initial play under this management is to be "The Honey Bee," an adaptation of Samuel Merwin's story. Rupert Julian, who produced some of Carl Laemmle's cinemas, has undertaken to guide the prima donna's destinies as a screen actress, in a directorial capacity. The finished production of "The Honey Bee" is promised late in January or the early part of February.

In advance of this play, however, will come "Eve in Exile," a seven-reel drama staged by Burton Jones, from the novel and drama by Cosmo Hamilton. A competent cast act the important roles, to-wit, Charlotte Walker, Thomas Santschi, Wheeler Oakman, Melbourne MacDowell, Violet Palmer, George Periolat, Martin Mattox, Harvey Clark, Perry Banks and L. C. Shumway.

RENEWS NORMAND CONTRACT

Mabel Normand has set all the rumors as to her future at rest by signing a long term contract with the Goldwyn company. She signed the contract with Goldwyn and then announced that she had never had any intention of going to any other company.

Miss Normand is now in New York City but she will return to Los Angeles about the third of December.

Acton Train Wreck Pictured—Two camera men of the Helen Gibson (Capital) company, photographed several hundred feet of film last week near Acton, showing the wrecking crew at work. Scenes will be used in a forthcoming railroad story.

American Memorial Hospital: The $1,000 to be paid by the Mayer-Chaplin company for the use of the Lucien M. Brunswig mansion on West Adams, will be turned over to the American Memorial Hospital Association by Mr. Brunswig.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

A small boy of the Jewish persuasion who was playing at the end of the pier fell into the sea and was only rescued after great difficulty by an intrepid swimmer, who dived off the end of the pier and succeeded in getting the boy into a rowboat.

Half an hour afterward, much exhausted by his effort, the rescuer was walking off the pier when a man came up and tapped his on the shoulder.

"Are you the man who saved my son Ikey's life?" he said.

"Yes," answered the much-exhausted hero.

"Then," said the Hebrew in indignant tones, "v'ere's his cap?"—Tit Bits.

Billy Franey says:

It matters not how much I spend,
A nickle, dime or dollar,
I cannot buy the good old stuff
To fill my inside hollow.

Famo Comedies—Polly Moran and Hugh Faye have cast their film destines together, and are now producing independently. They have leased studio space at the Lehrman Culver City studio. Wednesday the first scenes were shot on the first of a series of two-reel comedy detective stories. "Famo" comedies has been selected as the title for these new features. A release has not yet been decided upon. Norman Taurog is directing and George Meighan is cranking.

Supporting Washburn—Howard Gaye has signed for another part with Laskys, playing with Bryant Washburn in the "Six Best Cellars"—direction Donald Crisp.

Lorraine in K. C.—Leota Lorraine is in Kansas City visiting her mother. She expects to return to Los Angeles and her film work in January.

Assistant "Sup"—Langdon Prager has been appointed assistant superintendent of Oakley films.

Leaves Mayer—Yvette Mitchell has finished her role with Mildred Harris Chaplin in "The Inferior Sex."

Lead for Grey—Violet Schram is now doing the heavy lead in Zane Grey's "Desert Wheat."

Miss Land With Cody—Mary Land is a recent addition to the supporting cast of Lew Cody's current production.

In Tourneurs Cast—Iris Ashton is now cast in Maurice Tourneurs production "Glory of Love." The picture will be under way for the next six or seven weeks.

Sports a Watch—Little Jack Coogan, out at Chaplin's, is the proud possessor of a brand new wrist watch given him by the immortal Charlie in person.

HOFFMAN HEADS ENGLISH STUDIO

Milton E. Hoffman, formerly general manager of the Lask studios on the West Coast, sailed from New York last week for London, where he will assume the general management of the studio of Famous Players-Lasky British Producers, Ltd. Upon Mr. Hoffman's arrival in London Albert A. Kaufman, who has had entire charge of the construction of the plant and its equipment, will return to this country.

The new studio is situated in the heart of London and is one of the largest in England. It was formerly the center of extensive production activity, but the war having virtually halted the motion picture industry in Great Britain several years ago, it was necessary completely to remodel the structure and install entirely new equipment. This was a task requiring many months to perform, but under Captain Kaufman's able supervision the plant has been transformed into one of the most modern and best equipped studios in Europe. The work was done according to the most approved American standards to the end that it will be possible to carry on production along the lines followed by the most successful American producers.

Under Mr. Hoffman active production operations will be started at once. One company will commence work immediately and by early spring it is probable that at least three companies will be working simultaneously, with additional accommodations for even more producing units still in reserve.

A LEGAL TURN

The following is told of a late railway magnate and a prominent Philadelphia lawyer. Said the magnate to the lawyer:

"I want you to show that this law is unconstitutional. Do you think you can manage it?"

"Easily," answered the lawyer.

"Well, go ahead and get familiar with the case."

"I'm already at home in it. I know my ground perfectly. It's the same law you had me prove was constitutional two years ago."—Lancaster News Journal.

A DOG'S LIFE

Rivers had come home and was stumbling over things in the dark hallway.

"What are you growling about dear?" called Mrs. Rivers from the floor above.

"I am growling," he answered in his deepest bass voice, "to drown the barking of my shins."—Seattle Times.

OFF AND ON

Our unfortunate experience is that a day off is generally followed by an off day.—Boston Transcript.

"Quick, quick," he stuttered.

He must have said "Oh gosh, look!" in duck, as the flotilla executed a rapid flank movement and massed around him.

"Quack, quack-quack-quack! Quack quack!" he explained, and ducked his head under. The next morning the golden carp had all disappeared, Miss Dana added. What did the ugly duckling's last remark mean? She laughed.

"Who Wants a Baby?" is the title of a new song. We surmise it will be sung at the landlords' ball.

The future way to sell picture plays will be to write good stories that are suitable for screen production—and the picture maker will come across.

CASTING DIRECTORY

Copyright Applied For.

In order to be listed in this column, it is necessary that you be sufficiently well known locally that there shall be no doubt as to your ability to play the parts for which you are listed. If you have not appeared in the films recently, it will be necessary to bring proof that you have successfully filled the part under which you wish to be listed.

This precaution is taken as a safeguard for this paper and for the people who are capable. Further, this precaution has been suggested to us by casting directors, as the column was inaugurated chiefly for their information.

Abbreviations: Characters (ch.); Heavies (hv.); Juveniles (juv.); Foreign (for.); ngennes (ing.).

Changes in this column must be reported to the office of CAMERA! not later than Friday of each week.

Charge for listing, including change each week, is $2.00 per month.

WAITED TWO LONG YEARS

Two years of mob scenes and never a close-up! That is part of the history of Helen Ferguson who has just joined the Goldwyn players. Now that she is assured of good parts and thrilling scenes, she doesn't mind telling how she waited two long years for her opportunity and got it then by chance. One day a costume story was being screened in the studio where she was an "extra." The time was 1870 and if you have any old-fashioned books lying around, just take a look at the way women wore their hair in those days. Then you'll know why the girls all groaned when told to do their hair according to the period. Miss Ferguson didn't do any groaning. Instead, she combed her hair and smacked it into the severe lines called for by those old pictures. She got the effect just right, and on the strength of it the director gave her a small part in the play.

Selznick Pictures—The first Selznick picture to be made at the Brunton studios will be started next week under Howard Hickman's direction. The cast will be all-star, including Roy Stewart and Katherine Williams. The cameraman had not been announced at the time of going to press.

DeMille in New York—Cecil B. DeMille left this week for New York City to make a couple of final shots for "Why Change Your Wife," his Paramount-Artcraft Special and to supervise selection of materials and expenditures for same in preparation of his next production. Among those who are in the East with Mr. deMille are Howard Higgin, his technical director, who is looking up set material and ideas; Mitchell Leison, who is investigating period costumes and Clara West, who is obtaining ideas and material for gowns. Gloria Swanson and Thomas Meighan are also in the big city to work in the New York shots, which will complete "Why Change Your Wife." All are expected to return within a month or less.

Adolph Zukor, president of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, arrives on the 18th from New York for his annual visit to the Pacific coast studios and while here will confer with Jesse L. Lasky, first vice president, regarding important details of production, etc.

Charles Maigne, well-known director, arrives the first part of December from New York to begin work at the Lasky studio on Robert W. Chambers' memorable story of New York society life, entitled, "The Fighting Chance." This will be a Paramount-Artcraft Special and thus far the only member of the cast announced is Anna Q. Nilsson, who will play the feminine lead.

The New Experimental Photograph Gallery for protrait, publicity and other work, at the Lasky studio, is almost completed. The new costume building and scene docks are also almost ready for occupancy and before long the chain of new concrete fireproof structures will have replaced all the old wooden buildings at the plant.

The Co-operative Actors' Society, organized by Eloi De Almaine, of the De Almaine Classics Company, for the purpose of producing classical drama on the screen and dramatic stage. All legitimate actors are invited to join our society and register with us. The first play to be presented by the De Almaine players will be Shakespeare's "Hamlet," sometime during the following December.

Dramas will be presented every month by this society. Address all communications to 322 S. Spring, Suite 17.

Tuting and Fluting—The Goldwyn Studio band is now a living, breathing tuting fact. Eighteen men form the nucleus of what promises to be one of the best bands on the west coast. The organization, composed of all experienced musicians, has held its third rehearsal and will soon be ready for parade.

GEORGE WEBB

rosco with whom a contract was immediately signed, which stated that George Webb was to receive the exorbitant sum of $10 each week.

Since that time, in 1914, Mr. Webb has played in every legitimate theater in Los Angeles. He has also appeared in stock in all the principal cities of the Pacific coast and throughout the east.

At the beginning of the war Mr. Webb assumed the production of a sketch written by the author of "War Brides" as public antidote for this production. "The Fires of Old Empires" was the title of this sketch, which ran successfully for many weeks in New York City. Mr. Webb tells us that in all his thseatrical career these weeks included the most intensive "tropping" that he ever did. After directing the playlet he was compelled to portray the leading role, as the original cast was broken up.

"The Fires of Old Empires," with the exception of one short vaudeville spree, was Mr. Webb's last trip in legitimate work. In motion picture work he has followed the path of the free lancer, although he has been with the Thomas H. Ince forces since last July.

Mr. Webb began the motion picture phase of his professional life in Santa Barbara, where he had been playing on the stage. The production went broke and the manager of the American Film company engaged Mr. Webb for stock. He continued with the Flying A for one year, thereby laying a firm foundation for a very successful run in the motion picture game.

PRODUCTION OF "BLOOD BARRIERS"

J. Stuart Blackton commenced work last week on "The Blood Barrier," his next special production for Pathe. "The Blood Barrier," a new story by Cyrus Townsend Brady, deals with secret service and international intrigue and it is said to embody a murder mystery that holds the suspense until the final scenes. Mr. Blackton has produced man stories by the same author, perhaps the most notable of which was "The Island of Regeneration," an unusual features of a few years ago.
